SURVIVAL ALERT

ON REVOLUTIONARY MAJORITIES

by Louis Beam

If citizens of this country ever again enjoy the blessings of liberty and true freedom, it will not be the result of a majority of its citizens having risen up in righteous indignation at governmental abuse of themselves and their culture. If a restoration of the Constitution of our forebearers occurs - with all that this implies - it will probably not be because a plurality of citizens fought for it, supported it, or cared one way or another. If lawful government is reestablished, it will come about because a Revolutionary Majority makes it happen.

Within the American historical experience a Revolutionary Majority may be defined as any number of citizens sufficient to initiate general hostilities against a destructive government.

The American Revolution of 1776 defines the term, sets the precedent, and provides the example for patriots of today.

Throughout most of the Revolutionary War, those patriots who were seeking to overthrow the government lacked support of over two thirds of their fellow citizens. 1 John Adams, one of the "radicals" in favor of the revolution and who was later to become the second President of the United states, stated that, depending on how the war was going, those fighting for freedom had opposition from a third to two thirds of the people. Others, like Pennsylvania delegate to the Continental Congress Joseph Galloway, were sure that four fifths of the people "were, or wanted to be, loyal to the king."² (Galloway eventually sided with the Loyalists, as those who supported the king's government were called.) Colonel London Carter, a member of the Virginia aristocracy and a strong patriot, stated in his diary in March of 1776 (but a bare three months before the signing of the Declaration of Independence) that an observer of events in the Northern Colonies was sure "nine tenths of the people are violently against it (independence)."³

"Friends of Government"

The exact number of "the friends of government," as the patriots despairingly referred to those who opposed the revolution, cannot be stated with accuracy. As John Adams indicated, the number was in a constant state of flux, depending on political events and who was winning in the armed conflict. One thing is certain, however, the American Revolution was anything but a broad-based, popular uprising of a disaffected people. Rather, it was a very unpopular rebellion of a politically radical minority who, because they possessed a clear understanding of the rights of man coupled with a deep concern for the state of relative personal freedom, were able to perceive the shackles of tyranny prior to their being presented for fastening. This discernment of tyranny at a distance not only set them apart from their fellow man but constrained them to rebel.

Liars, Murderers, And Dregs

The radical, political leaders of the revolution, such as John Adams, Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Richard Henry Lee, John Hancock, and Joseph Warren, to name but a few of the more well known, had to conduct continued next page--- their struggle for freedom in the face of disapprobation and rejection by their peers prior to the time of actual armed conflict and, after its commencement, to charges and cries of "incendiaries and traitors." Indeed, "the friends of government" knew little restraint when it came to condemning the Republic's founders. The loyalist called Washington, among other things, a liar, perjurer, murderer, blasphemer, criminal, traitor, patron of villainy, and a villain's chief.⁵ The other founders fared little better and were variously referred to as being dregs, illiberal (sic!) and violent men, despicable wretches, bandits, rude, -and depraved;⁶ While thus labeled by "respectable citizens," these men led the country toward rebellion.

One Man's Terrorist Is Another's Freedom Fighter

Correspondingly, the founders had an analogous movement among the common people which, although the objective of overthrowing the government was the same, the methods were those resorted to by people in every age when faced with overpowering force of all-powerful government, namely, mob action, riots, uprisings, midnight forays, and harassment, intimidation or terroristic acts directed against governmental supporters - all of these and other acts came under the single heading of patriotism so far as their perpetrators were concerned.

After a review of non-battlefield hostilities, it becomes apparent that the American Revolution was won more by mob action than by armed conflict!

Thus, any idea that the Revolution was won in an ordeal of battle is out of place in view of the facts.

During the entire length of the armed conflict from 1775 to 1781, the king's armies lost only 1,512 men killed in battle. This seven-year, battle death casualty rate was exceeded by Union Forces at Cold Harbor in 1864, during the first eight minutes of a single engagement. The King's armies had previously lost far larger numbers of men in the Seven Years War (French and Indian wars) yet pressed on to victory. An adequate explanation, then, of the patriots' final triumph over the government must be provided by other than a military victory.

Sons of Liberty

An answer in great part lies in the violence and vigilante action carried on by the patriots against the government and its supporters!

Though most Americans today are familiar with the story of the Boston Tea Party, few know much about the secret organization that conducted it, the Sons of Liberty. Led by Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Dr. Warren ("the greatest incendiary of them all"), and Paul Revere, they met in secret, dressed in disguises and carried out vigilante actions under the cover of darkness. This Revolutionary Ku Klux Klan was as much dreaded by "the friends of government" as its ideological offspring the Klan ever was by unruly blacks. The Sons of Liberty and other similar groups were responsible during the course of the conflict for independence for causing tens of thousands of loyalists to flee the country (the Klan was usually satisfied with merely running undesirables out of the county).

A Whip, A Torch, and A Rope = Freedom

The means were simple and effective. Terror and intimidation were directed against the loyalists. Methods used to create these twin scourges of "the friends of government" included, but were not limited to, whippings, coats of tar and feathers, banishment, church burnings (if run by a loyalist preacher or used for a loyalist meeting place), confiscation of property, and wherever deemed necessary, death by anyone of several reliable methods.:7

Other patriotic groups of similar nature were spontaneously' formed throughout the thirteen colonies to carry on a relentless persecution of "the friends of government." Each organization operated independently of the other, though often exchanging information on loyalists.

Often these ad hoc associations went by the name of "Committees of Public Safety," though the name, as well as the tactics employed, varied from place to place. Thus, in the colony of New York, the patriots bluntly called themselves "The Oppressors of the Friends of Government" and stated proudly that they tarred and feathered governmental supporters with the "decorum that ought to be preserved in public punishments. "8 Boston -- had its mysterious "Joyce Junior" who led a group of night riders and enforcers who saw to it that those who did not display the necessary revolutionary mentality were? properly punished. The rebel Continental Congress established "Associations" whose purpose was to locate the loyalists and turn their names over to the local vigilante group to be dealt with in the manner they deemed proper in each colony. If the accusation was one of giving information to government agents, the traitor to liberty was hanged by the neck or dealt with in some other terminally appropriate manner.

Pray the Redcoats Out?

Even religious leaders were not exempt from the patriotic purges that cleansed away supporters of the king. In the instance of preachers who failed to support the cause of liberty (or who had forgotten that David slew Goliath rather than turning the other cheek and praying for him) being run out of town on a rail in the glowing light of flames from their quickly disappearing church was considered leniency. Others were forced to flee to England or Canada in fear of their lives. 9

By the end of the conflict in 1781, for every government redcoat killed on the battlefield, seventy loyalists had been driven from their homes and forced to settle in England or Canada, totaling over one hundred thousand people. There is no estimate of the number of those who were "just" driven from their homes.

