GUIDE UTILIZATION AND INTRODUCTION: CONTENTS

This guide is sub-divided into chapters segmented in the same manner as your RobCo Industries Pip-Boy 9000. Expect information pertinent to this menu system in the chapters that share the same name.

STAT

After a widespread nuclear event, you may feel anxiety and wander ineptly. There is little time for gnawing fear; instead you must focus on quickly understanding the basics of Pip-Boy manipulation, interactions (both violent and passive), and learn how to hone your S.P.E.C.I.A.L. abilities and Perks. Advice is also given about interacting with like-minded Companions, the hostiles known to be present in the Commonwealth, as well as a brief primer on Crafting.

DATA

While risking your life by emerging from your Vault may be an idea you've already ignored the dangers of, why not completing disregard Vault-Tec advice and jeopardize the lives of others, too? Should you agree to complete quests for them, it seems only prudent to offer advice on remaining alive during the multitude of tasks you may wish to complete. The most pressing of which are contained here. For a complete list of Quests in alphabetical order, please consult "Quests: A Big Table" at the start of this chapter. Please note some minor quests, usually self-contained within a Commonwealth location, are noted in the MAP chapter.

MAP

A comprehensive field study of the estimated dangers present for those foolish enough to venture out of a Vault. The vast irradiated Commonwealth is segmented into Zones, for use in conjunction with your Pip-Boy's World Map feature. Trackable items are noted, as well as dangers and other pertinent danger. The latest in ground-penetrating radar was used to extrapolate topographical data for surface and interior locations. Be sure to use The Commonwealth Collection Appendix if you wish to search Primary Locations alphabetically.

Vault-Tec Limited Liability Information
These scenarios were developed through scientific projections obtained from roughly 15,000,000 documented tests using the SimTek 5000, Vault-Tec Science Service's most advanced post-nuclear simulation.

The Vault-Tec Documentation Department has used the most likely projections as the basis for this guide. As this information was gleaned through simulation, we can not guarantee 100% accuracy. It is possible that things aboveground will be worse. For this reason, we must remind and implore you that your only real safety lies in a comfortable and sensible life underground.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

READ THIS FIRST!

Vault-Tec recommends you familiarize yourself with the Main menu and seek out the "Help" option. This provides a complete basic training in the arts of survival and allows this guide to focus on more involved tactical knowledge. If you need to know about Action Points, different types of Damage, changing your Difficulty level, Experience Points (XP), Fast-Travel, Power Armor, your Pip-Boy, and other areas of interest, read this before continuing!

THE PIP-BOY: A ROBCO INDUSTRIES TECHNOLOGICAL WONDER!

Knowing your way around your Pip-Boy is one of the first lessons you learn after entering a vault, assuming nuclear obliteration hasn't hastened acclimatization activities. Study the following indicators and near-field enhancements, as your life may well depend on the wealth of important information contained within this wondrous device!

OPTIMIZED VIEWING PORTAL

OPTIMIZED VIEWING PORTAL (NORMAL VIEW).

OPTIMIZED VIEWING PORTAL (POWER ARMOR).

This is your optimized viewing portal, where Pip-Boy functionality helps you navigate the hostile environment outside the safety of Vault 111.

Both views detail the following:

[1] Target/Dot: This changes from a dot to a target of varying dimensions, depending on the weapon you are carrying or have unholstered. Use this to point yourself in the correct direction or aim when firing from the hip.

[2] Compass: Spin around to view all directions. Use your World Map menu to add markers that show up on your compass. Quest objectives appear as the same square-shaped markers. Enemies appear as red dots. Primary locations appear as icons that are the same as the world map in both your Pip-Boy and this guide.

Damage Type (not shown): This appears if you're struck by radiation damage, although sometimes poison damage has an accompanying visual effect.

[4] Ammunition: This shows the number of total bullets, shells, or ammunition you have for the weapon you're using, along with the current number left in your chamber. Reload manually during brief periods of down-time in combat.

[5] Action Points: Every time you sprint or utilize a weapon in combat, you use Action Points, and this bar shows the percentage of your total that you have available. They refill when you refrain from attempting either activity. Keep an eye on this bar to determine how long you can sprint before tiring out or fire (or swing) a weapon.

[6] Information: Occasionally, your Pip-Boy may relay pertinent information in this corner of your viewing portal. It is usually a warning, hint, or quest activity to perform.

[7] Core (Power Armor only): This measures the remaining energy in the Fusion Core that provides the "juice" your Power Armor requires to function normally. Continuously locate Fusion Cores to keep your Power Armor recharged, or face an impeding lack of maneuverability (and no Action Points to sprint with). Fusion Cores are automatically swapped, so always carry a spare. Or six.

STATUS SCREENS

Your personal status is measured on your Pip-Boy. It reveals the following:

[1] The condition of your various appendages (head, both arms and legs, and entire Health). If the Vault Boy is looking less than healthy (ghoulish or with a bandaged appendage), seek chems or medical attention. Check the Help menu for more information on penalties you receive while crippled.

[2] Your offensive capabilities, which is the damage your current weapon inflicts. Some weapons inflict additional radiation, energy, or poison damage and are listed as appropriate. Change your weapon, and this value changes.

[3] Your defensive capabilities, which is the Damage Resistance of the armor you are currently wearing. Power Armor obviously provides an impressive level of protection. If your apparel also offers resistance against radiation, energy, and poison, it is also listed here.

A RELATIVELY HEALTHY SPECIMEN, SHOWN WITHIN POWER ARMOR.

[4] Health Points: This shows the current and maximum Health Points you have. This is useful if you are, for example, administering a stimpak. You know the stimpak increases your Health by 30% of your health, so you may wish to use it when you're a little closer to death (when it is more effective). So you don't waste the additional Health Points, you may wish to then wait to heal yourself.

Remember your Health increases every time you level up.

[5] Level: This reveals your current level and a progression bar that fills up as you edge closer to your next level.

[6] Action Points: This shows your current and total number of Action Points. Simply rest to increase this back to the maximum total.

OTHER SCREENS

Your SPECIAL screen details your attributes. This is detailed in the next section.

Your PERKS screen details any perks you have uncovered or unlocked. This is also detailed in the next section.

The INV chapter has more details regarding the associated Pip-Boy screens, but if you wish to know your Carry Weight and Caps total, look to the bottom left and bottom middle of this menu screen.

The DATA chapter has information on the Quests, Workshops, and Stats menus.

The MAP chapter has information on the world map and local map functionality, as well as marker and settlement information.

If you wish to know the date and current time, look to the bottom left and bottom middle of either of these menu screens.

The RADIO menu plays any current music or transmitting station within a specific radius. Aside from a variety of pleasant music, you can use the radio to locate distress calls from numerous sources and even track adversaries during specific quests. The available radio stations appear on your main screen as you near their range. As radio stations reveal locations already detailed in this guide's Map chapter, they aren't listed.

FAVORITES

A FULLY STOCKED FAVORITES MENU, FILLED WITH THE ITEMS AND WEAPONS YOU USE THE MOST.

To ease and quicken the act of swapping between often-used items, be sure to access your Favorites menu every time you wish to switch between items. A total of 12 items can be given "Favorite" status within your INV menu. These include weapons, apparel, and aid. The objects you highlight as favorites are given a heart icon. Simply highlight them again and change to a new favorite as you wish.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Now You Know!

HOW ABOUT CHOOSING YOUR TOP THREE MELEE WEAPONS, TOP THREE LONG-RANGE GUNS, THREE MOST-USED CHEMS, YOUR BEST GRENADES, OR EVEN A TRIO OF IMPORTANT APPAREL ITEMS FOR DIFFERENT OCCASIONS? UTILIZE THE BUILT-IN VERSATILITY OF THIS AT-A-GLANCE MENU.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

SORTING ITEMS BY STATISTIC

As you gather more and more items, drop them off at a workbench or owned home, or make your own weapons or objects, you may wish to compare the potency of similar items. This is where the sorting part of your INV comes into play. Change the order of your items by their different statistics (also displayed on the screen) so you can, for example, compare fire rates, range, or weight of your weapons, and choose the one best-suited to your needs.

HOLOTAPES

A CLASSIC HOLOTAPE GAME; ONE IS FOUND IN VAULT 111, AND THE OTHERS ARE FREE IN EVERY COPY OF ROBCO FUN! MAGAZINE.

Remember your Pip-Boy (and terminals) can play most Holotapes, which usually have audio recordings on them. Certain rare Holotapes have some classic video games to play. Have you found all five? You will if you check the Radio chapter of this guide.

FLASHLIGHTS

EMPLOY THE FLASHLIGHT WHILE IN THE DARK, AND WITHOUT ANY SUBTLETY TO YOUR EXPLORATION.

Remember your Pip-Boy, certain mining helmets, and Power Armor all have flashlight capabilities for adventuring in dark and gloomy locations. Though you're more easily spotted (making this a less-than-ideal plan for the stealth expert), you're far less likely to get turned around, miss loot or foes, or remain in the dark for long.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

ACTIVATE IS A UBIQUITOUS COMMAND THAT HELPS YOU COMPLETE TASKS, FROM INSPECTING A LOOT TRUNK TO THE TROUSERS OF THE RECENTLY DECEASED. MOSTLY IT IS USED TO OPEN DOORS AND ACCESS TERMINALS.

THOUGH STRANGE TO HAVE AN OUT-OF-BODY EXPERIENCE, CHANGING YOUR POINT OF VIEW ALLOWS FOR GREATER PERIPHERAL VISION.

You may have woken from a period of enforced isolation. It is normal to feel a little light-headed and groggy. As your coordination returns, it is worth remembering the basic maneuvers you took for granted. Why not stay in the relative safety of Vault 111 and rid the corridors of the minor Radroach infestation while you familiarize yourself with the most basic of passive controls?

Activate

Whether you're inspecting the contents of a desk, unlocking a door, activating a terminal, or disarming a trap, use this function.

Reload or Transfer

If you want to transfer a large amount of loot, this is the function to complete. Otherwise, this reloads or holsters your weapon (if held).

Toggle POV

Need to see behind you? That's a good idea, as you're able to enhance your peripheral vision quite considerably, while at the expense of completing more complex and pinpoint-accurate maneuvers (especially jumping).

Jump

Leaping over low walls and across gaps and climbing rocky slopes is made not only more easy, but also actually possible if you jump.

Pausing

Need to take a breather? Don't worry, we all need a little time to pause, check the Main menu, and perhaps look at the large number of incredibly astute hints in the Help menu.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

IN NEED OF A REAL CHALLENGE? TRY SURVIVAL DIFFICULTY! HEALTH RESTORATION IS SEVERELY REDUCED, THOUGH THERE'S A GREATER CHANCE OF FINDING LEGENDARY ITEMS.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

SCAVENGING AND TAGGING ITEMS FOR SETTLEMENTS

Are you scavenging for component parts to help build items in a Workshop? Then employ Activate when scavenging for items used to build workshop components. Certain areas of scenery not usually of interest to past explorers, such as trees, tires, and junk items, now become incredibly important. Learn where the best junk is, head there and gather what you need, then return more than three days later and gather more.

If you are searching for scavengable items to break down into components for your settlement workshops, a small magnifying glass appears when you look at an object with the component you're after. This makes searching for components much less taxing. For more information, check the WORKSHOP chapter (page 218).

SOCIAL STATUS: HOW TO REACT IF THE WORST HAPPENS

After surviving a nuclear blast, it is important to remain calm and wait for Vault-Tec (or other proper authorities) to contact your overseer. Should circumstances degenerate from optimal, you may be called upon to ascertain the situation from beyond the confines of your vault. At this point, the manner in which you conduct yourself in the chaotic topside environment becomes of paramount importance.

Begin a conversation, and you have four different choices to make, which can lead to a multitude of outcomes. Think about what you're about to say, as sometimes you can't take back a rude utterance or threat. Some friendly citizens have secrets or enjoy bantering with you. If this is the case, your conversations are color-coded with Speech Challenges. Such challenges are yellow (easy), orange (medium), or red (hard). Are you having problems convincing people and failing these challenges? Then increase your Charisma attribute or wear some Charisma-enhancing clothing.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

REMEMBER, YOU ONLY NEED TO BRANDISH A WEAPON IF YOU SPOT AN IMMEDIATE THREAT. OTHERWISE, HOLSTER YOUR WEAPON, AS YOUR MOVEMENT SPEED IS SLOWER WITH A WEAPON OUT; THE HEAVIER THE WEAPON, THE SLOWER YOU MOVE; AND YOU'RE SLOWEST OF ALL WHILE LOOKING DOWN THE SIGHTS OF A WEAPON.

OPTION 1: FRIEND OR FOE?

THIS GROTESQUE GHOULISH FACE OF FLAPPING SKIN MAY BE TERRIFYING TO WITNESS, BUT IT BELONGS TO A FRIENDLY SORT. APPEARANCES CAN SOMETIMES BE DECEPTIVE.

Many surface dwellers are simply attempting to eke out an existence and are little threat to you. They appear with a green health bar in V.A.T.S. if accidentally targeted and are sometimes gathered with other friendly sorts in (usually barricaded) settlements. Some like to converse with you, and some have tasks—quests—for you to complete. Others are traders.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

CRIMINAL ACTIVITY JUST ISN'T STOOD FOR IN THE COMMONWEALTH. COMMIT A CRIME (PICKING A LOCK, CONTAINER, OR DOOR; HACKING AN OWNED TERMINAL; ATTACKING AN INNOCENT; TRESPASSING; OR PICKPOCKETING), AND PREVIOUSLY FRIENDLY FOLK IMMEDIATELY TURN HOSTILE. LEARN MORE ABOUT THIS IN THE HELP MENU.

Traders

THE EASIEST WAY TO ACCRUE CAPS IS SELLING SCAVENGED LOOT WHILE WEARING A CHARISMA-IMPROVING BATHROBE.

To get some of the best gear going and start acquiring more than a meager collection of Caps, it is worth finding one of the many traders plying their wares across the Commonwealth. Simply find a trader, barter with them (the higher your Charisma, the better your deals), and come back another day for a different selection of items. There are different types of traders to find:

MAJOR SETTLEMENT TRADERS

Seek out Deb in Bunker Hill, the vendors of Diamond City market, and the good folks of Goodneighbor for the very best (and rarest) items.

MINOR SETTLEMENT TRADERS

Dealing in scrap, armor, and other bits and bobs, there are Commonwealth settlers attempting to trade from their own static locations—such as the scrap merchant perched by the freeway off-ramp near Forest Grove Marsh.

RANDOMLY ENCOUNTERED TRADERS

Did you happen to spot a small girl and a large Sentry Bot while wandering? Then flag her down; she's a trader appearing as one of the multitude of random encounters. Find out more on page 214.

TRADING CARAVANS

There are four traders who wander the Commonwealth with an armed guard, pack Brahmin, and a sense of purpose. They take the main thoroughfares between inhabitable locations, wait a few hours, and move on. Here's where they might be:

TRADERS

TRADER NAME	FIRST LOCATION	SECOND LOCATION	THIRD LOCATION	FOURTH LOCATION
Doc Weathers	County Crossing	Finch Farm	Salem	The Slog
Trashcan Carla	Sanctuary Hills	Drumlin Diner	—	—
Cricket	Diamond City	Vault 81	Warwick Homestead	—
Lucas Miller	Covenant	Tenpines Bluff	Greentop Nursery	—

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

DON'T JUST SAUNTER UP TO A TRADER WEARING POWER ARMOR AND EXPECT TO CLOSE A GREAT DEAL: COLLECT AN OUTFIT SPECIFICALLY FOR BARTERING. EVEN IF YOUR CHARISMA IS MEDITOCRE, PUTTING ON A BATHROBE (CHR +2), TRILBY HAT (CHR +1), AND SOME FASHIONABLE GLASSES (CHR +1) CAN REALLY TAKE YOUR VENDOR-FLEECING TO THE NEXT LEVEL! TRADING CARAVANS GET A BOLSTER TO THEIR AVAILABLE CAPS IF YOU'VE MADE STRIDES IN YOUR SETTLEMENTS. FINALLY, DO YOU DESPERATELY NEED TO TRADE WITH ONE OF THESE HARD-TO-FIND MERCHANTS? THEN HEAD TO BUNKER HILL, WHERE THERE'S A (RANDOM) CHANCE ONE OF THE CARAVANS WILL BE HERE, AS THIS IS WHERE THEY RESUPPLY.

OPTION 2: JUST FOE

THERE IS LITTLE DOUBT THAT THIS LUMBERING SPECIMEN ISN'T HERE TO SELL YOU STIMPAKS. A MORE OFFENSIVE POSTURE IS THEREFORE CALLED FOR.

The vast majority of the time, you should be able to spot the telltale signs of a hostile encounter. Foes have red health bars. They usually have warnings to strangers, impaled skulls adorning their place of business, or a wild glint to their eye.

There could be blood or sacks of unpleasant entrails. Shots may be fired. At this point, it is wise to take action from the following options:

General Hostile Actions

The situation has escalated. You should have prepared an offensive tool with which to calm the situation down. Early into your explorations, experiment with different weapon types—punching, melee, and the variety of ranged guns. Then choose perks that help you make the most of the weaponry you've chosen.

MELEE COMBAT

CLOSE-RANGE COMBAT ISN'T FOR THE SQUEAMISH AND INVOLVES CHOOSING WHEN TO BASH, BLOCK, CHARGE IN, OR EXECUTE A MORE LUMBERING POWER ATTACK.

If you're using a punching or melee weapon, you must close the gap to the enemy and perform a "dance of death," countering your foe if they employ similar weapons or quickly cutting or bludgeoning the enemy if they're still carrying a gun. Remember you can:

- BASH: ATTACK NORMALLY TO INFLICT THE NORMAL DAMAGE FOR THE CLOSE-RANGE WEAPON YOU'RE USING AND TO QUICKLY HIT THEM IF THEY'RE TRYING A SLOWER POWER ATTACK WITH A MELEE WEAPON. THIS CAN LEAD TO THEM BEING STAGGERED.
- POWER ATTACK: BREAK A FOE'S BLOCK WITH A POWER ATTACK (AND HOPEFULLY STAGGER THEM), WHICH TAKES A LONGER TIME BUT PROVIDES MORE DEVASTATING DAMAGE. OR JUST BATTER THEM SENSELESS AS YOU CLOSE IN BY STARTING A POWER ATTACK EARLY.
- BLOCK: IF A FOE TAKES A SWING AT YOU (USING A MELEE STRIKE, AS YOU CAN'T BLOCK PROJECTILES), QUICKLY BLOCK JUST BEFORE THE SWING CONNECTS.
- CHARGE! SPRINT INTO THE FRAY IF YOUR OPPONENT IS RELOADING, CONFUSED, HASN'T SEEN YOU, IS PREOCCUPIED IN SOME WAY, OR HAS BEEN STAGGERED. THEN BRING THEM DOWN WITH A BUMP IF YOU HAVE THE PAIN TRAIN PERK, OR STRIKE WITH MELEE OR PUNCHING ATTACKS BEFORE THEY CAN REACT.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

UNLESS YOU'RE WIELDING A SILENCED WEAPON, MELEE IMPLEMENTS ARE MUCH QUIETER TO USE AND ARE EXCELLENT FOR SNEAKING. CONVERSELY, THEIR POTENCY IS INCREASED WITH THE STRENGTH ATTRIBUTE OR WHILE WEARING POWER ARMOR.

RANGED COMBAT

CHOOSE JUST HOW FAR AWAY YOU WANT TO BE BY THE TYPE OF RANGED WEAPON YOU PICK.

Hip fire is any shooting done without pressing the aiming button. The crosshairs are wide when hip firing and tight when aiming. Aiming is more accurate, but you move slowly while aiming.

Firing from the hip is another option when neutralizing a situation that has gotten completely out of hand. This involves using your own mettle, manual dexterity (usually with a firearm or something that launches projectiles), and copious bullets. Are you focusing mainly on hip firing with no V.A.T.S. combat? Then Agility, Perception, and Luck are worth considerably less. The beauty of hip firing is you can now avoid those three stats and wind up with a devastating focused character.

However, if you're planning a focus on V.A.T.S., those stats are all vital. If you're pouring points into Luck, you also need high Agility and Perception to help the probability you'll score some crazy criticals!

The plan for hip firing is simple: Look for the most pertinent threats and nullify them. You can hip fire, but your accuracy is improved if you zoom in or look down the sights of a weapon. However, this comes at the cost of speed. Crouching and firing is even more accurate, though you're obviously a sitting duck. Also remember that the heavier the weapon, the more carry weight you'll need and the slower you'll be to react.

Both you and your enemies can inflict different types of damage:

- BALLISTIC: BULLET, SHELL, OR NORMAL PROJECTILE DAMAGE.
- ENERGY: POWERFUL BLASTS OF ELECTRICITY OR LASER FIRE.
- RADIATION: DAMAGE WITH A RADIOACTIVE ELEMENT, USUALLY ENVIRONMENTAL OR WHEN BEING STRUCK BY RADIOACTIVE CREATURES.
- POISON: USUALLY ATTACKS FROM CERTAIN TYPES OF UNCLEAN ENEMY CLAWS.

It's worth consulting the Combat chapter to see if the foes you're facing have resistance to any of these damage types and to plan to exploit their weaknesses instead.

Now simply fire on your foes until only one of you is standing. Let's hope it's you. Is the foe running? Aim for the legs. Better to earn some XP for your expended bullets by killing your target.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

GUN BASHING AND BACKPEDALING

Remember, foes that are too close for comfort can be physically battered using the weapon you're wielding; this usually allows you to step back afterward and fire.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

NEED TO KNOW THE BEST WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR V.A.T.S.? THE HIGHER YOUR AGILITY, THE MORE ACTION POINTS YOU HAVE. THE HIGHER YOUR PERCEPTION, THE MORE ACCURATE YOU ARE IN VATS. THE HIGHER YOUR LUCK, THE MORE QUICKLY YOUR CRITICAL METER FILLS. V.A.T.S. IS PREFERRED OVER FIRING FROM THE HIP IF YOU HAVE A TARGET AREA THAT'S PARTICULARLY TROUBLESOME TO HIT MANUALLY (SUCH AS A FAST-MOVING DEATHCLAW, OR DISTANT FOE WHO'S DIFFICULT TO AIM AT). YOU CAN ALSO SHOOT GRENADES OUT OF THE AIR, ONCE THROWN BY A FOE (BUT NOT OUT OF THEIR HANDS ON OR THEIR PERSON). NEED TO MAXIMIZE YOUR V.A.T.S. POTENTIAL? THEN UTILIZE A WEAPON WITH LOW ACTION POINT USE (SUCH AS THE DELIVERER, THE SILENCED PISTOL FAVORED BY THE RAILROAD FACTION). BUILD YOUR CRITICAL METER WITH THIS, THEN QUICKLY SWAP IT FOR A WEAPON WITH A LARGE BASE DAMAGE VALUE (LIKE A FULLY CHARGED LASER MUSKET), AND EXECUTE THE CRITICAL WITH THAT WEAPON. IS YOUR FOE FAR AWAY OR VERY DIFFICULT TO SCORE A HIT ON? THEN BUILD UP YOUR CRITICAL ON EASY-TO-TARGET FOES, AND UNLEASH THE CRITICAL ON THE FAR TARGET, AS CRITICALS ALWAYS HIT! WORRIED ABOUT MINES? THEN ENTER V.A.T.S. AND YOU'LL AUTOMATICALLY SPOT ANY THAT ARE NEARBY. DON'T SPRINT JUST BEFORE ENTERING V.A.T.S. COMBAT; YOU NEED ALL THE ACTION POINTS YOU CAN GET!

PROJECTILE COMBAT

GRENADES AND MINES ARE A GREAT WAY TO DAMAGE FOES WITHIN A LARGER AREA OR CREATE A DIVERSION.

Remember to utilize grenades at every possible opportunity to soften up the enemy as you close in (or if you have the Pickpocket perk, to place on a person you've snuck up to for an amusing and explosive demise). Remember to hold down to throw, and aim just in front of an enemy who is moving toward you, so the projectile explodes on them, not behind them.

Mines are another option, albeit a more stealthy plan. Place them on enemy patrol paths, in choke points, or at the perimeter of your settlements. And remember both grenades and mines can harm you (though mines only blow up on you when triggered by a foe), so don't drop one at your feet and stand there.

VAULT-TEC ASSISTED TARGETING SYSTEM (V.A.T.S.) COMBAT

FROM THE SNIPER IN A FARAWAY NEST TO RAPID-FIRE MINIGUN MAYHEM, THE METHODS OF FOE DISPOSAL ARE SIMPLY STAGGERING.

V.A.T.S. allows you to slow down the lunacy of combat into more manageable time chunks. Use the targeting system to mark multiple enemies (or multiple areas of an enemy or enemies). This continues until you wish to stop choosing pieces of a foe to shoot at or you run out of bullets or Action Points. Remember! The larger the weapon, the more Action Points it is likely to use up for each hit. Successfully strike a foe, and your Critical meter is partly filled. Once completely full (and the speed of this depends on your Luck attribute), you can launch a critical hit—a high-powered and usually impressively messy attack.

STATUS

HIDING IN SHADOWS, WAITING TO STRIKE AFTER PLACING YOUR TRUST AND JUDGMENT IN ACCRUING ALL THE ABILITY-RELATED PERKS YOU CAN MUSTER.

Those with the necessary Agility and attire suitable for such antics may wish to try a spot of sneaking. This involves crouching, after which the level of detection appears.

Hidden: This means no nearby entities have detected you. Feel free to maneuver and attack with special damage bonuses, though you are at risk of being discovered. You may wish to try long-range takedowns with silenced weaponry instead. The farther apart the brackets are between the word "Hidden," the more successful your sneaking is.

Detected: A non-hostile entity has spotted you. The only immediate danger you face is possible embarrassment.

WHAT MAKES YOU S.P.E.C.I.A.L.?

Your Strength, Perception, Endurance, Charisma, Intelligence, Agility, and Luck, of course! These primary statistics, also known as attributes, are the bedrock from which you're chiseled. They range in value from 1 (woefully inadequate) to 10 (outlandishly prodigious). Each affects a different aspect of you and allows a specific list of 10 perks to be unlocked.

THE VAULT-TEC REGISTRATION FORM: PRIMARY STATISTICS

Tell us about yourself! Vault-Tec needs to know what kind of citizen you are to ensure your future happiness. A Vault-Tec representative should have visited you recently, and you should have chosen the values of your primary statistics. You have 21 points to spend how you wish and another single point to spend if you locate the "You're S.P.E.C.I.A.L.!" book in your house in Sanctuary Hills (once you leave Vault 111).

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

RONNIE HAS A CHARISMA OF 9. EVEN THOUGH HE'S LEVEL 1, HE CAN CHOOSE ANY OF THE CHARISMA PERKS, FROM 01 (CAP COLLECTOR) TO 09 (WASTELAND WANDERER). THE ONLY CHARISMA PERK HE CAN'T GET YET IS 10 (INTIMIDATION), BUT HE'S WORKING ON IT!

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

STANLEY THINKS HE MADE A MISTAKE ON HIS REGISTRATION FORM AND WANTS TO CHANGE THE VALUE OF HIS S.P.E.C.I.A.L. ATTRIBUTES. FORTUNATELY, HE CAN DO THIS BEFORE LEAVING VAULT 111 FOR THE FIRST TIME. HE'S ALSO ENCOURAGED TO INVESTIGATE THE PERK CHART (ON HIS PIP-BOY), WHICH SHOWS THE PERKS THAT ARE UNLOCKED BASED ON THE VALUE OF EACH ATTRIBUTE.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

GAIL ANN HAS AN ENDURANCE OF 3 AND HAS BEEN HAVING TROUBLE RUNNING UP HILLS. LOOKING IN THE PERK CHART ON HER PIP-BOY, SHE WANTS TO GET FIT AND INCREASE HER ENDURANCE (TO ADD TO HER HEALTH AND LESSEN HER ACTION POINT DRAIN RATE FROM SPRINTING). SHE CAN SPEND POINTS AS SHE WISHES, INCREASING HER ENDURANCE (OR ANY OTHER ATTRIBUTE) EVERY TIME SHE LEVELS UP.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

WHAT MAKES A GOOD SNEAKING SPECIALIST? SOMEONE WHO STAYS IN THE SHADOWS, SWITCHES OFF ANY ILLUMINATION, SNEAKS ON ENEMIES OF A LOWER LEVEL, AND HAS MADE NUMEROUS PERK PURCHASES IN THE AGILITY SECTION OF THE PERK CHART. REMOVE POWER ARMOR AND DON APPAREL THAT GRANTS YOU BONUS TO YOUR AGILITY (USUALLY LIGHTWEIGHT IN NATURE). STAY OUT OF A FOE'S LINE OF SIGHT. MOVE SLOWLY. USE SILENCED WEAPONRY. EMPLOY MISDIRECTION BY EXPLODING TRAPS OR SCENERY IN AREAS WHERE YOU AREN'T LOCATED. AND WATCH THE BRACKETS; IF THEY MOVE, YOU CAN BE ALERTED BEFORE YOU EVEN SEE AN ENEMY.

Caution: Enemies have detected but not pinpointed you. Evade them by watching the brackets around the word "Caution" expand, and return to Hidden status. Sneak attacks are still counted.

Danger: You have been spotted, and another type of combat is usually called for. Or run away.

NAME	DESCRIPTION
Strength	Strength is a measure of your raw physical power. It affects how much you can carry and the damage of all melee attacks. Since every item you scavenge has a weight associated with it, the stronger you are, the more you can carry without becoming overburdened (which doesn't allow you to run). Melee damage is inflicted by weapons you brandish with your hands, like a baseball bat. The higher your Strength, the more damage you inflict with such attacks.
Perception	Perception is your environmental awareness and "sixth sense," and it affects weapon accuracy in V.A.T.S. If you employ this combat technique, the higher your Perception, the greater your chance of hitting a foe. A higher Perception also reveals detected threats (red dots on your compass) at a greater distance.
Endurance	Endurance is a measure of your overall physical fitness. It affects your total Health and the Action Point drain from sprinting. Health is the amount of damage you can take before dying, and a higher Health is more helpful if you like to charge into battle rather than lurk and shoot from a distance. As Action Points (APs) and sprinting are both incredibly important, having larger reserves of APs (and therefore the ability to sprint greater distances) is most helpful.
Charisma	Charisma is your ability to charm and convince others. It affects your success to persuade in dialogue and prices when you barter. Raise your Charisma if you wish to complete speech challenges—conversations in yellow (Easy), orange (Medium), or red (Hard)—during discussions with others. Better bartering prices also mean Caps you receive from your scavenging and trading goes farther.
Intelligence	Intelligence is a measure of your overall mental acuity and affects the number of Experience Points earned. Intelligence also gives you access to the Hacker perk, allowing you to unlock more difficult terminals. As you receive a Perk Point each time you rise a level (which is spent to either increase an attribute, purchase a perk, or increase a perk by a rank), decreasing the time it takes to level up can only help you. Or can it?
Agility	Agility is a measure of your overall finesse and reflexes. It affects the number of Action Points in V.A.T.S. and your ability to sneak. It is considered a particularly important attribute to those who value stealth as a viable way to maneuver around enemy territories without being seen (while crouching). As you need the largest number of Action Points as possible if you favor V.A.T.S. combat, this is another reason to never overlook this attribute.
Luck	Luck is a measure of your general good fortune and affects the recharge rate of critical hits. While searching for loot, your Luck determines the (random) likelihood of receiving a rare item, mod, or high-value item. In combat, critical hits help remove targets in quicker, more violently impressive ways, and decreasing the time it takes to inflict such pain is obviously helpful.

The Benefits of Idiocy

Intelligence is the one attribute you may wish to leave low, if you're interested in the benefits of the Idiot Savant perk, which requires a basic level of stupidity. Remember enemies become tougher as you level up, too, so expect to encounter more frightening foes if you lessen the time it takes to reach higher levels.

VAULT LIFE HAS ITS PERKS!

Regularly study your Vault-Tec literature, as the Perk Chart that accompanies your Pip-Boy is the key to augmenting yourself for the better. When you increase a level, you receive a Perk Point. This can be saved, or you can spend them immediately, in one of three ways:

- PERK POINTS CAN BE SPENT ON RAISING ANY ATTRIBUTE (SO YOU CAN UNLOCK ANOTHER LEVEL OF PERKS).
- PERK POINTS CAN BE SPENT ON PURCHASING A NEW PERK, PROVIDING THE VALUE OF THE ASSOCIATED ATTRIBUTE HAS BEEN REACHED. A FEW PERKS REQUIRE YOU TO BE MALE OR FEMALE.
- PERK POINTS CAN BE SPENT TO INCREASE THE RANK OF AN ALREADY-PURCHASED PERK. PERKS CAN HAVE BETWEEN ONE AND FIVE RANKS, DENOTED BY STARS ON YOUR CHART. RANK 1 IS ALWAYS ACCESSIBLE (PROVIDING YOUR ATTRIBUTE REQUIREMENT HAS BEEN MET). RANK 2 AND HIGHER REQUIRES YOU TO BE A PARTICULAR LEVEL.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

DAVE IS DEDICATED TO INCREASING HIS RAW, PHYSICAL POWER AND IS ALREADY AT STRENGTH 9. WAY TO GO, DAVE! BUT TO REACH THE PINNACLE OF BUFFNESS, HE'S PONDERING ON SPENDING YET ANOTHER PERK POINT ON STRENGTH TRAINING. HOWEVER, JUST BEFORE DECIDING, HE CHANCED UPON A SPECIAL VAULT-TEC LIMITED-EDITION STRENGTH BOBBLEHEAD, WHICH GRANTED HIM AN IMMEDIATE +1 TO HIS STRENGTH. NOW HE CAN SPEND HIS PERK POINT ON SOMETHING DIFFERENT! COULD DAVE TECHNICALLY HAVE RAISED HIS STRENGTH TO 11? YES, BUT THE BENEFITS ARE NEGLIGIBLE.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

JOEY IS FEELING PRETTY PLEASED WITH HIMSELF; HE'S JUST REACHED LEVEL 10! HE WANTS TO UNLOCK SOME COOL AGILITY PERKS, AND HE'S GOT THREE PERK POINTS TO SPEND (ONE FOR REACHING LEVEL 10 AND TWO PREVIOUSLY SAVED). CURRENTLY, HE HAS AN AGILITY OF 6. NOT BAD. HE ALREADY HAS THE SNEAK PERK (RANK 1 OF 5), SO HE USES A POINT TO INCREASE SNEAK TO RANK 2. BUT TO GET TO RANK 3, HE'LL NEED TO COMPLETE MORE ADVENTURING AND REACH LEVEL 12. NEXT, HE REALLY WANTS THE NINJA PERK, BUT THAT REQUIRES AN AGILITY OF 7. SO HE CHECKS HIS AGILITY ATTRIBUTE, AND BECAUSE HE'S LEVEL 10, HE CAN ADD A POINT TO AGILITY. QUICK AS A FLASH, HE DOES JUST THAT! THIS OPENS UP THE NINJA PERK. HE UNLOCKS NINJA RANK 1 (RANK 2 REQUIRES HIM TO BE LEVEL 16, SO THAT'S GOING TO TAKE A WHILE).

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

MOLLY LIKES TO KEEP A STEALTHY DISTANCE FROM HER FOES AND HAS AN AGILITY OF 8. THAT'S AMAZING, MOLLY! RECENTLY, WHILE RUMMAGING AROUND, SHE DISCOVERED A SET OF MILITARY FATIGUES THAT BESTOWED A +2 AGILITY BONUS WHEN SHE WORE THEM. WOW! BUT THAT ONLY AFFECTED HER AGILITY BONUSES IN REGARDS TO HER ABILITY TO SNEAK AND THE ACTION POINTS IN V.A.T.S.; IT DIDN'T ALLOW HER TO UNLOCK ANY LEVEL 9 OR 10 AGILITY PERKS. RATS!

STRENGTH-RELATED PERKS

STRENGTH TRAINING

Strength is a measure of your raw physical power. It affects how much you can carry and the damage of all melee attacks.

Since every item you scavenge has a weight associated with it, the stronger you are, the more you can carry without becoming overburdened (which doesn't allow you to run).

Melee damage is inflicted by weapons you brandish with your hands, like a baseball bat. The higher your Strength, the more damage you inflict with such attacks.

