Houses: Generally, planets sitting in houses 1, 4, 7, 9, and 10 are considered to be strong. Planets residing in 6, 8, and 12 are weakened in their powers. In evaluation of the strength of a planet it should also be taken into account that Sun, Moon, Mars, and Venus are stronger in the first halves of signs, while Saturn, Jupiter, Mercury, Rahu, and Ketu are stronger in the higher half of a zodiac sign.

Aspects: First, all planets see seven houses; i.e., any planet sitting in the opposite sign is seen. Second, conjunction means sitting in the same sign. Saturn also sees third and tenth houses; Mars, fourth and eighth; Jupiter, fifth and ninth. Planets under aspects of friends will be strengthened; planets seen by an enemy are weakened.