The government and its "friends" accused the revolutionary freedom fighters (whom they often called "The Sons of Anarchy") of "committing the most shocking outrages" and of "daily invasions upon private property" while led by men who were "well-known incendiaries and traitors;" whose chief purpose in life was to commit "crimes against the constitution:11 authority of the state. ",10 (Historically, governments which have oppressed and abused their citizens justify their actions based on the "law" or "constitutional authority").

No doubt had the effort to overthrow the government been unsuccessful, the Founding Fathers and their citizen supporters would have been hanged by "the friends of government," as the very worst sort of traitors and terrorists.

The Spirit of '76

In summary, while Washington's determined and skillful leadership of the army no doubt made victory possible, it did not assure it. The Spirit of '76 - a massive campaign of terror directed by patriotic citizens against all those who supported the government - was the deciding factor that brought freedom to America.

American constitutional liberty was born in mob pressure, fostered by secret societies, nurtured during seven years of intimidating violence and institutionalized at the expense of well over a hundred thousand people.

With this American history in mind, one who is faithful to the ideas of the Founding Fathers of this nation can have nothing but contempt and suspicion of the motives (or ignorance) of those people both within and without the government who would condemn citizens of today "for taking the law into their own hands" in defense of their rights.

of Policy

It is the policy of this publication to carry the news and views of all the Klans. We are not concerned in the least with the particular name or affiliation of an individual group. The only criterion that shall be used by us in determining corporation with others is if they are working in the name of the Most High God to destroy the enemies of our Race and Nation. If the answer to that one question is yes, then we are kindred in common battle against the foe and thus allies.

We intend to carry the views of the Klans, from New York to California, and every place in between. If you are a Klansman this paper is for you. Those with outstanding articles they would like considered for publication are free to submit them³ Our. only goal is to free America of the enemy that is destroying it. ---"Revolutionary Majorities" continued

Had those who desired liberty in 1776 waited until a numerical majority of their fellow citizens were ready to "wake-up" (as the saying is to fight for the overthrow of the government~ had they hesitated in the use of "illegal" force and violence (force and violence are never legal except by those in power) against their governmental enemies, they would have all died in their old age as law-abiding subjects of the king - minus their freedom.

Patriots of 1775 considered the sympathies of less than a third of the people sufficient to begin general hostilities against their oppressors. Herein lies the historical context of the American Revolutionary Majority. It has been wisely said that those who do not know history are condemned by their ignorance to repeat its mistakes; it is likewise equally true that those who know and understand history can repeat its successes

Yesterday and Today

In America today the manacles of slavery and destruction once forged in London by the king are now forged in Washington. Acts of tyranny are carried out in the name of the federal government rather than in the name of the throne. The vicious enforcers of dictatorial policies often call themselves F.B.I. or I.R.S. agents instead of His Royal Majesty's Troops or tax collectors of the realm. Substituting for the redcoats of the British are the "bluecoats" of the bureaucrats and in far greater numbers. Though babblings for "the divine rights" of kings to rule have ceased, modern fools prattle of "democratic majorities" composed of an illiterate electorate enfranchised for the purpose of dispossessing the descendants of the founders. While different in nomenclature, the end results are exactly the same - the dark, cold, tight chains of slavery.

A numerical majority of today's citizens cannot read these footprints of tyranny nor understand where they lead. In this, they are no different than their counterparts of 200 years ago. Additionally, modern governments have mass communications to subtly guide the thinking of their subjects; thus is seen the phenomenon of today's citizen, rushing forth to place the cuffs of bondage upon his own wrists by irrationally clamoring (as he has been indoctrinated) for more laws and government to solve problems created by an excess of both. This mental inversion, whereby the citizen willfully aids in efforts to subjugate himself, is of no small import for those who treasure their liberty. The implications are many, but the consequences could be singular: a governmentally programmed, democratic majority may, as they dance along to mental tunes played by an electronic band of orchestrated communication, gleefully drag down (with their self-fastened chains) everyone else into the black hole of oblivion. page

The Pit - or Revolution

Only one thing seems capable of closing the yawning mouth of the pit, and that is the formation of a new Revolutionary Majority coupled with resurrection of The Spirit of '76. Anything short of this seems certain to pass on to today's children an increasingly difficult task of freeing themselves from transistorized chains of governmental control. Such a legacy is the bequeathal of cowards, not free men.

The first American revolutionists accused those who ruled them of excessive taxation, interference with property rights, illegal search and seizure, not protecting the citizens from incursions by several thousand Indians, policies destructive of the general welfare, and National Security Agency. Essentially the forD of our government, MI among other things.

Today, the federal government taxes its subjects for forty percent of their income instead of the three percent (less than $1.20 a year) tax of the king; it interferes with the ownership and use of virtually every description of property; authorizes everything from game wardens to I.R.S. agents to search, arrest, or seize property without warrant. Allows fifteen million aliens to illegally cross its borders in less than a ten-year period, conducts a policy of systematic extermination of its young men through no-win wars, and subjects the founder's children to enforced equality. Each of these acts individually amounts to altering fundamentally the form and purpose for which the federal government was created. Taken as a whole, they are a cry - nay - a demand for a new campaign of terror conducted against the government and its friends in the great American tradition of 1776.

Bring Back the King

An examination of the depth and magnitude of policies fostered by federal rulers detrimental to the people of present-day America make the abuses of the English king's government pale into insignificance. One thing is clear: comparison of criminal acts of the two governments makes those who value their liberty and freedom long for the bitter days of English despotism.

While there are many similarities between the first American Revolution and the second <coming soon at a place near you>, there are also significant differences.

The first and paramount dissimilarity is that, while our heroic forefathers fought to overthrow their legally constituted government and were thus revolutionaries in the truest sense of the word, those who seek to break the quickly tightening bands of servitude today war against an illegal government that imposes itself upon the people under the color of law. By the Washington regime's disobedience to and violation of the bounds of the Constitution, established by the founders of this country, it has made of itself an unlawful body with no more right to govern the American people than has the present Queen of England. That the government survives despite the crimes it has committed is explainable only because the atrocities it systematically imposes are papered over with a veneer of legality. Propaganda that numbs the mind keeps people from rising against those who abuse them.

No Law, Only Power

There is no law in this country - only power - the majority of which currently rests with the pirates of the Potomac, who pose as our lawful government while using overpowering force to quell those who resist their destructive policies. The Constitutional Revolutionist of today is actually fighting for a transfer of power from those who can make no legitimate claim to it, to those who inherently hold it as a natural right - the lawful citizens of this country.

Another salient difference between the first American Revolution and the second is the contrast between the quality of the people of then and now. Our ancestors were strong men, who stated often that they were "resolved to die as free men rather than live as slaves.   They were conditioned to doing their own thinking while at the same time ever holding before themselves the guiding lights of honor and duty.