Build those muscles! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Strength to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 01: IRON FIST

Channel your chi to unleash devastating fury! If you're the pugilistic sort and favor unarmed weaponry to inflict pain and suffering to an ever-more impressive degree, this is the perk for you! Let's not dwell on the slight shortfall of the difficulty in fighting multiple opponents at once; this focuses all your muscle on one hapless fool. Consult the Weapons chapter for the variety of punching weapons available.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 1	Punching attacks do 20 percent more damage to your opponent.
2	Level 9, STR 1	Punching attacks now do 40 percent more damage and can disarm your opponent.
3	Level 18, STR 1	Punching attacks now do 60 percent more damage. Unarmed Power Attacks have a chance to cripple one of your opponent's limbs.
4	Level 31, STR 1	Punching attacks now do 80 percent more damage. Unarmed Power Attacks have an increased chance to cripple one of your opponent's limbs.
5	Level 46, STR 1	Punching attacks now do double damage. Criticals in V.A.T.S. will paralyze your opponent.

LEVEL 03: ARMORER

Protect yourself from the dangers of the Wasteland. If you're the sort of tinkerer at an armor workbench and want to craft some impressively protective gear for yourself or your companions, choose this perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 3	You gain access to base level and Rank 1 armor mods.
2	Level 13, STR 3	You gain access to Rank 2 armor mods.
3	Level 25, STR 3	You gain access to Rank 3 armor mods.
4	Level 39, STR 3	You gain access to Rank 4 armor mods.

This perk enhances your workshop settlements. This allows you to create the Power Armor station (Rank 1, with Local Leader Rank 2).

LEVEL 02: BIG LEAGUES

Swing for the fences! If you design a bludgeoning or bladed method of bringing an end to your foes, this is the perk to take. Though difficult to battle against multiple enemies in the same space, close combat is much more impressive when your damage is increased. Check the Weapons chapter for more information on available melee weapons.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 2	Does 20 percent more melee weapon damage.
2	Level 7, STR 2	You now do 40 percent more melee weapon damage and gain a chance to disarm your opponent.
3	Level 15, STR 2	You now do 60 percent more melee weapon damage and gain an increased chance to disarm your opponent.
4	Level 27, STR 2	You now do 80 percent more melee weapon damage and hit all targets in front of you.
5	Level 42, STR 2	You now do double damage with a melee weapon and gain a chance to cripple your opponent, or grand slam their head clean off!

LEVEL 04: BLACKSMITH

Fire up the forge! If you enjoy swinging a melee weapon into the skulls of your adversaries, it pays to craft modified variants at a weapons workbench, using these perks to make such implements with the very best bonuses.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 4	You gain access to base level and Rank 1 melee weapon mods.
2	Level 16, STR 4	You gain access to Rank 2 melee weapon mods.
3	Level 29, STR 4	You gain access to Rank 3 melee weapon mods.

LEVEL 05: HEAVY GUNNER

Thanks to practice and conditioning, you're able to utilize the weightiest of weapons with an extra degree of precision. Check the Weapons chapter for the different types of heavy guns so you know which ones this perk affects. Combine with other weapon perks so you receive a bonus no matter which weapon you wield.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 5	Heavy guns do 20 percent more damage.
2	Level 11, STR 5	Heavy guns now do 40 percent more damage and have improved hip-fire accuracy.
3	Level 21, STR 5	Heavy guns now do 60 percent more damage. Hip-fire accuracy is increased even more.
4	Level 35, STR 5	Heavy guns now do 80 percent more damage and have a chance to stagger your opponent.
5	Level 47, STR 5	Heavy guns now do double damage.

LEVEL 07: STEADY AIM

Stay on target! If you enjoy the benefits of gunplay without entering V.A.T.S. to accomplish your violent goals, then increase the accuracy of any projectile weapon with this perk. This allows you just a little more leeway when manually firing at foes, and also without aiming down ironsights or scopes.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 7	Hip-fire accuracy is improved when firing any gun.
2	Level 28, STR 7	Hip-fire accuracy is improved even more when firing any gun.

LEVEL 09: ROOTED

You're part tree! Though ostensibly used when you're standing there trading melee blows with a hapless idiot who's regretting challenging you to a close-quarter fight, this can also be employed if you're sneaking behind a foe, stopping, and delivering a killing blow.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 9	While standing still, you gain +25 Damage Resistance and your melee and unarmed attacks deal 25 percent more damage.
2	Level 22, STR 9	While standing still, you now gain +50 Damage Resistance and your melee and unarmed attacks deal 50 percent more damage.
3	Level 43, STR 9	While standing still, you may automatically disarm enemies that use melee weapons against you.

LEVEL 06: STRONG BACK

What are you, part pack mule? Though those favoring heavier weapons and armor are likely to take this perk on general principle, it's also hugely beneficial to scavengers; spend more time in the wilderness gathering loot to sell or trade! Carry a greater complement of killing equipment! And at higher levels, have some way of easily maneuvering back to safety without dropping your ill-gotten gains.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 6	Gain +25 to carry weight.
2	Level 10, STR 6	You now have +50 to carry weight.
3	Level 20, STR 6	When overburdened, you can use Action Points to run.
4	Level 30, STR 6	When overburdened, you can Fast-Travel.

LEVEL 08: BASHER

Get up close and personal! The amount of time you use the butt of your gun to inflict a bloody nose (or worse) at close quarters reflects how important you deem this perk to be. But it does increase the flexibility of more complex combat situations where you may not wish to switch between a favored firearm and a different weapon type (like a punching weapon).

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	STR 8	Gun bashing does 25 percent more damage.
2	Level 5, STR 8	Gun bashing now does 50 percent more damage and possibly cripples your opponent.
3	Level 14, STR 8	Gun bashing now does 75 percent more damage and has an increased chance to cripple your opponent.
4	Level 26, STR 8	Gun bashing does double damage and has an increased chance to cripple your opponent. It may also inflict a critical hit.

LEVEL 10: PAIN TRAIN

Choo-choo! All aboard! Turning Power Armor into an offensive weapon? What an exceptional idea: As long as you have the Action Points to complete a sprint before switching to your favored weapon and you're focusing on Power Armor as a main source of protection, this can prove an excellent deterrent, at any time during combat.

1	STR 10	While wearing Power Armor, sprinting into enemies hurts and staggers them. (Robots and oversized enemies are immune to the stagger.)
2	Level 24, STR 10	Sprinting into enemies while wearing Power Armor now causes severe damage and a more powerful stagger. (Robots and oversized enemies are immune to the stagger.)
3	Level 50, STR 10	Sprinting into enemies while wearing Power Armor now causes massive damage and knocks them down. Impact landing near enemies inflicts even more damage.

PERCEPTION-RELATED PERKS

PERCEPTION TRAINING

Perception is your environmental awareness and “sixth sense,” and it affects weapon accuracy in V.A.T.S. If you employ this combat technique, the higher your Perception, the greater your chance of hitting a foe. A higher Perception also reveals detected threats (red dots on your compass) at a greater distance.

Become more aware! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Perception to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 01: PICKPOCKET

You have quick hands and sticky fingers, and for those favoring a stealthy method of foe disposal (or gathering items such as keys from folks without resorting to gunplay or fast-talking), this is a fine perk to take. Remember Rank 2 is the only way you're able to drop in a live grenade as a special present, and only if your adversaries haven't seen you.

1	PER 1	Picking pockets is 25 percent easier.
2	Level 6, PER 1	Picking pockets is now 50 percent easier. You can place a live grenade in a person's inventory.
3	Level 17, PER 1	Picking pockets is now 75 percent easier, and you can steal equipped weapons.
4	Level 30, PER 1	Picking pockets is now twice as easy, and you can steal equipped items.

LEVEL 02: RIFLEMAN

Keep your distance long and your kill count high. Though this only requires a Perception of 2, increasing this to a much greater degree allows you to spot and remove foes at a greater range, which is what these weapons are designed to do. Be certain you know which weapons nonautomatic rifles are; the Weapons chapter lists them all.

1	PER 2	Attacks with nonautomatic rifles do 20 percent more damage.
2	Level 9, PER 2	Attacks with nonautomatic rifles now do 40 percent more damage and ignore 15 percent of a target's armor.
3	Level 18, PER 2	Attacks with nonautomatic rifles now do 60 percent more damage and ignore 20 percent of a target's armor.
4	Level 31, PER 2	Attacks with nonautomatic rifles now do 80 percent more damage and ignore 25 percent of a target's armor. They also have a slight chance of crippling a limb.
5	Level 46, PER 2	Attacks with nonautomatic rifles now do double damage and ignore 30 percent of a target's armor. They also have a slightly higher chance of crippling a limb.

LEVEL 03: AWARENESS

If additional information is what you crave, then this is a most helpful augmentation to your V.A.T.S. combat interface, as it allows you to see what a foe's resistances are and use weapons they are susceptible to.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 3	To defeat your enemies, know their weaknesses! You can view a target's specific Damage Resistances in V.A.T.S.

The following information is now imparted:

- Level: Your enemy's level.
- Shield: Your enemy's resistance to ballistic, explosive, or impact-related damage.
- Lightning: Your enemy's resistance to energy weapons.
- Radiation: Your enemy's resistance to weapons that inflict radiation damage.
- Poison Drop: Your enemy's resistance to weapons that inflict poison damage.

LEVEL 04: LOCKSMITH

You have impressively nimble fingers. As there is a large number of doors that are locked, it is worth considering this perk if you must know what's behind every closet door, storage door, or secret door. Remember that sometimes a locked door can be opened via other means (a terminal, requiring the Hacker perk) or a key. The Map chapter shows every door's difficulty rating and the important items behind there, so figure out how important this is. It's usually better to focus on either Locksmith or Hacker.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 4	You can pick Advanced locks.
2	Level 7, PER 4	You can pick Expert locks.
3	Level 18, PER 4	You can pick Master locks.
4	Level 41, PER 4	Your bobby pins never break during lockpicking.

LEVEL 05: DEMOLITION EXPERT

The bigger the boom, the better! At the highest ranks, a proficient expert can craft a potent bomb or ten and lob them all at even the most dangerous of marauding foes, dropping the enemy before engaging in closer combat. Are you a fan of mines? Do you enjoy using V.A.T.S. to shoot grenades or mines close to or carried on an enemy? Then think about this perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 5	Your explosives do 25 percent more damage, and you can craft explosives at any chemistry station.
2	Level 10, PER 5	Your explosives now do 50 percent more damage, and grenades gain a throwing arc.
3	Level 22, PER 5	Your explosives now do 75 percent more damage and affect a larger area.
4	Level 34, PER 5	Your explosives now do double damage. Mines and grenades shot in V.A.T.S. explode for double damage, too.

LEVEL 07: REFRACTOR

You must be part mirror! For enemies that favor weapons inflicting this type of damage (such as Institute synths, foes armed with cryo or energy weaponry, and tesla arc traps), this proves to be an impressive defense. To a Raider attempting to hit you with a baseball bat, this offers no protection. Further complement this resistance by taking the Moving Target, Robot Sympathy, and Shield Harmonics perks. The Toughness perk offers all-around protection and might be a better fit.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 7	Instantly gain +10 Energy Resistance.
2	Level 11, PER 7	You now have +20 Energy Resistance.
3	Level 21, PER 7	You now have +30 Energy Resistance.
4	Level 35, PER 7	You now have +40 Energy Resistance.
5	Level 42, PER 7	You now have +50 Energy Resistance.

LEVEL 09: PENETRATOR

There's no place to hide! This doesn't allow shooting through impenetrable walls but does allow you to target partially obscured foes (like those behind trees, through windows, or behind barricades) if parts of them are visible. This is another good option to further enhance V.A.T.S. combat.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 9	In V.A.T.S. you can target an enemy's body parts that are blocked by cover, with a decrease in accuracy.
2	Level 28, PER 9	In V.A.T.S. when you target an enemy's body parts that are blocked by cover, there is no decrease in accuracy.

LEVEL 06: NIGHT PERSON

You are a creature of the night! Though this doesn't allow you to spend Perk Points on perks you don't have the Intelligence or Perception to unlock, you do receive the impressive enhancements that a higher INT and PER allow you. For example, you have a greater distance to spot enemies and V.A.T.S. enhancements for Perception and the increase in XP that an Intelligence boost gives you.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 6	Gain +2 to Intelligence and Perception between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m.
2	Level 25, PER 6	You now have +3 to Intelligence and Perception between the hours of 6:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. and night vision when sneaking.

LEVEL 08: SNIPER

It's all about focus. Like Gunslinger and Commando (for your other weapon types), this allows further flexibility when utilizing any nonauto scoped rifle. A list of this weapon type is provided in the Weapons chapter. If you favor these type of guns, this is your first perk choice.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 8	You have improved control and can hold your breath longer when aiming with scopes. This reduces wobble.
2	Level 13, PER 8	Nonautomatic, scoped rifles have a chance of knocking down your target.
3	Level 26, PER 8	Nonautomatic, scoped rifles gain +25 percent accuracy to head shots in V.A.T.S.

LEVEL 10: CONCENTRATED FIRE

Stay focused! This focus only stops when you run out of Action Points, so bolster APs to further enhance this perk. As you'll know how many APs it takes to fire off the bullets from your weapon, you should surmise that a heavier weapon, or one that fires slower and more damaging projectiles, is more likely to use up your Action Points more quickly and lessen the effectiveness of this perk. So play around with your favorite weapons to see which ones are most effective.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	PER 10	In V.A.T.S. every attack on the same body part gains +10 percent accuracy.
2	Level 26, PER 10	In V.A.T.S. every attack on the same body part gains +15 percent accuracy.
3	Level 50, PER 10	In V.A.T.S. every attack on the same body part gains +20 percent accuracy and does 20 percent more damage.

ENDURANCE-RELATED PERKS

ENDURANCE TRAINING

Endurance is a measure of your overall physical fitness. It affects your total Health and the Action Point drain from sprinting. Health is the amount of damage you can take before dying, and a higher Health is more helpful if you like to charge into battle rather than lurk and shoot from a distance. As Action Points (APs) and sprinting are both incredibly important, having larger reserves of APs (and therefore the ability to sprint greater distances) is most helpful.

Get fit! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Endurance to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 05: AQUABOY / AQUAGIRL

Water is your ally. The Commonwealth has an impressive amount of it. Whether you're swimming the lakes or exploring the depths of the ocean, having the ability to use stealth and not suffer any ill effects from water is a most impressive feat indeed. It allows escape in any direction and sneak attacks on shoreline strongholds.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 5	You no longer take radiation damage from swimming and can breathe underwater.
2	Level 21, END 5	You become totally undetectable while submerged.

LEVEL 06: RAD RESISTANT

Exposure to the Wasteland has made you more resilient. It also makes you less keen on consuming Rad-X, as this chem isn't anywhere near as necessary; so trade any you find before marching off into irradiated ponds or the infamous Glowing Sea.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 6	You are instantly granted +10 Radiation Resistance.
2	Level 13, END 6	You now have +20 Radiation Resistance.
3	Level 26, END 6	You now have +30 Radiation Resistance.

LEVEL 01: TOUGHNESS

If nothing else, you can take a beating! Assuming you'll be dealing with more than simple foul language hurled in your direction, gaining a permanent bolster to your Damage Resistance is just like having a thick skin of armor. A fantastic way to spend a Perk Point or five.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 1	Instantly gain +10 Damage Resistance.
2	Level 9, END 1	You now have +20 Damage Resistance.
3	Level 18, END 1	You now have +30 Damage Resistance.
4	Level 31, END 1	You now have +40 Damage Resistance.
5	Level 46, END 1	You now have +50 Damage Resistance.

LEVEL 02: LEAD BELLY

Your digestive tract has adjusted to the weirdness of the Wasteland! Are you sick of stimpaks? Detest chemistry stations and making your own chems, or constantly scavenging for them? Then look for comestibles and water sources throughout the Commonwealth without the usual "distaste"! Take this perk or ones that help you when you use chems (like Chem Resistant or Chemist).

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 2	Take less radiation from eating or drinking.
2	Level 6, END 2	You take even less radiation from eating or drinking.
3	Level 17, END 2	You take no radiation from eating or drinking.

LEVEL 07: ADAMANTIUM SKELETON

Your skeleton has been infused with indestructible metal, which lessens the hobbling problems associated with crippling injuries. Sometimes your limbs are struck by foes, but most of the time such damage is caused by falling. Seek medical attention (or a bed) far less often than normal by choosing this perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 7	Your limb damage is reduced by 30 percent.
2	Level 13, END 7	Your limb damage is now reduced by 60 percent.
3	Level 26, END 7	Your limb damage is completely eliminated.

LEVEL 08: CANNIBAL

Feast on mortal flesh to heal your wounds! But don't do it around any polite folk (including companions, who aren't fans of chowing down on humans, Ghouls, or greenskin flesh), as you aren't seen in the best of lights. This is a good alternative to other forms of sustenance, though it requires you to be less caring in the way others perceive you. There's a chance you'll be openly attacked if you're gnawing on a citizen who lived in the establishment you're feasting at, too. So have some decorum, please!

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 8	Eating human corpses restores Health.
2	Level 19, END 8	Eating Ghoul or Super Mutant corpses restores Health.
3	Level 38, END 8	Eating human, Ghoul, or Super Mutant corpses now restores a significant amount of Health.

LEVEL 03: LIFE GIVER

You embody wellness! You also receive an instant Health increase, which has no downsides (except it takes slightly longer to inflict Nerd Rage! on a set of foes). If you need extra Health, this is a must-take perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 3	Instantly gain +20 maximum Health.
2	Level 8, END 3	You instantly gain another +20 maximum Health.
3	Level 20, END 3	You instantly gain another +20 maximum Health and slowly regenerate lost Health.

LEVEL 04: CHEM RESISTANT

All the rush without the hassle! Can't get enough of Jet, Psycho, or Buffout (or any other chem, including the ones you've made yourself at a chemistry station)? Then lessen (and finally remove) the downside of chem addiction completely. This is essential if you plan on enhancing your routines with chems.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 4	You're 50 percent less likely to get addicted when consuming chems.
2	Level 22, END 4	You gain complete immunity to chem addiction.

LEVEL 09: GHOULISH

Sure, you're still human—on the outside! Inside, though, you're seemingly part Ghoul, which doesn't have a downside, except that the perk doesn't function away from radiation. This negates any Rad-X you may need to take (allowing you to sell it instead), and you can venture into the Glowing Sea in just your skivvies if you wish. Simply reference locations in this guide's Map chapter that mention radiation (especially severe) and you have an additional "recharge" point!

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 9	Radiation now regenerates your lost Health.
2	Level 24, END 9	Radiation now regenerates even more of your lost Health.
3	Level 48, END 9	Radiation now regenerates even more of your lost Health, and some Feral Ghouls will randomly become friendly.

LEVEL 10: SOLAR POWERED

Catch some rays! A good perk for the extra melee damage, carry weight, Health, and Action Points you receive. When you're finally able to regenerate Health, combine this with Adamantium Skeleton (which heals limb damage) and snoozing on a bed during the night. Focus all your exploration during daytime hours.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	END 10	Gain +2 to Strength and Endurance between the hours of 6:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.
2	Level 27, END 10	Sunlight slowly heals your radiation damage.
3	Level 50, END 10	Sunlight regenerates your lost Health.

PERKS

CHARISMA-RELATED PERKS

CHARISMA TRAINING

Charisma is your ability to charm and convince others. It affects your success to persuade in dialogue and prices when you barter. Raise your Charisma if you wish to complete speech challenges—conversations in yellow (Easy), orange (Medium), or red (Hard)—during discussions with others. Better bartering prices also mean Caps you receive from your scavenging and trading goes farther.

Enhance your natural charm! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Charisma to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

★ LEVEL 01: CAP COLLECTOR

You've mastered the art of the deal! This perk enhances your workshop settlements with better bartering power. It allows you to create the following:

- Trading Emporium (Rank 2, with Local Leader perk Rank 2)
- Armor Emporium (Rank 2, with Local Leader perk Rank 2)
- Weapons Emporium (Rank 2, with Local Leader perk Rank 2)
- Restaurant (Rank 2, with Local Leader perk Rank 2)
- Clothing Emporium (Rank 2, with Local Leader perk, Rank 2)

Choose this if trading is your favored way to accrue wealth, and you have a bustling community of traders (including those you've attracted to any settlements you own).

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 1	Buying and selling prices at vendors are better.
2	Level 20, CHR 1	Buying and selling prices at vendors are now much better.
3	Level 41, CHR 1	You can now invest a total of 500 Caps to raise a store's buying capacity.

LEVEL 03: LONE WANDERER

Who needs friends anyway? If you prefer a solo exploration, you can add value that would normally require Endurance and Strength bonuses at lower ranks. The relatively low CHR requirement means the first rank of this is an extremely attractive proposition.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 3	When adventuring without a companion, you take 15 percent less damage and carry weight increases by 50.
2	Level 17, CHR 3	When adventuring without a companion, you take 30 percent less damage and carry weight increases by 100.
3	Level 40, CHR 3	When adventuring without a companion, you do 25 percent more damage.

LEVEL 02: BLACK WIDOW / LADY KILLER

"Come into my parlor," said the Black Widow. You're charming . . . and dangerous to those of the opposite sex. Though the gender of the Commonwealth's population is about evenly split, this perk won't affect those sporting a similar undercarriage to you. Don't forget the Intimidation perk; both of these perks in unison allows almost any situation to be handled your way, without (or with) violence.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 2, Female	The opposite gender suffers +5 percent damage in combat and is easier to persuade in dialogue.
1	CHR 2, Male
2	Level 7, CHR 2, Female	The opposite gender now suffers +10 percent damage in combat and is even easier to persuade in dialogue. They are also easier to pacify with the Intimidation perk.
2	Level 7, CHR 2, Male
3	Level 22, CHR 2, Female	The opposite gender now suffers +15 percent damage in combat and is much easier to persuade in dialogue. They are now even easier to pacify with the Intimidation perk.
3	Level 22, CHR 2, Male

LEVEL 04: ATTACK DOG

If you're wandering the Commonwealth with Dogmeat, these improvements in his training allow him to help savage any foes you both come across. For the dog lover.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 4	Your faithful canine companion can hold an enemy, giving you a greater chance to hit them in V.A.T.S.
2	Level 9, CHR 4	When your dog holds an enemy, there's a chance he'll cripple the limb he's biting.
3	Level 25, CHR 4	When your dog holds an enemy, there's a chance he'll cause them to bleed.

LEVEL 05: ANIMAL FRIEND

Commune with beasts! But only if you're successful and aim your gun at the animal in question; you may wish to check the level of your target first in V.A.T.S. with the Awareness perk. The higher ranks allow you to use more interesting commands, allowing you to chance upon, say, a Yao Guai lair and bringing the beast with you into a nearby Raider camp. At Rank 3, the beast acts a little like a dumber pet, with more control over where you can send it, usually into areas to cause a distraction. Animals are beasts that were naturally occurring before the bombs dropped.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 5	With your gun, aim at any animal below your level and gain a chance to pacify it.
2	Level 12, CHR 5	When you successfully pacify an animal, you can incite it to attack.
3	Level 28, CHR 5	When you successfully pacify an animal, you can give it specific commands.

LEVEL 07: PARTY BOY / PARTY GIRL

Nobody has a good time like you! Simply look up the effects of your favorite wine, beer, vodka, or other alcoholic beverages, and employ them when you need to without the unpleasant side effects afterward. As Luck influences how quickly your critical hits recharge, fighting while drunk at Rank 3 now becomes even more beneficial, rather than an embarrassing kerfuffle.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 7	There's no chance you'll get addicted to alcohol.
2	Level 15, CHR 7	The effects of alcohol are doubled.
3	Level 37, CHR 7	Your Luck is increased by 3 while you're under the influence of alcohol.

LEVEL 09: WASTELAND WHISPERER

Master the post-apocalypse! This targets any critter you aim your gun at; you may wish to check the level of your target first in V.A.T.S. with the Awareness perk. The higher ranks allow you to seek more interesting commands, giving you the opportunity to, say, encounter a Feral Ghoul Glowing One and bring it with you into a nearby Gunner camp. At Rank 3, the creature acts a little like a dumber pet, with more control over where you can send it, usually into areas to cause a distraction.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 9	With your gun, aim at any Wasteland creature below your level and gain a chance to pacify it.
2	Level 21, CHR 9	When you successfully pacify a Wasteland creature, you can incite it to attack.
3	Level 49, CHR 9	When you successfully pacify a Wasteland creature, you can give it specific commands.

★ LEVEL 06: LOCAL LEADER

This perk enhances your workshop settlements. It allows you to create the following:

- Trading Stand, Shop, Emporium* (Rank 2)
- Armor Stand, Stop, Emporium* (Rank 2)
- Weapons Stand, Shop, Emporium* (Rank 2)
- Drink Stand, Bar, Restaurant* (Rank 2)
- First Aid Station, Clinic, Surgery Center (Rank 2)
- Armor Workbench, Chemistry Station Type 1 & 2, Cooking Station Type 1 & 2, Cooking Stove, Power Armor Station, Weapons Workbench 1 & 2 (Rank 2)
- (* Requires Cap Collector Perk, Rank 2)
- ( Requires Medic, Rank 1)
- () Requires Armorer, Rank 1)

As the ruler everyone turns to, this is a critically important perk to unlock as you work on improving the settlements you are running. Both ranks of this perk enhance your settlements, but Rank 2 is most dramatic. Consult the Workshop chapter for the specific benefits.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 6	You are able to establish supply lines between your workshop settlements.
2	Level 14, CHR 6	You can build stores and workstations at workshop settlements.

LEVEL 08: INSPIRATIONAL

Because you lead by example, your companions gain benefits from your methods of exploration. If you're concentrating on keeping a follower with you for the foreseeable future, it's well worth augmenting them as much as possible, though this always comes at the expense of spending points purely on yourself. But that's selfish.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 8	Your companion does more damage in combat and cannot hurt you.
2	Level 19, CHR 8	Your companion resists more damage in combat and can't be harmed by your attacks.
3	Level 43, CHR 8	Your companion can carry more items.

LEVEL 10: INTIMIDATION

When you successfully pacify someone, you can give them specific commands. In the same way that Wasteland Whisperer and Animal Friend gave you the ability to control certain wild animals and critters, this ability is now available to any human you meet! Now you can turn Raiders on one another, make them enter areas they'd rather avoid falling into, and order them around like a subjugated follower, usually as a form of distraction to gain the upper hand on other enemies.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	CHR 10	Time to show everyone who's boss! With your gun, aim at any human opponent below your level and gain a chance to pacify them.
2	Level 23, CHR 10	When you successfully pacify someone, you can incite them to attack.
3	Level 50, CHR 10

PERKS

INTELLIGENCE-RELATED PERKS

INTELLIGENCE TRAINING

Intelligence is a measure of your overall mental acuity and affects the number of Experience Points earned. Intelligence also gives you access to the Hacker perk, allowing you to unlock more difficult terminals. As you receive a Perk Point each time you rise a level (which is spent to either increase an attribute, purchase a perk, or increase a perk by a rank), decreasing the time it takes to level up can only help you. Or can it?

Keep learning! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Intelligence to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 01: V.A.N.S.

Let Vault-Tec guide you! The path to your closest quest target is displayed in V.A.T.S. In actuality, let Vault-Tec's Documentation Department guide you; learn your quest targets by checking this book instead, though without the compass flag to help. You could simply refer to this book and use a map marker on your world map, though.

1	INT 1

LEVEL 02: MEDIC

This perk enhances your workshop settlements. This allows you to create the following:

- First Aid Station, Clinic, Surgery Center (Rank 2, with Local Leader, Rank 2)

Is there a doctor in the house? Also employ the Chemist perk, this allows additional potency. Everyone needs a bit of extra Health (and radiation abatement), but to maximize this perk, make sure you're administering those chems, rather than using other perks to gain Health and negate radiation.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 2	Stimpaks restore 40 percent of lost Health, and RadAway removes 40 percent of radiation.
2	Level 18, INT 2	Stimpaks now restore 60 percent of lost Health, and RadAway removes 60 percent of radiation.
3	Level 30, INT 2	Stimpaks restore 80 percent of lost Health, and RadAway removes 80 percent of radiation.
4	Level 49, INT 2	Stimpaks and RadAway restore all lost Health and radiation and work much more quickly.

LEVEL 03: GUN NUT

This perk enhances your workshop settlements. This allows you to create the following:

- Heavy Machine-Gun Turret (Rank 1)
- Shotgun Turret (Rank 2)
- Missile Turret (Rank 3)

Shoot first, kill first, with access to an increasingly impressive range of gun mods. Consult the Mods chapter for a complete list. For those who like to tinker with armaments, this is a must-have. It is especially useful if you like variation in your settlement turret systems.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 3	You gain access to base level and Rank 1 gun mods.
2	Level 13, INT 3	You gain access to Rank 2 gun mods.
3	Level 25, INT 3	You gain access to Rank 3 gun mods.
4	Level 39, INT 3	You gain access to Rank 4 gun mods.

LEVEL 04: HACKER

Knowledge of cutting-edge computer encryption lets you hack an increasingly tricky number of terminals throughout the Commonwealth, and also allows you to build terminals in your workshop settlements. Beware of occasional redundancy with the Locksmith perk (this allows you to unlock doors, some of which are controlled by locked terminals) or the ability to circumvent some terminals by using passwords. You don't get the XP bonus using Holotapes, though, do you?

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 4	You can hack Advanced terminals.
2	Level 9, INT 4	You can hack Expert terminals.
3	Level 21, INT 4	You can hack Master terminals.
4	Level 33, INT 4	When hacking, you never get locked out of a terminal when things go wrong.

LEVEL 05: SCRAPPER

Waste not, want not! This perk enhances your workshop settlements, as it makes locating rarer components much easier, and it allows you to build a wider variety of elements more quickly. If you're concentrating on building a settlement empire, consider this a must-have perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 5	You can salvage uncommon components like screws, aluminum, and copper when scrapping weapons and armor.
2	Level 23, INT 5	You can salvage rare components like circuitry, nuclear material, and fiber-optics when scrapping weapons and armor. Items with favorite components are highlighted.

LEVEL 06: SCIENCE!

This perk enhances your workshop settlements; it allows you to construct the following:

- Large Generator (Rank 1)
- Laser Tripwire (Rank 1)
- Strobe Light (Rank 1)
- Laser Turret (Rank 1)
- Heavy Laser Turret (Rank 3)
- Missile Turret (Rank 3)
- Water Purifier—Industrial (Rank 1)

Take full advantage of advanced technology with the ability to modify an increasing number of high-tech items. The exact items are discussed in the Mods chapter.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 6	You gain access to base level and Rank 1 high-tech mods.
2	Level 17, INT 6	You gain access to Rank 2 high-tech mods.
3	Level 28, INT 6	You gain access to Rank 3 high-tech mods.
4	Level 41, INT 6	You gain access to Rank 4 high-tech mods.

LEVEL 07: CHEMIST

Far out. Whether you're dabbling in Buffout, chewing down tins of grape Mentats, or even creating your own chem concoctions, the user and abuser of chems should never be without this perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 7	Any chems you take last 50 percent longer.
2	Level 16, INT 7	Any chems you take now last twice as long.
3	Level 32, INT 7	Any chems you take now last an additional 150 percent longer.
4	Level 45, INT 7	Any chems you take now last an additional 200 percent longer.

LEVEL 08: ROBOTICS EXPERT

Machines will always serve humans, if you have anything to say about it. If you're trying to power it down, destroy it afterward to claim the XP, rather than leaving it to rust. At higher ranks, you can send your metal pal off to cause a disturbance while you try a flank attack or sneak past a group of foes.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 8	Hack a robot, and gain a chance to power it on or off or initiate a self-destruct.
2	Level 19, INT 8	When you successfully hack a robot, you can incite it to attack.
3	Level 44, INT 8	When you successfully hack a robot, you can give it specific commands.

LEVEL 09: NUCLEAR PHYSICIST

You've learned to split the atom...and command it. If you're a keen user of Power Armor, you know what a pain it is to constantly look for Fusion Cores. While there aren't a huge number of radiation weapons (the Weapons chapter flags the ones that use this damage type), this purchase is worth it for the extra energy it provides your Power Armor.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 9	Radiation weapons do 50 percent more damage and Fusion Cores last an extra 25 percent longer.
2	Level 14, INT 9	Radiation weapons now do double damage and Fusion Cores last an extra 50 percent longer.
3	Level 26, INT 9	Fusion Cores can be ejected from Power Armor like devastating grenades, and Fusion Cores last twice as long.

LEVEL 10: NERD RAGE!

Genius. Is. ANGRY! This and any perks that increase your Damage Resistance allow you to spend more time below 20 percent of your Health. Watch perks like Ghoulish, Solar Powered, and Life Giver Rank 3; these raise your Health more quickly, and this makes it more difficult to drop to 20 percent of your Health and engage the rage!

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	INT 10	When your Health drops below 20 percent, time slows and you gain +20 Damage Resistance and do 20 percent more damage while the effect lasts.
2	Level 31, INT 10	You now gain 30 more Damage Resistance and do 30 percent more damage while Nerd Rage is in effect.
3	Level 50, INT 10	You now gain 40 more Damage Resistance and do 40 percent more damage while Nerd Rage is in effect. Kills you make while enraged restore some lost Health.

AGILITY-RELATED PERKS

AGILITY TRAINING

Agility is a measure of your overall finesse and reflexes. It affects the number of Action Points in V.A.T.S. and your ability to sneak. It is considered a particularly important attribute to those who value stealth as a viable way to maneuver around enemy territories without being seen (while crouching). As you need the largest number of Action Points as possible if you favor V.A.T.S. combat, this is another reason to never overlook this attribute.

Increase those reflexes! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Agility to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 05: ACTION BOY / ACTION GIRL

There's no time to waste! Though this doesn't give you any more Action Points, it significantly lessens the time you spend waiting for them to regenerate, either during combat or after some sprinting. This is a great perk to take early into your adventuring, so you have more bursts of energy and less lengthy periods of firing out.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 5	Your Action Points regenerate 25 percent faster.
2	: Level 18, AGI 5	Your Action Points now regenerate 50 percent faster.

LEVEL 06: MOVING TARGET

They can't hurt what they can't hit! Though you might wonder why expending Action Points (which occurs when sprinting) is helpful, consider attacks that require you to reach a foe in double-quick time, like melees or punching strikes, or the Power Armor charge of the Pain Train. Plus, if you're fleeing an area, it's good to have as much protection as possible.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 6	Get +25 Damage Resistance and +25 Energy Resistance when you're sprinting.
2	: Level 24, AGI 6	You now get +50 Damage Resistance and +50 Energy Resistance when you're sprinting.
3	: Level 44, AGI 6	Sprinting costs 50 percent fewer Action Points.

LEVEL 01: GUNSLINGER

Channel the spirit of the Old West! As long as you're familiar with exactly what constitutes a "nonautomatic pistol" (the Weapons chapter has a complete list), which is a one-handed gun that you fire once per shot, this becomes an impressively helpful perk. Shots now hit at farther ranges, meaning you save ammunition and reduce anxiety that a foe is getting too close for comfort.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 1	Nonautomatic pistols do 20 percent more damage.
2	: Level 7, AGI 1	Nonautomatic pistols now do 40 percent more damage and have increased range.
3	: Level 15, AGI 1	Nonautomatic pistols now do 60 percent more damage, and range is increased even farther.
4	: Level 27, AGI 1	Nonautomatic pistols now do 80 percent more damage, and their attacks can disarm opponents.
5	: Level 42, AGI 1	Nonautomatic pistols now do double damage. Their attacks have a much better chance to disarm opponents and may even cripple a limb.

LEVEL 02: COMMANDO

Rigorous combat training means that those favoring V.A.T.S. and who have a keen collection of automatic guns (the Weapons chapter lists the specific armaments) are bound to enjoy this perk. When firing from your hip (without V.A.T.S. or aiming down your sights), your accuracy is also improved, so fast-moving Bloatlflies are much less of a pest, and more dangerous foes go down under a hail of more damaging bullets.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 2	Your automatic weapons do 20 percent more damage.
2	: Level 11, AGI 2	Your automatic weapons now do 40 percent more damage, with improved hip-fire accuracy.
3	: Level 21, AGI 2	Your automatic weapons now do 60 percent more damage. Hip-fire accuracy is improved even more.
4	: Level 35, AGI 2	Your automatic weapons now do 80 percent more damage and gain a chance to stagger opponents.
5	: Level 49, AGI 2	Your automatic weapons now do double damage and have a greater chance to stagger opponents.