Today, raised in the lap of luxury, many people gladly exchange their freedom for the right to accumulate material possessions. Not one person in fifty can truthfully state that his opinions are the result of independent research rather than' the mindless acquisition of pre-programmed "opinions," obtained by indulging in endless hours of obeisant T.V. watching (that modern day golden calf of those lost in a mental wilderness). Further, most Americans do not know the meaning nor value of honor and duty, the two great concepts of higher man.

Freedom - Like It Or Not

It is quite clear that the virtue of the present generation has declined to such a miserable degree that most people will never voluntarily help to make themselves free. Consequently they will have to be forced to make themselves free.

A great objective of Revolutionary Majorities is that of thrusting freedom upon those who are too weak to make themselves free while providing its blessings for the stronger, more noble elements of the race. This is done in the firm belief that under sound government future generations will be naturally healthy in mind and spirit. The revolutionary patriot benignantly grants freedom to others while establishing framework that will allow posterity to be both free and strong. Other than the "great commission" of the Lord, no calling is as exalted or as honorable.

Two significant differences, then - one of law, one of character between the first struggle for freedom and the present one are deserving of substantial thought and analysis by those capable of so doing. Consider what type of self-preserving behavior' can be expected from a government that already wades up to its knees in the blood of young men deliberately sacrificed to the false god of internationalism. Were the government really intent on opposing communism, it would start a war in Washington and work its way to Vietnam. What behaviour can be expected from a people who willingly pass their sons through the fire to be consumed? Each of these factors deserve most careful examination.

Constitutional Revolutionists

Opposing the federal purveyors of mass murder and "the friends 01' government" who make such perfidy possible are men who trace their political lineage to times of the Magna Carta and who are mental as well as physical descendents of the Founding Fathers. They believe, as did their forebearers, that government is a social contract entered into by people of a similar mind for their mutual benefit. This agency created by the people can only legitimately be their servant - never their master. Further, it cannot possess lawful authority to deprive those who create it (or their heirs) of natural rights. In normal times men who arrayed themselves against the criminal acts of government would be called constitutionalists, but "these are the times that try men's souls" as well as test their courage. Thus, contemporary patriots become known as Constitutional Revolutionists determined to overthrow every vestige of unlawful government, doing so with a firm belief that honor demands and duty requires the reestablishment of the law of their fathers.

Ignorance Is No Excuse

It can be realized then that those who remain guilty of loyalty to the present illegal government in the District of Columbia are chargeable with treason to the Constitution of the United States and deserving of the same fate as their historical predecessors who, in the name of the king, trampled upon the sacred rights of Englishmen in 1776.

It should be stated in their defense, however, that most of those who are participants in this odious transgression against the blood of our noble forebearers do so in complete ignorance of the law, having obtained ninety five percent of their misinformation from government-licensed T.V. and the remaining five percent from conversations with others who are also completely maladroit at obtaining facts on their own. They are victims of methodical thought control which began during their childhood and has been continued at a subliminal level throughout their lives.

Though no doubt the maxim "ignorance of the law is no excuse for its violation" makes these people criminals, the mitigating circumstances of their lawlessness should be considered by those who are seeking to reestablish Lawful rule in this country.

Federal Defectors

A period of grace, commensurable with what the struggle will allow, is in order, thus providing the present supporters of unlawful government an opportunity to defect as they become cognizant of the law.

By this fraternal act to the erring members of our Race we not only serve the interest of justice but also, at whatever point in time the grace period is of necessity terminated~ have removed all excuse for collaboration with the enemy. Having held long aloft the olive branch of peace and forgiveness, no just complaint can be made by those who failed to avail themselves of it when with the other hand a terrible swift sword of vindication falls upon their necks.

Even after the patriots of today have invoked "the Spirit of '76" and have successfully dammed the Mississippi with rotting corpses of the lying politicians~ criminal bureaucrats, racial traitors, communists, assorted degenerates, culture distorters, and those who resist the implementations of lawful constitutional government, these patriots will have exhibited far more restraint and benevolence than the present government of the United States. For, while constitutionalists of today war against those guilty of the most heinous crimes upon our people, culture and law usurpers in Washington destroy the mind and, wherever possible, the bodies of those guilty of nothing more than having white skin.

Revolution Part II.

Coalescing within America today is a second Revolutionary Majority whose members in the spirit of their forebearers are resolved to die as free men rather than to live as slaves. Like their noble ancestors, today's Revolutionary Majority must fight for the children of carping critics just as fiercely as for their own families. Emulating its predecessor, obedience is given only to the dictates of the higher code of Natural Law. For, once again the enemies of liberty use the law of the nation as their shield - yea even their justification for destroying freedom of the people. A government exceeding the power granted by their father they are not bound to obey but bound to resist.

John Adams said, "Freedom is a counterbalance for poverty, discord, and war," and that if the revolutionary struggle failed, it would be because moderates tried to find a "middle way" and to conduct "half a war." Likewise, today's tired voices are heard calling for politics as usual moderation as always. Such thinking has allowed generations to die in chains in former times and will do so again if adhered to. The age of the conservative, like that of the dinosaur, has ended. Now begins a new age - destiny calls for her great men who, by their iron will, alter the pages of history from that of a tale of sham~, cowardice, and decline to a saga of glory, bravery, and rebirth. Soon, very soon, we will have a Revolutionary Majority ...

KU KLUX KLAN DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

When in the course of human events it becomes obvious to a people governed that their government is not ruling in their interest or behalf and is, in fact, carrying on in a manner opposed to and inimical to the expressed will of the people, when, in addition, a long train of abuse, injury, mistreatment, damage, and harm has been endured with patience and hope of relief through normal means and procedures to no avail; when to all intents and purposes whether by act, deed, legislation, or fiat a government seems bent on the destruction of the people, culture, heritage, folkways, and Christian faith of those who brought it into being, then it becomes the right and the sacred duty of the governed to dissolve their creation and form a new instrument to safeguard their rights, liberties, property, and culture.

Therefore, we as descendants of the Founding Fathers and in accordance with their will and intent do hereby declare our independence of and separation from the despotism, tyranny, dictatorship, and oppression commonly referred to as the Federal Government. We hereby state our intent to return to the law of our fathers and of our God, Jesus the Christ. We declare that we owe no allegiance of any kind in fee or simple to the anti-God, alien-dominated, unconstitutional, illegal, Washington regime of usurpers, criminals, heathens, infidels, malefactors, sodomites, culprits, and evildoers. We hereby state our intent and purpose to establish a new means of self-government as deemed necessary by ourselves in accordance with God's Laws, the Declaration of Independence of our forefathers, the Constitution of the United States, English Common Law, and the rights of free men as granted in the Magna Carta and traditions of the Anglo-Saxon Race.

In all this, requesting and seeking the aid and help of our God Jesus the Christ in this the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred Eighty-three, the month of December, the third day. In the name of God. Amen.

A KLANSMAN'S GUIDE TO THE FIFTH ERA

As the Klan enters the Fifth Era of its existence, we as Klansmen must have a full understanding of the rules governing this period. To attempt to carry on the work of the Order by the old standards and methods of conduct is analogous to fighting a war today with the weapons of World War I.

Though a cavalry charge is a grand and glorious thing to watch, or be a part of if you have the courage, it is, as the Poles found out at the beginning of World War II, an outdated mode of fighting. Today's battles must be fought with today's weapons.

No one in the Klan movement can doubt that we are now engaged in a great war, testing whether this people known as the White Aryan man shall survive. As this conflict is a battle for survival, it is by definition a no-holds barred contest. Our enemy has at his disposal the very latest in technology, the financial resources of the government, total control of the mass communications media, and the minds of most of our own people whom the members of the Order fight to save - in a word, virtually unlimited resources. To win against such a -foe requires the very best in ingenuity and intelligence that our Race can produce. Anything less than excellence in strategy, planning, tactics, and skillful management of available resources is tantamount to aiding and abetting the enemy in the destruction of our Race.

Ignorance, like cancer, cannot be tolerated. It is the duty of every Klansman to know and understand the present conflict.

Unrevealed

In the First Era of the Klan, lasting from 1865 to 1876, the Order was totally secret. For a member to reveal the identity of another member, meant instant death at the hands of his former comrades. The men of the Klan knew and understood that if the government could locate them, they would be imprisoned or killed. So it shall soon be in the Fifth Era in all respects. For, though the government currently wages only a "legal" (sub pretext jucie) campaign in their courts against those who fight for Race and Nation, this will soon change as the tyrants in Washington come to the realization that this will not stop America's freedom fighters - mental wards for some, roadside ambushes for others - either way, one less soldier of freedom. With this in mind, secrecy becomes the watchword of the Fifth Era.

Armed Conflict

This country is moving irresistibly toward internal armed conflict between those who fight for their heritage and those who seek to destroy it. The enemy has managed to capture the government. So, for the third time in this nation's history, the government has become the enemy of the people. The first time this occurred, our nation was able to produce resolute intelligent leaders, who directed the American people in a war against the government. Death, violence, suffering, and sacrifice ruled supreme for seven long years. but eventually the people won - the government overthrown and the Republic born.

Many years later during Reconstruction, a hate-filled and vindictive government violated its own terms of surrender given to a valiant but defeated foe who had sought independence. An attempt was made to enslave the people of the South - at the hands of their own former slaves. Once again the people were led by great leaders to fight the government, and where open combat had failed, secret struggle was successful. So shall it be in the Fifth Era, for the Anglo-Saxon does not long bow to the heavy hand of tyranny.

An Unalterable Objective

When in the still of the early morning hours of 1869 the pounding of hooves were heard across the valleys of Tennessee or the mountains of Georgia, it meant the Klan was riding with a mission in purpose. Those who supported the government's tyranny dreaded the sound of those terrible horsemen who rode to execute the will of the folk upon enemies of freedom. Openly they prayed to their craven god to let the hooves pass them by. The horsemen rode with single-minded purpose: there would be a White Man's government in this country - or no government! So it will be in the Fifth Era.

Excellence

During the First Era the Order had among its ranks the very best in Southern manhood. Those who did not understand and live by the virtues of honor, duty, loyalty, courage, and discipline were not accepted into its ranks. Once accepted, if a man failed to follow these pathways to superiority, his punishment was commensurate to the transgression. For, those engaged in the struggle for survival of civilization in 1865 could not afford to have other than the very best - nor can we of the Fifth Era.

Precepts of the Fifth Era

The precepts of the Order are for all who take the oath. None are exempted. They are the foundation stones upon which the Order rests, as well as the building blocks by which the individual Klansman forms his life. The pathway to the inner circle can be found by those who know, understand, and obey them.

1. Christian: This is a Christian organization, and none but Christians may join. Reverence for God and obedience to His commandments are the only true sources of wisdom and understanding. The foundations of America were laid by men who feared God and openly confessed the Lord Jesus Christ. They were moral and lived a life shaped by their obedience to the laws of God. The history of the Founding Fathers and of our Nation is the history of a racially pure family. The Klan seeks to preserve that history and family. We cannot hope to be successful if we are in violation of God's Word. Therefore, we obey it as our understanding declares it unto us.

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? And what communion hath light with darkness?" II Cor. 6:14.

As we light the Fiery Cross to dispel the darkness around us and bring light to the night, so must we dispel those who would bring darkness into our midst.

2. Racial: This order will strive forever supremacy of the White Race. To preserve cultural, and traditions of the Aryan people.

to maintain the the blood purity,

God-given integrity,

3. Unyielding: The Klan concedes no authority to anyone whatsoever to govern this nation not arising out of the Constitution as intended by the founders of this nation. Pretenders to authority, usurpers, and would-be despots shall never peacefully rule us -to this we swear. Either the White man shall govern this land under the laws and customs of our forefathers, or no government shall.

4. Fanatical: In that we proclaim - One God and no other, His Law and no other, Our Racial Nation or no nation.

5. Authoritarian: We concede to no individual, group, or entity whatsoever the right to destroy the life, liberty, sustenance, and racial well being of our people. Individual rights end where the welfare of the folk begins. The Order shall ever be the judge, jury, and hangman of those who violate these sacrosanct canons.

Justice In America

While the federal government Farm and Home Administration (FmHA) has foreclosed on thousands of American yeomen farmers and has at this moment 1,800 pending foreclosures on farms, the arch-conservative (or so you in your ignorance believed) Ronald Reagan has requested and received from (your?) Congress $945 million dollars for the International Development Association. The money is to be used in non-White countries (sometimes called third world nations by bashful liberals) to aid peasant farmers in increasing the production on their non-productive farms. The money is also to be used to finance low interest loans (6%) for the purchase of farm equipment by various Eastern European communist governments. This information should make it clear to American farmers and anyone else who cares to think, that non productive peasants (of any color) and communist dictatorships (of every description) come before taxpaying citizens (subjects?). In a non-stop, pre Christmas giveaway Congress finally managed to expropriate a total of 55 Billion dollars of your money in a single fiscal year for foreign aid giveaways (Spotlight Dec. 19, 1983). No doubt some of the 55 billion was made possible by the successful lowering of social security benefits and the raising of the retirement age by Congress during the same session. (I pledge allegiance...)