LEVEL 07: NINJA

If you're attacking foes without them seeing you, this is the pinnacle of your capabilities. Partner this perk with other clandestine perks (Sneak, Night Person, Mister Sandman, Cloak & Dagger) to create an unstoppable assassin.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 7	Your ranged sneak attacks do 2.5x normal damage and your melee sneak attacks do 4x normal damage.
2	: Level 16, AGI 7	Your ranged sneak attacks do 3x normal damage and your melee sneak attacks do 5x normal damage.
3	: Level 33, AGI 7	Your ranged sneak attacks now do 3.5x normal damage, and melee sneak attacks do 10x normal damage.

LEVEL 08: QUICK HANDS

In combat, there's no time to hesitate. Consider the weapons you're using; if you can comfortably take down a foe (or two) before needing to reload, this may not be a vital perk. But for the sniper, single-shot enthusiast, or gun-toter with few bullets or shells in their chambers, this helps you bring (usually more powerful) weapons to bear with increased potency.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 8	You can reload all guns faster.
2	: Level 28, AGI 8	Reloading guns costs no Action Points in V.A.T.S.

LEVEL 03: SNEAK

Become whisper, become shadow. This self-explanatory perk diminishes your ability to be seen under sneaking circumstances. Do you like wading into combat yelling obscenities at the world and brandishing a Fat Man? Then this perk might not be for you. But if you enjoy keeping to the edges of areas, creeping around and behind enemies, and using perks like Ninja, Night Person, Mister Sandman, and Cloak & Dagger, you can slay multiple enemies without making a sound.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 3	You are 20 percent harder to detect while sneaking.
2	: Level 5, AGI 3	You are now 30 percent harder to detect while sneaking and no longer trigger floor-based traps.
3	: Level 12, AGI 3	You are now 40 percent harder to detect while sneaking and no longer trigger enemy mines.
4	: Level 23, AGI 3	You are now 50 percent harder to detect while sneaking, and running no longer adversely affects stealth.
5	: Level 38, AGI 3	Engaging stealth causes distant enemies to lose you.

LEVEL 04: MISTER SANDMAN

As an agent of death, combine this with the Night Person perk that allows enhancements during the cover of darkness (when most folk are asleep) and with perks that help you use surreptitiousness and surprise to your advantage (like Ninja and Sneak). If you favor the role of a quiet killer, this is an optimal perk to take, especially as the damage combines with other perks.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 4	You can instantly kill a sleeping person. Your silenced weapons do an additional 15 percent sneak attack damage.
2	: Level 17, AGI 4	Your silenced weapons do an additional 30 percent sneak attack damage.
3	: Level 30, AGI 4	Your silenced weapons now do 50 percent more sneak attack damage.

LEVEL 09: BLITZ

Find the gap and make the tackle! For those who enjoy the crunch of bone and sinew and want to start swinging from a little farther away, this is a critically important perk to take for the melee monster in you. Remember you can Blitz multiple targets in the same V.A.T.S. action.

1	: AGI 9	V.A.T.S. melee distance is increased significantly.
2	: Level 29, AGI 9	V.A.T.S. melee distance is increased even more, and the farther the Blitz distance, the greater the damage.

LEVEL 10: GUN-FU

You've learned to apply ancient martial arts to gunplay! Although many might balk at the Agility (and level) requirements, in cases where you're facing more than one foe (which, let's face it, is almost every occasion), a sizable damage augmentation is welcome. Remember this is for fans of V.A.T.S. only.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	: AGI 10	Do 25 percent more damage to your second V.A.T.S. target and beyond.
2	: Level 26, AGI 10	In V.A.T.S. you do 50 percent more damage to your third target and beyond.
3	: Level 50, AGI 10	In V.A.T.S. you instantly do a critical hit against your fourth target and beyond.

PERKS

LUCK-RELATED PERKS

LUCK TRAINING

Luck is a measure of your general good fortune and affects the recharge rate of critical hits. While searching for loot, your Luck determines the (random) likelihood of receiving a rare item, mod, or high-value item. In combat, critical hits help remove targets in quicker, more violently impressive ways, and decreasing the time it takes to inflict such pain is obviously helpful.

To your good fortune! Spend a Perk Point and instantly gain 1 point of Luck to a maximum of 10.

There are no requirements for the training in this attribute.

LEVEL 05: IDIOT SAVANT

You're not stupid! Just...different. The main advantage is the accrual of XP at a faster-than-normal pace, which allows you to level up, receive a Perk Point, and gain more levels and perks with haste. If you're going the Idiot Savant route for huge XP bumps, make sure you scour merchants. Since you'll never get Gun Nut or Science, you can still find mods for sale at pretty reasonable rates. Intelligence-reducing apparel also helps, too.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 5	Randomly receive 3x XP from any action, and the lower your Intelligence, the greater the chance.
2	Level 11, LCK 5	You now randomly receive 5x XP from any action. The lower your Intelligence, the greater the chance.
3	Level 34, LCK 5	Randomly receiving bonus XP from any action may trigger 3x XP for all kills for a short period of time. The lower your Intelligence, the greater the chance.

LEVEL 06: BETTER CRITICALS

Advanced training for enhanced combat effectiveness! Although you won't score criticals more frequently, they inflict a truly splendid amount of extra damage. If you favor this way of killing foes, this is a truly helpful perk.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 6	Criticals do 50 percent more extra damage.
2	Level 15, LCK 6	Your criticals now do twice as much extra damage.
3	Level 40, LCK 6	Your criticals now do 2.5x as much extra damage.

LEVEL 01: FORTUNE FINDER

You've discovered the Wasteland's hidden wealth, and this can certainly help you amass greater fortune. But there are other methods to make money (such as scavenging ammo and other equipment and selling it), too. "Containers" refers to any searchable piece of scenery.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 1	You find more Bottlecaps in containers.
2	Level 5, LCK 1	You find even more Bottlecaps in containers.
3	Level 25, LCK 1	You find even more Bottlecaps in containers.
4	Level 40, LCK 1	You find even more Bottlecaps in containers, and there is a chance of enemies exploding in a shower of Caps when you kill them.

LEVEL 02: SCROUNGER

You know just how to scavenge to keep the fight going, and unlike the Fortune Finder perk, all that extra ammunition you find in the various containers of the Commonwealth can be employed in combat as well as traded for Caps: This means extra flexibility, depending on your ammo and money reserves.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 2	You find more ammunition in containers.
2	Level 7, LCK 2	You find even more ammunition in containers.
3	Level 24, LCK 2	You find even more ammunition in containers.
4	Level 37, LCK 2	You find even more ammunition in containers.

LEVEL 07: CRITICAL BANKER

You're a patient battlefield tactician and can wait to unleash a torrent of additional damage. But why save your criticals? During a protracted or difficult fight, you usually meet more dangerous enemies as you encroach farther into their territory, so keeping a couple of criticals just for a Raider boss, Glowing One, or Legendary enemy is just good combat sense.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 7	You can save a critical hit, to be used in V.A.T.S. when you need it the most.
2	Level 17, LCK 7	You can now save 2 critical hits, to be used in V.A.T.S. when you need them the most.
3	Level 43, LCK 7	You can now save 3 critical hits, to be used in V.A.T.S. when you need them the most. Banking a critical has a chance to save an additional critical.

LEVEL 08: GRIM REAPER'S SPRINT

Death becomes you! If you use V.A.T.S. and like your odds of clearing out a chamber full of foes without giving them a chance to respond, this is the perk to take.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 8	Any kill in V.A.T.S. has a 15 percent chance to restore all Action Points.
2	Level 19, LCK 8	Any kill in V.A.T.S. now has a 25 percent chance to restore all Action Points.
3	Level 46, LCK 8	Any kill in V.A.T.S. now has a 35 percent chance to restore all Action Points and refill your Critical meter.

LEVEL 03: BLOODY MESS

Watch out for flying eyeballs! Though more of an aesthetic at the initial rank, this becomes increasingly more potent, especially as the damage bonus is available to any weapon you're wielding. Spectacular gore-balls are also a real treat to watch explode.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 3	The +5 percent bonus damage means enemies will sometimes explode into a gory red paste.
2	Level 9, LCK 3	You now inflict +10 percent damage in combat.
3	Level 31, LCK 3	You now inflict +15 percent damage in combat.
4	Level 47, LCK 3	When an enemy explodes, nearby enemies may suffer the same fate.

LEVEL 04: MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

Who is he? Why does he help? Who cares! This odd fellow is most helpful if you're trying to conserve every Action Point and bullet you can, especially at higher difficulty levels. Remember he's only appearing during V.A.T.S. combat, so spend a Perk Point if you favor this method of foe removal.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 4	The Mysterious Stranger will appear occasionally in V.A.T.S. to lend a hand, with deadly efficiency...
2	Level 22, LCK 4	The Mysterious Stranger appears more often in V.A.T.S.
	Level 41, LCK 4	The Mysterious Stranger appears more often in V.A.T.S. When he kills an opponent, there is a chance your Critical meter gets filled.

LEVEL 09: FOUR LEAF CLOVER

Feeling lucky? You should! If you enjoy the different (and usually gore-filled) methods of taking down foes using critical hits in V.A.T.S. and want to ensure this happens every time, employ this perk. Naturally, combining this with Better Criticals and Critical Banker results in massive damage potential with increasing regularity.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 9	Each hit in V.A.T.S. has a chance of filling your Critical meter.
2	Level 13, LCK 9	Each hit in V.A.T.S. now has an even better chance of filling your Critical meter.
3	Level 32, LCK 9	Each hit in V.A.T.S. now has a very good chance of filling your Critical meter.
4	Level 48, LCK 9	Each hit in V.A.T.S. now has an excellent chance of filling your Critical meter.

LEVEL 10: RICOCHET

What goes around comes around! Though it won't come around if your foe isn't using a ranged weapon, so be mindful of this fact. Don't worry about the "closer you are to death" part; there's still a chance of a ricochet when you're relatively unscathed, and leaving some enemies to kill themselves with their own projectiles frees you up to concentrate on other foes.

RANK	REQUIREMENTS	DESCRIPTION
1	LCK 10	An enemy's ranged attack will sometimes ricochet back and instantly kill them. The closer you are to death, the higher the chance.
2	Level 29, LCK 10	There's an increased chance that an enemy's shot will ricochet back and kill them.
3	Level 50, LCK 10	When an enemy's shot ricochets back and kills them, there is a chance your Critical meter gets filled.

COMPANION AFFINITY

When you meet a companion for the first time, you may be unsure of one another. How do you break the ice? By completing significant decisions or events and seeing how your companion reacts to you. Companions have an active like or dislike for particular ways to solve problems, and they have reactions to your foibles. If you wish to unlock their perk, and further a meaningful conversation with them (and if flagged, attempt some flirting romance or perhaps a little more), you need to perform actions they like. Keep performing actions they aren't fond of, and your companion still provides help and support during explorations, but under protest.

General Affinity Choices

The following chart details whether a companion likes or dislikes a quest decision or dialogue choice (either with them or a third party) that exhibits one of the following qualities:

So, when presented with your choice of response in conversation, look for answers that fit the qualities presented above. For quest decisions, look for peaceful or violent outcomes. When choosing more minor actions, be mindful that the previous actions may cause a like or dislike. Blank areas of the chart mean the companion isn't bothered by your answers one way or the other.

Lending a Hand

Aside from helping you in combat and easing your anxiety about the torment of the Commonwealth wasteland, companions perform a number of other important functions:

- USE YOUR COMPANION TO CARRY YOUR EXTRA EQUIPMENT ONCE YOU REACH YOUR CARRYING CAPACITY; JUST TALK TO THEM AND TRADE.
- EQUIP MOST COMPANIONS WITH ARMOR TO ADD PROTECTION DURING COMBAT. ALTHOUGH YOUR COMPANIONS CAN'T BE KILLED, THEY CAN USE UP STIMPAKS JUST LIKE YOU DO. USE ONE IF THEY FALL IN COMBAT AND BRING THEM BACK INTO THE FIGHT.
- DISMISS COMPANIONS AND SEND THEM TO ANY OF YOUR LISTED WORKSHOP SETTLEMENTS. OR, YOU CAN SEND THEM BACK TO WHERE YOU ORIGINALLY FOUND THEM.

CRAFTING

Are you making due with ramshackle gear and irradiated food? Is your settlement failing to meet the needs of a growing population? Are too many of your hard-earned Caps going toward stimpaks and RadAway? If you can't find the items you need, try making them yourself! Workshops and workstations make crafting a breeze.

Turn a bit of raw meat into a satisfying meal. Use junk items to expand your settlements and build powerful mods for your favorite gear. Craft chems and explosives, salvage valuable components, and keep your Power Armor in ready condition for combat. Advanced recipes often require specific perks—and some only become available after you complete certain tasks—but with the proper ingredients, you can craft useful items at any workstation.

- WORKSHOPS: USE WORKSHOPS TO BUILD STRUCTURES, FURNITURE, TURRETS, RESOURCES, AND MORE. WITH THE RIGHT COMPONENTS, YOU CAN BUILD ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING YOUR SETTLEMENT NEEDS. WITH THE RIGHT SELECTION OF PERKS, YOU CAN DO MUCH, MUCH MORE.
- ARMOR WORKBENCHES: USE THESE WORKBENCHES TO MODIFY, RENAME, OR SCRAP CUSTOMIZABLE APPAREL. INVEST IN ALL AVAILABLE RANKS OF THE ARMORER AND SCIENCE! PERKS TO TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF ARMOR WORKBENCHES.
- CHEMISTRY STATIONS: USE THESE WORKSTATIONS TO CRAFT CHEMS, EXPLOSIVES, SYRINGER AMMO, AND CUTTING FLUID. RANK 1 OF THE CHEMIST PERK IS REQUIRED TO CRAFT ADVANCED CHEMS. IF EXPLOSIVES PIQUE YOUR INTEREST, INVEST HEAVILY IN THE DEMOLITION EXPERT AND SCIENCE! PERKS—IT TAKES CONSIDERABLE SKILL TO CRAFT THE MOST ADVANCED MINES AND GRENADES.
- COOKING STATIONS: USE THESE WORKSTATIONS TO CRAFT FOOD, DRINK, AND VEGETABLE STARCH. COOKING DOESN'T REQUIRE ANY SPECIAL PERKS, BUT YOU'LL NEED A STEADY SUPPLY OF FRESH INGREDIENTS TO STAY WELL FED. MANY OF THE FRUITS, VEGETABLES, AND MEAT YOU COLLECT CAN BE USED TO PREPARE DISHES THAT ARE SAFER AND MORE SATISFYING THAN ANYTHING YOU'LL FIND IN THE WILD.
- POWER ARMOR STATIONS: USE THESE WORKSTATIONS TO MODIFY OR REPAIR POWER ARMOR. INVEST IN ALL AVAILABLE RANKS OF ARMORER, SCIENCE!, AND BLACKSMITH TO TAKE FULL ADVANTAGE OF POWER ARMOR STATIONS.
- WEAPONS WORKBENCHES: USE THESE WORKBENCHES TO MODIFY, RENAME, OR SCRAP CUSTOMIZABLE WEAPONS. TO MAKE THE MOST OF A WEAPONS WORKBENCH, INVEST IN ALL AVAILABLE RANKS OF THE GUN NUT, SCIENCE!, AND BLACKSMITH PERKS.

OVERVIEW

HUMANOID STATS

Most humanoid targets can utilize a wide variety of armor and weapons. This means that two seemingly identical targets can have significantly different resistances or offensive capabilities. For this reason, the following categories are used for most humanoid stats:

- NAME: THE NAME BY WHICH YOUR PIP-BOY IDENTIFIES A GIVEN TARGET.
- LEVEL: A TARGET'S LEVEL IS A GOOD INDICATOR OF ITS RELATIVE STRENGTH.
- INVENTORY: ITEMS THAT ARE SURE TO BE CARRIED BY A TARGET (ALTHOUGH MOST DEFEATED ENEMIES WILL ALSO DROP SEVERAL RANDOMLY SELECTED ITEMS).
- PERCEPTION: HOW EASILY A TARGET CAN DETECT HIDDEN THREATS. THE HIGHER A TARGET'S PERCEPTION, THE MORE DIFFICULT IT IS TO SNEAK PAST THEM.
- BASE HEALTH: A TARGET'S UNMODIFIED HEALTH.
- STANDARD ARMOR: THE TYPES OF ARMOR MOST COMMONLY WORN BY A TARGET.
- STANDARD WEAPONS: TYPES OF WEAPONS MOST COMMONLY CARRIED BY A TARGET.
- XP: THE UNMODIFIED XP GRANTED FOR DEFEATING A TARGET (SPECIFIC XP REWARDS ARE DETERMINED BY YOUR INTELLIGENCE, PERKS, AND ACTIVE BONUSES).

LEGENDARY ENEMIES

Most enemy types have Legendary variants that can appear at random. These enemies share the same base stats as their standard counterparts, but they also boast dormant Legendary abilities.

Legendary enemies that favor ranged damage tend to be much more accurate, while those that rely on melee damage usually hit twice as hard.

NON-HUMANOID STATS

Because gear isn't a factor, non-humanoid targets tend to have much more predictable offensive and defensive capabilities. Stats for these targets are presented in the following categories:

- NAME: THE NAME BY WHICH YOUR PIP-BOY IDENTIFIES A GIVEN TARGET.
- LEVEL: A TARGET'S LEVEL IS A GOOD INDICATOR OF ITS RELATIVE STRENGTH.
- INVENTORY: ITEMS THAT ARE SURE TO BE CARRIED BY A TARGET (ALTHOUGH MOST DEFEATED ENEMIES WILL ALSO DROP SEVERAL RANDOMLY SELECTED ITEMS).
- PERCEPTION: HOW EASILY A TARGET CAN DETECT HIDDEN THREATS. THE HIGHER A TARGET'S PERCEPTION, THE MORE DIFFICULT IT IS TO SNEAK PAST THEM.
- BASE HEALTH: A TARGET'S UNMODIFIED HEALTH.
- DAMAGE RESISTANCE: RESISTANCE TO BALLISTIC/IMPACT DAMAGE.
- ENERGY RESISTANCE: RESISTANCE TO ENERGY DAMAGE.
- RADIATION RESISTANCE: RESISTANCE TO RADIATION DAMAGE.
- POISON RESISTANCE: RESISTANCE TO POISON.
- DAMAGE: DAMAGE CAUSED BY A TARGET'S PRIMARY ATTACK.
- SPECIAL ATTACK: A TARGET'S SECONDARY OR SITUATIONAL ATTACK.
- SA DAMAGE: DAMAGE DONE BY A TARGET'S SPECIAL ATTACK.
- XP: THE UNMODIFIED XP GRANTED FOR DEFEATING A TARGET (SPECIFIC XP REWARDS ARE DETERMINED BY YOUR INTELLIGENCE, PERKS, AND ACTIVE BONUSES).

All Legendary enemies also have the ability to mutate after taking significant damage. Mutation replenishes an enemy's lost health and triggers its Legendary abilities.

Legendary enemies are formidable, but they always carry a piece of Legendary gear—weapons and armor that offer special bonuses.

GROUPS, GANGS, AND FACTIONS

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL

Due to its considerable strength and unyielding conviction, the Brotherhood of Steel is one of the Commonwealth's most feared factions. Through the acquisition and preservation of prewar technology, the Brotherhood aims to ensure the future of the human race. However, this means that individual humans are often ignored or sacrificed if doing so can further the Brotherhood's goals.

Although the Brotherhood seeks to eradicate Ghouls and synths, its members don't generally attack humans without cause. However, any hostile action or open defiance is sure to result in bloodshed.

Scribes

Scribes are tasked with cataloging and preserving any information considered valuable to the Brotherhood of Steel. When it comes to combat, Scribes lack the impressive skills and equipment of their front-line comrades. While they do have access to a small variety of armor and accessories, even the most effective combinations offer very little protection.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Brotherhood Scribe Initiate	1	—	4	40	Scribe	Laser pistols	4
Brotherhood Scribe	6	—	4	80	Scribe	Laser pistols	11
Brotherhood Senior Scribe	15	—	5	120	Scribe	Laser pistols	23

Lancers

Brotherhood Lancer-Initiate	1	—	4	40	Bomber jacket	Laser rifles	4
Brotherhood Lancer	7	—	5	70	Bomber jacket	Laser rifles	12
Brotherhood Lancer-Knight	14	—	6	185	Bomber jacket	Laser rifles	21
Brotherhood Lancer-Sergeant	21	—	6	150	Bomber jacket	Laser rifles	31
Brotherhood Lancer-Captain	28	—	6	170	Bomber jacket	Laser rifles	40

Lancers are responsible for providing transportation and air support for the Brotherhood of Steel. With gear like bomber jackets and flight helmets, Lancers aren't particularly formidable, but every Lancer carries some sort of laser rifle in case a firefight breaks out.

Soldiers

Soldiers are responsible for gathering technology and enforcing the will of the Brotherhood. Individuals who demonstrate exceptional loyalty and valor are promoted up the ranks, gaining more formidable gear along the way. Most Brotherhood of Steel soldiers rely on various laser rifles, but heavy guns such as miniguns, Gatling lasers, and missile launchers are sometimes used to overwhelm the opposition.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Brotherhood Initiate	2	—	4	50	Brotherhood fatigues	Laser rifles	6
Brotherhood Aspirant	9	—	4	115	Brotherhood fatigues	Laser rifles	15

Brotherhood Paladin-Commander	57	—	7	670	Combat armor	Laser rifles	81
Brotherhood Star Paladin	67+	—	8	800+	Combat armor	Laser rifles	96

Higher ranking soldiers sometimes employ T60 Power Armor, allowing them to absorb huge amounts of damage. Use powerful explosives, rifles, or heavy guns to engage from a safe distance, or equip a suit of Power Armor to even the odds in close combat.

Vertibirds

Vertibirds are essentially mobile weapon platforms, providing air support to Brotherhood ground forces. Passengers can use the side-mounted miniguns to tear through enemy forces, and each Vertibird is also equipped with two front-mounted 5-mm cannons. Each projectile does relatively little damage, but even the toughest targets can be overwhelmed by a Vertibird's hail of bullets.

NAME	LEVEL	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	POISON RESISTANCE	DAMAGE	SPECIAL ATTACK	SA DAMAGE	XP
Vertibird	20	10	910	60	60	Immune	Immune	108/sec	Minigun	8	30

Vertibird	50	10	1510	135	135	Immune	Immune	288/sec	Minigun	8	71

If you find yourself in a Vertibird's crosshairs, check the area for any nearby structures that might offer cover. Target the pilot or use a missile launcher to quickly down one of these vehicles. Otherwise, chip away at its health with the most powerful weapon you have. During battle, a Vertibird tends to move in and out of any weapon's effective range. Monitor your ammunition and choose your shots wisely. A disabled Vertibird will stay in the air for several seconds before crashing down to the ground—use this time to get clear of the impending explosion.

CHILDREN OF ATOM

Considered a cult by most outsiders, the Children of Atom worship nuclear material and the radiation it emits. While most members are compelled to spread the word of Atom, Children of Atom are wary of strangers and generally attack trespassers on sight. Unless important business takes you into their territory, approaching a Child of Atom will trigger a firefight.

Children of Atom congregate in the Crater of Atom, but smaller groups can be found throughout the Commonwealth.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Child of Atom	10	—	9	280	Child of Atom rags	Gamma guns, pipe guns	16
Child of Atom Cultist	20	—	9	400	Child of Atom rags	Gamma guns, pipe guns	29
Child of Atom Preacher	30	—	9	500	Child of Atom rags	Gamma guns, pipe guns	43
Child of Atom Zealot	40	—	9	600	Child of Atom rags	Gamma guns, pipe guns	57
Child of Atom Reborn	50	—	9	700	Child of Atom rags	Gamma guns, pipe guns	71

Children of Atom wear rags that offer very little protection, but prolonged exposure has left them immune to radiation and able to withstand a considerable amount of punishment. Although some Children of Atom rely on a variety of handmade pipe guns, others favor the radiation damage offered by gamma guns. Whenever possible, equip armor that offers radiation resistance or stock up on RadAway before engaging these fanatics.

Diamond City Security

Diamond City Security is responsible for keeping hostiles out of the city and maintaining order within its walls. Law-abiding visitors and residents have nothing to fear from Diamond City Security, but infractions like theft and violence are generally met with overwhelming force.

HELPFUL HINT

from Vault Boy!

THE SPECIFIC LEVEL OF A DIAMOND CITY SECURITY GUARD IS DETERMINED BY THE PLAYER'S LEVEL AT THE TIME OF THE ENCOUNTER.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Diamond City Security	20-50	Stimpak	7	285-435	DC Guard	Pipe rifles, baseball bats	30

For the most part, Diamond City Security uses repurposed baseball equipment to keep the peace. Their standard-issue armor favors damage resistance over energy resistance, and all guards carry some sort of baseball bat. Each guard also carries a pipe rifle and at least one stimpak, relying on superior numbers and emergency healing to overwhelm better-equipped enemies. Luckily, it's fairly easy to prevent confrontations with Diamond City Security—avoid committing criminal acts (or make sure such acts go unwitnessed) to ensure that these guards leave you in peace.

DRIFTERS

Most of the people living in Goodneighbor are Drifters who have grown weary of wandering the wilderness. They aren't particularly aggressive, but they're quick to swarm on visitors who threaten the relative safety of their community.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Drifter	6	—	4	190	Clothing	Pipe guns	0

Wrapped in simple clothing and armed with only handmade pipe guns, Drifters aren't particularly effective in combat. However, attacking a Drifter will draw all of Goodneighbor into the skirmish. Considering that Drifters never carry anything of real value, there's not much to be gained from provoking them.

FORGED

The Forged are similar to Raiders, set apart only by their small numbers and fanatic obsession with the destructive power of fire. These enemies can only be found in and around the Saugus Ironworks, and they'll attack any and all trespassers on sight.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Forged	1	—	4	30	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	5
Forged	4	—	4	45	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	8
Forged	9	—	4	70	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	15
Forged	14	—	4	125	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	21
Forged	30	—	4	390	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	43
Forged	39	—	4	540	Wastelander	Ballistic guns, melee weapons, flammers	55

Most Forged wear some form of cage armor, spiked armor, or Drifter outfit. Even when combined with a piece of headgear, a typical Forged has fairly low resistances. However, the Forged do carry a wide variety of weapons. Those who favor melee weapons tend to use baseball bats, sledgehammers, and even the occasional super sledge. They also have access to a large selection of pistols, rifles, and flammers, and most Forged carry a supply of Molotov cocktails.

Because Forged are limited to a single location, there's no need to engage them until you're adequately prepared. Forged are most effective at short to medium range, so it's usually best to pick them off from a distance. When that's not an option, be sure to watch for incoming Molotov cocktails as you deal with incoming Forged.

GUNNERS

Gunners claim to be soldiers for hire, but throughout the Commonwealth, they have a well-earned reputation as being a highly militarized gang of thugs. Aggressive and fiercely territorial, Gunners are guaranteed to attack anyone who wanders into an area they've claimed as their own. They're well equipped and well organized, and a group of Gunners almost always includes at least one combat-ready robot.

Gunners can be found in Mass Bay Medical Center, Hub City Auto Wreckers, and many other locations throughout the Commonwealth.

Gunner Humans

Low-ranking Gunners are usually limited to the protection offered by simple clothing, accessories, and the occasional piece of leather armor. Gunners who have reached the rank of Private sport a few pieces of combat armor. Further promotions grant Gunners better-quality pieces of combat armor. Gunners also enjoy a vast arsenal of weapons. Combat rifles and laser rifles are popular choices—and no Gunner would ever be caught relying on a handmade pipe gun—but virtually any projectile weapon has a chance of appearing in a Gunner's hands. Even valuable plasma weapons can be found on high-level Gunners. Batons and rippers are sometimes used, as are fragmentation grenades, Molotov cocktails, and a variety of heavy guns.

Gunner Robots

With the exception of custom paint jobs, Gunner robots are identical to their standard counterparts. When fighting a Mr. Gutsy, check its arms to estimate its offensive capabilities, then attack its eyes and torso. It's often best to slow an Assaultron by crippling its leg. Simply using your most powerful weapons against a Sentry Bot is usually your best option.

MERCENARIES

Mercenaries lack the Gunners' numbers and resources, but the two groups are similar in most respects. These enemies have been charged with guarding Parsons State Insane Asylum, which is the only place Mercenaries can be found in the Commonwealth. They take their work very seriously and are guaranteed to attack anyone who encroaches on their territory.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Mercenary	8	—	4	120	Combat armor	Combat rifles	13
Mercenary	14	—	4	150	Combat armor	Combat rifles	21
Mercenary	22	—	4	240	Combat armor	Combat rifles	32
Mercenary	30	—	5	400	Combat armor	Combat rifles	43

Each Mercenary is equipped with at least a few pieces of combat armor and some type of combat rifle. This means all Mercenaries enjoy a good balance of damage resistance and energy resistance, and they all deal reliable damage from a decent range. Many Mercenaries also carry fragmentation grenades or Molotov cocktails to flush their targets out of cover. When battling a group of Mercenaries, try to keep track of enemy locations and keep an eye out for reinforcements that enter the skirmish.

MINUTEMEN

The Minutemen were once a formidable and rather popular faction in the Commonwealth. Due to significant losses and internal squabbles, however, this people's militia has struggled to survive in recent years. By defending their friends and neighbors at every opportunity, the few remaining Commonwealth Minutemen hope to bolster their numbers and bring some measure of peace and comfort to the average men and women scattered throughout the region.

Each Minuteman relies on whatever gear he or she can salvage, so the group's strength is determined by the allegiances it manages to forge. You first encounter Preston Garvey—who has spent years believing he's the last of the Commonwealth Minutemen—in the Museum of Freedom. With enough allies, however, Preston believes he can reestablish the Castle as the Minutemen's base of operations.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Minuteman	1	—	4	30	Clothing	Pistols, rifles	5

Minuteman	39	—	4	540	Clothing	Pistols, rifles	55
Minuteman	46	—	5	660	Clothing	Pistols, rifles	65
Minuteman	58	—	6	100	Clothing	Pistols, rifles	83

Most Minutemen are limited to whatever protection is offered by simple clothing and headgear, but some members have managed to salvage a few pieces of leather armor or metal armor. The laser musket is the signature weapon of the Minutemen, but the average Minuteman is forced to rely on whatever weapons he or she has managed to salvage before joining. This means that patrolling Minutemen can be found carrying anything from humble pipe guns to heavily modified combat rifles.

While some of its members can seem a bit self-righteous, Minutemen never attack without provocation. In fact, because the group's strength is determined by the support of its allies, Minutemen are generally eager to lend a hand to anyone who doesn't pose a direct threat.

NEIGHBORHOOD WATCH

The Neighborhood Watch is responsible for keeping order in Goodneighbor. Acts of theft or violence are answered with a hail of bullets, but visitors who stay out of trouble have nothing to fear from these local guards.

Wearing only patched three-piece suits and worn fedoras, members of the Neighborhood Watch aren't particularly well protected. The group does include both humans and Ghouls, however, so some members are immune to radiation damage. Most of these guards are surprisingly friendly, but they're always quick to deal with misbehaving visitors.

PILLARS OF THE COMMUNITY

The Pillars of the Community is a new movement based in the Charles View Amphitheater. Its leader claims to have discovered a path back to the prosperity of a prewar Commonwealth, and he's managed to gather a small flock of followers since founding the organization. The Pillars of the Community aren't initially hostile, but they're easily provoked.

HELPFUL HINT

from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

INITIATES ARE ALWAYS LEVEL 3, BUT THE SPECIFIC LEVEL OF SENIOR MEMBERS IS DETERMINED BY THE PLAYER'S LEVEL AT THE TIME OF THE ENCOUNTER.

Pillars of the Community members have fairly unimpressive gear, but as a group, they can still be a handful. Missionaries carry pipe guns, but Initiates are limited to a variety of simple melee weapons. If you choose to engage this group in combat, keep moving to avoid being surrounded as you thin their numbers.

RAIDERS

Raiders are plentiful, ruthless, and extremely aggressive—luckily, they're not particularly bright. Large groups can be a handful, and some gangs contain particularly strong members, but most Raiders are poorly equipped and all too accustomed to preying on the Commonwealth's most vulnerable residents. Raiders are predominantly human, but there are some Ghouls among their numbers. Many Raider gangs also include one or more attack dogs.

They've managed to maintain a strong presence throughout the Commonwealth, but check locations like Hardware Town, Combat Zone, and Dunwich Bolders when you're itching to find a gang of Raiders.

Common Raiders

Most Raiders possess at least one piece of Raider armor, but leather armor and metal armor are also quite common. More powerful Raiders even sport pieces of combat armor, so any two Raiders can have wildly different resistances. Because the weapons they carry are equally varied, it's just as difficult to gauge a specific Raider's offensive capabilities.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Raider	1	—	4	30	Raider armor	Ballistic guns, melee weapons	5

Raider Waster	21	—	4	175	Raider armor	Ballistic guns, melee weapons	31
Raider Survivalist	30	—	4	390	Raider armor	Ballistic guns, melee weapons	43

Most Raiders are limited to low-quality ballistic guns and melee weapons, but they will use any weapon they can salvage. Fragmentation grenades are also very popular with Raider gangs, so expect to dodge at least a few explosives when battling larger groups.

Unnamed Raider Bosses

Like other groups and factions, Raiders have their share of Legendary members and infamous bosses. However, some groups contain at least one particularly powerful Raider who may not stand out from the pack. Raider Psychos equipped with Power Armor are easy enough to spot, but Raider Veterans often appear wearing gear you might find on any of their comrades. When in doubt, do a bit of reconnaissance before engaging a group of Raiders.

Raider Dogs

Raiders tend to equip their Attack Dogs with accessories and armor. These items may make their animals look more intimidating, but they offer no protection. Two Attack Dogs of the same level can have different strengths and weaknesses, but a quick look is usually all it takes to tell them apart. Dogs with full coats of fur have higher Perception and less Health than mangier Attack Dogs.

RAILROAD AGENTS

The Railroad isn't the most powerful faction in the Commonwealth, but through the work of dedicated Railroad Agents, it has managed to gain a foothold in the Commonwealth.

Members of the Railroad offer aid to fugitive synths and hope that one day all synths will be free to live whatever life they please. These goals have put the Railroad at odds with both the Brotherhood of Steel and the Institute. The Railroad relies on secrecy and subterfuge to survive, but Railroad Agents won't hesitate to attack anyone who stands with their enemies.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP

Railroad Agent	38	—	5	540	Railroad armored coat	Gauss rifles	54
Railroad Agent	46	—	5	660	Railroad armored coat	Gauss rifles	65

Considering its simple appearance, Railroad armored coats offer fairly impressive resistances. All versions of this armor favor energy resistance over damage resistance, but the wearer even gains a small amount of radiation resistance. Each Railroad Agent carries some type of ballistic gun, but the most experienced operatives are issued Gauss rifles.

ROBOTS

Robots are essentially tools, relying on their programming to determine friend from foe. Those designed for combat are equipped with particularly formidable weapons, but even those meant for more utilitarian tasks have some offensive capability. Any robot will take steps to protect itself from hostile actions. If a robot's weapons are destroyed during the skirmish, it will initiate a self-defense sequence and charge its target for a final attack.

Robots charged with defending specific locations tend to attack all trespassers, but others have been programmed with allegiances to groups or individuals. Additionally, many of the robots scattered throughout the Commonwealth have suffered malfunctions brought on by centuries of neglect—even seemingly friendly robots can turn hostile without warning. Whenever you encounter an unknown robot, regardless of the type, it's best to approach with caution.

Robots can be found in the General Atomics Galleria, Hester's Consumer Robotics, and various other locations throughout the Commonwealth.

Eyebots

Eyebots are designed for reconnaissance and surveillance, but they're often used to broadcast information and propaganda to remote areas. The Minutemen and the Brotherhood of Steel sometimes utilize Eyebots for such reasons. Before you engage an Eyebot, consider any affiliated factions that might take offense. It's rare for an Eyebot to attack without provocation, but it does happen. Each Eyebot is equipped with a small laser weapon, but they're not particularly formidable enemies.

Protectrons

Protectrons were designed to fill a variety of roles. Some are programmed for customer service, while others are responsible for maintenance, emergency response, or building security. Many Protectrons are linked to terminals through which you can issue basic commands or assign new protocols. While most Protectrons are equipped with some sort of energy weapons, many are limited to rudimentary melee strikes.

NAME	LEVEL	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	POISON RESISTANCE	DAMAGE	XP

Police Protectron	14	10	190	75	50	Immune	Immune	22	21
Protectron Guardian	26	10	240	75	50	Immune	Immune	35	37

Protectrons move very slowly, and they're not particularly durable, but they can often be used to clear an area of vermin or distract more formidable enemies.