Have Gun, Will Travel

Meanwhile "Swat Teams" armed with automatic weapons and trained by the federal government fanned out over the Central and Western States to fore close and evict from their homes a record number of "broke" farmers. Roads leading to the auction sites were blockaded .for ten square miles in some sales, preventing other farmers from attending to bid on the pr-operty. These governmental hired guns, ranged in number from 50 to 250 men per foreclosure, depending on how much resistance was expected in any given area. Judging from the fact that a lot of women and children were left standing in the snow along with their farmer husbands, it appears the "let's-obey-the-law" crowd prevailed among the government victims.

Our rebellious ancestors who established the Republic, found that governmental tyranny and injustice decreased exponentially by the number of caskets bought for governmental agents ..

Government Declares Anti-Communism Crime

In what forebodes ill for Americas' home grown anti-communist, a federal court has declared in a deportation hearing of a Latvian immigrant that "under the section of the law, communism is an included form of political opinion, and that those who are involved with the specified persecutions of communists are deportable." (Your law, not mine.) All Vietnam veterans should take notice of this and immediately burn their DD 214, service ribbons, and medals or buy an AR 15 and 1,500 rounds of ammunition for possible future use on "the friends of government."

Federals Free Pervert

When Greene County, Ohio, Sheriff Walter Bradley arrested pervert John Puckett, for prosecution, after several years of hard investigative work, on 20 counts of child molestation (which included training a Rottweiler dog to sexually molest young girls he had doped), the feds said, "No." It seems that Mr. Puckett is part of the "federal witness protection program." So, Puckett is free and under the protection of your government (not mine). which brings up several questions: first being, how much veracity would you place in a statement made by this man on the witness stand? The second is, are those of you who are supporters of the Washington regime, accessories before, and after the fact, to child molestation? An unknowing Rottweiler is less damnable than the "my-government-right-or-wrong" dupes.

"If, by the instrument of governmental authority, a people is being driven to its destruction, then rebellion is not only the right but the duty of every member of that people."

THE BATTLE OF BUNOVAR

THE INVISIBLE EMPIRE

by John C. Calhoun

In pursuit of Human Progress and a more Noble Life, we of this Order removed ourselves beyond and above the base plans of this physical, temporal world and sought citizenship within the boundaries of the Invisible Empire.

Through that ceremonial process which we call Naturalization, our alien, Outerworld-selves symbolically died, and in their place our new, Innerworld selves were symbolically born; and they were invested with the title "Klansman," the most honorable title among men.

As citizens of the Invisible Empire, we constantly seek to enter into and achieve perfection in a way of life and state of mind that is morally and spiritually superior to that attainable in a life confined to that alien, Lower Earth. That Lower Earth is the crassly materialistic, natural home of the inferior; but for us of the Aryan Race it is a place of contamination and bondage, of suffering, degradation, pointless life, and worthless death.

We Klansmen follow a way admonished to us by our Living Aryan Christ when He bade our people to be "in" the Outerworld, but NEVER be "of" it.

When we disobey our Christ and wallow in the indulgences and excesses of the Lower Earth, we become no better than those of whom we think as inferior. Such failure and disobedience on our part is a betrayal of ourselves, in that we become less than what we could be; and it is also a betrayal of our God, in that we become less than what He assigned and intended us to be.

THE HIGHER ORDER

An Empire may be said to be our Order's incarnation in a particular, specific time and place. Citizenship therein is an alternate, superior existence, and it is available only to members of the White Aryan Race.

The very nature of citizenship is that of a Higher Order. Therefore, it is perceived and desired by only a small percentage of the best of our Race; and further, it is actively sought by an even smaller percentage who truly desire a better life; and finally, it is fully achieved only by the smallest percentage of all - they constituting that Most Especial Elite which can be called the Master Knights of the Fifth Era.

To ever begin to rise in pursuit of the Holy Grail of Perfection in Knighthood, each potential Knight must know from whence we come, where heading, as well as understand the nature, mission, and purpose of our

THE ERAS OF THE KU KLUX

The History of The Ku Klux can be divided into four epochs, which are eras of existence of the Empire of the Ku Klux Klan.

In the First Era - a golden age of victorious guerilla Klansmen and private, underground armies - we defeated white renegades and savage, raging Negroes.

In the Second Era

- a sterling age
when multi-millions of men were faithful citizens of our Order - we subdued the Communist and the degenerates.

In the Third Era a dim age of heroic but desperate Klans
- we grappled with the Negro and his white and Jewish sycophants in a new age of reconstruction.

In the Fourth Era - a dark age of ruthless federal anti-White oppression new tactics of openness and public display were tried by the Klan, with the lesson sorely learned that America had fallen so securely into the hands of the alien anti-Christ that no peaceful change could be brought about. Exposure of members resulted in vicious attack by governmental agencies.

Though its ranks were decimated, the Klan did survive.

That we did survive and now again experience instauration the greatest test and greatest proof of the worth and quality and further, it may have been the necessary preparation to make to build and enter the Age of the:

FIFTH ERA

As there are four seasons in the cycle of the year, so are there four "seasons" to the life cycle of our Order.

The waning of the Fourth Era has brought us back to the Beginning; and the Fifth Era will be the reincarnation of the First - just as one spring is the reincarnation of the last spring, four seasons previous.

As Klansmen, we stand in the twilight end of the Fourth Era; as inhabitants of the planet Earth we stand in the twilight end of an entire historical era and social order of existence.

As the dead-of-night' separates the twilight of dusk from the first light of dawn, so shall a Dark Age separate the Old Era from the New, and the Old Order from the New Order.

This Dark Age will bring to the common man what all dark ages have always brought to the common man: chaos and fear, violence, suffering, and death.

However, we as Klansmen need not despair, for the Fifth Era now a-borning will be the touchstone, lantern, and revolver by which we pass the coming dark night. It will be fully formed at the fall of this night, but it will not last past the following dawn.

With the coming of that far dawn, a Sixth Empire will be born: a New Empire for a New Order;' but that will be decades, perhaps centuries in the future; for who knows the length of a struggle before it commences?

Even today, perceptive men coming, and some have come to of the Wolf.

This name has a subtle dual allusion.

On the one hand, the Wolf is an ancient Aryan symbol of hard times and danger, pawing at the door of the innocent and defenseless.

However, thousands of years ago, when the entire Aryan Race lived in the ancestral Aryan fatherland located in Northwest Asia, the Blue Wolf's Head was the emblem or totem or standard of our people.

And it was then legend that throughout the life span of our Race, when times were darkest, a Great
One would come, and he would be either named, identified with, or symbolized by "The Wolf."

Thus, the Wolf has two opposite meanings for our people. The Wolf Age can have two opposite possible outcomes in relation to our people.

Ergo, it can be said that the Wolf Age can be what we make of it.

Sapient beings can, by virtue of mental powers vested in them by God, control, determine, and define to a degree their own fate and future.

OF MAN AND GOD AND LAW

In his arrogance and ignorance, modern man thinks himself to be above and apart from the laws of nature and nature's God. Somehow, 20th Century man thinks that he is exempt from and immune to those laws which have governed and ruled the whole universe, and all therein for untold centuries. Such is a prime and blatant example of the extreme foolishness and folly of which we are capable.

Would that man did not cleave from the Way, from the Law, and from the intent of God and nature; but he does. Because he does so while knowing better, it is by his own hand that he falls from grace with God and from station with nature.

Man may delude and deceive himself; he may even convince himself that his disobedience to natural law is not really wrong and that he will somehow manage to escape punishment for his crimes and violations.

But NOTHING deceives God or nature, and NOTHING prevents or escapes their Judgment.

After too long a time of too great a disobedience, God - working through nature - will invariably grasp the clockwork of Earth; and by so doing, He will redeem it and restore it, reorder it and renew it. Man's disobedience brings on:

inevitable and eminent Dark Age a most appropriate title: the Age is against His Law, punish that which is at variance to His Law, destroy that which mocks and abominates His Law, and purifies that which fouls, pollutes, and corrupts His planet and the life thereon.

The Wolf Age is a coming struggle which judicious men even now prepare for. It is an age which no wise man dreads, because all such men know that through it our Aryan, Race - which is now dying - will be saved from extinction. It is to be an age which all men may as well accept, because it will be upon us soon. Wise men may prepare for it, and thus survive it, but no man may prevent or avoid it.

THE SIXTH ERA FORETOLD

Those who survive the Wolf Age will be those who are in direct compliance and obedience to the laws of nature and nature's Sod.

Our Order, in the form of the Fifth Era, being duly obedient to natural law, will be among those who survive the dark and bloody Age of the Wolf.

Those who survive the Wolf Age will be those who rebuild the world afterwards.

Since those of the Fifth Era of our Order will be among the survivors, our Order will have a powerful part to play in the shaping and building of the New Order and Age, the Sixth Empire of the Ku Klux Klan.

WHITE SUPERIORITY

For thousands of years our Race has conquered every land, subdued every people, slain every oppressor, broken every chain, exhibited its unequalled creative genius, and builded every civilization on earth: all as Divine Providence dictated.

It may be rightfully assumed that such performance and such abilities are the products of the Divinely mandated characteristics of a superior, a master, a supreme, a conquering, and a ruling Race - all of which God made our Aryan people, and this people only - the Called Out of God.

Regardless of the countless achievements and good works of our Race, honesty requires that we admit that there are many, many sins against nature and nature's God of which our Aryan Race is guilty.

Only by admitting our sins can we begin to deal with them.

In almost every single conceivable way, our Race in concert with others has violated the Racial Laws of God and nature. As a direct result of these racial sins, our Race now faces the very real possibility - even probability of extinction within the not-very-distant future.

These many problems facing our Race - being racial in nature - can only be solved with solutions that are also racial in nature.

Having these particular dire problems to face would be reason enough to worry; but we also have another, equally bad problem facing us.

It appears sadly evident that the majority of our White people are not, even at this late hour, willing to make the changes and sacrifices which are necessary to correct our problems.

Therefore, the White Race may very well be its own worst enemy.

Under present conditions there appears to be little, if any, hope that our people will suddenly rise up en masse and save itself.

Therefore, every realistic, knowledgeable White racialist must welcome the coming Wolf Age, for it will correct the many wrongs that our people stubbornly refuse to correct for themselves

THE EMPIRE AND THE WOLF

Lower animals and Races can, within their respective Realms, only react to circumstances; but higher animals and Races can manipulate circumstances in varying degrees, and thereby, to a certain extent, control their own fate.

Aryan man as the highest of all creation can manipulate circumstances more than any other creature and, therefore, has a greater control over his own fate than any other living thing on this planet. Those Of us who will belong to the Fifth Empire and Era - those of us who are continued next page--- even now joining the ranks that will give birth to it - fully intend to take advantage of the God-Send which the Wolf Age will present.

And it will be a God-Send, for without it, our Aryan Race will die within the next 100 years.

In the coming nigh~, the Fifth Empire will be a powerful tool in the hands of our people in bringing ~n the new dawn of Aryan splendor.

Our Order will play an immense and indispensable part in the salvation, purification, and perpetuation of our Race, and in the reestablishment of both the iron Will of God, and the iron code of nature, in the affairs of man.

For the Klan to survive the Age of the Wolf, the Fourth Era must recede into the past. The Fourth Era was a stop-gap device; it never was, and could never be, a road to victory.

* * *

The Portal Opens

To enter the Fifth Era, each Klansman must accentuate his elevation above and his removal from the sewers of materialistic society and its mental degradation. He must emphasize his observance of his Oath and dedicate himself to a more profound discharging of his duty, coupled with preparation to prepare himself for and insulate himself from the storms, fires, and destruction of the coming bloody Age of the Wolf.

Figuratively speaking, each Klansman must move more deeply within the Invisible Empire and observe more strictly the Laws and Ways of that Land.

The Fifth Era comes. The night of the Wolf shall herald the dawn of renaissance for our people. Darkness shall give birth to light.

A Brief History of the Klan Part II

Last issue the Klan movement was reviewed up to the "civil rights movement of the 1960's. Reconstruction, the 1920's Klan, and the Third Era of KLAN existence were covered. "Brief History" begins this issue with a continuation of the discussion of the so-called civil rights movement and the Whites who were active proponents of it.

The Real Danger

If these Whites were not, in their ignorance, aiding the anti-Christ Jews in their racial plots, nothing but short-term discomfort would result from their efforts. The illusionist goal of creating equality and secular brotherhood are not to be feared. All of recorded history~ science, genetic differences, racial disparities, and inherent proclivities - in sum, the total experience of mankind - make these two vagaries of the humanist unobtainable, thus, no more to be apprehended than similar, nonsensical efforts of the past to obtain gold from lead, locate the lost city of El Dorado, or drink from the Fountain of Youth. The danger to White civilization, lies not in the illusionary and fanciful goals of the civil rights movement, but rather' to the extent that this movement can be used to further Jewish racial schemes of power and conquest.⁶

Success from the- point of view of Klansmen and allied groups then, can only be measured by the degree to which power is wrenched back from the antiChrist Jew and his traitorous liegemen. The fact that power continues to accumulate in their bloodstained hands can be attributed in no small part to misdirected efforts by pro-Whites. Efforts directed against the so-called civil rights movement (and its various present-day manifestations) amount to chasing after visionaries who chase after an illusion - unnecessary, unneeded, and unproductive. Success, power, and results can only be obtained by going after the controllers, leaders, and designers, not simple-minded people who are readily expendable to the manipulators.

No Fire Zone?