Mr. Handy

A Mr. Handy's offensive capabilities are determined by the tools attached to its arms. Options include pinchers, saws, and miniature flamers. Each Mr. Handy can have up to three arms, so weapon combinations vary.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	POISON RESISTANCE	DAMAGE	XP
Mr. Handy	7	—	0	150	30	0	Immune	Immune	Varies	12

Mr. Handy was designed as a consumer-model robot, so it's comparatively rare to encounter one that's outwardly hostile. If a fight does break out, though, it's usually best to simply overwhelm these robots. Most moderately powerful weapons can make short work of a Mr. Handy.

Mr. Gutsy

Mr. Gutsy robots may look similar to the consumer-model Mr. Handy, but they boast a more durable design and more powerful weapons. Possible attachments include .44 pistols, combat rifles, laser guns, and saws. Each Mr. Gutsy can carry up to three attachments. All projectile-weapon attachments share a standard appearance, however, so it's impossible to determine a Mr. Gutsy's offensive capabilities until it opens fire.

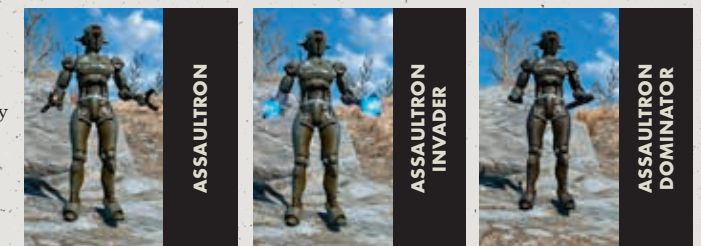

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	POISON RESISTANCE	DAMAGE	XP
Mr. Gutsy	22	—	6	250	60	40	Immune	Immune	Varies	32

Colonel Gutsy	52+	—	8	655+	110	70	Immune	Immune	Varies	130

These robots are most effective at short to medium range, so long-range weapons are usually your best option. In close combat, try to target a Mr. Gutsy's eyes before focusing your attacks on its torso. Destroying all of its eyes will compromise its accuracy without triggering a self-destruct sequence.

Assaultrons

Assaultrons are formidable combatants. These agile robots use powerful melee strikes to batter their enemies, but they can also fire charged laser blasts from the energy weapons hidden within their heads. Additionally, Assaultron Dominators can generate stealth fields, making them difficult to track in a firefight.

NAME	LEVEL	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	POISON RESISTANCE	DAMAGE	SPECIAL ATTACK	SA DAMAGE	XP
Assaultron	24	5	300	75	40	Immune	Immune	60	Head Laser	100	31

Assaultron Dominator	46	6	500	130	75	Immune	Immune	120	Head Laser	200	65

It's best to engage a hostile Assaultron from a distance. Target one of its legs with a long-range weapon and attempt to cripple it before it reaches you. Once you manage to down an Assaultron, keep moving to minimize the chances of being hit with a laser blast, and continue attacking until the robot is destroyed.

Sentry Bots

Sentry Bots are well armed and extremely durable. Armed with miniguns, missile launchers, and even custom shoulder launchers, these robots can be devastating in combat. Bait a Sentry Bot into moving while it attacks. Heavy activity eventually causes a Sentry Bot to overheat, leaving it temporarily incapacitated. When this happens, move behind the enemy and focus your attacks on its exposed Fusion Core to deliver greatly increased damage. It takes about six seconds for an incapacitated Sentry Bot to recover, so move quickly.

Turrets

Turrets are utilized by nearly every gang, faction, and organization in the Commonwealth. Connected terminals can sometimes be used to control nearby turrets, but that's not always an option.

Turrets that are mounted on walls or ceilings are protected by a shell of impenetrable armor. While they're inactive, these turrets can't be damaged. When one of these turrets opens fire, however, the exposed gun can be destroyed. Turrets mounted on tripods or resting in shopping carts are always vulnerable to attack.

Once alerted, it usually takes a moment for a turret to acquire its target. Use this time to destroy it or seek cover and wait for it to reset.

SCAVENGERS

Scavengers roam the Commonwealth, generally looking to salvage anything of value. They aren't always hostile, but some Scavengers can be fiercely protective of areas they claim as their own. Give these anxious Scavengers their space, or use superior weaponry to clear them from your path.

Scavengers tend to move from spot to spot, so most Scavenger encounters happen at random locations in the Commonwealth's less populated areas.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP
Scavenger	2	-	4	110	Wastelander	Pipe guns	6

Most Scavengers are limited to basic clothing, but they sometimes wear cage armor or a few leather armor pieces. With little protection and relatively shoddy weapons, hostile Scavengers aren't as formidable as they'd have you believe. They can make for easy prey out in the wilds, but Scavengers don't often carry much worth taking.

SETTLERS

Settlers are ordinary men, women, and Ghouls looking for a place to call home. When these folks arrive at one of your workshop settlements, they're happy to take orders. Those you encounter in the wilds are usually on their way to your nearest workshop settlement. Either way, they'll only turn hostile if you attack them.

Settler	2	-	4	110	Wastelander	Pipe guns	6

There isn't much to be gained by attacking your settlers. They're perfectly willing to give you anything they own, and they're crucial to the productivity of your workshop settlements. Additionally, attacking one settler draws the entire community into the fray. If you do choose to pick a fight, however, you will gain a small amount of XP for each settler you kill.

" EVERYBODY LOVES THAT NUKA! "

SUPER MUTANTS

Super Mutants are massive, muscle-bound creatures with a natural immunity to radiation damage and an inherent hatred of humans. Most Super Mutants carry fairly crude gear, but they do have their share of powerful weapons, and many Super Mutant groups use trained Mutant Hounds to chase down trespassers. Super Mutants aren't particularly intelligent, but their physical strength and natural aggression have allowed them to establish a significant presence throughout the Commonwealth.

Super Mutants can be found in Fallon's Department Store, Fort Strong, and many other locations—most of which can be identified by the human remains and hanging meat bags scattered around the area.

Standard Super Mutants

Super Mutant armor is fairly crude, but Super Mutants are inherently durable. Even the least powerful Super Mutants have natural damage, energy, and poison resistances, and these values increase significantly in high-ranking Super Mutants. Specifics vary based on equipped armor, but Super Mutants tend to prioritize damage resistance.

Melee weapons and fragmentation grenades are popular among Super Mutants. For ranged combat, they tend to favor pipe rifles, assault rifles, and laser rifles. When it comes to heavy guns, miniguns and missile launchers are fairly common.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP

Super Mutant Warlord	68+	—	12	1535+	Super Mutant armor	Rifles, melee weapons, heavy guns	91

Due to sensitive ears and a keen sense of smell, Super Mutants have relatively high Perception and a considerable amount of health. In most cases, it's best to target a Super Mutant's arms. This compromises their accuracy and improves your chances of surviving the encounter.

Super Mutant Suiciders

A Super Mutant Suicider's strategy is simple but effective. Upon identifying a threat, a Suicider charges the target and detonates a Mini Nuke.

To identify these high-priority targets, look for the blinking red glow that appears near a Super Mutant Suicider's hip. If you have a sufficiently powerful weapon, try to eliminate these enemies before they detect your presence. An instant kill preserves the Mini Nuke, allowing you to collect it from the Suicider's corpse. Otherwise, focus your fire on a charging Suicider's right arm—this should allow you to detonate its Mini Nuke before it reaches you.

Mutant Hounds

Compared to a Super Mutant's lumbering gait, Mutant Hounds move very quickly. They also have powerful jaws and an impressive amount of health. Aim for the head to take them out as quickly as possible, or focus your fire on their legs to slow them down.

Super Mutant Behemoths

Behemoths are by far the most powerful Super Mutants, but they're incredibly dumb—even by Super Mutant standards. They attack by tossing boulders at distant enemies, and they use massive fire hydrant bats to smash anything foolish enough to approach them. Your best option is to stay back and attack with a Fat Man and a few Mini Nukes.

If you're determined to find a Behemoth, check the area to the east of Sunshine Tidings Co-op.

SYNTHS

Synths are synthetic humanoids manufactured by the Institute, and most of the synths you encounter are still controlled by this faction. However, there are plenty of renegade synths scattered throughout the Commonwealth. As such, even those who ally themselves with the Institute are sure to encounter hostile synths. Combined with the shroud of mystery surrounding the Institute, stories of their unpredictable behavior have made synths hated and feared by most humans.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP

Synth Stormer	61	—	5	635	Synth armor	Institute Laser guns, batons	87
Synth Eradicator	71+	—	6	760+	Synth armor	Institute Laser guns, batons	102

Like Super Mutants, synths use armor to augment their natural resistances. While numbers vary, most synths maintain a balance between damage resistance and energy resistance, and all synths are immune to radiation and poison. However, synths do share many of the weaknesses found in human enemies. Headshots deal extra damage, and crippled limbs greatly reduce their effectiveness in combat.

Most synths carry some type of Institute pistol or Institute rifle, but shock batons are also fairly common.

Institute Coursers

Institute Coursers are advanced synths used to carry out a variety of covert operations. Their primary duties include eliminating rogue synths, so they're considerably more formidable than the Institute's standard models. Coursers utilize relatively light armor, a variety of Institute laser pistols, and grenades that summon synth reinforcements. Each Courser also carries at least one Stealth Boy and one stimpak, making them particularly effective in prolonged battles. However, scoring a quick kill on an Institute Courser allows you to collect these items for yourself.

TRIGGERMEN

The Triggermen are a loosely organized group of thugs and criminals. Although some particularly enterprising individuals have hatched profitable schemes of their own, many Triggermen act as hired muscle for the various gangs and crime lords. Triggermen generally attack strangers on sight, but they aren't particularly formidable in small groups.

NAME	LEVEL	INVENTORY	PERCEPTION	BASE HEALTH	STANDARD ARMOR	STANDARD WEAPONS	XP

Triggerman	31	—	7	200	Clothing	Pistols, automatic rifles	44
Triggerman	37	—	7	215	Clothing	Pistols, automatic rifles	53

Favoring style over substance, Triggermen don't have much in the way of armor. Aside from the natural radiation immunity enjoyed by Ghoul members, Triggermen are vulnerable to most attacks.

Submachine guns are particularly popular among Triggermen, but some members favor assault rifles or semiautomatic pistols. A single Triggerman is rarely dangerous, but large groups can deal significant damage fairly quickly. During heavy firefights, seek cover and pick off the Triggerman one at a time.

CREATURES OF THE COMMONWEALTH

ANIMALS

Mongrels

Mongrels are fast and aggressive, but most varieties aren't particularly durable. They do tend to hunt in packs, however, and their quick attacks can deal significant damage. Be particularly wary of Alpha variants—they look just like standard Mongrels, but they're much more formidable.

DEATHCLAWS

Deathclaws are among the most dangerous foes you're likely to encounter. They're incredibly fast, well armored, and capable of dealing tremendous damage. A Deathclaw's belly is the closest thing it has to a weak spot, but it's very difficult to target once the beast gets up to speed. Deathclaws can throw clods of dirt from a distance, but they're far more dangerous up close. In addition to their powerful melee strikes, Deathclaws will lift their prey into the air before slamming them into the ground.

Deathclaws have very high energy resistance, so it's usually best to stick with heavy guns and powerful ballistic rifles. Try to cripple one of the creature's legs, then concentrate your fire on its belly as it limps toward you.

FERAL GHOULS

Feral Ghouls come in a variety of sizes and shapes, but they all share a singular purpose: to attack and consume any available prey. From a distance, these shambling creatures can seem almost docile—in fact, you'll often find them lying motionless or partially buried. Once Feral Ghouls spot a potential target, however, few enemies can match the pure ferocity shown by a swarm of these foes. Feral Ghouls use lunging strikes to deal direct damage, but each successful hit also inflicts a small amount of radiation damage. A suppressed long-range weapon is often the safest way to thin a group of Feral Ghouls. If you find yourself surrounded by multiple targets, it's generally best to use the most powerful rapid-fire weapon in your arsenal. But avoid using weapons that deal radiation damage, as each successful hit will heal a wounded Feral Ghoul.

Glowing Ones

Glowing Ones are particularly dangerous Feral Ghoul variants. In addition to their lunging strikes, these creatures emit enough radiation to damage vulnerable targets from several feet away. This radiation also heals nearby Feral Ghouls, and Glowing Ones can even revive recently killed allies. Like Feral Ghouls, Glowing Ones are healed by radiation. Focusing your attacks on a Glowing One's legs can help you keep your distance, but it's best to finish them off as quickly as possible.

MIRELURKS

Standard Mirelurks

Standard Mirelurks are large, crablike creatures with thick armor and powerful claws. They can sometimes be out in the open, but they're often lurking underwater or partially buried along the shoreline. A headshot is the best way to damage a Mirelurk, but due to their posture, it's often difficult to land a successful hit. In many cases, it's best to equip a powerful shotgun, wait for a Mirelurk to charge, then fire as many shots as you can manage as the creature raises its head. Otherwise, focus your fire on a Mirelurk's legs. Above all, avoid targeting a Mirelurk's back—this protective shell can absorb massive amounts of damage.

Mirelurk Hatchlings only appear when you step on their eggs. They're extremely weak, but they can be a nuisance in the heat of battle. Whenever possible, shoot nearby eggs to prevent Mirelurk Hatchlings from joining the battle.

Mirelurk Hunters

Mirelurk Hunters have fairly powerful melee strikes, but the acid they spit is a much greater threat. These projectile attacks can be difficult to anticipate, but you have a decent chance of avoiding them as long as you keep moving. Mirelurk Hunters have less armor than the standard Mirelurks, but their claws are difficult to damage. Focus your attacks on a Hunter's head or legs to chip away at its health.

Mirelurk Elites

Mirelurk Kings can deal significant damage, but it's their devastating Sonic Attack that makes them truly dangerous. Luckily, these shriekers are relatively easy to sidestep. Mirelurk Kings also have the ability to vanish. The effect only lasts a short time, but it can be difficult to keep track of your target. Aim for a Mirelurk King's head to deal maximum damage.

Mirelurk Queens are massive, and their acid spray makes them effective at a fairly long range. Sidestepping usually allows you to dodge the initial attack, but make sure to avoid stepping in the resulting acid puddles. Additionally, Queens release swarms of Mirelurk Spawn during combat. It's generally best to simply bombard a Mirelurk Queen with your best heavy weapon. Each time a new wave of Mirelurk Spawn appears, clear them out with an automatic weapon before resuming your attacks on the Queen.

MUTATED ANIMALS

Mole Rats

Mole Rats are among the weaker creatures you'll encounter in the wild, but they can be surprisingly dangerous in groups.

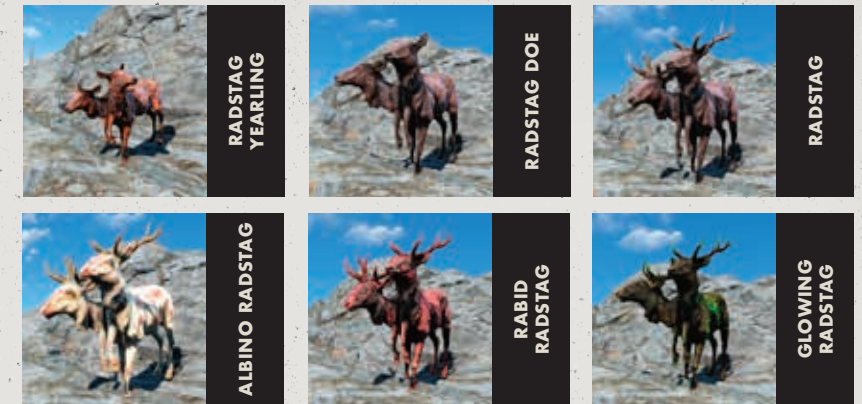

These pests burrow underground, relocate, and spring up for a sudden attack. This behavior not only hinders your ability to target a Mole Rat, but it also makes it difficult to gauge the extent of a Mole Rat infestation.

Mole Rat Brood Mother	21	Mole Rat Meat	4	230	25	25	Immune	0	35	-	-	31

Bites from Rabid Mole Rats fester, causing damage over time. Glowing Mole Rats emit hazardous radiation fields, and Mole Rat Brood Mothers are the most powerful of the bunch, but all Mole Rat variants are vulnerable to headshots. When facing these enemies, keep moving to avoid being surrounded and improve your chances of dodging surprise attacks.

Radstags

Lesser Radstags flee at the first sign of danger, but Albino Radstags, Rabid Radstags, and Glowing Radstags are considerably more aggressive. Radstags use their hooves and antlers to deal the bulk of their damage, but each hit that lands also inflicts a small amount of radiation damage.

Radstags are far from the fiercest creatures you'll encounter, and most of them are easily avoided. They are, however, a reliable source of Radstag Meat and Radstag Hides. Use a long-range rifle to take them by surprise, and aim for a Radstag's right head to inflict maximum damage.

Yao Guai

Yao Guai are strong, durable, and fiercely territorial. They're capable of absorbing massive amounts of damage, and their powerful strikes can be difficult to survive. These bearlike creatures are also surprisingly fast. Mines can be effective if you have a chance to prepare for a Yao Guai encounter. Otherwise, ready your most trusted weapon and prepare for a tough fight. Aiming for the head will grant a minor damage boost, but it's often best to focus your fire on a Yao Guai's legs.

MUTATED INSECTS

Bloatflies

Bloatflies are among the few wild creatures that use ranged attacks as their primary source of damage. They're not very durable, but their small size and erratic movements can make them troublesome. Whenever possible, use VATS to improve your chances of landing effective shots.

In addition to standard damage, each Bloatfly attack inflicts a small amount of radiation damage. Sidestepping should allow you to avoid the bulk of a Bloatfly's attacks, but doing so also makes it more difficult to keep your weapon aimed at such a small target.

Bloodbugs

Despite their frail appearance, Bloodbugs can withstand a considerable amount of damage. They're also fast and extremely aggressive, making them particularly dangerous in large groups. Short-range strikes account for the bulk of a Bloodbug's damage, but these creatures will occasionally latch on to you and drain a fair amount of blood. Once this happens, there's a good chance the Bloodbug will spit the blood back in your face, temporarily obscuring your vision. Consider using VATS whenever you face these flying insects.

Even in groups, Radroaches don't pose much of threat. Each hit a Radroach lands does inflict a bit of radiation damage, but they're relatively slow and extremely fragile.

Radscorpions

A single Radscorpion is formidable, but these creatures often hunt in packs. Radscorpions are able to burrow underground, usually hiding for several seconds at a time. Their powerful strikes inflict bonus radiation damage, and stingers at the end of their tails can inject foes with poison. They move very quickly for creatures of their size, and they boast a considerable amount of health.

Radscorpions are vulnerable to headshots, but it takes a powerful weapon to finish even a low-level Radroach with a single shot. At short range, combat shotguns and powerful melee weapons are both good options.

Stingwings

Stingwings tend to circle their targets, darting in to inject them with poison every few seconds. Using VATS is often the best way to deal with these flying insects.

INV WEAPONS

Range, accuracy, and overall damage are obviously important, but when it comes to choosing a weapon, there are a lot of other factors to consider. How much does a weapon weigh? How easy is it to acquire? What type of ammo does it use? How can it be modified? The list goes on. Maintaining a large arsenal is the best way to ensure you're prepared for any encounter.

Your own status is one of the most important things to consider when choosing a weapon. Your S.P.E.C.I.A.L. ranks significantly affect how a weapon performs. Strength determines the damage done by all melee weapons and punching weapons. Perception, Agility, and Luck all play a role in how well a weapon performs in V.A.T.S. However, your active perks will often determine which weapons prove most useful in a fight.

Perks like Bloody Mess, Four Leaf Clover, and Better Criticals improve the usefulness of all weapons. Some perks improve performance against specific targets or in specific situations. However, there are a few key perks that serve to divide weapons into seven distinct categories:

- NON-AUTOMATIC PISTOLS: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE GUNSLINGER PERK.
- NON-AUTOMATIC RIFLES: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE RIFLEMAN PERK.
- AUTOMATIC WEAPONS: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE COMMANDO PERK.
- HEAVY GUNS: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE HEAVY GUNNER PERK.
- MELEE WEAPONS: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE BIG LEAGUES PERK.
- PUNCHING WEAPONS: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE IRON FIST PERK.
- EXPLOSIVES: INCLUDES ALL WEAPONS THAT BENEFIT FROM THE DEMOLITION EXPERT PERK.

Each time you select or modify a weapon, consider whether it takes advantage of your active perks. Conversely, if you happen to find a particularly useful weapon, be mindful of any previously overlooked perks that could improve its performance in battle.

WEAPON STATS

WEAPON STATS CAN VARY BASED ON YOUR S.P.E.C.I.A.L. RANKS, ACTIVE PERKS, AND ANY MODS THAT ARE CURRENTLY ATTACHED TO THE ITEM IN QUESTION. THE DETAILS PROVIDED HERE APPLY TO STANDARD WEAPON CONFIGURATIONS AS WIELDED BY AN ADVENTURER WITH A RANK OF 4 IN ALL S.P.E.C.I.A.L. CATEGORIES AND NO DAMAGE-ENHANCING PERKS.

GUNS

Nearly every available gun is essentially a selection of mods attached to a weapon frame. Other mods might better suit your needs, but even a seemingly underpowered gun can offer a weapon frame that belongs in your collection. It's also important to note that many guns can be modified to fit into different weapon categories. A non-automatic combat rifle is easily converted to an automatic weapon. Plasma guns can be modified to serve as anything from non-automatic pistols to heavy guns. When deciding whether a gun is worth using, consider all the possibilities its weapon frame offers.

NON-AUTOMATIC PISTOLS

In addition to dedicated non-automatic pistols like the .44, Alien Blaster, and Deliverer, you'll find numerous weapon frames that can benefit from any investments you make in the Gunslinger perk.

.44 STANDARD MODEL: .44 PISTOL

Damage: 48 (ballistic)	Ammo: .44
Fire Rate: 6	Range: 119	Accuracy: 66	Weight: 5.2	Value: 99

The .44 doesn't have as many customization options as most pistol frames, but these no-nonsense firearms boast considerable ballistic damage. For old-fashioned stopping power in a conveniently small package, it's hard to beat a heavily modified .44 pistol. These pistols are relatively common, and they can be found or purchased throughout the Commonwealth. They're also fairly popular with the Commonwealth's criminal element and can often be found on the bodies of slain Triggersmen.

TACTICAL ADVANCED .44 PISTOL

Damage: 48 (ballistic)	Ammo: .44	Fire Rate: 7
Range: 119	Accuracy: 73	Weight: 6.4	Value: 198

If you're looking for a pistol with stopping power, you're looking for the tactical advanced .44 pistol! Scopes are great for dealing with distant threats, but when enemies are closing in, the last thing you want to do is limit your field of vision. Balanced for both sighted and hip-fire accuracy, this hand-cannon is perfect for dealing with fast-approaching hostiles.

10 mm

STANDARD MODEL: LONG 10-MM PISTOL

Damage: 18 (ballistic)	Ammo: 10 mm	Fire Rate: 46
Range: 119	Accuracy: 61	Weight: 4.2	Value: 53

The 10-mm weapon frame is fairly common, making it a popular choice among new adventurers. It isn't the most powerful base for a sidearm, but a heavily modified 10-mm pistol offers reliable damage with a comparatively high rate of fire.

There are multiple 10-mm pistols located in and around Vault 111, but you're sure to find many more scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

Alien Blaster

STANDARD MODEL: ALIEN BLASTER PISTOL

Damage: 50 (energy)	Ammo: Alien Blaster Round	Fire Rate: 100
Range: 119	Accuracy: 73	Weight: 2.5	Value: 1551

The Alien Blaster pistol is powerful, but it's also very rare, and anyone lucky enough to find one is likely to have trouble maintaining a supply of Alien Blaster rounds. Luckily, it can be modified to accept standard fusion cells.

This weapon is carried only by Aliens, so you'd do well to search any UFO crash sites you spot.

Deliverer STANDARD MODEL: DELIVERER

Damage: 25 (ballistic)	Ammo: 10 mm
Fire Rate: 66	Range: 119	Accuracy: 61	Weight: 4.4	Value: 158

Using the same ammunition as the 10-mm pistol, the Deliverer outperforms comparably modified 10-mm pistols in almost every area. This unique weapon frame cannot accommodate a scope, however, so accuracy can be a bit of an issue at medium to long ranges.

The Deliverer is rewarded for completing The Railroad Quest: Tradecraft. By default, this weapon is equipped with a suppressor and a shorter barrel, but its remaining mod slots contain standard parts.

DELIVERER

Damage: 43 (ballistic)	Ammo: 10 mm	Fire Rate: 99
Range: 89	Accuracy: 71	Weight: 6.9	Value: 479

This modified Deliverer may lack the bells and whistles found on other similar weapons, but no other suppressed pistol can squeeze so much damage from a 10-mm round. When you need to keep your enemies close and your gunfire quiet, it's hard to beat this handy pistol.

Flare Gun

Damage: 110 (radiation)	Ammo: Flare	Fire Rate: 3	Range: 146	Accuracy: 74	Weight: 2	Value: 50
-------------------------	-------------	--------------	------------	--------------	-----------	-----------

The flare gun cannot be modified, but this non-automatic pistol isn't designed to deal direct damage. Instead, it summons nearby Minutemen to the area. Firing a flare directly at an enemy will cause a small amount of damage, but virtually every other weapon will yield better results in the heat of battle. You acquire the flare gun from Preston Garvey during The Minutemen Quest: When Freedom Calls.

Gamma Gun STANDARD MODEL: GAMMA GUN

Damage: 110 (radiation)	Ammo: Gamma Round
Fire Rate: 66	Range: 119	Accuracy: 69	Weight: 3.0	Value: 156

Even in their most basic form, gamma guns boast considerable radiation damage. Of course, this rare feature means most gamma guns have little effect on robots, Ghouls, Super Mutants, and the majority of wild creatures that plague the Commonwealth. However, most human enemies have limited Radiation Resistance. Even the most robust humans can often be defeated with several blasts from a properly modified gamma gun.

Gamma guns are popular with the Children of Atom. Whenever you defeat a group of these fanatics, you're likely to find at least one gamma gun among their possessions.

		Value: 292

This radiological wonder is the top choice of gamma gun enthusiasts—and for good reason! With this weapon, each blast of radiation also deals a good amount of energy damage. For maximum damage, hold the trigger to charge each shot before firing. Overwhelm vulnerable targets as you hedge your bets against radiation-immune critters. Put those gamma rounds to good use!

Institute Laser (Pistol)

STANDARD MODEL: INSTITUTE PISTOL

Compared to similarly equipped laser guns, Institute lasers offer a superior rate of fire at the cost of per-shot damage. Even in pistol form, these energy weapons are highly customizable. More importantly, however, they're fairly common. Check the bodies of fallen synths to yield quite the collection of Institute laser weapons.

Laser Gun (Pistol) STANDARD MODEL: LASER PISTOL

Compared to similarly modified Institute laser weapons, laser guns offer superior damage with a lower rate of fire. They can be found throughout the Commonwealth, but they're particularly popular with the Brotherhood of Steel.

RECON OVERCHARGED LASER PISTOL

Damage: 72 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Cell	Fire Rate: 50
Range: 263	Accuracy: 105	Weight: 7.3
		Value: 204

This highly modified energy pistol is like a long-range rifle you can hold in one hand! Use its high-tech scope to identify and track your targets, then deliver energy damage with laser beams that are both powerful and accurate! For maximum damage, allow the weapon to recharge between shots. Utilize rapid trigger-pulls to pepper your targets with a series of reduced-damage beams.

STANDARD MODEL: PIPE BOLT-ACTION PISTOL

Damage: 34 (ballistic)	Ammo: .308	Fire Rate: 2
Range: 131	Accuracy: 64	Weight: 3.9
		Value: 33

The pipe bolt-action weapon frame may not perform as well as other high-caliber options, but it's remarkably versatile and easily acquired. These makeshift guns are often carried by settlers and low-level enemies, but you'll find many pipe bolt-action weapons scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

STANDARD MODEL: PIPE REVOLVER PISTOL

Damage: 24 (ballistic)	Ammo: .45	Fire Rate: 6
Range: 119	Accuracy: 63	Weight: 5.2
		Value: 27

The pipe revolver weapon frame is another low-tech option for self-defense. They lack the power of manufactured weapons, but they're fairly versatile and easy to acquire. Like other makeshift firearms, pipe revolvers are commonly carried by settlers and low-level enemies.

--	-------------------------------	----------------------	-------------------	----------------------	--------------------	-------------------

Plasma guns combine ballistic damage and energy damage, making these weapons very powerful and effective against most targets. Unfortunately, they're also quite rare, and it can be difficult to maintain a supply of the plasma cartridges they require.

ATTACHED MODS

Standard capacitor	Standard grip
Short barrel	Standard sights

For the most part, these weapons are only found on particularly formidable enemies. But once you acquire a plasma gun, you'll see it's one of the most powerful and versatile weapons in your arsenal.

NON-AUTOMATIC RIFLES

Non-automatic rifles tend to offer better accuracy and per-shot damage than pistols and automatic weapons. Most non-automatic rifles can be equipped with scopes to benefit from all three ranks of the Sniper perk. Most importantly, non-automatic rifles are affected by any investments you make in the Rifleman perk.

Assault Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT ASSAULT RIFLE

Damage: 30 (ballistic)	Ammo: 5.56	Fire Rate: 40
Range: 119	Accuracy: 72	Weight: 13.1
		Value: 144

The standard assault rifle offers a nice balance of power and accuracy, making it a good choice in a variety of combat scenarios. Many of its available mods make this weapon particularly well suited to automatic fire, but a properly modified assault rifle can be turned into a serviceable sniper rifle with great ammo capacity and a comparatively high rate of fire.

Assault rifles are often carried by higher-level Super Mutants, but they can be found throughout the Commonwealth.

Combat Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT COMBAT RIFLE

Damage: 33 (ballistic)	Ammo: .45	Fire Rate: 33
Range: 119	Accuracy: 70	Weight: 11.1
		Value: 117

Standard combat rifles use .45 ammo to offer slightly higher damage than assault rifles but with a lower rate of fire and a minor drop in accuracy. Like assault rifles, however, combat rifles can be modified to meet a wide variety of offensive needs.

These weapons are particularly popular with Gunners, but they're commonly carried by higher-level enemies.

Combat Shotgun STANDARD MODEL: SHORT COMBAT SHOTGUN

Damage: 50 (ballistic)	Ammo: Shotgun Shell
Fire Rate: 20	Range: 47	Accuracy: 23	Weight: 11.1	Value: 87

Combat shotguns deal significant damage, but they do so at the cost of accuracy and range. This isn't necessarily a bad thing. The wide spread from each shot can make it much easier to hit fast-moving targets—as long as they're relatively close. Even standard models can be effective, but a heavily modified combat shotgun offers enough firepower to overwhelm most targets in seconds.

★ TIP ★

RECOIL COMPENSATED ADVANCED COMBAT SHOTGUN

Damage: 87 (ballistic)	Ammo: Shotgun Shell	Fire Rate: 26
		Value: 245

Whether you're surrounded by persistent pests or facing off against one formidable foe, this heavily modified combat shotgun can be a real lifesaver. When your back is to the wall and enemies are closing in, you don't need range—you need power! Increased ammo capacity means less-frequent reloads, but the attached bayonet ensures that even an empty weapon can deal serious damage. You might be outnumbered, but that doesn't have to mean you're outgunned.

------------------------	---------------------	---------------	-----------	--------------	-----------	-----------

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT DOUBLE-BARREL SHOTGUN

Double-barrel shotguns are both powerful and plentiful, but they also require frequent reloads. This makes them less than ideal when you're outnumbered, but they're handy when a quick burst of damage is enough to end an encounter.

Gauss Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: GAUSS RIFLE

Gauss rifles favor power over accuracy. Each shot must be charged for maximum damage, so this weapon is best used from the safety of cover. Most importantly, they're the only guns that utilize 2-mm electromagnetic cartridges. Depending on your ammo supply, a properly modified Gauss rifle can be a valuable addition to your arsenal.

Damage: 110 (ballistic)	Ammo: 2-mm Electromagnetic Cartridge	Fire Rate: 66	Range: 191	Accuracy: 39	Weight: 15.8	Value: 228

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT HUNTING RIFLE

Damage: 37 (ballistic)	Ammo: .308	Fire Rate: 3
Range: 131	Accuracy: 71	Weight: 9.6
Value: 55

This weapon frame features high damage and accuracy with a low rate of fire. Hunting rifles are fairly common, but these seemingly simple weapons can be converted into extremely powerful sniper rifles.

RECON .50 SNIPER RIFLE

Damage: 64 (ballistic)	Ammo: .50	Fire Rate: 4
Range: 185	Accuracy: 112	Weight: 19.2
Value: 212

Let's face it—it's not always best to go in with guns blazing. This hunting rifle has been modified to use powerful .50-caliber rounds and has great accuracy over long distances, which means you can put every shot right where you want it. The increased ammo capacity minimizes pesky reloads, and the attached suppressor will help keep your enemies guessing. Stick to the shadows, and this modern take on the classic sniper rifle will let you end a firefight before it starts.

Laser Musket

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT LASER MUSKET

The standard laser musket isn't quite as accurate as other energy rifles, but it does offer more power due to a unique reload process. A laser musket must be cranked before firing. The standard capacitor allows for a maximum of two cranks, but more advanced laser muskets can accommodate up to six cranks. The result is a massive boost in per-shot damage with greatly increased ammo usage.

A slightly modified laser musket can be found just outside the Museum of Freedom.

Damage: 30 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Cell	Fire Rate: 6	Range: 71	Accuracy: 70	Weight: 12.6	Value: 57

Institute Laser

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT INSTITUTE RIFLE

Damage: 15 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Cell	Fire Rate: 66
Range: 71	Accuracy: 75	Weight: 4.8
Value: 67

One simple mod is all it takes to convert an Institute pistol to an Institute rifle. This versatility means that standard Institute rifles lack the raw power offered by dedicated rifle weapon frames. When you're looking to deal long-distance energy damage, however, a properly modified Institute laser certainly fits the bill.

Laser Gun (Rifle)

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT LASER RIFLE

Damage: 24 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Cell	Fire Rate: 50
Range: 71	Accuracy: 75	Weight: 4.5
Value: 77

Like Institute lasers, laser guns are easily converted between pistol form and rifle form. However, a heavily modified laser rifle offers excellent per-shot damage, making it particularly effective as an energy-based sniper rifle.

Pipe Bolt-Action

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT PIPE BOLT-ACTION RIFLE

Damage: 34 (ballistic)	Ammo: .308	Fire Rate: 2
Range: 131	Accuracy: 71	Weight: 4.8
Value: 39

The pipe bolt-action weapon frame can be used to build a fairly powerful rifle, making it a good option for long-range damage until you can find a hunting rifle.

Pipe Gun

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT PIPE RIFLE

Damage: 13 (ballistic)	Ammo: .38	Fire Rate: 55
Range: 119	Accuracy: 69	Weight: 3.4
Value: 26

In rifle form, the pipe gun's true strength lies in its versatility. A few basic modifications should allow this weapon to fill gaps in your arsenal as you hunt down more powerful rifles.

------------------------	-----------	--------------	------------	--------------	-------------	-----------

Like other makeshift weapon frames, pipe revolvers are common and easily modified. It can't match the damage offered by more advanced rifles, but it's a good option for new adventurers.

Plasma Gun (Rifle)

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT PLASMA RIFLE

Damage: 24 (ballistic), 24 (energy)	Ammo: Plasma Cartridge
Fire Rate: 33	Range: 119	Accuracy: 148
Weight: 4.8	Value: 154

With its combination of ballistic damage and energy damage, the plasma gun is one of the most powerful and versatile options for small-arms fire. A properly modified plasma gun offers excellent range, accuracy, and per-shot damage, making it a particularly good sniper rifle. It can't support a suppressor, but a long-range plasma rifle is a great way to kick off a firefight.

RECON OVERCHARGED PLASMA SNIPER RIFLE

Damage: 60 (ballistic), 60 (energy)	Ammo: Plasma Cartridge	Fire Rate: 33
Range: 233	Accuracy: 184	Weight: 8.1
Value: 397

When you want to send a message to your enemies, let this overcharged rifle do the talking. What this high-tech weapon lacks in subtlety, it more than makes up for in range, accuracy, and per-shot damage.

Railway Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: RAILWAY RIFLE

Damage: 100 (ballistic)	Ammo: Railway Spike	Fire Rate: 10	Range: 119	Accuracy: 69	Weight: 14.4	Value: 290
-------------------------	---------------------	---------------	------------	--------------	--------------	------------

The railway rifle is less accurate than most non-automatic rifles, but it's extremely powerful. This steam-powered weapon launches railway spikes capable of crippling limbs and impaling enemies. It makes for an effective long-range weapon—especially after a few modifications—but it excels at short-to-medium range combat.

Syringer

STANDARD MODEL: SYRINGER RIFLE

Damage: —	Ammo: Injectable	Fire Rate: 2	Range: 119	Accuracy: 72	Weight: 6.2	Value: 132
-----------	------------------	--------------	------------	--------------	-------------	------------

Rather than dealing direct damage, the Syringer is used to inflict your enemies with various effects. This weapon supports a wide variety of injectable ammo, all of which can be crafted at chemistry stations. Targets can be frenzied, paralyzed, weakened, poisoned, and more.

ATTACHED MODS

There are several Syringers scattered across the Commonwealth. They can be found in the Greater Mass Blood Clinic, Medford Memorial Hospital, Mass Bay Medical Center, Sandy Coves Convalescent Home, Parsons State Insane Asylum, and various other locations. Vault 81 contains a Syringer that's easily collected during Side Quest: Hole in the Wall.

AUTOMATIC WEAPONS

The Commando perk affects all automatic pistols and automatic rifles. It does not have any effect on automatic heavy guns.

10 mm

STANDARD MODEL:
LONG 10-MM
AUTO PISTOL

Damage: 14 (ballistic)	Ammo: 10 mm	Fire Rate: 127	Range: 107	Accuracy: 49	Weight: 4.7	Value: 70
-------------------------------	--------------------	-----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	--------------------	------------------

Even a heavily modified 10 mm offers limited ammo capacity, making it a poor choice for crowd control. But in short bursts, an automatic 10-mm pistol boasts impressive ballistic damage for a relatively compact weapon.

ATTACHED MODS

Assault Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT AUTOMATIC ASSAULT RIFLE

Damage: 20 (ballistic)	Ammo: 5.56	Fire Rate: 113	Range: 107	Accuracy: 71	Weight: 14.6	Value: 182
-------------------------------	-------------------	-----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

Automatic assault rifles offer a good balance of fire rate and per-shot damage. An automatic assault rifle is particularly effective at close range. Aim low and maintain a steady stream of fire, allowing the recoil to "walk" your shots toward your target's head.

ATTACHED MODS

Automatic receiver	Short stock	Standard sights

Combat Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT AUTOMATIC COMBAT RIFLE

Damage: 22 (ballistic)	Ammo: .45	Fire Rate: 90	Range: 107	Accuracy: 67	Weight: 12.4	Value: 146
-------------------------------	------------------	----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

Compared to similarly modified assault rifles, automatic combat rifles offer better per-shot damage with slightly lower accuracy and a slower rate of fire. Combat rifles also lack the ammo capacity found in high-end assault rifles, but both guns make excellent automatic weapons.

ATTACHED MODS

Gamma Gun

STANDARD MODEL: AUTOMATIC GAMMA GUN

Damage: 110 (radiation)	Ammo: Gamma Round	Fire Rate: 90	Range: 119	Accuracy: 67	Weight: 3.3	Value: 216
--------------------------------	--------------------------	----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	--------------------	-------------------

The automatic gamma gun delivers short bursts of rapid-fire radiation damage. It's ineffective against radiation-immune enemies, and its limited ammo capacity means it requires frequent reloads, but this lightweight gun can devastate vulnerable targets.

-------------------------------	-------------------	-----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

Powerful, accurate, and tuned to minimize recoil, this customized assault rifle makes quick work of troublesome enemies. It offers a nice balance of fire rate and per-shot damage, and its impressive ammo capacity helps keep the bullets flying.

ATTACHED MODS

Combat Shotgun

STANDARD MODEL: SHORT AUTOMATIC COMBAT SHOTGUN

Damage: 50 (ballistic)	Ammo: Shotgun Shell	Fire Rate: 23	Range: 35	Accuracy: 22	Weight: 12.4	Value: 112
-------------------------------	----------------------------	----------------------	------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

Like most rapid-fire weapons, automatic combat shotguns offer a high rate of fire at the cost of per-shot damage. With a few modifications and a healthy supply of ammo, an automatic combat shotgun can be devastating in short-range firefights.

Institute Laser (Pistol)

STANDARD MODEL: AUTOMATIC INSTITUTE PISTOL

Damage: 7 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Cell	Fire Rate: 90	Range: 203	Accuracy: 63	Weight: 5.0	Value: 56
---------------------------	--------------------------	----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	--------------------	------------------

Automatic Institute lasers offer significantly lower per-shot damage than similarly modified laser guns. They make serviceable automatic energy weapons, but an automatic laser gun is sure to make better use of your fusion cells.

Pipe Gun

STANDARD MODEL: PIPE AUTO PISTOL

Damage: 10 (ballistic)	Ammo: .38	Fire Rate: 127	Range: 107	Accuracy: 47	Weight: 3.2	Value: 30
-------------------------------	------------------	-----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	--------------------	------------------

Automatic pipe guns don't offer much power, but they do feature a high rate of fire and plenty of customization options. You're sure to find better weapons down the line, but an automatic pipe gun can be a useful tool for any new adventurer.

ATTACHED MODS

Plasma Gun (Pistol)

STANDARD MODEL: AUTOMATIC PLASMA PISTOL

Damage: 16 (ballistic), 15 (energy)	Ammo: Plasma Cartridge	Fire Rate: 90	Range: 203	Accuracy: 128	Weight: 5.0	Value: 134
--	-------------------------------	----------------------	-------------------	----------------------	--------------------	-------------------

Automatic plasma guns combine ballistic damage and energy damage to deliver powerful rapid-fire shots. They're also accurate and highly customizable, making them a worthy addition to any arsenal.

Railway Rifle

STANDARD MODEL: AUTOMATIC RAILWAY RIFLE

Damage: 100 (ballistic)	Ammo: Railway Spike	Fire Rate: 12	Range: 107	Accuracy: 68	Weight: 15.9	Value: 365
--------------------------------	----------------------------	----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

When it's equipped with an automatic piston receiver, the railway rifle offers a slightly higher rate of fire with small drops in range and accuracy. Overall damage output is roughly the same, so the choice between automatic and non-automatic fire is a matter of personal preference.

-------------------------------	------------------	-----------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

As the only dedicated automatic weapon frame, the submachine gun boasts an extremely high rate of fire and great ammo capacity. Its per-shot damage is relatively low, but a properly modified submachine gun is a great way to deal with swarming enemies.

ATTACHED MODS

Standard receiver	Short stock	Standard sights

HEAVY GUNS

It takes a strong back to carry more than one or two of these weapons, but any weapon that benefits from the Heavy Gunner perk qualifies as a heavy gun.

Broadsider STANDARD MODEL: BROADSIDER

As a handheld cannon, the Broadsider is about as simple as heavy guns get. Each shot launches a cannonball toward your target, causing impressive ballistic damage on impact. It takes quite a while to reload between shots, but the weapon can be modified to improve its rate of fire.

Damage: 108 (ballistic)	Ammo: Cannonball	Fire Rate: 2	Range: 203	Accuracy: 63	Weight: 38.1	Value: 245
--------------------------------	-------------------------	---------------------	-------------------	---------------------	---------------------	-------------------

-----------------	---------------	------------------------

The Broadsider is received as part of Side Quest: Last Voyage of the U.S.S. Constitution.

Cryolator STANDARD MODEL: CRYOLATOR

The Cryolator sprays a freezing mist that slows targets while dealing energy damage, and sustained blasts can temporarily freeze enemies, causing them to take additional damage from incoming attacks. Due to its limited ammo capacity, however, the Cryolator requires frequent reloads. This unique weapon does accommodate a Crystallizing Barrel mod, which allows it to fire cryogenic capsules for increased range and bonus ballistic damage.

The Cryolator is located in Vault 111.

Damage: 20 (energy)	Ammo: Cryo Cell	Fire Rate: 90
Range: 71	Accuracy: 66	Weight: 13.2

Fat Man

STANDARD MODEL: FAT MAN

Damage: 468 (ballistic)	Ammo: Mini Nuke
Fire Rate: 1	Range: 117
Accuracy: 63	Weight: 30.77
Value: 512

Used to launch devastating Mini Nukes, the Fat Man boasts unrivaled per-shot damage. Once launched, a Mini Nuke quickly loses altitude. Aim slightly above your target or use V.A.T.S. to help ensure an accurate shot. Either way, make sure you're a safe distance away from your target—a Mini Nuke has a sizable blast radius.

ATTACHED MODS

EXPERIMENTAL MIRV

Damage: 18 (ballistic)	Ammo: Mini Nuke	Fire Rate: 1
Range: 117	Accuracy: 63	Weight: 36
Value: 650

What do you do when a single Mini Nuke isn't enough to get the job done? You convert your Fat Man into an experimental MIRV! Each shot launches a cluster of Mini Nukes. Launch into the air to send Mini Nukes showering on your enemies, or aim for your target for a more contained explosion. This heavy gun packs more than enough power to make short work of the most formidable foes.

ATTACHED MODS

MIRV Launcher

Flamer STANDARD MODEL: FLAMER

This classic heavy gun spews a stream of fire, dealing energy damage to any targets caught in the flame. It has a fairly short range, however, so it's best used against melee attackers and unarmed enemies.

Damage: 12 (energy damage)	Ammo: Flamer Fuel	Fire Rate: 90
Range: 47	Accuracy: 53	Weight: 16.1
Value: 137

ATTACHED MODS

Standard tank	Standard propellant	Standard nozzle

Gatling Laser STANDARD MODEL: GATLING LASER

Gatling lasers are powerful, rapid-fire energy weapons, capable of dealing serious damage in a short amount of time. A standard Gatling laser fires comparatively weak beams at a very high rate, but these heavy guns can be modified for increased per-shot power at a slower rate of fire.

Gatling lasers are often carried by particularly powerful Brotherhood of Steel soldiers. Like Power Armor, these weapons are powered by Fusion Cores, so it can be difficult to maintain a good supply of ammunition.

Damage: 14 (energy)	Ammo: Fusion Core	Fire Rate: 272
Range: 203	Accuracy: 48	Weight: 19.3
Value: 804

Junk Jet STANDARD MODEL: JUNK JET

The Junk Jet turns your unwanted items into powerful projectiles. Just fill this weapon with superfluous junk items and fire away. The standard Junk Jet deals ballistic damage, but it can be modified to add bonus energy damage to each shot.

The Junk Jet is located in ArcJet Systems, and it can be collected during or after Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Call to Arms.

Damage: 40 (ballistic)	Ammo: Junk	Fire Rate: 20
Range: 119	Accuracy: 75	Weight: 29.9
Value: 285

ATTACHED MODS

Minigun STANDARD MODEL: MINIGUN

The Minigun combines low per-shot damage with an impressive rate of fire, resulting in a very effective ballistic weapon. Its high ammo capacity allows for sustained fire, and with the available barrel modifications you can improve its fire rate, accuracy, and overall damage.

Damage: 8 (ballistic)	Ammo: 5 mm	Fire Rate: 272
Range: 131	Accuracy: 35	Weight: 27.4
Value: 382

Missile Launcher

STANDARD MODEL: MISSILE LAUNCHER

Damage: 150 (ballistic)	Ammo: Missile	Fire Rate: 2
Range: 203	Accuracy: 65	Weight: 21
Value: 314

The missile launcher is less powerful than the Fat Man but has a better range and its ammunition is easier to come by. It can be customized to lock on to targets, improve damage, minimize reloads, and more. An appropriately modified missile launcher is generally your best defense against hostile Vertibirds.

ATTACHED MODS

Plasma Gun (Thrower)

STANDARD MODEL: PLASMA THROWER

Damage: 12 (ballistic), 12 (energy)	Ammo: Plasma cartridge	Fire Rate: 90
Range: 35	Accuracy: 68	Weight: 4.2
Value: 146

The plasma gun can be used to make powerful pistols and rifles, but it also serves as a solid heavy gun. With an attached Flame Barrel mod, this weapon fires a stream of searing plasma. The combination of ballistic damage and energy damage ensures that it's effective against most enemies, and its comparatively low weight makes it an excellent choice as a secondary heavy gun.

MELEE WEAPONS AND PUNCHING WEAPONS

Melee weapons and punching weapons share many similarities. They're only effective at short range, they deal damage without consuming ammo, and they leave you free to block enemy strikes. Their damage is affected by your Strength, and they all benefit from any investment in the Rooted perk. The primary difference between these two weapon categories is that only melee weapons benefit from the Big Leagues perk, while only punching weapons benefit from the Iron Fist perk.

MELEE WEAPONS

All melee weapons benefit from the Big Leagues perk, but each one offers its own balance of power, speed, and weight. More importantly, two seemingly similar melee weapons can be modified to offer vastly different effects. Some melee weapons can be modified to increase the chances of stunning or disarming a target. Other melee weapons support attachments that can pierce armor or inflict bleeding damage. There are, of course, a few standout offerings, but the best melee weapon is the one you're most comfortable using.

2076 World Series Baseball Bat

Damage: 30 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 3	Value: 25
-------------------------------	----------------------	------------------	------------------

Although it offers better speed and more raw damage than a standard baseball bat, the 2076 World Series baseball bat cannot be modified. This unique weapon is located with various other treasures hidden in Jamaica Plain.

Baseball Bat STANDARD MODEL: BASEBALL BAT

Damage: 22 (ballistic)	Speed: Slow	Weight: 3	Value: 25
-------------------------------	--------------------	------------------	------------------

Baseball bats are relatively slow, but they offer fair damage and plenty of customization options. Like most blunt weapons, baseball bats can be modified to pierce armor or cause bleeding, but they also accommodate a wide variety of cosmetic mods.

BLADED ALUMINUM BASEBALL BAT

Damage: 43 (ballistic)	Speed: Slow	Weight: 3.9	Value: 44
-------------------------------	--------------------	--------------------	------------------

Why settle for an everyday baseball bat when you can wield this bladed beast? The attached saw blades add power to every swing, and their razor-sharp teeth will leave your opponents bleeding. Aluminum construction increases power while decreasing weapon weight, giving it a clear edge over wooden baseball bats.

Baton STANDARD MODEL: SECURITY BATON

Damage: 15 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 2 Value: 15

Security batons offer moderate damage and speed, but they can be modified to deliver bonus energy damage and a chance to stun your target.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeBoard STANDARD MODEL: BOARD

Damage: 19 (ballistic) Speed: Slow Weight: 3 Value: 20

Boards are slow and heavy with moderate damage. They're often found on low-level enemies, but they're very easy to come by. Basic upgrades can add armor piercing or bleed effects, but even the best board falls short of a similarly modified baseball bat.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeChinese Officer Sword

STANDARD MODEL: CHINESE OFFICER SWORD

Damage: 22 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 3 Value: 50

The Chinese officer sword offers a good balance of speed and damage, and a fully upgraded model inflicts bonus bleeding and energy damage.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeGrognak's Axe

Damage: 35 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 10 Value: 100

This unique weapon is located within Hubris Comics. Grognak's Axe can't be modified, but it does boast high damage, an improved stagger effect, and the ability to inflict targets with additional bleed damage.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeKnife STANDARD MODEL: COMBAT KNIFE

Damage: 12 (ballistic) Speed: Fast Weight: 1 Value: 25

These weapons are slightly more powerful than similarly modified switchblades, but the knife's most intriguing feature is its Stealth Blade mod. This customized blade increases damage from sneak attacks and causes targets to bleed.

ATTACHED MODS

★ TIP ★

STEALTH BLADE COMBAT KNIFE

Damage: 21 (ballistic) Speed: Fast Weight: 1 Value: 43

The perfect melee weapon for covert operatives, the stealth blade combat knife increases the damage you deal from sneak attacks. Fast, efficient, and very light, this weapon is a great addition to any arsenal.

ATTACHED MODS
Stealth bladeLead Pipe STANDARD MODEL: LEAD PIPE

Damage: 15 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 3 Value: 15

Lead pipes offer moderate damage and speed, but a fully upgraded lead pipe deals extra limb damage with a chance to cripple targets.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeMachete STANDARD MODEL: MACHETE

Damage: 19 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 2 Value: 25

The machete features moderate speed and damage, and it's a bit lighter than comparable melee weapons. Its only upgrade increases damage and causes targets to bleed.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradePipe Wrench STANDARD MODEL: PIPE WRENCH

Damage: 18 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 2 Value: 30

The pipe wrench offers moderate speed and damage, but it also accommodates some interesting modifications. Along with basic damage upgrades, this weapon can be customized to pierce armor, increase limb damage, or grant a chance to disarm targets.

ATTACHED MODS
StandardPool Cue STANDARD MODEL: POOL CUE

Damage: 18 (ballistic) Speed: Slow Weight: 1 Value: 10

Pool cues are slow, but they deal decent damage and they're extremely light. They're also quite common and easily modified.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeRevolutionary Sword

STANDARD MODEL: REVOLUTIONARY SWORD

Damage: 22 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 3 Value: 50

A fully upgraded revolutionary sword features a chance to stun with slightly less damage than a fully upgraded Chinese officer sword. Without modifications, however, the two weapons are very similar.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeRipper STANDARD MODEL: RIPPER

Damage: 5 (ballistic) Speed: Very Fast Weight: 6 Value: 50

The ripper is essentially a miniature chainsaw. While other melee weapons deal damage with each strike, the ripper deals low damage at a very high rate when you press it against your target. In addition to basic damage upgrades, a ripper can be modified for a chance to disarm targets or inflict bleeding.

ATTACHED MODS
StandardRolling Pin STANDARD MODEL: ROLLING PIN

Damage: 15 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 1 Value: 10

Rolling pins deal less damage than most blunt weapons, but they're very light and easily modified.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade WoodShishkebab STANDARD MODEL: SHISHKEBAB

Damage: 18 (ballistic), 13 (energy) Speed: Medium Weight: 3 Value: 200

The standard Shishkebab's combination of ballistic damage and energy damage make it a powerful bladed weapon, and it can be outfitted with additional flame jets for a significant boost in damage.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeSledgehammer

STANDARD MODEL: SLEDGEHAMMER

Damage: 32 (ballistic) Speed: Slow Weight: 12 Value: 40

The sledgehammer is big, heavy, and slow—but it's also powerful and fairly common. They can be modified to penetrate armor or deal extra limb damage.

ATTACHED MODS
StandardSuper Sledge STANDARD MODEL: SUPER SLEDGE

Damage: 56 (ballistic) Speed: Slow Weight: 20 Value: 180

This rocket-assisted melee weapon is slow, heavy, and very powerful. A fully upgraded Super Sledge features added energy damage and a chance to stun your target. The Super Sledge is often carried by high-level Super Mutants and other formidable enemies.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

★ TIP ★

STUNNING SUPER SLEDGE

Damage: 56 (ballistic), 25 (energy) Speed: Slow Weight: 20 Value: 540

Make each swing count with the Stunning Super Sledge. With this rocket-assisted hammer, ballistic damage is only the beginning. Each high-powered swing also delivers a jolt of energy damage with a chance to stun your target.

ATTACHED MODS
Stun PackSwitchblade

STANDARD MODEL: SWITCHBLADE

Damage: 11 (ballistic) Speed: Fast Weight: 1 Value: 20

The switchblade is light and fast, but it's less powerful than a standard combat knife.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeTire Iron

STANDARD MODEL: TIRE IRON

Damage: 16 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 2 Value: 25

The tire iron offers a fair balance of speed and power, and it can be upgraded for a significant damage boost and the ability to inflict bleeding.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgradeWalking Cane

STANDARD MODEL: WALKING CANE

Damage: 14 (ballistic) Speed: Medium Weight: 2 Value: 10

The walking cane isn't particularly powerful, but this medium-speed weapon can be upgraded to pierce armor with a slight boost in damage.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

PUNCHING WEAPONS

Punching weapons aren't quite as common as melee weapons, and there aren't nearly as many to choose from. They do offer impressive damage for their speed and weight, and they all benefit from any investment you make in the Iron Fist perk.

Boxing Glove

STANDARD MODEL: BOXING GLOVE

Damage: 12 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 1	Value: 10
------------------------	---------------	-----------	-----------

A standard boxing glove deals less damage than other punching weapons. It can be upgraded to pierce armor, and the Lead Lining upgrade allows the boxing glove to deal extra limb damage with a chance to cripple enemies.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

Deathclaw Gauntlet

STANDARD MODEL: DEATHCLAW GAUNTLET

Damage: 35 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 10	Value: 75
------------------------	---------------	------------	-----------

The Deathclaw gauntlet is a high-damage punching weapon, but it's Extra Claw upgrade makes it much more powerful and grants a chance to disarm targets.

The Deathclaw gauntlet is possible reward for completing Side Quest: The Devil's Due.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

★ TIP ★

LARGE DEATHCLAW GAUNTLET

Damage: 43 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 12	Value: 97
------------------------	---------------	------------	-----------

Take a cue from one of the Commonwealth's most feared predators! The large Deathclaw gauntlet packs a serious punch, and each swing has a chance to disarm your target. This wrist-mounted weapon works wonders in close-quarter combat.

ATTACHED MODS
Extra claw

Knuckles

STANDARD MODEL: KNUCKLES

Damage: 14 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 0.5	Value: 10
------------------------	---------------	-------------	-----------

This compact punching weapon is very light, and its available upgrades focus on armor piercing and bleed effects.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

Power Fist

STANDARD MODEL: POWER FIST

Damage: 28 (ballistic)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 4	Value: 100
------------------------	---------------	-----------	------------

A standard Power Fist offers fairly high damage for a punching weapon, but it can also be modified to pierce armor or add a good amount of energy damage to each attack.

ATTACHED MODS
No upgrade

★ TIP ★

HEATED POWER FIST

Damage: 28 (ballistic), 20 (energy)	Speed: Medium	Weight: 4	Value: 200
-------------------------------------	---------------	-----------	------------

Put some pep in your punch with this modified Power Fist! As the powerful hydraulics batter your opponents, the attached heating coil delivers searing energy damage. With the best of both worlds strapped to your wrist, you'll give every enemy something to fear.

ATTACHED MODS
Heating coil

EXPLOSIVES

Explosives are single-use devices, most of which are designed to deal heavy damage to any targets within a given area. However, some explosives deal almost no damage when they detonate; instead, they are meant to summon allies, mark targets, or inflict enemies with status effects. Regardless of its specific effect, any explosive that can be thrown is considered a grenade, and any explosive that can be set as a trap is considered a mine. All explosives are affected by the Demolition Expert perk.

CRAFTED EXPLOSIVES

All explosives can be found somewhere in the Commonwealth, but many of them can be crafted at chemistry stations. Each explosive has its own list of components and perk prerequisites, but almost all of them demand at least some investment in the Demolition Expert perk.

Baseball Grenade

Damage: 101 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 1	Value: 40
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-----------	-----------

Low-tech and simple to make, the baseball grenade deals moderate ballistic damage to nearby enemies.

Bottlecap Mine

Damage: 301 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 75
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

The Bottlecap Mine is extremely powerful, but its construction requires a Vault-Tec lunchbox along with other, more common components. Vault-Tec lunchboxes are comparatively rare, so Bottlecap Mines are best saved for tough encounters.

Cryo Mine

Damage: 101 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 50
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

When a cryo mine explodes, it has a chance to temporarily slow wounded targets that managed to survive the initial blast.

Cryogenic Grenade

Damage: 101 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 125
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	------------

When a cryogenic grenade explodes, it has a chance to temporarily slow wounded targets that managed to survive the initial blast.

Fragmentation Grenade

Damage: 151 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 50
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

Fragmentation grenades are simple, effective, and widely used throughout the Commonwealth.

Fragmentation Mine

Damage: 101 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 50
-------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

Fragmentation mines aren't as powerful as most explosives, but they're often found scattered around enemy outposts.

Molotov Cocktail

Damage: 51 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 20
------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

Molotov cocktails explode on impact, spreading flames across a small area. The initial explosion isn't very powerful, but affected targets take additional burning damage.

Plasma Grenade

Damage: 150 (ballistic), 150 (energy)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 135
---------------------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	------------

Crafting plasma grenades requires considerable skill and some rare components, but the result is a compact explosive that deals a powerful combination of ballistic damage and energy damage.

Plasma Mine

Damage: 150 (ballistic), 150 (energy)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 100
---------------------------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	------------

Like plasma grenades, plasma mines offer a powerful combination of ballistic damage and energy damage. Crafting this explosive also requires considerable skill and some rare components.

Pulse Grenade

Damage: 150 (energy)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 100
----------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	------------

The pulse grenade emits a burst of energy that only affects mechanical enemies.

Pulse Mine

Damage: 150 (energy)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 100
----------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	------------

When triggered, the pulse mine emits a burst of energy that damages nearby mechanical targets.

FACTION EXPLOSIVES

Some factions offer low-damage explosives that can be used to call for aid. The Demolition Expert perk doesn't affect the damage done by summoned allies or artillery fire, but the damage done by the initial explosion does receive a small boost.

Artillery Smoke Grenade

Damage: 1 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 0
-----------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	----------

You acquire the artillery smoke grenade during The Minutemen Quest: Old Guns. These explosives are used to mark high-priority targets for artillery support. They should only be used outside and within range of a workshop settlement that contains a manned artillery piece. If these conditions are met, the area marked by an artillery smoke grenade is bombarded with powerful explosives.

Synth Relay Grenade

Damage: 1 (ballistic)	Fire Rate: 0	Range: 93	Accuracy: 0	Weight: 0.5	Value: 50
-----------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

Toss a synth relay grenade to spawn synth reinforcements at a target location. This weapon can be obtained via a speech challenge during The Institute Quest: The Battle of Bunker Hill. Allies of the Institute can also purchase synth relay grenades from the Institute requisitions vendor after all Main Quests are completed.

Vertibird Signal Grenade

-----------------------	--------------	-----------	-------------	-------------	-----------

Soon after you throw a Vertibird signal grenade, a Vertibird lands at the marked location. You can then board the vehicle to take control of its side-mounted minigun. When you're ready, exit the Vertibird or use your Pip-Boy's map to select a new destination. The Vertibird signal grenade can only be used outside, and only by Brotherhood of Steel members.

MISCELLANEOUS EXPLOSIVES

Some explosives are only found in certain locations or must be used to accomplish specific tasks. Again, the Demolition Expert perk enhances the damage done when an explosive detonates, but any additional effects remain unchanged.

HalluciGen Gas Grenade

Damage:	Fire Rate:	Range:	Accuracy:	Weight:	Value:
1 (ballistic)	0	93	0	1	35

Found only in HalluciGen, Inc., the HalluciGen gas grenade inflicts Frenzy on all targets within the blast radius.

Homing Beacon

Damage:	Fire Rate:	Range:	Accuracy:	Weight:	Value:
1 (ballistic)	0	93	0	1	0

Toss a homing beacon to call down a missile strike from Zao's sub. This item can only be used outside, and only after completing Side Quest: Here There Be Monsters.

Institute Beacon

Damage:	Fire Rate:	Range:	Accuracy:	Weight:	Value:
1 (ballistic)	0	93	0	0.5	0

Toss this grenade to spawn synth reinforcements at a target area. This weapon is given as a reward for completing The Institute Quest: Airship Down.

Institute EM Pulse Grenade

Damage:	Fire Rate:	Range:	Accuracy:	Weight:	Value:
150 (energy)	0	93	0	0.5	100

The Institute EM Pulse grenade sends out a blast of energy that only affects mechanical targets.

Nuka Grenade

Damage:	Fire Rate:	Range:	Accuracy:	Weight:	Value:
301 (ballistic), 100 (radiation)	0	93	0	0.5	100

Nuka grenades are rare and very powerful.

APPAREL

From fashionable accessories to heavy-duty armor, apparel has a significant effect on your appearance, performance, and overall durability. The Commonwealth holds its share of dangers, and the right apparel can greatly increase your odds of survival. Of course, exactly how you choose to survive will ultimately determine the usefulness of any apparel item.

In general, heavier apparel items offer better protection. If you rely on speed or stealth, then protective metal armor will be too cumbersome to meet your needs. However, if you tend to charge into battle, you're sure to benefit from the most effective armor you can find, regardless of the extra weight. In either case, Legendary and Exceptional gear can make such decisions even more difficult—the bonus granted by a rare piece of armor might outweigh any concerns about weight or damage mitigation.

Use your Pip-Boy to review and equip the apparel items in your inventory. A quick glance is all it takes to gauge the protection offered by your current ensemble, but you can also see exactly how that protection is distributed. Tired of crippling injuries? Equip items that reinforce vulnerable limbs. Visiting the Crater of Atom? Make sure your Radiation Resistance is up to snuff. Just cycle the display to show how well you'd withstand different types of damage. You can even flag your favorite items for easy access.

Your choice of apparel also affects how people treat you. A head-turning ensemble often elicits comments from passersby, and especially pleasing apparel items make it easier to win friends and strike favorable deals. Combine items to create your own signature look, or keep a selection of clothes on hand to change your appearance as needed.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

DRESS FOR SUCCESS

MANY OF THE ITEMS THAT GRANT S.P.E.C.I.A.L. BONUSES ARE LIGHT ENOUGH TO KEEP ON HAND. WHY NOT CREATE AN ENSEMBLE FOR EVERY OCCASION? BEFORE YOU BARTER WITH TRADERS OR ENGAGE IN A POTENTIALLY AWKWARD CONVERSATION, CHANGE INTO CLOTHES THAT INCREASE YOUR CHARISMA. BEFORE YOU TURN IN A QUEST OR SIT DOWN FOR A CRAFTING SESSION, BOOST YOUR INTELLIGENCE TO GAIN MORE XP. HEAVY ARMOR IS GREAT FOR COMBAT, BUT IT OFTEN PAYS TO SHOW YOUR MORE FASHIONABLE SIDE.

Many apparel pieces can be modified to better suit your needs. With the right skills and materials, you can craft mods for vault jumpsuits and most armor pieces at any armor workbench. However, many apparel items can only be modified with help from the Railroad. Complete the "Jackpot" radiant quest to unlock ballistic weave mods. Once you do, you can use armor workbenches to craft these protective linings and attach them to a variety of apparel items.

ROAD LEATHERS

MINUTEMAN OUTFIT

On its own, clothing doesn't offer much in the way of protection. However, these lightweight garments fit neatly under armor pieces. Many clothing options also grant bonus ranks to various S.P.E.C.I.A.L. stats, making them valuable additions to combat-oriented ensembles.

Many clothing items can be modified to offer extra protection. You can craft mods for vault jumpsuits at any armor workbench, but you'll need the Railroad's help to add protective linings to most clothing items.

OUTFITS

CHECKERED SHIRT AND SLACKS

DRIFTER OUTFIT

HAZMAT SUIT

Outfits are one-piece ensembles, most of which offer either basic protection or S.P.E.C.I.A.L. bonuses. Unlike clothing, however, outfits are too bulky to wear under a full set of armor. In fact, most outfits are too bulky to accommodate any armor pieces whatsoever. Full-body outfits even prevent the use of headgear and accessories.

The vast majority of outfits serve as fun cosmetic options, best used during friendly exchanges in relatively safe areas. However, some outfits do offer considerable utility. Railroad armored coats, for example, boast significant Damage Resistance. Equipping a hazmat suit makes you nearly immune to radiation damage. With the help of the Railroad, many outfits can be modified to offer better protection.

ARMOR PIECES

During your travels, you're sure to amass quite a collection of armor pieces. There are a few exceptions, but most armor pieces belong to one of five basic armor sets:

- COMBAT ARMOR
- LEATHER ARMOR
- METAL ARMOR
- RAIDER ARMOR
- SYNTH ARMOR

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

QUALITY CONTROL

ARMOR SET PIECES COME IN THREE DIFFERENT QUALITIES: STANDARD, STURDY, AND HEAVY. THE QUALITY OF AN ARMOR PIECE AFFECTS ITS STATS AND APPEARANCE, BUT IT DOESN'T HAVE ANY EFFECT ON WHICH MODS IT SUPPORTS. FOR EXAMPLE, A MOD THAT FITS INTO A LEATHER CHEST PIECE CAN BE ATTACHED TO A STURDY LEATHER CHEST PIECE, A HEAVY LEATHER CHEST PIECE, AND EVEN LEGENDARY AND EXCEPTIONAL LEATHER CHEST PIECES.

Each armor set offers a different balance of resistances and overall weight. And because each piece is equipped separately, you can mix and match pieces from different sets to meet your specific needs. You can even modify individual armor pieces for better protection or increased utility.

COMBAT ARMOR

COMBAT ARMOR

STURDY COMBAT ARMOR

HEAVY COMBAT ARMOR

A full set of combat armor is fairly heavy, but it boasts an excellent balance of Damage Resistance and Energy Resistance. Combat armor can be found on a variety of powerful enemies, but these pieces are particularly popular among Gunners.

LEATHER ARMOR

LEATHER ARMOR

STURDY LEATHER ARMOR

HEAVY LEATHER ARMOR

Leather armor can't match the Damage Resistance offered by most armor sets, but it's an excellent option for those who prefer to travel light. It's also very common—low-level Raiders and Gunners often carry one or more pieces of leather armor, making it fairly easy to collect a complete set.

METAL ARMOR

METAL ARMOR

STURDY METAL ARMOR

HEAVY METAL ARMOR

Metal armor pieces favor Damage Resistance over Energy Resistance. They also tend to be fairly heavy. Raiders are typically the best source of metal armor pieces, but you're sure to find these items scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

RAIDER ARMOR

RAIDER ARMOR

STURDY RAIDER ARMOR

HEAVY RAIDER ARMOR

Considering its weight, a full set of Raider armor offers relatively little protection. However, most Raiders carry at least one of these ramshackle armor pieces, so it shouldn't take long to amass quite a collection.

MISCELLANEOUS ARMOR

CAIT'S BANDOLIER

DC GUARD LEFT SHOULDER

VAULT-TEC SECURITY ARMOR

You'll sometimes find bits of armor that don't belong to any of the major armor sets. These miscellaneous armor pieces aren't as common or customizable as set pieces, but some of them can be modified at armor workbenches.

SYNTH ARMOR

SYNTH ARMOR

STURDY SYNTH ARMOR

HEAVY SYNTH ARMOR

Synth armor offers significant protection, but most pieces favor Energy Resistance over Damage Resistance. Appropriately enough, these armor pieces are most often found on defeated synths.

HEADGEAR

ASSAULT GAS MASK

COMBAT ARMOR HELMET

MILITIA HAT

Whether you're looking to boost a S.P.E.C.I.A.L. rank or add a bit of extra protection to your ensemble, the right piece of headgear can improve both your performance and your appearance. These items come in a variety of styles, some of which cover part or all of your face.

You can use armor workbenches to modify mining helmets and any headgear associated with major armor sets. A few additional headgear items can be modified with help from the Railroad.

POWER ARMOR

When it comes to damage mitigation, no collection of conventional apparel items can match a functioning suit of Power Armor. More vehicle than clothing, Power Armor makes even the most fragile combatant a powerhouse on the battlefield. You'll find a variety of interchangeable, highly customizable parts scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

It takes considerable resources to modify such complex components, but with the right perks and materials, you can assemble a suit of Power Armor that provides unbeatable protection and impressive utility. Here are just a few of the benefits Power Armor enthusiasts enjoy:

- ENTERING A BASIC SUIT OF POWER ARMOR AUTOMATICALLY GRANTS YOU A STRENGTH RATING OF 11. EQUIPPING STRENGTH-BOOSTING MODS CAN INCREASE THE EFFECT. THIS BONUS LASTS AS LONG AS YOU REMAIN IN THE SUIT.
- EVEN THE SIMPLEST SUIT OF POWER ARMOR OFFERS EXCELLENT RADIATION RESISTANCE. LEAD PLATING MODS IMPROVE THE EFFECT.
- POWER ARMOR NEGATES ALL FALLING DAMAGE. IN FACT, FALLING FROM A SIGNIFICANT HEIGHT TRIGGERS AN IMPACT LANDING. THIS POWERFUL ATTACK DAMAGES ALL TARGETS LOCATED NEAR THE POINT OF IMPACT.
- MOST MODELS OF POWER ARMOR CAN ACCOMMODATE JETPACK MODS. SOME ITEMS AND LOCATIONS CAN ONLY BE REACHED WITH A ROCKET-ASSISTED JUMP.
- PERKS LIKE PAIN TRAIN AND NUCLEAR PHYSICIST MAKE POWER ARMOR EVEN MORE EFFECTIVE IN COMBAT, AND HOT RODDER MAGAZINES UNLOCK CUSTOM POWER ARMOR PAINT SCHEMES.