Beyond the fact that the pro-White forces during the struggle of the 1960's granted what amounts to diplomatic immunity to the leaders, controllers, and designers of the enemy camp lies at least one other salient difference between the success of the Klan in 1869 and its failure in 1969.

In the ensuing passage of a hundred years the forces of evil had obtained near total control of the means of communication in the entire country. Whereas~ in 1869, diversity of opinion was allowed and expressed in both North and South; none was allowed in the 1960's. The media; acting as an arm of the government; whipped and shaped public opinion into agreement with governmental policy. Where there had been near unanimous public opinion in the last century over the right of Southerners to preserve their cultural mores and beliefs, twentieth century technology allowed the culture distorters the ability and means to alter a people's sense of right and wrong. Like the Orwellian Ministry of Truth, the government rewrote, reinterpreted~ and altered the words of America's founders to conform to present state policy, until finally, the very words so solemnly uttered by those great men, now seem strange to us. 7 Thus, by the late 1960's, the Ku Klux Klan, rather than having the backing of the majority of Southerners in its mutually beneficial effort to preserve civilized society, was faced with the phenomena of their opposition. In the final analysis, the failure of the Klan to win in 1969 as it had in 1869 was a failure of the mind, both within the organization and without.

A Whore by Any Name

FBI subversives (oral prostitutes paid to lie) and informers worked long and hard to infiltrate the United Klans of America; and, in 1966, Shelton, along with his Grand Dragons for North and South Carolina, Mr. J.R. Jones and Mr. Robert Scoggins, were imprisoned for refusing to turn over membership lists to a congressional committee.

By 1974, the United Klans of America had taken quite a mauling. The Michigan Grand Dragon, Rev. Robert E. Miles, was the latest in a long list of UKA members railroaded into prison by the perjured testimony of FBI agents and their minions.

As has been the case~ however, to be the largest Klan doesn't always mean to be the only Klan. There was James A. Venable's National Knights of the Ku Klux Klan~ direct heirs to Colonel Simmons' in ideology as well as lineage. Mr. Venable owns much property around Stone Mountain and holds the National Klonvocation there every year around Labour Day.

The White Knights of Mississippi

In Mississippi, Sam Holloway Bowers headed one of the most militant Klans ever to ride across the Southland: the White Knights, a top-secret guerilla organization. The White Knights, under the dynamic leadership of Bowers, found themselves fighting the resources of the other forty-nine states. The FBI (known in Mississippi as the Federal Bureau of Integration), federal marshals, and, finally, the U.S. Army were all used to quell the citizens of Mississippi who fought for their culture and the right to govern themselves <self-determination).

Working in conjunction with the federal government, and at times as an integral part thereof, was the Jewish Anti-Defamation League, an arm of the terrorist B'nai B'rith organization. The ADL funneled large sums of money into the state to wage a campaign of assassination and rabbinical terror.

One of the most sordid and despicable acts in Mississippi was the assassination of a young school teacher, Mrs. Kathy Ainsworth. This act of savagery was a joint operation of the United States Department of Justice in the person of the F.B.I. and the Anti-Defamation League. A.D.L. Regional Director A.I. Botnick, whose headquarters was (and still is) in New Orleans, Louisiana, ordered (through the A.D.L. control and influence of the government in Washington) the Justice Department to place the F.B.I. in Mississippi under their control until such time as the White Knights could be stopped in their opposition to the federal-Jewish civil rights program.

Murderers for Hire

FBI special agent Ray Noore, "in charge" of the Mississippi Bureau, was ordered to report to A.I. Botnick. Receiving $79,000 in Jewish bloodmoney from Botnick, Moore was instructed to arrange the assassination of two Meridian Klansmen, Thomas A. Tarrents III and Joe Danny Hawkins. Using an FBI informer-agent provocateur, an ambush was plotted in which local Meridian Jewish leader Meyer Davidson agreed to have his house bombed. Lurking in the dark at the house on the night of this pre-arranged incident were ten FBI "special" agents and twelve Meridian police officers. Though the FBI was warned in advance by their agent provocateur that Joe Hawkins would not be in the automobile driven by Tarrents and that a young woman, who was an elementary school teacher, would be a passenger in the vehicle, the Bureau ordered the twenty-two assembled agents of "law and order" to proceed with the execution.

Mrs. Ainsworth, whose great love for children was soon to manifest itself in the birth of her own child, was shot in the back while sitting in the car. Tarrents was seriously wounded but did not die. As life's blood trickled out of Mrs. Ainsworth and her unborn child, first running onto the upholstery o~ the seat, then slowly settling in a pool on the dusty floorboard to begin coagulating, the Federal Bureau of Investigation could once again proudly boast that they "always get their man," or as the case might be - "their baby"._.

Soviet Justice for American Klansmen

Other patriots found themselves, contrary to law, jailed without process when so-called "informers" accused them of acts they did not commit. These informers were bought and paid for from either an F.B.I. slush fund or Anti Defamation League "contingency funds." Thus, these fabricators and perjurers were actually no more than professional liars (oral prostitutes>, paid according to the magnitude of the lies they produced.

Many of these oral prostitutes were 'also agent provocateurs whose instructions were to foster acts of violence against helpless or weak people so as to injure the Klan's image when exposed in the media. The most notorious example of this type of activity was the F.B.I. murder of Leona Violza of Chicago, Illinois. Following the Selma-to-Montgomery march, she was shot and killed by Gary Thomas Rowe, a paid agent and informer of the F.B.I. Klansmen were tried, convicted, and sent to prison for "civil rights" violations on Rowe's perjured testimony. Fifteen years later Rowe was indicted by the State of Alabama for the murder.

Though conclusive proof is not yet available, it appears certain that an F.B.I. agent provocateur also placed the explosive charge beneath the steps of a Baptist church in Montgomery, Alabama, that killed six small pickaninnies on their way to Sunday school. Such federally created media events went a long way toward discrediting the Klan in the eyes of the very people it was seeking to preserve.

Despite this massive Counter-Intelligence Program (Co.In.Tel.Pro. as it was officially known with the F.B.I.) directed against the Klan in Mississippi, the White Knights were the most successful branch of the Order of the 1960's. No people can look with more pride upon the Ku Klux Klan of their state than the sons and daughters of Mississippi.

Pawns Instead of Kings

In retrospect, things can be seen quite differently than they were by the Klansmen of Mississippi in 1962. Fighting the battle as they saw it then, the vast majority of their efforts were directed against the visible and obvious threats to their culture and way of life - the Negro and white-Jewish civil rights "Freedom Riders" (as they were erroneously called). Had the efforts of the Mississippi Klan, as well as those of the Klans in other states, been directed against the less obvious but controlling forces behind this concerted drive against civilization, the outcome might have been different. F.B.I. special agents, federal marshals, Justice Department "monitors" and attorneys, federal registrars, federal troops, apostate white "religious leaders," scalawag politicians, Jewish financiers and organizational leaders, and pseudo-intellectual propagators of the so-called civil rights movement were, unfortunately and regrettably, virtually immune to much needed and deserved punishment. Had these culture distorters and destroyers suffered the righteous indignation of the Mississippi patriots, the powers behind the "civil rights" perversion might have soon considered it too expensive (in terms of their lives) to have continued. In sum, while the tactics used against these perverters were correct, the strategy was incorrect - to the extent that it did not go far enough.