Of course, the benefits of Power Armor come at a cost. If you plan on using and maintaining even one suit of Power Armor, there are a few things you should keep in mind:

- POWER ARMOR IS FUELED BY FUSION CORES. THESE VALUABLE ITEMS ARE HARD TO COME BY, BUT YOU'LL NEED TO MAINTAIN A GOOD SUPPLY OF THEM TO KEEP YOUR POWER ARMOR BATTLE-READY. WHEN YOU'RE WEARING POWER ARMOR, ANYTHING THAT CONSUMES ACTION POINTS ALSO DEPLETES THE INSTALLED FUSION CORE.

- POWER ARMOR CAN BE DAMAGED. UNLIKE OTHER APPAREL ITEMS, POWER ARMOR PARTS NEED FREQUENT REPAIRS. THE REQUIRED MATERIALS VARY FROM PART TO PART, BUT YOU'D DO WELL TO KEEP YOUR POWER ARMOR STATION STOCKED WITH PLENTY OF STEEL, ALUMINUM, COPPER, AND PLASTIC.
- WHILE YOU'RE INSIDE A SUIT OF POWER ARMOR, YOU LOSE ANY BENEFITS GRANTED BY OTHER APPAREL ITEMS.
- POWER ARMOR CAN BE STOLEN. WHENEVER YOU LEAVE YOUR POWER ARMOR, REMOVE THE FUSION CORE TO PREVENT ANY UNAUTHORIZED USERS FROM COMMANDEERING YOUR VALUABLE EQUIPMENT.

- PUNCHING WEAPONS CAN'T BE USED WITH POWER ARMOR. POWER ARMOR IS CAPABLE OF DELIVERING IMPRESSIVE UNARMED DAMAGE, BUT IT'S TOO BULKY TO ACCOMMODATE KNUCKLES, GLOVES, OR WRIST-MOUNTED WEAPONS.
- CRAFTING POWER ARMOR MODS TAKES A GOOD SUPPLY OF RARE MATERIALS AND CONSIDERABLE KNOW-HOW. YOU CAN EARN CUSTOMIZED PARTS BY COMPLETING QUESTS OR DEFEATING APPROPRIATELY EQUIPPED ENEMIES, BUT YOU'LL NEED TO INVEST IN ALL AVAILABLE RANKS OF THE SCIENCE!, BLACKSMITH, AND ARMORER PERKS IF YOU WANT TO CRAFT YOUR OWN ADVANCED POWER ARMOR MODS.

POWER ARMOR FRAMES

Power Armor frames can't be carried—and therefore never appear in your Pip-Boy's Apparel tab—but you can't build a suit of Power Armor without one. A bare Power Armor frame provides 60 Damage Resistance and 60 Energy Resistance. Attach and modify parts to create your ideal suit of Power Armor.

When not in use, a Power Armor frame acts much like a container—simply transfer parts from your inventory to mount them in place. While you're inside a frame, use the Pip-Boy to equip Power Armor parts the same way you'd equip clothing and armor. You can only equip Power Armor parts that are in working order; badly damaged parts must be repaired at a Power Armor station before they can be used.

If you're interested in owning and maintaining multiple suits, you'll need to collect multiple frames. You'll find several Power Armor frames scattered across the Commonwealth, but additional frames can be purchased from vendors or earned by completing quests.

POWER ARMOR PARTS

Every piece of Power Armor you find belongs to one of five sets. Raider Power Armor is the least advanced, X-01 Power Armor is the most advanced, and everything else falls somewhere in the middle. This hierarchy makes it fairly easy to determine whether a newly acquired part is an upgrade. A modified Raider Power Left Arm can offer more protection than a standard T-45 Left Arm, but barring bonuses granted by unique items, a more-advanced part can always be modified to outperform a less-advanced part.

Although most Power Armor parts offer identical customization options, it's important to note that each mod is set-specific. All Power Armor sets can accommodate rad scrubbers, but rad scrubbers pulled from a T-51 Helm can only be applied to another T-51 Helm. Luckily, there's no need to commit to a specific model of Power Armor. Simply equip the parts that seem most useful at any given time.

Raider Power Armor

Raider Power Armor offers far fewer customization options than other Power Armor sets—most notably, the Raider Power Torso doesn't support jetpacks or Stealth Boy mods available on more advanced Power Armor. Still, even the most basic suit of Raider Power Armor provides far more protection than standard apparel.

Any Raider clad in Power Armor is likely to have several of these parts equipped.

T-45 Power Armor

T-45 Power Armor can't match the protection offered by more advanced models, but it supports a full complement of mods. This Power Armor isn't widely used, but you'll find a complete set atop the Museum of Freedom.

T-45 PARTS

NAME	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	WEIGHT	VALUE	MODS

X-01 Power Armor

The X-01 is the most advanced Power Armor available. It's also the rarest. This makes it extremely difficult to assemble a complete set of X-01 Power Armor, but it's well worth using any parts you're lucky enough to find.

T-51 Power Armor

T-51 Power Armor offers better protection than the T-45 model. These parts aren't favored by any particular group, but you can find bits and pieces scattered throughout the Commonwealth.

T-51 PARTS

NAME	DAMAGE RESISTANCE	ENERGY RESISTANCE	RADIATION RESISTANCE	WEIGHT	VALUE	MODS

T-60 Power Armor

T-60 Power Armor is favored by the Brotherhood of Steel and the Atom Cats, so these durable parts are relatively easy to find. You can take them by force if you're so inclined, but searching military bases and Vertibird crash sites tends to be just as effective.

This model's popularity also means you'll find T-60 parts that feature custom paint jobs. Atom Cat parts, in particular, offer a paint scheme you can't find anywhere else.

AID

Even the most cautious adventurers need a little extra help from time to time. Luckily, you'll find a wide variety of consumables and single-use devices that can help you survive hostile gangs, radiation storms, and anything else the Commonwealth throws at you. Be warned: many aid items have addictive properties. Each time you consume alcohol, performance-enhancing chems, and even some food items, you increase your chances of developing an addiction.

HELPFUL HINT

from Vault Boy!

AN UNTREATED ADDICTION CAN HAVE A SERIOUS IMPACT ON YOUR PERFORMANCE. YOU CAN CURE ADDICTIONS WITH CHEMS LIKE ADDICTOL AND REFRESHING BEVERAGE, OR YOU CAN SEEK HELP FROM A MEDICAL PROFESSIONAL. AS A TEMPORARY SOLUTION, YOU CAN SIMPLY FEED YOUR ADDICTION—YOU WON'T SUFFER ANY WITHDRAWAL SYMPTOMS AS LONG AS THE SUBSTANCE IS IN YOUR SYSTEM.

Many aid items grant bonuses or penalties that last several minutes. Some effects last considerably longer. Use your Pip-Boy's Status tab to review the effects of any aid items that are currently in your system.

TIP

Aid items tend to be very light, but the food, chems, and alcohol you collect can quickly add up. Store or sell any unneeded items to keep them from weighing you down.

FOOD

SUGAR BOMBS

BLOAFLY MEAT

YAO GUAI RIBS

Nearly all food items replenish some amount of Health, but many of these dishes offer special bonuses. Unfortunately, many foods also contain harmful radiation. Foods you cook are generally more effective (and much safer) than foods you find. If you're hankering for a satisfying meal, it's best to visit a well-stocked cooking station.

MOST CRAFTED MEALS CAN BE PREPARED WHENEVER YOU HAVE THE RIGHT MATERIALS AND ACCESS TO A COOKING STATION. HOWEVER, SOME DISHES CAN ONLY BE COOKED ONCE YOU'VE LEARNED SPECIAL RECIPES. RECIPES FOR DEATHCLAW WELLINGTON AND TASTY DEATHCLAW OMELET CAN BE EARNED DURING "THE DEVIL'S DUE" QUEST. THE RECIPE FOR SLOCUM'S BUZZBITES IS LOCATED IN SLOCUM'S JOE CORPORATE HQ.

ALCOHOL

GWINNETT PALE RUM

WINE WHISKEY

Specifics vary by drink, but most alcoholic beverages boost your Strength and Charisma at the cost of Intelligence. These effects are temporary, but each serving of alcohol also carries a chance of addiction. Most alcoholic drinks must be found or purchased, but with a supply of Mutfruit, Nuka Cola, and whiskey, you can brew your own Dirty Wastelanders at any cooking station.

If you want a steady supply of ice-cold alcohol, retrieve Buddy from the Shamrock Taphouse basement. This modified Protectron can brew all of the Gwinnett recipes you manage to collect.

CHEMS

STIMPAK RADAWAY BUFFOUT DADDY-O

Medicinal items like stimpaks, RadAway, and Addictol can keep you safe and healthy. Performance-enhancing chems (most of which are addictive) grant a variety of temporary bonuses. You'll find chems throughout the Commonwealth, but you can make many of these useful items at chemistry stations.

MISCELLANEOUS

From bobby pins to posted notes, you're sure to amass quite a collection of miscellaneous items during your travels. Some of these items unlock doors and terminals, while others provide useful information. Items like Bobbleheads and magazines grant powerful bonuses, while other items don't serve any practical purpose. What should you keep? What's safe to sell? What's an adventurer to do?

Fret not! Most of the items that appear in your Pip-Boy's Misc tab are weightless. No matter how many Holotapes, notes, and access cards you carry, they're not likely to slow you down.

Items that do add weight to your load are scarce enough that a quick scroll through the list makes it easy to identify curios that might be worth storing or selling. Of course, for those who like to keep a tidy inventory, it can be helpful to know exactly what some of these items are used for.

UTILITY ITEMS

BOBBY PINS

Is a locked safe or door keeping you from unknown treasures? A few bobby pins might be just what you need. It takes a gentle touch to pick a lock without breaking a bobby pin, and complicated locks can only be attempted by those who've invested in various ranks of the Locksmith perk. Still, with a bit of patience and a good supply of bobby pins, even a novice can bypass simple locks.

BOTTLECAPS

Bottlecaps are the standard currency of the Commonwealth, so you can trade your collected Caps for a wide variety of goods and services.

You'll find Caps stashed in containers or hidden in the pockets of defeated enemies. Of course, you can always earn extra Caps by completing quests and selling unwanted goods.

VAULT-TEC LUNCHBOXES

You can sell Vault-Tec Lunchboxes for extra Caps, but these rare items can also be used to craft powerful Bottlecap mines at chemistry stations. Making a Bottlecap mine takes a variety of components and some investment in the Demolition Expert perk, but these handmade explosives pack a serious wallop.

HOLOTAPE GAMES

Life in the Commonwealth can be incredibly stressful—why not unwind with a Holotape game? These fun and challenging diversions can be played on any terminal, but you can also pop them into your Pip-Boy anytime you need a break. Most Holotape games are bundled with RobCo FUN! magazines, but the Red Menace can be found in a recreational terminal within Vault 111.

TIP

YOU'RE S.P.E.C.I.A.L!

This children's book is found in your old home in Sanctuary Hills. When you collect it, you gain one rank to a S.P.E.C.I.A.L. stat of your choosing. You're S.P.E.C.I.A.L! is similar to collectible magazines, but it can't be displayed on a magazine rack and it isn't worth any Caps.

RECIPES

SLOCUM'S BUZZBITES RECIPE

GWINNETT BREW RECIPE

Whether they're written on paper or recorded on Holotapes, recipes grant access to previously unknown items. Slocum's BuzzBite recipe and Wellingham's recipe unlock new options at cooking stations as soon as you collect them. Gwinnett recipes can be given to Buddy to unlock a variety of alcoholic beverages.

ACCESS AND INFORMATION

HOLOTAPES

Some Holotapes contain passwords, protocols, or executable files, but many simply contain personal logs or long-forgotten messages. Load a Holotape into your Pip-Boy (or any terminal) to find out what secrets it holds. Most Holotapes are weightless and have little to no value to traders.

KEYS AND PASSWORDS

Sometimes the only way to open a door is with a key. Sometimes the only way to access a terminal is with the right password. Collect keys and access cards whenever you find them, and check notes, terminals, and Holotapes for recorded passwords. Most of these items are weightless, and it's often impossible to sell them.

LETTERS AND NOTES

Some letters and notes provide valuable information, but many just offer insight into the lives of strangers. Of course, there's only one way to find out—pick it up and have a look!

QUEST ITEMS

EXPLOSIVE CHARGE

COURSER CHIP

HAPTIC DRIVE

Why are you carrying a cybernetic brain augmentor? Why can't you sell a can of green paint? During your time in the Commonwealth, you're likely to collect dozens of items that are both bizarre and extremely important. Although many quests involve common items, most quest-specific items can only be removed from your inventory once you've completed the related objective.

KNICKKNACKS

MISCELLANEOUS TOYS

BUTTERCUP TOY

SENTRY BOT MODEL

ROBOT PARTS MODEL

Although many toys can be scrapped for useful components, there are a few toys that can't be salvaged.

Use these miscellaneous toys to decorate your settlements or sell them for some extra Caps. Robot models often appear in Vault-Tec Lunchboxes, but they can also be built from any robot model kits you're lucky enough to find.

With model kits, you can also build some less valuable (but very interesting) custom robot parts models.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. If you're looking to add a wasteland aesthetic to your living space, these items should certainly get the job done. But if your inventory could benefit from a little spring cleaning, keep an eye out for clutter like Stingwing barbs, folders, and burnt books. When sold in bulk, some of these items can yield a fair amount of Caps. Some only serve to weigh you down.

JUNK

You'll find junk on defeated enemies, stashed in containers, and scattered around virtually every location you explore. You can, of course, sell these bits and bobs for extra Caps, but a junk item's true value lies in the components it yields. Battered clipboards are made from springs and wood; desk fans contain gears, screws, and steel; an old fuse can be salvaged for copper and glass. With the right junk items, you can build everything from simple floor mats to advanced Power Armor mods.

Whenever you build an item, the required components are automatically salvaged from the junk items that are currently in your inventory or stored within the related crafting station. If a settlement is under control, all of its workstations are linked to its workshop. This makes managing your collected junk items incredibly easy—when you attempt to craft an object, you'll instantly see which components can be salvaged from the available junk items.

When a lack of materials is holding up construction, use your Pip-Boy's Junk tab to mark your desperately needed components. Cycle the display to "Component View" to see all of the components offered by the junk items that are currently in your inventory. Highlight the desired component and select "Tag for Search." From that point on, your Pip-Boy automatically indicates if a targeted junk item contains the tagged component. Repeat the process at any time to add or remove tracked components from your list.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

Tag components like aluminum, oil, adhesive fiberglass, and screws as early as possible. If you plan to modify your gear, you'll need to collect a good supply of these uncommon building materials.

HELPFUL HINT

from Vault Boy!

WHEN A JUNK ITEM IS SALVAGED, ONLY THE REQUIRED COMPONENTS ARE CONSUMED. AFTER CONSTRUCTION, ANY UNUSED COMPONENTS ARE AUTOMATICALLY RETURNED TO STORAGE.

BASE COMPONENTS

COMPONENT	RARITY	DESCRIPTION
ACID	Rare	Acid is primarily used to craft chems, explosives, and cutting fluid at chemistry stations.
ADHESIVE	Special	This essential component is used in a wide variety of mods, explosives, and workshop items. Even with the Scrapper perk, this component can never be salvaged from weapons or armor. However, maintaining a good supply of adhesive makes it much easier to upgrade your gear and expand your settlements.
ALUMINUM	Uncommon	Aluminum is used in nearly every type of crafting, but it's an essential component of most complicated devices. If you plan on crafting ballistic weapon mods, Power Armor mods, explosives, turrets, and generators, you'll need to grab all the aluminum you can find.
ANTISEPTIC	Rare	Antiseptic is most often used to craft medicinal mods and chems.
ASBESTOS	Rare	Asbestos is most often used to boost an item's Energy Resistance, but it's needed for a variety of mods and chems.

COMPONENT	RARITY	DESCRIPTION
BALLISTIC FIBER	Rare	Ballistic fiber is an essential component of many armor mods—especially the ballistic weave mods used to reinforce many lightweight apparel items.
BONE	Common	Bone is needed to craft specialty items like Raider armor mods and cutting fluid.
CERAMIC	Common	Ceramic is used to craft some mods and workshop items, but it's an important part of most power-related items. You'll need ceramic to build radio recruitment beacons, smaller generators, and nearly all switches.
CIRCUITRY	Rare	Circuitry is used in most high-tech devices. Many advanced mods, turrets, and electronic devices require some amount of circuitry. You'll even find this component listed in recipes for some explosives and chems.
CLOTH	Common	Cloth is required for various mods and workshop items, but it's particularly important for armor modification and furniture production.
CONCRETE	Common	Concrete is primarily used to build shack foundations and water pumps.
COPPER	Uncommon	Copper is an important part of most electronic devices. Generators, switches, lights, and advanced mods all tend to use some amount of copper. But this component also has a variety of low-tech applications.
CORK	Uncommon	Cork is primarily used for weight-reducing armor mods.
CRYSTAL	Rare	Crystal is an important part of most laser-based devices. Laser tripwires, heavy laser turrets, and many laser gun mods require a good supply of crystal. It's also needed for advanced scopes and other high-tech items.
FERTILIZER	Uncommon	Fertilizer is primarily used to craft chems and explosives at chemistry stations.
FIBER-OPTICS	Rare	Fiber-optics are required to craft a variety of high-tech mods and devices. These components are particularly important to laser-based weapons and switches, but fiber-optics are used in the creation and modification of several items.
FIBERGLASS	Uncommon	Both lightweight and durable, fiberglass is used in a variety of weapon, armor, and Power Armor mods. Energy weapon mods, in particular, tend to require a good amount of fiberglass. This versatile component is also required to craft a small selection of explosives and workshop items.
GEAR	Uncommon	Gears are required for a variety of applications. From simple ceiling fans to massive generators, nearly any device that involves moving parts includes some amount of gears. These low-tech components are particularly important in turret production and gun modification, so restock your supply as often as possible.
GLASS	Uncommon	Glass is used in several recipes, but it's particularly important when crafting lights, scopes, syringes, and laser-based weapon mods.
GOLD	Rare	Gold is needed for a variety of high-tech mods and devices. It's particularly important for laser weapon enthusiasts, but any craftsman would do well to keep a supply of gold on hand.
LEAD	Uncommon	Most lead applications involve boosting the Radiation Resistance offered by a piece of apparel, but any item meant to reflect or contain radiation is likely to require some amount of lead.
LEATHER	Common	Leather has a few different uses, but it's most often used to craft mods at armor workbenches.
NUCLEAR MATERIAL	Rare	Nuclear material is required to craft a variety of mods, explosives, and workshop items. Most of the devices that use nuclear materials are fairly advanced, but this rare component is also needed to craft simple weapon sights.
OIL	Special	Oil is essential to most mechanical devices like gun mods, turrets, and water purifiers, but it's also used in a variety of armor mods and explosives.

COMPONENT	RARITY	DESCRIPTION
 PLASTIC	Common	Plastic is involved in almost every type of crafting, but it's most commonly needed for building furniture or modifying armor and energy weapons.
 RUBBER	Common	The unique properties of rubber make it an essential part of many items. It serves as insulation for mechanical devices like generators and pylons, it adds flexibility to weapons and armor, and it's an important component of various furniture pieces and decorative items.
 SCREW	Uncommon	Whether you're constructing mechanical devices or reinforcing armor, you'll find a lot of uses for this component. Screws aren't as rare as some materials, but if you plan on modifying your gear, building turrets, or taking advantage of the workshop's most effective machines, you'll want to salvage as many screws as possible.
 SILVER	Rare	Silver is primarily used for modifying weapons. It's required for a wide variety of energy weapon mods, but it's also a featured component of most sights and scopes.
 SPRING	Uncommon	Springs are used in a variety of gear mods and mechanical devices. Whether you're building a simple pressure plate, extending the ammo capacity of your favorite gun, or customizing a suit of Power Armor, you'll find plenty of projects that require springs.
 STEEL	Common	Steel is one of the most essential building materials you'll find—luckily, it's also one of the most common. In addition to basic construction, steel is needed for a large variety of mods.
 WOOD	Common	Wood is most often used in basic construction. Structures, furniture, and decorative items all tend to require large amounts of wood. Most settlements contain enough trees to get you started, but wood-based junk items can help you better meet the needs of your settlers.

JUNK ITEMS

Over time, you'll develop an eye for junk you find particularly useful, but the Commonwealth is absolutely packed with discarded treasures. Every junk item has its uses, but some are far more valuable than you might expect.

JUNK SHIPMENTS

With a bit of time and effort, you can salvage materials for any and all of your crafting needs. However, many traders can ship components directly to a location of your choosing. After you purchase a shipment contract, place the contract in your desired workshop (or workstation) to receive your order.

MODS

Mods are special attachments or alterations that can be added to weapons, armor, and Power Armor. You can purchase mods from some traders, and you'll find a few loose mods lying around the Commonwealth, but almost any mod can be hand-crafted or plucked from existing gear.

Your Pip-Boy's Mods tab displays all of the loose mods that are currently in your inventory. In most cases, a mod's name indicates the items with which it can be used. A pipe bolt-action suppressor can be attached to any pipe-bolt-action gun. A shadowed leather arm mod can be placed on any leather armor arm piece.

The Mod tab also displays the weight and value of each loose mod. Most of these items are relatively light, but a single crafting session can result in any number of loose mods; store or sell superfluous mods to keep them from weighing you down.

WEAPON MODS

With the right mods and access to a weapons workbench, you can improve virtually every gun, blade, and club in your arsenal. You can craft variety simple mods as soon as you have the necessary components, but most advanced weapon mods require some combination of the Gun Nut, Blacksmith, and Science! perks.

GUNS

Nearly every gun you find can be modified to better suit your needs. Most guns can even be altered to take advantage of specific perks. However, even simple gun mods tend to require a selection of uncommon components. Specifics vary, but you'd do well to stock up on adhesive, aluminum, gears, screws, and oil if you plan on crafting your own gun mods.

If you favor ballistic guns, invest in the Gun Nut perk as early as possible. If energy weapons are your passion, make the Science! perk a priority—just know that some advanced gun mods require all available ranks of both Gun Nut and Science!

Barrel Mods

As applied to ballistic weapons, barrel mods tend to affect a gun's range, accuracy, and recoil. In general, longer barrels improve range and sighted accuracy while also increasing recoil. Shorter barrels usually reduce a gun's maximum range while improving hip-fire accuracy and weapon recoil.

On energy weapons, barrel mods can affect nearly every aspect of a gun's performance. Damage, range, accuracy, fire rate, and ammo capacity can all be altered with a single barrel mod. Barrel mods also have diverse effects on some heavy guns.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

THE GAMMA GUN BARREL MOD "LORENZO'S ARTIFACT" CAN'T BE CRAFTED. COMPLETE THE "CABOT HOUSE" QUEST TO EARN A WEAPON THAT CONTAINS THIS UNIQUE MOD.

Grip Mods

Grip mods generally affect a gun's accuracy and recoil. Enhanced pistol grips tend to improve hip-fire accuracy. Enhanced rifle stocks usually improve sighted accuracy. Most stock upgrades also improve a rifle's bash damage.

Mag Mods

Mag mods usually determine a weapon's ammo capacity and reload speed. In rare cases, a mag mod can include a less conventional effect. A fusion mag, for example, allows an Alien Blaster to use fusion cells as ammunition; the gauss rifle's mag mods also affect overall weapon damage.

Muzzle Mods

Different muzzle mods serve different purposes. For ballistic weapons, compensators and muzzle breaks improve recoil while reducing weapon range. Suppressors reduce range while improving recoil and—most importantly—minimizing the sound of gunfire. Bayonets increase bash damage while reducing weapon range.

Most energy weapon muzzle mods are lenses used to focus or split the projected beam. These mods usually affect an energy weapon's range, accuracy, and recoil. Some weapons, like the gamma gun and Junk Jet, offer muzzle mods that add bonus energy damage to each shot fired.

To attach an existing mod to a piece of gear, you simply need access to the appropriate workstation. With the required components and perks, you can build nearly any mod you'll find in the Commonwealth.

TIP

Need a complete list of every mod? Then remember accessing this book grants you unfettered access to the central database, or "online" component of this guide, where Vault-Tec automated charts are available for just this purpose. Refer to the "MODS" section for the entire chart and statistics.

Receiver Mods

Nearly all receivers play an important role in overall weapon damage, but these mods can dramatically change the way a weapon performs. Many ballistic gun receivers reduce per-shot damage to offer armor penetration or automatic fire. Some ballistic receivers increase accuracy or critical shot damage. Swapping a receiver mod can even change the ammo used by some guns.

Energy weapon receiver mods are just as diverse as those found on ballistic guns. There are plenty of options that alter accuracy or critical shot damage, but some energy weapon receivers affect ammo capacity, add burning damage, or allow for charged shots.

Sight Mods

Sight mods primarily affect a weapon's sighted accuracy. Sight rings and reflex sights make it easier to focus on targets, and the magnification offered by scopes makes it much easier to hit distant targets. Many advanced scopes even offer features like night vision and target tracking.

MELEE MODS

Melee and punching weapons don't feature the deep customization offered by most guns, but close-combat enthusiasts are sure to enjoy the benefits of a well-chosen mod. Again, different mods require different components, but maintaining a good supply of adhesive will make modifying your melee weapons considerably easier.

The most powerful melee mods can require up to Rank 3 of the Blacksmith perk; a small investment in Science! is also needed to craft a number of high-tech melee mods.

Material Mods

Baseball bats and rolling pins are the only weapons that accommodate material mods. These mods change the entire look of a weapon. Often, the change is purely cosmetic. However, an aluminum material mod can significantly enhance the performance of a bat or rolling pin.

Upgrade Mods

Most melee (and punching) weapons contain a single upgrade slot. The vast majority of upgrade mods increase weapon damage, but most upgrades also add special features. Even simple weapons can be modified to pierce armor, inflict bleeding, disarm targets, deal energy damage, and more. Of course, options vary by weapon, but some upgrade mods offer considerable utility.

ARMOR MODS

Armor mods can dramatically improve your protective gear. Covert operators can benefit from mods that reduce armor weight and improve stealth; front-line combatants can reinforce armor for maximum protection. No matter how you engage your enemies, the right armor mods can greatly increase your chances of survival.

Pieces belonging to the major armor sets offer far more customization options than simpler garments. Each piece of armor that belongs to one of the major armor sets contains two mod slots—one for material mods and one for miscellaneous mods. However, for those with the proper skills, the Commonwealth contains a wide variety of customizable apparel.

If you plan to craft your own advanced armor mods, consider investing in all available ranks of the Armorer and Science! perks. Of course, the mods you build will also determine the components you need, but nearly all armor mods require some amount of adhesive.

MATERIAL MODS

Most armor material mods affect Damage Resistance and Energy Resistance. However, there are a few material mods that include special features. Shadowed mods—which are available for combat, leather, and metal armor pieces—improve stealth in dark areas. The Brotherhood of Steel material mod even improves the Radiation Resistance offered by a piece of combat armor. The headgear associated with major armor sets can accommodate similar material mods.

THE MAGIC OF MODS

SAMPLE WEAPON MODIFICATIONS

MODIFIED HUNTING RIFLE

THIS HEAVILY MODIFIED HUNTING RIFLE INCLUDES A .50 RECEIVER, GREATLY INCREASING PER-SHOT DAMAGE. A LONG PORTED BARREL MOD REDUCES RECOIL WHILE INCREASING RANGE AND SIGHTED ACCURACY. A MARKSMAN'S STOCK FURTHER REDUCES RECOIL, AND THE LONG RECON SCOPE TAGS AND TRACKS ENEMY TARGETS. THIS RIFLE ALSO INCLUDES A LARGE QUICK-EJECT MAG FOR INCREASED AMMO CAPACITY AND FASTER RELOADS, AND THE ATTACHED SUPPRESSOR MAKES IT MUCH EASIER TO REMAIN HIDDEN DURING COVERT OPERATIONS.

MODIFIED LASER GUN

THIS POWERFUL LASER PISTOL

FEATURES AN OVERCHARGED CAPACITOR FOR SUPERIOR DAMAGE; A CONNECTED SNIPER BARREL ADDS EVEN MORE DAMAGE TO EACH SHOT AND GREATLY INCREASES THE PISTOL'S RANGE. RECOIL AND HIP-FIRE ACCURACY ARE BOTH IMPROVED BY THE ATTACHED SHARPSHOOTER'S GRIP. A LONG RECON SCOPE MAKES TRACKING TARGETS EASY, AND THE FINE-TUNED BEAM FURTHER IMPROVES RANGE, ACCURACY, AND RECOIL.

MODIFIED SUPER SLEDGE

THIS UPGRADED SUPER SLEDGE

FEATURES A STUN PACK THAT ADDS ENERGY DAMAGE AND A CHANCE TO STUN TARGETS WITH EACH HIT THAT LANDS.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL COMBAT ARMOR MODS ARE ESSENTIALLY CUSTOM PAINT JOBS—REMOVING ONE FROM EXISTING ARMOR DOESN'T PRODUCE A LOOSE MOD. THESE SPECIAL MATERIAL MODS CAN ONLY BE APPLIED BY ACTIVE MEMBERS OF THE BROTHERHOOD.

MISCELLANEOUS MODS

Miscellaneous mods are linings that further improve armor pieces. BioCommMesh mods increase the duration of chems; pocketed mods increase carrying capacity. Leg armor can be modified to improve sprinting or reduce falling damage. Arm mods can improve blocking or melee damage. Of course, every armor piece can be modified to improve resistances, but you'll find many more useful effects as you craft or collect new mods. Similar mods are available for miscellaneous armor pieces like DC umpire's pads and Vault-Tec security armor.

HEADLAMPS

You can attach various headlamps to mining helmets. These handy little mods work similarly to your Pip-Boy's onboard flashlight.

BALLISTIC WEAVE MODS

Ballistic weave mods reinforce lightweight garments that wouldn't otherwise offer much protection. You'll find clothing, outfits, and headgear that can accommodate these special linings. Unlike most mods, ballistic weaves aren't limited to a single item type. A ballistic weave mod that attaches to a battered fedora can also be placed in a set of farmhand clothes.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

BEFORE YOU CAN CRAFT BALLISTIC WEAVE MODS, YOU MUST PROVE YOUR LOYALTY TO THE RAILROAD. COMPLETE THE "JACKPOT" RADIANT QUEST; THEN SPEAK TO TINKER TOM TO LEARN ABOUT THESE VALUABLE UPGRADES. YOU CAN ALSO COMPLETE THE RAILROAD QUEST: RANDOLPH SAFEHOUSE 6 TO EARN THE INSTITUTE KILLER WEAVE MOD.

THE MAGIC OF MODS

SAMPLE ARMOR MODIFICATIONS

MODIFIED LEATHER ARMOR

THE RIGHT MODS CAN MAKE IT MUCH EASIER TO STAY OUT OF SIGHT. EACH PIECE OF THIS LEATHER ARMOR SET IS EQUIPPED WITH A SHADOWED MATERIAL MOD, IMPROVING STEALTH IN DARK AREAS. THE CHEST PIECE'S

ULTRALIGHT BUILD REDUCES WEIGHT AND GRANTS BONUS ACTION POINTS. SLEEK LEG MODS ALLOW YOU TO MOVE FASTER WHILE SNEAKING, AND THE ARMS' STABILIZER MODS MAKE SCOPED AIMING MORE STEADY.

MODIFIED HEAVY COMBAT ARMOR

THIS COLLECTION OF HEAVY COMBAT ARMOR HAS BEEN MODIFIED TO GRANT EXTRA PROTECTION. EVERY PIECE IS EQUIPPED WITH A POLYMER MATERIAL MOD, RESULTING IN SIGNIFICANTLY INCREASED DAMAGE RESISTANCE AND ENERGY

RESISTANCE. THE CHEST PIECE'S ASBESTOS LINING FURTHER IMPROVES ENERGY RESISTANCE AND MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR YOU TO BE SET ON FIRE. BOTH ARM PIECES HAVE BEEN STRENGTHENED TO REDUCE LIMB DAMAGE, AND THE LEAD-LINED LEGS GRANT A BIT OF RADIATION RESISTANCE.

MODIFIED STURDY RAIDER ARMOR

THIS STURDY RAIDER ARMOR HAS BEEN CUSTOMIZED FOR CLOSE COMBAT. EVERY PIECE HAS BEEN BUTTRESSED TO PROVIDE EXTRA PROTECTION. THE CHEST PIECE'S PNEUMATIC MOD

REDUCES THE MAGNITUDE OF INCOMING STAGGERS. WEIGHTED ARMS ALLOW PUNCHING ATTACKS AND MELEE ATTACKS TO IGNORE SOME OF YOUR TARGET'S ARMOR, AND CUSTOM-FITTED LEGS REDUCE THE ACTION POINT COST FOR SPRINTING.

POWER ARMOR MODS

With the right mods, you can assemble a suit of Power Armor that provides unbeatable protection and unmatched utility. Damage mitigation is just the beginning—Power Armor mods can offer everything from custom paint jobs to integrated electronic devices.

You can earn modified parts by completing quests or defeating appropriately equipped enemies, but if you plan to craft your Power Armor mods, invest in all available ranks of the Science!, Blacksmith, and Armorer perks. You'll need a supply of rare components, but collecting adhesive, aluminum, and circuitry is a good place to start.

BASE MODS

Base mods determine the Damage Resistance and Energy Resistance offered by a piece of Power Armor. Raider Power Armor only offers two base mods (standard and welded), but more advanced models of Power Armor offer six levels of protection.

MATERIAL MODS

Most Power Armor parts offer slots for material mods. Options like lead plating, winterized coating, and explosive shielding grant bonuses as soon as they're applied. In many cases, you must apply matching material mods to all Power Armor parts before a bonus is activated. Unlock additional Power Armor material mods by collecting Hot Rodder magazines and earning the trust of various factions.

Aside from Raider Power Armor (for which there are no material mods), each model of Power Armor offers at least one unique paint scheme:

- COMPLETE THE MINUTEMEN QUEST: WHEN FREEDOM CALLS TO UNLOCK A MINUTEMEN PAINT SCHEME FOR T-45 POWER ARMOR.
- COMPLETE THE RAILROAD QUEST: TRADECRAFT TO UNLOCK A RAILROAD PAINT SCHEME FOR T-51 POWER ARMOR.
- COMPLETE MISCELLANEOUS QUEST: ATOM CATS TO UNLOCK AN ATOM CATS PAINT SCHEME FOR T-60 POWER ARMOR.
- COMPLETE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: SHADOW OF STEEL TO UNLOCK A BOS PAINT SCHEME FOR T-60 POWER ARMOR. EARN PROMOTIONS TO UNLOCK RANK-BASED VARIATIONS.
- COMPLETE THE INSTITUTE QUEST: NUCLEAR FAMILY TO UNLOCK AN INSTITUTE PAINT SCHEME FOR X-01 POWER ARMOR.

MISCELLANEOUS MODS

Miscellaneous mods grant powerful bonuses to individual parts. Arm mods tend to improve different aspects of unarmed combat, while leg mods offer effects like improved sprinting, increased carrying capacity, and larger impact landings. In most Power Armor torsos, miscellaneous mods can add extra features like jetpacks, medic pumps, and tesla coils. Helmets can be modified to improve target acquisition or remove radiation from items you consume. Of course, this is only the beginning—you'll find a variety of useful mods for every piece of Power Armor.

THE MAGIC OF MODS

SAMPLE POWER ARMOR MODIFICATIONS

MODIFIED RAIDER POWER ARMOR

THIS SUIT OF RAIDER POWER ARMOR IS GEARED TOWARD UNARMED COMBAT. EVERY PIECE OF THIS SUIT HAS BEEN REINFORCED WITH WELDED PLATES. BOTH ARMS FEATURE RUSTY KNUCKLE MODS

THAT ADD BLEEDING DAMAGE TO UNARMED ATTACKS, AND THE LEGS INCLUDE OVERDRIVE SERVOS TO INCREASE SPRINT SPEED. THE TORSO'S ONBOARD MEDIC PUMP AUTOMATICALLY USES A STIMPAK WHEN YOUR HEALTH GETS TOO LOW, AND THE HELMET'S RAD SCRUBBERS MAKE IT SAFE TO TOP OFF YOUR HEALTH WITH IRRADIATED WATER.

MODIFIED T-60 POWER ARMOR

THIS SUIT OF T-60 POWER ARMOR HAS BEEN MODIFIED FOR EXTRA MOBILITY AND IMPROVED V.A.T.S. USAGE. EVERY PIECE OF THIS SUIT HAS BEEN UPGRADED WITH

MODEL F MODS FOR BETTER PROTECTION. THE TORSO INCLUDES A JETPACK FOR INCREASED MOBILITY AND ON-DEMAND IMPACT LANDINGS. THE HELMET'S V.A.T.S. MATRIX INCREASES V.A.T.S.' HIT CHANCE, AND THE CUSTOM HOT-ROD FLAMES PAINT SCHEME BOOSTS AGILITY. BOTH ARMS ARE EQUIPPED WITH OPTIMIZED BRACERS THAT REDUCE THE ACTION POINT COST OF POWER ATTACKS, AND THE LEGS HAVE KINETIC SERVOS THAT INCREASE AP REFRESH SPEED WHILE YOU'RE IN MOTION.

MODIFIED X-01 POWER ARMOR

THIS SUIT OF X-01 POWER ARMOR HAS BEEN CUSTOMIZED FOR MELEE COMBAT. EVERY PIECE HAS BEEN UPGRADED WITH MK. VI MODS AND TITANIUM PLATING FOR DAMAGE MITIGATION

AND DURABILITY. THE TORSO'S TESLA COILS DEAL ENERGY DAMAGE TO NEARBY ENEMIES. THE HELMET'S TARGETING HUD HIGHLIGHTS LIVING CREATURES, MAKING IT MUCH EASIER TO SPOT POTENTIAL THREATS. THE LEGS' OPTIMIZED SERVOS REDUCE THE ACTION POINT COST FOR SPRINTING, AND THE ARMS' OPTIMIZED BRACERS REDUCE THE ACTION POINT COST FOR POWER ATTACKS.

AMMO

What good is a gun without ammo? All ammunition is weightless, so there's never a reason to avoid collecting it. Your level determines which ammo types can appear in containers or on defeated enemies. However, there are a few types of ammo that only appear at specific locations. You'll find plenty of ammo scattered throughout the Commonwealth, but when you're running low on a specific type, head to the nearest trader to see what's in stock.

QUESTS

INTRODUCTION: HELPING OTHERS TO HELP YOURSELF

Quality of life depends on the friends you make.
Understand the predicament you are facing.
Escape situations you find uncomfortable.
Study before making life-changing decisions.
Trust in yourself to adapt over time.

It has come to our attention that the vault dweller's continued well-being outside in the Commonwealth is dependent upon working on a variety of tasks. Some are simple activities designed to make friends, win favor, improve combat, seek an interesting item or two, or to stave off the feeling of hopelessness and dread you may be experiencing. Others are complex, multistage explorations that may lead to difficult decisions that you cannot take back and that change the Commonwealth forever.

At this time, you may be feeling overwhelmed. Don't worry; this is perfectly natural. Please consult your vault doctor for the correct dosage of chems to ease this anxiety.

The vast array of quests available show up in the Data > Quests menu of your Pip-Boy. RobCo Industries is proud to show a list of all activities you can undertake. On the left side of the Quests screen are the names of your quests. On the right side of the screen is a brief description of the objective you have reached in the highlighted quest, and underneath is the objective itself.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR PIP-BOY SHOULD BE SECOND NATURE TO A SEASONED EXPLORER. BUT ARE YOU MORE OF A TIMID TIMMY? WELL, MAKE SURE YOU HIGHLIGHT THE QUEST YOU'RE INTERESTED IN, WHILE OPTIONALLY TURNING OFF ANY OTHER QUESTS THAT CAN WAIT UNTIL LATER. THAT WAY YOU CAN SEE HIGHLIGHTED MARKERS ON YOUR WORLD MAP AND COMPASS POINTING YOU IN THE CORRECT DIRECTION. THIS EVEN WORKS WITH MISCELLANEOUS QUESTS AS LONG AS YOU HIGHLIGHT THE OBJECTIVE FIRST. ARE THERE TOO MANY MARKERS CLOGGING UP YOUR VIEW? THEN HIGHLIGHT ONLY THE QUEST YOU NEED DIRECTIONS FOR. OR BETTER YET, REMAIN COMFORTABLY AND SENSIBLY UNDERGROUND.

If a quest doesn't have a name, it is noted as "miscellaneous." These are one or more objectives and aren't usually related to each other. Some of these may lead to quests. Others may lead to more straightforward, smaller victories. Or traps.

QUESTING THE VAULT-TEC WAY

Comprehensive and thorough scientific testing projections using the SimTek 5000 indicate the necessity to further separate and define the types of quests available to you on your travels. These are divided into the following groupings:

MAIN QUESTS

It appears you have woken from your cryogenetic slumber, Vault Dweller. These quests chart the progress you're likely to take to reunite yourself with your offspring, and as deemed to be the quests most important to you, they are referenced first.

INSTITUTE QUESTS

This faction of important scientists has a distinct vision of the Commonwealth, and you're able to play an integral role in helping realize this. Meet a man named Father during your Main Quest, and seek further information then.

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUESTS

After an unequivocal arrival, this military fraternity of honor-bound technology salvagers requires your assistance in helping their cause. Should you wish to work with Paladin Danse and eventually Elder Maxson, find out more in this section.

THE RAILROAD QUESTS

A clandestine group of synth sympathizers led by Desdemona, the Railroad needs your help in ferrying the downtrodden to safety. Latest data shows the Railroad recently left a compromised home base close to Lexington. Perhaps the Freedom Trail holds the answer?

MINUTEMEN QUESTS

A ragtag band of surface dwellers, Preston Garvey and his crew want nothing more than a new society to blossom. Are you game to help establish settlements and trade routes and help fellow settlers build a new utopia? The aptly-named Museum of Freedom is where to find these folks.

SIDE QUESTS

Perhaps you'd like to meet and greet (or eventually maim) potential companions, rescue hapless fools who have gotten themselves in a bind, or solve a conundrum not linked to the main factions? Then try this pot-luck selection of disparate and unrelated activities.

LOCATION QUESTS

It's a large and frankly terrifying world out there. Fortunately, Vault-Tec is here to provide notes on which locations have one or more activities to undertake. Some are frivolous, but many offer monetary rewards, and some offer hope to those who need it. Seek them all in the Map chapter of this book.

RANDOM ENCOUNTERS

You have every right to be suspicious, as danger may arrive in many guises, at any time, and in every place you might wander. But a list of probable encounters can ease your consternation.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

WHERE ARE YOUR MAPS?

Each quest has a compilation of the most likely objectives available and the order you complete them. After that is a list of known locations to visit during the quest. Use the page numbers found in the location lists to find that area in the Map chapter. Usually it will be a schematic of the surface area, along with important items and an optimal path through the route. Combine both chapters while researching your quest and never be lost again!

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

LIKE A PEBBLE THROWN INTO A POND (A PREWAR POND OF COURSE, AS PRESENT-DAY PONDS ARE LIKELY TO DISSOLVE YOUR PEBBLE), YOUR ACTIONS CAUSE RIPPLE EFFECTS THAT MAY OR MAY NOT BE OBVIOUS TO YOU. CERTAIN FRIENDSHIPS WITH ONE SET OF PALS, AND THE TASKS THEY ASK YOU TO COMPLETE FOR THEM, MAY BE IN CONFLICT WITH ANOTHER GROUP'S WISHES. ARE YOU CONFLICTED ABOUT AN ACTION YOU'RE GOING TO UNDERTAKE? THEN PONDER THESE DECISIONS CAREFULLY AND CONSULT THIS CHAPTER. ALSO BE SURE TO MAKE EYE CONTACT WHEN TALKING TO OTHERS.

QUESTS: A BIG TABLE

Here is a big table. It lists all the quests Vault-Tec has predicted may be available on your travels. As always, the Vault-Tec Documentation Department's simulations guarantee close (but not 100 percent) accuracy.

Have a great—and careful—day!

HOW DO I SEARCH FOR MISCELLANEOUS OBJECTIVES?

Glad you asked: Any quest with an asterisk (*) will not appear on your Pip-Boy. What should you do? First, remain calm. Second, any unnamed quest appears under "M" for "Miscellaneous" in this chart. Fortunately, the location of the occurring quest is also listed, enabling you to look up the quest by location. So if you've discovered a new place to explore, check this chart (or the Map chapter) for evidence of quest activities before continuing.

MAIN QUEST: ACT I

Quest WAR NEVER CHANGES

Quest OUT OF TIME

1. EXIT VAULT 111
2. GO HOME
3. TALK TO CODSWORTH
4. SEARCH THE NEIGHBORHOOD WITH CODSWORTH
5. KILL THE INSECTS
6. INVESTIGATE CONCORD

YOU'RE ONE S.P.E.C.I.A.L. FAMILY

Rise and shine! After making some changes to your appearance, explore your domicile until there's a knock at the door. Great news! The Vault-Tec representative is here to help secure your future.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

PLEASE FILL IN THE REGISTRATION FORM TO THE BEST OF YOUR ABILITIES. LITERALLY. MADE A MISTAKE? DON'T WORRY, YOU CAN REASSIGN YOUR SPECIALS JUST BEFORE LEAVING VAULT 111.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

ESSENTIAL READING

GROGNAK THE BARBARIAN COMIC

Peruse the Grognaak the Barbarian comic in the kitchen and Shaun's You're S.P.E.C.I.A.L. book in your child's bedroom. Such reading materials offer excellent insights and statistical data to benefit your predicament, but only after exiting Vault 111.

When your day becomes a trifle more chaotic, follow the instructions of the government personnel and seek refuge inside Vault 111. Ignore the gnawing fear you might feel; this is quite natural. Please enter the decontamination pod.

SEEKING SANCTUARY AND SHAUN

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

RISE AND SHINE! IT IS PERFECTLY NORMAL TO FEEL SOMEWHAT GROGGY AFTER SPENDING AN EXTENDED PERIOD OF TIME INSIDE A CRYOSTASIS CAPSULE. PLEASE LOCATE YOUR VAULT DOCTOR FOR FURTHER ASSISTANCE. YOU ARE ALSO ENCOURAGED TO LEARN AND PERFECT THE ART OF ASSIGNING ITEMS AND WEAPONS TO YOUR FAVORITES MENU. TRY IT!

There's little time to make sense of your predicament. Follow the corridors of the vault to the overseer's terminal and open the evacuation tunnel.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

PEST CONTROL: INITIAL ARMAMENTS

10MM PISTOL

Don't leave home without a 10-mm pistol, ammunition, and the Pip-Boy, which you find at the vault door. Test your gun (or punching) skills on the Radroaches that inhabit this vault. The lack of cleanliness here is far from the norm for a Vault-Tec structure. Please accept our apologies.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING VAULT 111

HOLOTAPE GAME: RED MENACE CRYOLATOR

Thoroughly inspect Vault 111. Find your first Holotape for the popular Red Menace video game in the cafeteria terminal. The overseer's chamber has an impressive weapon—the Cryolator—locked in a secure cabinet (Master). Return at your convenience with the necessary lockpicking skill to obtain this impressive armament.

Head east and discover the settlement of Sanctuary. Locate Codsworth outside your old home and explore Sanctuary with him (or clear the area beforehand). Watch out for the poisonous spit of any Bloatflies you encounter.

Codsworth recommends widening the search for Shaun. Head southeast; you're likely to run into a friendly dog at the Red Rocket Truck Stop. He's sure to be a faithful companion. Perhaps the first of many.

DIAMOND IN THE ROUGH

It seems Diamond City is the best hope for gathering more information about Shaun. Getting there from Sanctuary is a long trek southeast.

Once you cross the bridge into the remains of the city, look for signs pointing you in the direction of the Diamond.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

IT'S GOOD TO HAVE OPTIONS: IF THE HOSTILES OF DOWNTOWN BOSTON DON'T SCARE YOU, THERE'S ALWAYS THE TOWNSHIP OF GOODNEIGHBOR TO LOCATE FIRST. TRY SPEAKING TO IRMA AT THE MEMORY DEN THERE; SHE MIGHT BE ABLE TO POINT YOU IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION AFTER YOU SIT FOR A FEW MINUTES.

The pond northwest of Concord is a breeding ground for Bloodbugs—a disgusting winged fly with filthy proboscis strikes.

But the real threat are the Raiders holed up in the town. This foul-mouthed bunch of psychotic wastrels favors any sort of weapon that mangles. They cannot be reasoned with.

Search the Museum of Freedom here to encounter Preston Garvey of the Minutemen. Consider helping his faction before moving on.

Otherwise, your exploration toward Boston continues.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

FEELING LOST? OVERWHELMED? ALL ALONE? DON'T FRET! FURTHER ADVICE ON YOUR CURRENT EXPLORATION IS NOW AVAILABLE ON YOUR PIP-BOY. BRING UP THE QUEST MENU FOR MORE DETAILS. IF YOU WISH TO INTERACT WITH PRESTON GARVEY (AND SEARCH CONCORD MORE THOROUGHLY), CONSULT THE "MINUTEMEN QUESTS" SECTION OF THIS GUIDE.

At the entrance, you run into a reporter named Piper. She tells you how to fool the guard on the intercom into letting you in.

At the entrance, speak with Mayor McDonough and get his thoughts on Piper. Then head into Diamond City Market.

Like to influence the powerful? Chat to the mayor about his situation with Piper if you wish.

Who can help you in this bustling market? Most are friendly folks, and asking any of the following provides a clue to your next move:

- DANNY SULLIVAN (THE GATE GUARD)
- PASTOR CLEMENTS (OF THE ALL FAITHS CHAPEL)
- NAT (PIPER'S KID SISTER, SELLING COPIES OF PUBLIC OCCURRENCES)
- PIPER (AFTER SHE INTERVIEWS YOU)
- MOE CRONIN (SWATTERS SALESMAN EXTRAORDINAIRE)

DIVERSIONS IN DIAMOND CITY

BIG BOY
OLD FAITHFUL
LIVE & LOVE 9

Vault-Tec has determined that this township has a number of entertaining diversions. Some of the most helpful include:

Speaking to Moe Cronin at Swatters and completing a couple of tasks for him, then pocketing some Caps.

Purchasing a variety of impressive weaponry (such as Big Boy and Old Faithful) and equipment from Commonwealth Weaponry and Diamond City Surplus.

Purchasing Health and Chems from Chem-I-Care.

Chatting with the locals in the Dugout Inn.

Exploring the mayor's office and starting the cap-collecting you'll need to purchase your own shack for 2,000 Bottlecaps.

Experimenting with trespassing and stealing. Anything flagged with red text isn't yours, but occasionally, some items can be pilfered, like Live & Love from the schoolhouse.

Be careful when stealing; you don't want the town to be furious with you!

Why not find out more about Freeform Activities while you're here? See page 433.

Visit the Valentine Detective Agency. It seems the hard-boiled detective Nick Valentine has gone missing. Ellie Perkins hopes you might lend a hand to help find him.

Charming Ellie Perkins allows you to shake her down for a few caps upon delivery of her boss.

Quest UNLIKELY VALENTINE

2. FREE NICK VALENTINE

3. TALK TO NICK VALENTINE
4. FOLLOW NICK VALENTINE

Locations to Explore

— VAULT 114 (PAGE 454)

FINDING AND FREEING NICK VALENTINE

Nick Valentine is your best lead in finding Shaun, but he's gone missing too. His last known location was Park Street Station, located at the northeast edge of Boston Common.

Gain access to the terminal either through hacking (Novice) or taking the password from Dino, the Triggerman guarding this area.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

REACHING PARK STREET STATION WILL TAKE YOU INTO THE HEART OF DOWNTOWN BOSTON. CHOOSE YOUR ROUTE AND BATTLES CAREFULLY. SOME CONFLICTS ARE BEST AVOIDED.

Once inside Park Street Station, follow the subway tunnels and enter Vault 114. You'll face the Triggermen throughout, a group of armed thugs who favor submachine guns.

Shortly after entering Vault 114, you discover Nick Valentine is being held in the overseer's office. The door is locked and by a nearby terminal.

After a brief conversation, Nick will guide your escape from Vault 114.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING VAULT 114

BOBBLEHEAD: SPEECH
ASTOUNDINGLY AWESOME TALES

A thorough search of the subway and vault yields some surprises, such as a thirst-quenching Nuka Cola Quantum and some essential reading materials. But the overseer's office has perhaps the best prize: a limited-edition and official Vault-Tec Speech Bobblehead!

As you and Nick leave Vault 114, you're confronted by Skinny Malone, the gang's boss. He'll be joined by Darla and their bodyguards.

Quest GETTING A CLUE

1. GO TO VALENTINE'S DETECTIVE AGENCY
2. TALK TO ELLIE
3. SIT DOWN
4. TELL NICK YOUR STORY
5. FOLLOW NICK
6. GET THE KEY TO KELLOGG'S HOUSE
7. INVESTIGATE KELLOGG'S HOUSE
8. FOLLOW NICK
9. SHOW DOGMEAT THE CIGAR

THE SECRETS OF KELLOGG'S HOUSE

Now that you and Nick are becoming acquainted, he invites you for a sit-down chat about Shaun. Apparently a man named Kellogg could be involved. Head over to Kellogg's house in Diamond City. The front door is locked.

Unlock the door by using a bobby pin (Master) or by visiting the mayor's office and asking for the key. They're understandably reluctant to hand out keys to strangers. Unless you bribe Geneva the receptionist with 250 Caps.

Or, you can charm Geneva into handing you the keys, or use your Charisma on Mayor McDonough. It's the cheaper option.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

FEELING CONFLICTED ABOUT FAST-TALKING THE SLOW-WITTED? DON'T BE! IT'S USUALLY BETTER TO USE YOUR CHARISMA (OR CAPS) TO SOLVE PROBLEMS, THOUGH STEALING THE KEY IS ALWAYS AVAILABLE FOR THOSE OF A SNEAKY DISPOSITION.

You enter Kellogg's house and poke around—literally, as there's a button under his desk to open a secret door. Press it.

Inspect the secret room for clues, including Kellogg's favorite brand of cigars. Exit and meet with Dogmeat. Show him a cigar to pick up the scent. Nick heads back to his office, though he can tag along with you if you wish.

— FORT HAGEN (PAGE 308)

DOGMEAT'S NOSE KNOWS

Dogmeat has the scent of Kellogg. Follow him out of the Fens, exit Diamond City, and head to the small pond to the southwest.

Something stinks on that ruined deck.

Dogmeat follows the trail along the railroad tracks. Search the freeway underpass for signs of Kellogg's blood. Prepare for more four-legged fiends; you encounter Wild Mongrels farther along the railroad tracks.

Search a metal railroad shack for evidence of a well-prepared trap expert, partial to a tippie of Gwinnett Stout.

The trail continues across a bridge. Fend off a shambling horde of Feral Ghouls. Locate the remains of an Assaultron and speak to it.

You'll head up into the woods to the perimeter of Fort Hagen, where more mutated wildlife (Wild Mongrels and Radstag Does) roam. Search for bloodied bandages. Then run to the exterior of Fort Hagen, where the trail goes cold at the blocked entrance.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

WATCH FOR MACHINE-GUN TURRETS ON THE ROOF. HOWEVER, THEY AREN'T SO PROFICIENT AT PUNCTURING YOU IF YOU SCALE THE ROOF AND REMOVE THEM FROM BEHIND THEIR FIRING RADIUS.

CONFRONTING KELLOGG

Enter Fort Hagen either by a roof hatch or by an underground parking lot exit door. Once inside, prepare to face numerous synths, humanoid machines that use laser weaponry. Also beware of laser turrets; check nearby terminals to shut them down.

Use the elevator to descend to the basement level. Expect fierce resistance from the synths. Access the command center and search for a wood-paneled office. It's here that Kellogg lets you in to face him.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING FORT HAGEN

BOBBLEHEAD: ENERGY WEAPONS GUNS AND BULLETS
U.S. COVERT OPERATIONS MANUAL

A methodical approach to exploring Fort Hagen yields copious amounts of armaments and ammo, health and chems, and traps to disarm. Become well read by finding both Guns and Bullets (issue #2) and the U.S. Covert Operations Manual number 6. But the big prize is in the kitchens of the command center—another limited-edition and official Vault-Tec Bobblehead!

Deal with Kellogg and his synth bodyguards, and don't leave the area without Kellogg's terminal password or his Cybernetic Brain Augmenter.

Exit via a nearby elevator after accessing Kellogg's terminal and unlocking the security doors. There's a pistol here, too.

Quest SHATTERED

1. EXPLORE KELLOGG'S MEMORIES
2. TALK TO DOCTOR AMARI

LOUNGING AROUND AT THE MEMORY DEN

Kellogg has kindly allowed you to use a bit of his brain—the Cybernetic Brain Augmenter—to delve deep into his memories. Gather it from Fort Hagen (as part of the previous quest, “Reunions”).

YOU'RE MORE THAN A MEMORY NOW

Wander through the ethereal strands of Kellogg's memory. You can watch the scene, interact with the figures in the memory, or find the continuation of the string path and skip the memory. The last memory (involving a child and an Institute Courser) seems most interesting.

Ready to leave? Then access the television in this memory. Back in the Memory Den, speak to Doctor Amari about an old Institute scientist to visit. Then depart the Memory Den, optionally talking to Nick on the way out for a different kind of conversation.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

HAVE YOU SAID HELLO TO THE VARIOUS FRIENDLY FACTIONS OF THE COMMONWEALTH YET? AFTER EMERGING FROM FORT HAGEN, YOU SEE A HUGE AIRSHIP HEADING FOR BOSTON AIRPORT. THAT MUST BELONG TO THE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL, WHO ARE ALSO ACTIVE AT CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION. YOU MIGHT HAVE HEARD OF THE FREEDOM TRAIL (IN BOSTON COMMON) FROM SCUTTLEBUTT IN DIAMOND CITY. WHY NOT LEARN SOME HISTORY AND CONTACT THE RAILROAD TOO? AND DON'T FORGET TO HELP OUT THE MINUTEMEN BACK IN CONCORD; NOW'S A GREAT TIME TO START MAKING FRIENDS!

Follow Nick Valentine's advice and locate Doctor Amari. This involves a trip into Boston, through the ruins of the Financial District, to the rough-and-tumble fortified settlement of Goodneighbor. Greet the locals, then head to the Memory Den. Irma owns this establishment.

Down in the basement, converse with Doctor Amari. After Nick Valentine volunteers to help out, you're invited to sit in the lounge to experience snippets of Kellogg's past.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

GOODNEIGHBORLY ADVICE

Though Goodneighbor may seem to lack good social graces, spend some time here and you may discover the settlement's finer qualities. There's good trading opportunities at Daisy's Discount store. Mayor Hancock may be eccentric, but he seems like a decent fellow. The Memory Den houses Kent Connolly, the biggest Silver Shroud fan in the Commonwealth. For the variety of activities offered here, consult the Map Chapter entry for this location, on page 483.

Quest THE GLOWING SEA

1. FIND VIRGIL IN THE GLOWING SEA

Locations to Explore

- CRATER OF ATOM (PAGE 361)
- ROCKY CAVE (VIRGIL'S LABORATORY) (PAGE 363)

AN INHOSPITABLE OCEAN

Kellogg's memories and Doctor Amari's advice indicate you should locate an escaped Institute scientist. His last known position was deep in the most irradiated region of the Commonwealth—the Glowing Sea.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

DID YOU KNOW THAT YOUR CHANCES OF SURVIVAL DECREASE DRAMATICALLY IF YOU'RE IMPROPERLY EQUIPPED FOR A TRIP INTO AN IRRADIATED ZONE? DON'T LET YOURSELF SUCCUMB TO RADIATION SICKNESS: REMEMBER THIS THREE-POINT PLAN:

1. PREVENTION! PURCHASE, SCAVENGE, OR CRAFT ALL THE RAD-X AND RADAWAY YOU'LL NEED FOR THIS JAUNT.
2. PROTECTION! HAZMAT SUITS MUST BE WORN AT ALL TIMES WHEN ENTERING IRRADIATED ZONES. HOWEVER, THEY OFFER LITTLE PROTECTION AGAINST ANY HOSTILES YOU MAY ENCOUNTER.
3. POWER! WANT THE VERY BEST IN BOTH PREVENTION AND PROTECTION? USE POWER ARMOR FOR THE DURATION OF YOUR TRIP.

Commence the long trek southwest, following the remains of the freeway until your Pip-Boy indicates a hike off-road is in order. Expect to face Radscorpions, Feral Ghouls, and other irradiated wildlife. When you reach the map marker, you are close to the Crater of the Atom.

Warning! You are trespassing when you enter the location of a strange cult, led by Mother Isolde. Though violence is always an option (search the area of a scrap of paper indicating a nearby cave), you can:

- LOWER YOUR WEAPON AND SPEAK TO MOTHER ISOLDE. ANSWER HER POLITELY. SHE DIRECTS YOU TO A NEARBY CAVE.

(Medium) Tell her you need information if you wish.

Locate the Rocky Cave roughly southwest of the Crater of the Atom. Watch for, or sneak past, the roaming Deathclaw.

You'll find Virgil inside this cave. He requests you help him locate a serum within the Institute in return for his knowledge.

(Medium) You have two opportunities to be inquisitive or secretive with your conversation.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

SEEKING VIRGIL'S SERUM: MISCELLANEOUS QUESTING

Virgil mentions a serum he requires. Helping him won't achieve your overall goals, but if you're an amenable sort, you can help. Find out more about this Miscellaneous Quest on page 363.

VIRGIL'S RIFLE

You also have the option to kill Virgil, or steal his unique laser rifle, which is a blast against super mutants!

Quest HUNTER/HUNTED

1. TRAVEL TO C.I.T.
2. TUNE TO COURSER'S RADIO FREQUENCY
3. USE THE COURSER'S RADIO FREQUENCY TO TRACK COURSER
4. KILL THE COURSER
5. RECOVER COURSER CHIP

- GREENTECH GENETICS (PAGE 415)

THE CAMBRIDGE COURSER

Virgil recommends infiltrating the Institute, an organization so secretive no surface dweller knows where their base of operations is. As they rely on teleportation, Virgil recommends you travel to the old C.I.T. ruins and use your Pip-Boy to pick up a signal from a Courser. Retrace your steps from the Glowing Sea, heading northeast into Cambridge. Locate the ruins of the old C.I.T. building.

Once here, select your Pip-Boy > Radio > Courser Signal. You hear a pinging noise. The pinging increases with frequency the closer you are to the Courser. Follow this audible trail to the Greentech Genetics building. The structure is tall with a rusting green façade; you can't miss it.

THE UNSYMPATHETIC SYNTH

Enter the Greentech Genetics building. You stumble into a battle between Gunners, an armed militia who favor all types of weaponry as well as an abundance of turrets. There's also an unknown group farther up the tower.

Ascend the facility until you reach the Courser Z2-47. You can chat, but the conversation devolves into combat. Remove the chip from his corpse.

LOOTING GREENTECH GENETICS

Did you make the most of your time at Greentech Genetics? A thorough inspection of all rooms yields some excellent results, including three Fusion Cores for your Power Armor, a delicious Nuka Cola Quantum, and some required reading. There is also a synth named K1-98 to free, close to the Courser's location (Miscellaneous Quest, page 416).

Doctor Amari knows about synth technology, so visit her in Goodneighbor at the Memory Den. She suggests contacting the Railroad.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

FACTIONS AND THE ROAD TO FREEDOM

Have you made contact with the Railroad yet? If not, it is imperative you complete the Railroad Quest: Road to Freedom (page 155). You cannot advance your current quest until this occurs. This is also the last recommended opportunity to gain beneficial support from the Minutemen and the Brotherhood of Steel. Why not see what these three factions have to offer you? You'll be glad you did!

Enter the old church and access the Railroad HQ. A conversation with the Railroad leader, Desdemona, allows you to have the Courser Chip analyzed by Tinker Tom. Leave the Railroad HQ via the escape tunnel; this way you can remove the chain to the secret door and access this location more easily in the future.

Enter Virgil's laboratory back in the Glowing Sea. After updating him, he hands you some plans.

SIGNAL INTERCEPTOR PLANS

MAKING PLANS

You may have plans for a teleportation device, but building it is another matter. Fortunately, there are four different methods to accomplish this goal. The following assumes you are on friendly terms with each faction.

Method #1: Brotherhood Steel

Head to the Cambridge Police Station, and fight off any Feral Ghouls as part of Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Fire Support. Speak to Paladin Danse about the signal interceptor. He'll allow Brotherhood resources to help you, providing you complete Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Call to Arms first.

Once you finish the quest, you can speak to the faction scientist Proctor Ingram about clues to constructing the signal interceptor.

Method #2: Minutemen Mettle

Preston Garvey can help your cause, too, providing you finish the Minutemen Quest: When Freedom Calls. Head to Sanctuary (or whichever settlement you instructed him to move to) and ask Preston about the signal interceptor. He hopes you'll help out with some settlers first. Complete the Minutemen Quest: The First Step before you can receive help from this faction.

Once you finish the quest, you can speak to the faction scientist Sturges about clues to constructing the signal interceptor.

Method #3: Railroad Resolution

Return to the Old North Church, and speak with Desdemona about the signal interceptor. She hopes you'll join the cause.

To prove yourself, you must complete the Railroad Quest: Tradecraft with Deacon before you can receive help from this faction.

Once you finish the quest, you can speak to the faction scientist Tinker Tom about clues to constructing the signal interceptor.

Method #4: Misanthropic Moxie

Or, you can ignore all three factions and build a signal interceptor on your own, at any settlement workshop you have uncovered.

BUILDING A BETTER TELEPORTER

Construction of the signal interceptor now begins in earnest. Clear an area of ground in one of your settlements (such as Sanctuary), and use the workshop to access the Special menu.

Under Construction: Stabilized Reflector Platform

Time to construct the Stabilized Reflector Platform:

- | | |
|--------------------|------------------|
| Build with: | Requires: |
| - ALUMINUM (10) | - POWER (3) |
| - CIRCUITRY (3) | |
| - STEEL (5) | |

STABILIZED REFLECTOR PLATFORM

Great work! Now chat with the faction scientist if you want to know about each special piece of junk required for the beam emitter, relay dish, and console. Remember you need to scavenge for the regular build parts, too.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

UNCOMMON SCAVENGING

Sourcing uncommon parts can be troublesome, so remember where to look to avoid unnecessary traipsing across the Commonwealth:

The beam emitter requires a military-grade circuit board. These are located in military sites (usually shown on your Pip-Boy map as a star within a circle icon).

The relay dish requires a sensor module. Acquire this in telecom sites or other tall structures, such as Trinity Tower.

The Console requires a biometric scanner, usually found in hospitals (shown as a cross within a circle icon).

Don't worry! Your Pip-Boy is preprogrammed to point you toward the location where the item is guaranteed to be! Simply refer to the maps of the location for floor plans of the interior and other pertinent data. Thanks, Vault-Tec!

Under Construction: Beam Emitter

- | | |
|--------------------|---------------------|
| Build with: | Requires: |
| - RUBBER (2) | - MILITARY-GRADE |
| - STEEL (10) | - CIRCUIT BOARD (1) |
| - COPPER (1) | - CIRCUITRY (1) |
| | - POWER (20) |

BEAM EMITTER

Fantastic tinkering! Now for the next part of the teleport.

Under Construction: Relay Dish

- | | |
|--------------------|---------------------|
| Build with: | Requires: |
| - COPPER (3) | - GOLD (3) |
| - STEEL (3) | - SENSOR MODULE (1) |
| - CLOTH (6) | - POWER (5) |

RELAY DISH

Amazing engineering abilities! Now fit the console together.

Under Construction: Console

- | | |
|--------------------|-------------------------|
| Build with: | Requires: |
| - RUBBER (2) | - STEEL (5) |
| - COPPER (3) | - BIOMETRIC SCANNER (1) |
| | - POWER (2) |

CONSOLE

Truly first-class fabrication! Now be sure you connect everything: Access the Power > Generators part of your workshop, and build enough generators to power the entire device. Then attach wires from each generator to a component, so they power up. If you're correct, you can (optionally) talk to your faction scientist and use the signal interceptor.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

DID YOU KNOW THAT EACH FACTION HAS ITS OWN REASONS FOR OBTAINING DATA FROM THE INSTITUTE? WHEN SPEAKING TO YOUR CHOSEN FACTION SCIENTIST, YOU MAY BE ASKED TO LOAD DATA FROM AN INSTITUTE TERMINAL ONTO A HOLOTAPE. BEFORE YOU AGREE, WHY NOT FIND OUT MORE BY CONSULTING THE RELATED QUESTS? REMEMBER: MENTAL CLARITY IS MOST IMPORTANT WHEN AGREEING TO TASKS YOU MIGHT NOT FULLY UNDERSTAND!

RELATED QUEST: BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: FROM WITHIN (PAGE 139).

RELATED QUEST: THE MINUTEMEN QUEST: INSIDE JOB (PAGE 175).

RELATED QUEST: THE RAILROAD QUEST: UNDERGROUND UNDERCOVER (PAGE 156).

2. MEET THE DIVISION LEADERS

- Locations to Explore
- – THE INSTITUTE (PAGE 409)

LIKE FATHER LIKE SON

The teleportation is a success. You reach the Institute. Listen to the voice directing you. Oblige the voice, and you soon find a man named Father, who runs the Institute.

After speaking with him and agreeing to join the Institute (an offer you can rescind at a later date), you are free to explore the facility.

Access Institute Bioscience and meet Doctor Clayton Holdren.

Find Chief Engineer Allie Filmore in the main concourse.

Access Institute SRB and meet acting director of the Synth Retention Bureau, Justin Ayo. He doesn't seem to trust you.

(Medium) Ask him about trusting you, if you wish.

Access Institute Advanced Systems and meet Doctor Madison Li, who installs a relay into your Pip-Boy, allowing Fast-Travel to and from this location.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

FURTHER INSTITUTE INSIGHT

Once this quest is over, you have complete freedom to continue working for your chosen faction(s):

You can continue to help out the Brotherhood of Steel, the Railroad, or the Minutemen by installing the Holotape you were given in your previous quest. The terminal to download data from is close to your teleportation landing spot.

You can start to help out the Institute, too.

At some point (covered in the Faction quests), you need to choose a faction you deem most beneficial to your needs. When that happens, Main Quest: Act III begins.

Remember: These decisions are not to be taken lightly!

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

THE FINAL ACT

Congratulations! You've made it to the end of Act III! But what about your continuing progress in your search for answers? Now your focus shifts to helping one (or more) of the major factions (literally) vying for power in the Commonwealth. You must now complete as many main faction quests as you wish, before picking a side to ally with: Only then will you feel a sense of true accomplishment.

THE INSTITUTE QUESTS

To begin the first of this faction's quests, you must complete Main Quest: Institutionalized, find Father, and agree to his request. You are free to continue Institute operations for as long as you wish. Please be aware that your relationships with the other main factions—the Brotherhood of Steel, the Railroad, and the Minutemen—may be negatively affected the more Institute quests you complete. It seems you can't be friends with everybody.

The following Institute quests become available:

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

A DIRECT PATH ISN'T ALWAYS THE SAFEST PATH! TO REACH NAHANT, VAULT-TEC TOPOGRAPHICAL RADAR TECHNOLOGY SUGGESTS HEADING NORTHEAST THROUGH CHARLESTON, FOLLOWING THE MAIN ROAD TO COUNTY CROSSING, THEN CLEARING THE GIBSON POINT AREA OF HOSTILES. THEN IT'S A SHORT JAUNT TO LYNN PIER PARKING AND SOUTHEAST INTO THE COASTAL SETTLEMENT OF NAHANT. THE ALTERNATIVE? SWIMMING OUT FROM REVERE BEACH, WHICH IS BOTH DANGEROUS AND HIGHLY UNORTHODOX.

Begin your assault on this large Raider camp by sweeping the planks and rusting boats for enemies and neutralizing any turrets. You can swim to the rogue synth's location—the shanty tower built on the stern of a sunken tanker—or you can summon a small shack platform from the trash boat and ride it without getting your feet wet.

Climb up to and enter the captain's cabin, and X6-88 informs you of the rogue synth's reset code. Speak to Gabriel. You can:

- SLAY HIM AND HIS TWO LIEUTENANTS.
- RESET HIM, AND SLAY HIS TWO LIEUTENANTS.

Nahant township has been mostly picked clean of high-value collectibles, but the Libertalia Raider camp has loot to gather. There's some essential reading and a unique shotgun to claim from the captain's cabin area.