This after-the-battle analysis (the war goes on) is in no way meant to detract from the heroic efforts of the Mississippi Klan. Rather, it is instructional, as in a game of chess - the victory is not won by removing the enemy's pawns. Many years after the battles of the 1960's, when the luxury of time and hindsight are available, many Klansmen, and, embarrassingly, many Klan leaders continue to make this same error! Those who do not know history or perhaps, as might be the case, do not understand it, are condemned by their ignorance or lack of perceptiveness to repeat its mistakes something the movement can ill-afford.

The third Klan emerging in this era was the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, chartered in 1956. For the first fifteen years or so it was a rather nebulous group with most of its strength in Louisiana and Tennessee. With the vacuum left by the suppression of the UKA and the White Knights, the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan started emerging as the Klan that could fill the gap.

The Fourth Era

In 1974, James Lindsey, also known as Ed White, the Imperial Wizard of KKK, passed away under what some have described as mysterious circumstances. He was succeeded by David Ernest Duke, Grand Dragon of Louisiana and National Information Director, whom Lindsey-White had designated as his successor.

The Knights under David Duke's leadership became the most progressive Klan of the 1970's. A dynamic personality, coupled with an unmatched ability to present a favorable media image of himself and the Klan, helped to greatly alter the false stereotype of ignorance created by the media over the previous twenty years. Presenting himself to the public as a competent, knowledgeable, and professional racist, he attracted many to his ranks. In addition he was able to pull many of the independent Klans into an alliance with his organization. While some of his tactics of openness and media hype generated controversy within the Klan movement itself, Duke, nevertheless, carried the Klan message of racial preservation to more Americans than any other Klan leader of the 1970's.

Resigning from the office of Imperial Wizard in 1980, Duke was succeeded by Don Black, Alabama Grand Dragon. This polite, soft-spoken Southerner has a sincere and earnest manner about him that makes few enemies. Educated and possessed with the ability to express himself well, many expect the Knights under his able leadership to become a major force for the armies of freedom to contend with in the 1980's.

As always, there were several new Klans formed by local leaders or by breakaway groups during this period. Klans abound across the nation with no affiliation with others except a common desire to smash the enemies of freedom. Rather than deploring this multi-faceted approach, decentralization should receive the support of thinking Klansmen. In this age of the all seeing, all-knowing superstate, a single organization would only make it easier for the government to destroy the Klan. It is the very diversity of the Order that will insure its survival into the 21st Century.

Only the Best

The Ku Klux Klan of the 1980's must exist on the principle of quality over quantity. The unobtainable illusion of numberless masses marching behind the banner of the Ku Klux Klan must be compared with the facts of reality. With the culture distorters' stranglehold on the means of communication, the vast majority of the White Race will, as a result of their cultural brainwashing, oppose the Klan and any other racial movement, despite the fact that it is not in their interest to do so.

It is then pure fantasy to imagine the Klan as a broad-based political movement that will obtain the numbers requisite to effect peaceful political change. Indeed, peaceful change in an amount sufficient to place this country once again in the hands of White men loyal to the ideas of the Founding Fathers, is no longer possible. There should be no doubt that all means short of armed conflict have been exhausted. When the men of today have the courage of those who stood at Lexington and Concord, this country will be returned to its rightful rulers. Not Before.

Guerilla Theater

This does not mean, however, that some political activity should not be engaged in - quite to the contrary. Political involvement, either openly or sub rosa, is an excellent means for exposing our view to the public and recruitment of new members to our ranks. These activities should be viewed for what they are - an auxiliary to the Klan's primary objective which is to utterly destroy the enemies of our Racial Nation. Political activities by the Klan are, as the former Grand Dragon of Michigan Robert E. Miles so aptly named them, "guerilla theater," and nothing more. The "plot" must be carefully planned; each actor must know his part, and the "scenes" meticulously rehearsed. Such "stage productions" have been carried on with great success by Grand Dragons Tom Metzger in California, Bob Miles in Michigan, and Louis Beam in Texas, among others.

A Return to the Beginning - The Fifth Era

It must be remembered that the Ku Klux Klan was never intended by the founders to be anything more than an instrument for forcibly reestablishing White control on the political structure of the South. Then, as now, the government was in the hands of villains determined to destroy the way of life of the people who had created this nation. Then, as now, the law was perverted and used as an instrument to oppress the citizens. Then, as now, the government became the controlling point from whence enemies sought to destroy White people. Then, as now, the Constitution became a dead document, scorned by the traitors who ruled. Then, as now, the courts became an organ of despotism, used first to financially break and then imprison those who oppose the tyrants. Then~ as now, the police power of the state was abused and used for spying, intimidation, terror, and finally - murder.

As these evil men used force and violence to suppress the people of the South - so were they met by the men of the Klan with force and violence. As they sought to intimidate with overwhelming numbers by light of day - so were they met with overwhelming , numbers by dead of night: continued next page---

As these would be despots used their newly created laws to fill their courtrooms and pack their jails - so was the older law of self-preservation used against them to weigh down tree limbs and fill river bottoms. As they sought to destroy - so were they destroyed.

Victory was won by the Klan in that first great struggle with evil because the men who comprised it had a clear-cut goal - the reestablishment of White control by whatever means necessary. It will be no different in the future.

As the Klan moves into the 1980's, it becomes ever so clear to those who have carefully examined our present situation that if America is to be saved, if we as a people are to be spared the fate of utter destruction, then an organization dedicated to the lofty principles and ideals of our Founding Fathers and tested by the sword of time will have a chance to save us. Those who compromise and give ground to our enemies only insure our defeat - for there is and can be no accord between good and evil. Those who seek to obtain victory, indeed the very survival of our people, with half-way measures need to study the lessons of history. We must fight, either sooner or later. If defeat is to, be our lot, 'tis far better to die an honorable death with sword ,in hand, then to live as cowards granting only a peons birthright to our posterity and thereby earning for ourselves the most contemptible place In history of all the generations of the Race. We must fight!

The Klan meets all criteria for success: tradition, ideology, sacred principles, and a test of time. It awaits but the right kind of men to fill its ranks.

Let us work and pray for the day that the Ku Klux Klan will once again save America - this time forever.

Several rare pictures are in the book, including a picture of the gathering atop Stone Mountain, Georgia, where the Klan was reborn in October of 1915.