This mission is deemed successful either way. Return to the Institute and speak with Father. You're granted your own quarters with some useful supplies. Head there and speak to X6-88.

RAISING HELL AT BUNKER HILL

Father has another task for you—recover the synthetics that have escaped from the Institute and fled to Bunker Hill. Optionally gather supplies and ammunition for this assault (trading at the Institute's synth equipment vendor). Then decide where your loyalties lie:

- THE INSTITUTE REQUIRES YOU TO RENDEZVOUS WITH A COURSER IN THE NARROW ALLEYS OF THE CHARLESTON NEIGHBORHOOD AND COMPLETE THE QUEST AS ORDERED.
- THE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL REQUIRES YOU TO DESTROY THE SYNTHS: YOUR ENEMIES DURING THIS BATTLE ARE INSTITUTE AND RAILROAD FORCES.
- THE RAILROAD REQUIRES YOU TO FREE THE TRAPPED SYNTHS. YOUR ENEMIES DURING THIS BATTLE ARE INSTITUTE AND BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL FORCES.
- THE MINUTEMEN HAVE NO LOYALTY TO ANY OTHER FACTION, OR A DIRECT INVOLVEMENT IN THIS QUEST. BUNKER HILL BECOMES A SETTLEMENT YOU CAN DEVELOP ONCE THIS QUEST HAS BEEN COMPLETED.

Even if you're not loyal to the Institute, the Institute Quest: Mankind—Redefined will still be available after this quest.

Did You Know?

SOMETIMES IT'S TRICKY TO KNOW WHO YOUR BUDDIES ARE IN THESE PARTS! WHO CAN YOU TRUST? THAT'S A JUDGMENT CALL ONLY YOU CAN MAKE, BUT IT'S ALWAYS BETTER TO MEET UP WITH THE LEADERS OF THE DIFFERENT FACTIONS, PAL AROUND WITH THEM FOR A FEW JAUNTS, AND WAIT UNTIL YOU'RE ASKED TO COMPLETE A TASK YOU FIND MORALLY REPREHENSIBLE. IF YOU'RE STILL FINE WITH FOLLOWING THOSE ORDERS, YOU KNOW YOU'VE MADE SOME FRIENDS FOR LIFE!

The following assumes you are allied with the Institute. During your rendezvous with Courser X4-18, you receive some synth recall codes.

(Hard) Request a clutch of Synth Beacon Grenades, allowing you to summon teleporting synthetics to aid you. They appear where you throw these projectiles.

Keeping the residents of Bunker Hill on your side yields dividends if you're out to expand your magazine collection, your unique weapons armory, and even your settlements! Deb sells ammunition, Tony Savoldi offers you a place to stay, and Kay can patch you up. Bear that in mind before choosing sides; err on the side of the Minutemen if you're wanting to utilize these services.

SYNTH EXTRACTION DEPENDS ON YOUR FACTION

Working with the Courser, engage in a protracted firefight against your chosen enemies. Battle your way into this stronghold, and access the utility basement trapdoor.

The interior contains machine-gun turrets and additional enemies. Find the synthetics in a subterranean living quarters. Your definition of "freeing" each of them depends on your faction loyalties.

You can:

- RESET THEM (AS PER INSTITUTE INSTRUCTIONS).
- KILL THEM (AS PER BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL INSTRUCTIONS).
- FREE THEM (AS PER RAILROAD INSTRUCTIONS).

Optionally gather Caps from one when prompted—before your decision, if you wish. Then extract yourself from Bunker Hill.

Head west across Cambridge to the C.I.T. Ruins (north of the river), and find one of the many ground-floor entrances into the rotunda. Synthetics are advancing on a Super Mutant position throughout the three floors here. Ascend to the roof and explain yourself to Father.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

HAVE YOU PACKED ENOUGH PROVISIONS AND SUPPLIES? YOU KNOW YOUR LOVED ONES MIGHT WORRY IF YOU HAVEN'T GATHERED ENOUGH HEALTHY SNACKS AND RADIATION-SUPPRESSING CHEMS. AS THE ENVIRONMENT INSIDE MASS FUSION IS EXTREMELY HOSTILE, BUNDLE UP IN PROPER PROTECTIVE ATTIRE. POWER ARMOR IS A GREAT CHOICE HERE.

MASS CONFUSION

You relay to the Mass Fusion skyscraper roof, in the Financial District of Boston. After neutralizing all threats, descend one floor to the executive suites, and locate the balcony desk before the room with the Executive Research Lab Terminal. Gather the following from the desk:

MASS FUSION EXECUTIVE LAB PASSWORD

MASS FUSION EXECUTIVE ID

Now you can access the Executive Research Lab Terminal (Advanced) with a password. Read the personal intramails; the item you seek is in the facility's basement. And you're on the roof.

At the elevator, swipe the Mass Fusion Executive ID through the card reader. Ride the elevator all the way down, taking pot shots at enemy forces along the way. When the coast is clear, you can:

(Optional) Locate the circuit breaker in the chamber to the north and above your current position. Flip the breaker to power the elevator. Then return, swipe the ID card, and ride the elevator down to the lobby, maximizing enemy casualties as you go.

Locate the room to the north of your current position. Locate the Mass Fusion Labs Key on the desk. Use it to open the door to the adjacent chamber with the hole in the floor. Drop down, and continue a manual descent through the floors to the lobby, removing any potential enemy threats along the way.

MASS FUSION LABS KEY

Expect more enemy resistance in the lobby. Search for the service elevator, swiping your ID card to access it.

TESLA SCIENCE MAGAZINE NUKA CHERRY

As you fight through Mass Fusion, gather a few choice items—the Nuka Cherry in the laboratory on the roof; a copy of Tesla Science to the south on the uppermost accessible level once you're in the tower (grab it before you take the elevator down to the lobby); and a Steamer Trunk and Hazmat Suit in the reactor chamber, handy for the automated greeters you encounter once the Beryllium Agitator is yours.

BERYLLIUM AGITATION

After stepping into the decontamination area (press that button!), move into the reactor chamber. Press the interlock release and activate the agitator receptacle. Grab what you came here for.

BERYLLIUM AGITATOR

The facility's robotic defenses are automatically activated. Reach the outer reactor room and engage a Sentry Bot and Protectron. After using your ID card to open the main door, bring your defenses to bear on an Assaultron. Then ascend the stairs to nullify another Protectron without being scorched by a laser turret.

Exit to the lobby. If you have the ammunition and abilities, help Institute forces rid the lobby of threats. Then rendezvous with Allie Filmore back inside the Institute.

Thanks to your success at Mass Fusion, plans to power up the Institute reactor are moving forward but the process has stalled somewhat as a scientist named Wallace hasn't arrived at the facility. Relay out from the Institute, and head west from Cambridge to Graygardens. Locate the homestead just west of the hydroponic garden. Depending on your previous actions, you meet one of the following factions here:

- IF YOU HAVE HAD NO DEALINGS WITH THE MINUTEMEN DURING YOUR ADVENTURE, YOU WILL HAVE GUNNERS TO REMOVE IN THIS LOCATION BEFORE YOU CAN RESCUE YOUR CONTACT.
- IF YOU HAVE HAD DEALINGS WITH THE MINUTEMEN, A NUMBER OF THEM ARE WAITING TO ATTACK THE STRUCTURE. SPEAK WITH THEM NOW. YOU CAN:
 - AGREE TO THIS ATTACK, TURNING THE INSTITUTE HOSTILE. YOU CAN NO LONGER ALIGN WITH THEM. THE INSTITUTE QUEST: BANISHED FROM THE INSTITUTE BEGINS IF ANY INSTITUTE FORCES ARE KILLED.
 - PERSUADE THE MINUTEMEN TO STAND DOWN. YOU CAN TELL THEM IT'S AN ORDER.

(Easy, Medium) Or you can tell the Minutemen there's a misunderstanding, that they risk being wrong, there's no danger, threaten them, or tell them everyone is working together.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

THOSE MINUTEMEN MAY HAVE GOOD INTENTIONS, BUT THEY FAIL TO SEE THE BIG PICTURE, DON'T THEY? DON'T WORRY ABOUT OFFENDING THESE FOLKS; IF YOU'RE HAPPY WORKING WITH THE INSTITUTE, THESE SETTLERS WON'T GET ANTSY AFTER SOME TOUGH-TALKING.

After a quick trip back to the Institute, head to Institute Advanced Systems and find the door to the reactor. If you're in agreement with Father, open the reactor door and activate the core. Then access the terminal and initiate the reactor start-up sequence.

MASTERS OF THE COMMONWEALTH!

Now that the reactor is humming away, a directorate meeting is called, and you're here to answer any questions posed by the Division heads. You must decide where to focus the development manpower: on weapon development (better armaments for you) or on synth production (more friendly troops by your side). Whatever your choice, you've successfully allied with the Institute, to the detriment of your relationships with other factions.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

YOU'RE HERE TO EXPLAIN — USING A DISTINCT LACK OF DIPLOMACY — WHAT THE INSTITUTE STANDS FOR. ALTHOUGH THE RAILROAD LEADERS ARE ALL LIKELY TO BE HOLED UP UNDER THE OLD NORTH CHURCH, SOME MAY BE OUT IN THE COMMONWEALTH. USE YOUR WORLD MAP TO PINPOINT THEM, ESPECIALLY DEACON; HE LIKES TO WANDER.

A SNEAKY SURPRISE!

If you already chatted to the Railroad and opened their escape tunnel, you can wander into their headquarters from this direction. Cunning!

Now that all the Railroad leaders are hopefully gathered in one place, begin to introduce them to the Institute's way of thinking. This place was originally a crypt, so think of this as reverting the location back to its earliest use. When Desdemona, Drummer Boy, Glory, Tinker Tom, Deacon, and Doctor Carrington are all clued in, you're done.

You're here to destroy three generators. The Boston Airport map (page 342) shows the exact location of each of them. Expect to receive returning fire from turrets and other entities. The generators can be bombed or shot at from any distance and in any order:

- THE FIRST IS AT THE FAR SIDE OF A VERTIBIRD LANDING PAD.
- THE SECOND IS GUARDED BY A PROTECTRON AND TURRETS ATOP THE CONTROL TOWER.
- THE THIRD IS AT ONE END OF A SKYWALK LEADING TO LIBERTY PRIME.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

SEEDY ACTIVITIES AT THE WARWICK HOMESTEAD

This quest is available once you ally yourself with the Institute and complete Main Quest: Institutionalized. Isaac Karlin (visit him in BioScience) has asked you to deliver some genetically modified seeds to Roger Warwick at the homestead that bears his name.

Warwick's place is on the southeast coast. Heading through South Boston, past Jamaica Plain and through Quincy is the easiest route to take. Find Roger, whisper the passphrase to him, and agree to help.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

SETTLING DOWN AT WARWICK HOMESTEAD

TATO

If you're also helping the Minutemen establish settlements throughout the Commonwealth, this location offers a couple of advantages: There's some concrete structures already in place, and there's a working farm of quality Muffruit and Tatos.

Locate one of the Warwick clan—Wally, Janey, or June—and quiz them until they mention a man named Cedric Hopton.

(Medium) You can use your way with words to get the clue, too.

HAVING YOUR FILL OF CEDRIC AND BILL

Cedric Hopton is currently mooching about the Third Rail, a popular watering hole in Goodneighbor. Cedric is a tougher nut to crack and requires one of the following to spill the beans:

- (500 CAPS) A BRIBE

(Medium) A sympathetic ear.

You learn that a settler back at Warwick Homestead named Bill Sutton doesn't have Roger Warwick's best interests at heart. When you stroll into the main sleeping quarters of the homestead, you stumble upon a confrontation to de-escalate. You can:

- CALM THE SITUATION WITH WORDS.
- ATTACK BILL AND KILL HIM WITH FISTS OR GUNS.

This quest is available once you ally yourself with the Institute and complete Institute Quest: Mankind—Redefined. It is not available if you've already completed Railroad Quest: Tradecraft. Dr. Ayo (find him in the Synth Retention Bureau, or SRB) suspects that another colleague—

Dr. Binet—is helping synth to escape the Institute.

Agree to help Ayo, wander over to the robotics laboratory, and access any terminal.

This leads you to Binet's quarters. You're greeted by his son Liam and Liam's mother. You can:

- CHECK THE BINET QUARTERS TERMINAL AND FIND THE ACCESS LOGS. OBJECTIVE 3 IS NOW AVAILABLE.

(Medium) Call his bluff until he surrenders.

With the situation resolved, relay back to the Institute, inform Isaac Karlin what happened (answering as you wish), and receive the following reward:

STIMPACK (20)

- THE INSTITUTE (PAGE 409)

(Hard) Or tell him you're only trying to help, and Liam reveals everything, allowing you to decide what to do now—Objective 5: Confront Liam Binet.

- ENTER THE INSTITUTE SRB AND ACCESS ANY TERMINAL IN THERE. A CLUE LEADS YOU TO THE MAINTENANCE ROOM. EVE BINET, LIAM'S MOTHER, ISN'T TOO HAPPY ABOUT YOU CHECKING THE TERMINAL IN HERE.

Resolve this peacefully or with combat. Optionally check Maintenance Terminal 6 afterward.

(Hard) Keep the secret, and agree to help the Binets.

REFUTING CLAIMS AND NAMING NAMES

When you confronted Liam Binet about his role in the synth escapes, he admitted his guilt and then asked you to help him frame Dr. Ayo. You have two options:

- PLAN A: IGNORE LIAM AND INFORM JUSTIN AYO. AFTER STATING YOUR FINDINGS, YOU RECEIVE AN IMPRESSIVE NUMBER OF BOTTLECAPS.
- PLAN B: AGREE TO FRAME JUSTIN AYO.

(Medium) Agree in exchange for a gift. Liam agrees.

Enter Ayo's quarters and access his private terminal. Disable the safeguards, return to Liam, and tell him what you've done.

(Easy) Ask him what happens now.

You're given a slightly less valuable reward from Liam—some glasses.

CONCLUDING THE STANDOFF (DRAMATICALLY)

There are a variety of ways to conclude this standoff. You can:

- LOCATE THE TERMINAL IN THE OBSERVATION CHAMBER, AND INSERT THE BIOSCIENCE SYSTEMS ACCESS HOLOTAPE INTO IT. FROM THERE, YOU CAN TURN OFF THE TURRETS. BUT YOU CAN ALSO RELEASE THE SYNTH GORILLAS INSIDE THE LABORATORY SO THEY MAUL THE SYNTHS AND DOCTORS. OPEN THE DOOR TO THE LABORATORY, AND USE THE BIOSCIENCE TERMINAL TO UNLOCK THE OTHER DOOR, ENDING THE STANDOFF.
- OPEN THE DOOR INTO THE LABORATORY. BEWARE OF SYNTHS. AFTER THE ALTERCATION, SPEAK TO DOCTORS HIGGS AND LOKEN. THE LATTER SEES SENSE AND OPENS THE DOOR, ENDING THE STANDOFF.
- (NOVICE) WORK YOUR WAY THROUGH THE FEV LABORATORY (BEWARE OF SYNTHS, TURRETS, AND AN ASSAULTRON) TO A SECOND TERMINAL, WHERE YOU CAN ATTEMPT THE SAME ACTIONS.

Reach Dr. Oberly again. He's unhappy if the doctors are dead. If they survived, he asks you what punishment is befitting. You can:

- ANSWER HOW YOU WISH.

- (MEDIUM) CHOOSE EXECUTION.

The quest concludes with Dr. Oberly offering you the following pick-me-ups:

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUESTS

Joining this well-armed (and some might say zealous) faction begins whenever you wish, after you (optionally) listen to Military Frequency AF95 and visit Cambridge Police Station, or you observe a giant airship flying overhead and mooring at Boston Airport. You can continue Brotherhood of Steel operations for as long as you wish. However, be aware that your relationships with the other main factions—the Institute, the Railroad, and the Minutemen—may be impacted negatively the more you pursue your career as a Brotherhood soldier. Be warned—you may need to learn some Latin.

AN AWE-INSPIRING PRESENCE

As you emerge from Fort Hagen, you observe a huge Brotherhood of Steel airship pass overhead. It appears to be heading toward the city. You can:

- HEAD TO BOSTON AIRPORT AND SPEAK TO ANY BROTHERHOOD SOLDIER, WHO RECOMMENDS YOU TRY OUT AS A NEW RECRUIT OVER AT CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION.
- OR HEAD DIRECTLY TO CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

THIS IS ONE WAY TO OBSERVE THE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL'S PRESENCE AND BEGIN WORKING WITH THEM. THOUGH THE AIRSHIP ARRIVES JUST AFTER YOU EMERGE FROM FORT HAGEN AFTER COMPLETING MAIN QUEST: REUNIONS, THIS QUEST IS ONLY ACCESSIBLE IF YOU HAVEN'T TAKEN AN INTEREST IN RADIO SIGNAL MILITARY FREQUENCY AF95 OR VISITED CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION YET. COME ON, SLOWPOKE!

Beware of Feral Ghouls at the station entrance. Expect a vicious battle with over a dozen foes. Then follow the objectives of Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Fire Support from this point.

Quest FIRE SUPPORT

1. LISTEN TO MILITARY FREQUENCY AF95
2. PROCEED TO CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION
3. ASSIST THE SOLDIERS

A FERAL GHOUL PESTILENCE

While traveling near Lexington and College Square (or just south of Corvega Assembly Plant if you're heading southeast from Concord), your Pip-Boy receives a military radio broadcast. Listen to it, then head to Cambridge Police Station.

Beware of Feral Ghouls at the station entrance. Expect a crazed battle with over a dozen foes. When the fight ends, speak to the commander here, Paladin Danse. Agree to assist him.

You may also persuade Paladin Danse to hire you. If successful, you receive a larger reward of caps at the end of Call to Arms.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION

This forward recon base for the Brotherhood has a few scattered chems and ammunition, but nothing worth salivating over except for the large number of loose chems and a couple of containers in the Evidence Room at the back of the station. Don't overlook the garage, though; you can park your Power Armor here whenever you need to.

Quest CALL TO ARMS

2. FOLLOW PALADIN DANSE
3. FIND A WAY TO OPEN THE DOOR

GOING DEEP

Paladin Danse has asked you to follow him to ArcJet Systems where he hopes to get his hands on a Deep Range Transmitter to repair the Brotherhood of Steel communications array. After optionally talking with Scribe Haylen or Knight Rhys, head west to the abandoned ArcJet Systems building.

After a chat about the transmitter and automated security, provide fire support for the Paladin. He's dismayed to discover the presence of Institute synths. Head to the lab analysis room. You can:

- (ADVANCED) HACK INTO THE LAB CONTROL TERMINAL.
- USE THE LAB ANALYST'S TERMINAL TO RECEIVE THE LAB CONTROL TERMINAL PASSWORD.

Use the lab control terminal to open the door. When you reach the second-floor corridor just outside the CEO's office, you can fight through the turret-lined hallway with Paladin Danse, or head into the office nearby and use the terminal to disable them. Follow Paladin Danse to the elevator leading down to the ArcJet Engine Core.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

ARE YOU PROPERLY DRESSED FOR SUCCESS? VENTURING INTO DERELICT STRUCTURES IS DANGEROUS EVEN WHEN YOU'RE WELL ARMED AND WELL ARMORED, SO IT PAYS TO HAVE A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION AND WEAPONS, AS WELL AS A SUIT OF POWER ARMOR. AS THIS FACILITY HAS A NUMBER OF NON-SENTIENT TRAPS (SUCH AS EXPLODING BARRELS, RADIATION LEAKS, TRIP WIRES, AND TURRETS), PLANNING IS CRITICAL TO AVOID A DISAPPOINTMENT AND FAILURE.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

RANSACKING BEFORE THE CORE

TESLA SCIENCE

As you have a full run of the place, Paladin Danse won't mind if you take some extra time to flip through another issue of Tesla Science magazine. It's in the office just before those pesky turrets.

HARD CORE

Paladin Danse and you need to reach the top of the engine core in ArcJet Systems. But first you'll have to search for a way to restore power to the access elevator. This is achieved by accessing the facilities terminal (Novice) and hacking it. Start the auxiliary generators before returning to help Paladin Danse with his synth problems.

Or if you want to see an impressive roasting, press the Engine Start button and remove the synth threats more easily. Then head to the elevator and ascend.

After you take the elevator to the upper level, you can jump down to the mid-level catwalks to reach two smaller side chambers. One of them contains your favorite portable nuclear launcher!

Battle to the control room, securing the Deep Range Transmitter from one of the synth corpses. Then leave the facility via the control room elevator.

DEEP RANGE TRANSMITTER

Topside, speak to the Paladin:

(Medium) Optionally ask about how smoothly the operation went.

To further your involvement with the Brotherhood of Steel, hand over the Deep Range Transmitter and receive the following:

Afterward, report to both Scribe Haylen or Knight Rhys for further assignments:

- BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL RADIANT QUEST: QUARTERMASTERY IS NOW ACCESSIBLE VIA SCRIBE HAYLEN.
- BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL RADIANT QUEST: CLEANSING THE COMMONWEALTH IS NOW ACCESSIBLE VIA KNIGHT RHYSS.

(Medium) Optionally ask Haylen about her relationship with Rhys.

Man the minigun turret, and feel free to rake the ground as you fly over Boston. Try to hit Raider encampments and create satisfying explosions. At the Brotherhood of Steel's flagship, the "Prydwen," disembark onto the flight deck and meet Lancer-Captain Kells.

You're ordered to attend an address being given by Elder Maxson, the supreme commander of the Brotherhood of Steel. Speak to Maxson afterward. Regardless of your earlier rank in the Brotherhood, Maxson now bestowed the title "Knight" to you and a shiny new suit of Power Armor. Find it in Power Armor Station 03 of the main deck.

(Medium) Ask about her legs, and you have three opportunities to further the conversation.

Locate Proctor Teagan at the supply store. Aside from the impressive armaments he sells, you can ask him about extra work. Brotherhood of Steel Radiant Quest: Feeding the Troops becomes available.

You're to head out to nearby Fort Strong and cleanse it of all hostile Super Mutant forces. Step onto the Vertibird and man the minigun. Use this weapon to cut down the sizable Super Mutant roaming the exterior grounds of Fort Strong.

Alternatively, you can Fast-Travel elsewhere, or to Fort Strong, and engage the Super Mutant forces on foot.

The only good greenskin is a dead one! After the red mist has receded, chat to Paladin Danse before returning to the Prydwen for an impressive reward (aerial Fast-Travel via Vertibird).

(Medium) Ask about his hatred for Super Mutants.

Return to the Prydwen, and answer Elder Maxson as you wish. You are awarded with the following (aerial Fast-Travel via Vertibird):

VERTIBIRD SIGNAL GRENADE (8)

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

ARE YOU WANDERING THROUGH LIFE WITHOUT FULLY UNDERSTANDING YOUR ACTIONS? DON'T! THIS QUEST OCCURS CONCURRENTLY WITH MAIN QUEST: INSTITUTIONALIZED AND BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: OUTSIDE THE WIRE. BE SURE YOU UNDERSTAND BOTH OF THOSE QUESTS BEFORE CONTINUING, OR YOU MIGHT HAVE TO MAKE DECISIONS YOU DON'T FULLY UNDERSTAND THE MAGNITUDE OF.

During your infiltration of the Institute, Elder Maxson orders you to make contact with a Doctor Madison Li and convince her to work on a "special project" for the Brotherhood of Steel. Find her within the Institute and let her know you've been sent to find her (or be direct and tell her the Brotherhood sent you). You can:

(Medium, Hard) Ask her if she's happy, and complete a series of difficult fast-talking challenges to convince her. If she agrees, you can skip to the final objective of this quest.

Or, agree to find evidence about Virgil's disappearance from his laboratory.

In order to ensure Doctor Li's trust, you've agreed to recover evidence regarding an accident that supposedly killed her colleague, Doctor Virgil. His former lab is in a sealed section of the BioSciences Division. To access it, you can:

- (MASTER) UNLOCK THE FEV LAB ENTRY TERMINAL BY THE LASER GRID GATE.
- (NOVICE) UNLOCK THE FEV LAB DOOR.

Venture through the FEV lab, which has automated turret security, synths, and an Assaultron. Locate the Holotape at the laboratory.

BUILDING A WAR MACHINE

Head to Boston Airport. Proctor Ingram's special project is the reconstruction of a massive war machine. It looks like it needs a lot of work to get up and running. In fact, a fellow scientist is required to help:

- IF YOU FAILED TO CONVINCE DOCTOR LI TO JOIN YOU (OR IF YOU KILLED HER) DURING BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: FROM WITHIN, PLAN A OCCURS.
- IF YOU COMPLETED BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: FROM WITHIN AND CONVINCED DOCTOR LI TO JOIN, PLAN B OCCURS.

PLAN A: FINDING PROFESSOR SCARA

Proctor Ingram tells you to find Professor Scara. She hands you the following to help convince her to help.

CEREBROFUSION ADAPTOR

Proctor Ingram has tasked you with finding a robotics expert in Diamond City named Professor Scara and asking for her assistance. At the Science! Center (in Diamond City Market), converse with Doctor Duff. She hasn't seen her colleague Scara for over a week after she left for a field expedition. Perhaps you can help?

Journey to the General Atomics Galleria, north into the Commonwealth. Enter the Back Alley Bowling building and find Professor Scara inside.

(Easy) Convince her using your charm.

Or convince her using your Cerebrofusion Adaptor.

Plan A now concludes.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING GENERAL ATOMICS GALLERIA

While you're here, you might as well play along with those General Atomics robots. Or mangle them into heaps of metal; the decision is yours to make. Don't exit the place without opening the steamer trunk, though.

PLAN B: SPEAKING TO DOCTOR LI

In order to get the war machine's power systems stabilized, Proctor Ingram has asked you to speak to Doctor Li on the Prydwen. Head to the main deck, and after a conversation with you, she seems tentatively convinced.

Plan B now concludes.

MAGNETS. HOW DO THEY WORK?

Back at Boston Airport, Proctor Ingram requires the building of electromagnetic actuators. She hands you a build list. All of the components are stored in Boston Airport's workshop. Well, all of them except one: a high-powered magnet.

ELECTROMAGNETIC ACTUATORS LIST

Or, as high-powered magnets can be scrapped, they may be found throughout the Commonwealth, or sold by vendors too.

You need to recover a high-powered magnet. One of the (random) hospital ruins should have the part that you need.

Head to the location indicated on your Pip-Boy, and beware of local dangers. Find the magnet, usually inside a marked trunk with other items.

HIGH-POWERED MAGNET

Back at the airport's workshop, access the Special menu. Build four actuators, using the following components (required for each one, with the exception of the high-powered magnet):

- BUILD WITH: CIRCUITRY (5), SCREW (1), STEEL (10), FIBER OPTICS (3), RUBBER (5), HIGH-POWERED MAGNET (1)

AN ALMOST UNATTAINABLE ARSENAL

Inform Proctor Ingram of your progress. Naturally, you're not done yet. You need fully loaded Mark 28 Nuclear Bomb packs for the war machine's weapons systems. Meet Scribe Haylen at the new Primary Location Waypoint Echo, on the edge of the Glowing Sea. You're given a distress pulser to pinpoint the position of the nukes when you find them. Haylen's team will extricate them.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

AS YOU SHOULD ALREADY HAVE BRAVED THE INHOSPITABLE ELEMENTS OF THE GLOWING SEA, YOU SHOULD BE WELL VERSED IN PREVENTATIVE MEASURES TO REDUCE RADIATION SICKNESS. REMEMBER:

1. PREVENTION! PURCHASE, SCAVENGE, OR CRAFT ALL THE RAD-X AND RADAWAY YOU'LL NEED FOR THIS JAUNT.
2. PROTECTION! YOU MUST WEAR A HAZMAT SUIT AT ALL TIMES WHEN ENTERING IRRADIATED ZONES. HOWEVER, THEY OFFER LITTLE PROTECTION AGAINST ANY HOSTILES YOU MAY ENCOUNTER.
3. POWER! WANT THE VERY BEST IN BOTH PREVENTION AND PROTECTION? USE POWER ARMOR FOR THE DURATION OF YOUR TRIP.

DISTRESS PULSER

Head roughly southwest into the Glowing Sea, and enter Sentinel Site Prescott (pictured). Beware of Radscorpions and other irradiated dangers along the way.

Descend the outer gantry. Locate the terminal at the base of the structure and abort the launch sequence, allowing all blast doors to be opened (via terminals). Open the adjacent blast door. Locate the cylindrical tunnel. Beware of Feral Ghouls.

Wind your way through cylindrical and concrete tunnels, through holes, and along waterlogged passages, watching for more ferals. At the warehouse control room, you encounter Brother Henri and Atom's Wrath (an Assaultron). You can kill them, either before or after the conversation. Locate the password on Henri's corpse and use it to unlock his terminal and open the doors.

Head into the northern Commonwealth wilderness, and locate Listening Post Bravo. Avoid or neutralize the turrets, power up the elevator, and ride it down.

Watch out for a small Protectron presence. Paladin Danse is nearby, and there are multiple options.

PLAN A: THE LAST DANSE

Remove him as a threat immediately, without talking to him.

Or, speak to him, using a threatening tone. If your persuasion attempts fail, Paladin Danse gives you an order. Oblige him, then retrieve his dog tags.

After speaking to Proctor Ingram, you agree to help her find something called a "Beryllium Agitator" from the ruins of Mass Fusion. After deciding whether she accompanies you or not, you must make a potentially epoch-defining decision. You can:

- FLY TO MASS FUSION BY BOARDING THE VERTIBIRD, MANNING THE MINIGUN UNTIL YOU'RE TOLD TO DROP, AND CONTINUING YOUR LOYALTY TO THE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL. THIS QUEST CONTINUES (BELOW), A NUMBER OF INSTITUTE QUESTS FAIL, AND INSTITUTE QUEST: BANISHED FROM THE INSTITUTE BEGINS.
- LEAVE THIS AREA, VISIT THE INSTITUTE, AND INFORM THEM, CHANGING YOUR LOYALTY TO THE INSTITUTE. THE INSTITUTE QUEST: MASS FUSION BEGINS.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

HAVE YOU PACKED ENOUGH PROVISIONS AND SUPPLIES? YOU KNOW YOUR LOVED ONES MIGHT WORRY IF YOU HAVEN'T HAD THE FORESIGHT TO GATHER ENOUGH HEALTHY SNACKS AND RADIATION-SUPPRESSING CHEMS. AS THE ENVIRONMENT INSIDE MASS FUSION IS EXTREMELY HOSTILE, WHY NOT BUNDLE UP IN PROPER PROTECTIVE ATTIRE? POWER ARMOR IS A GREAT CHOICE HERE.

MASSACRE IN MASS FUSION

You drop to the roof of the building, in the Financial District of Boston. After you neutralize all threats, head to the second level, and locate the balcony desk before the room with the Executive Research Lab terminal. Gather the following from the desk:

MASS FUSION
EXECUTIVE LAB
PASSWORD

EXECUTIVE ID

Now you can access the Executive Research Lab terminal (Advanced) with a password. Read the personal intramails; the item you seek is apparently in the facility's basement. And you're on the roof.

You have a third option to restore power to the elevator-- in the room with the Mass Fusion Labs Key, if you can hack the manager's terminal (Expert), you can restore the power without having to head up to the circuit breaker.

At the elevator, swipe the Mass Fusion Executive ID through the card reader. Ride the elevator down until you cannot descend farther, taking pot shots at enemy forces along the way. When the coast is clear, you can:

(Optional) Locate the circuit breaker in the chamber to the north and above your current position. Flip the breaker to power the elevator. Then return, swipe the ID card, and ride the elevator down to the lobby, maximizing enemy casualties as you go.

Or locate the room to the north of your current position. Locate the Mass Fusion labs key on the desk. Use it to open the door to the adjacent chamber with the hole in the floor. Drop down, and continue a manual descent through the floors to the lobby, removing any potential enemy threats along the way.

MASS FUSION LABS KEY

Expect more enemy resistance in the lobby. Search for the service elevator, swiping your ID card to access it.

- IN THE REACTOR CONTROL ROOM (TO YOUR LEFT AS YOU ENTER), THERE'S A MASTER-LOCKED REACTOR SECURITY CONTROL TERMINAL. IF YOU CAN HACK THAT, YOU CAN UNLOCK THE DOORS TO THE FACILITIES OFFICE ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE ROOM. A TERMINAL THERE ALLOWS YOU TO DISABLE THE SECURITY SYSTEM ENTIRELY, PREVENTING THE ROBOTS AND TURRETS FROM ATTACKING WHEN YOU TAKE THE AGITATOR.
- CAN'T QUITE HACK IT? YOU CAN ALSO USE THE OTHER TERMINALS SCATTERED THROUGHOUT THE LEVEL TO RELEASE THE PROTECTRONS AND THE ASSAULTRON EARLY AND KILL THEM ONE AT A TIME.
- MAKE SURE YOU HAVE RADIATION PROTECTION BEFORE ENTERING THE REACTOR CHAMBER-- THE RADIATION LEVEL IS LETHAL. FOR BEST RESULTS, GRAB A HAZMAT SUIT-- THERE ARE SEVERAL SCATTERED AROUND THE REACTOR LEVEL, INCLUDING ONE IN THE LOCKER ROOM.

The facility's robotic defenses are automatically activated. Reach the outer reactor room and engage a Sentry Bot and Protectron. After using your ID card to open the main door, bring your defenses to bear on an Assaultron. Then ascend the stairs to nullify another Protectron without being scorched by a laser turret.

Exit to the lobby. If you have the ammunition and abilities, help Brotherhood of Steel forces rid the lobby of threats. Then rendezvous with Proctor Ingram back at Boston Airport.

In order to get the war machine running under its own power, you should speak to Proctor Ingram, then ascend the scaffold and insert the Agitator into the war machine's reactor port (behind the head). Return to the gantry computer and press the power transfer switch.

Escort Liberty Prime through the streets of Boston in a roughly northerly and then westerly direction. You can neutralize any synth threats, though you have impressive fire support. You may wish to use the bridge when the war machine crosses the river.

Continue until you reach the C.I.T. ruins.

At the ruins of the C.I.T., expect multiple synth threats at once. Remove all of them. When the war machine successfully makes a hole in the Institute's defenses, it's time to drop into it.

EXERCISING YOUR OPTION

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

FOR THE BROTHERHOOD!

This conclusion to the Main Quest is available only if you sided with the Brotherhood of Steel. It commences once you complete Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Ad Victoriam.

You have previously agreed to Elder Maxson's way of thinking and must now enter the Institute. Speak with your leader, who hands you a device imperative to concluding these activities.

FUSION PULSE CHARGE

You head through the Old Robotics area. Expect heavy synth resistance and laser turrets. Locate and drop through the hatch and enter the Institute BioScience laboratory. Work your way to the reactor entrance. Not surprisingly, the blast door has been activated.

At the central elevator, press the button. Enter Father's quarters and receive the override password from him. Use it, or hack the terminal (Novice). Activate the Master Security Lockdown Override.

(Medium) There are three options if you answer Father regarding why he should help you.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

DO YOU LIKE TO MINIMIZE CASUALTIES IN THE COMBAT ZONE? THEN TRIGGER THE EVACUATION OPTIONS AT FATHER'S TERMINAL SO YOU HAVE FEWER INSTITUTE SYNTHS TO ENCOUNTER. THIS IS A GREAT IDEA IF SAFETY (BUT NOT GATHERING EXPERIENCE POINTS) IS YOUR NUMBER ONE CONCERN.

AN UNEQUIVOCAL REACTION

Approach the Institute Advanced Systems and maneuver to the reactor chamber. If no evacuation has been called, expect a heavy synth presence. Access the reactor door and activate the reactor housing.

Proctor Ingram teleports you to the Institute relay control room. Speak with Elder Maxson before Ingram interjects regarding an unexpected guest in the vicinity. Speak to the little fellow:

- AGREE TO TAKE HIM UNDER YOUR WING AND SAVE HIS LIFE. PROCTOR INGRAM ENSURES HIS SAFETY. FIND HIM AT BOSTON AIRPORT.
- INFORM PROCTOR INGRAM THAT THE CHILD MUST REMAIN HERE.

After speaking into the relay and teleporting to the roof of the Mass Fusion building, you're able to conclude this operation without room for interpretation. Your Main Questing ends after you speak to Elder Maxson about the future of the Commonwealth.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

WOW! A WAZER WIFLE!

Once your questing is over, this diminutive fellow has three super-secret quests you can undertake for him. Think of it as some bonding you missed while you were in the deep freeze. Finish all three quest, and you're awarded with a special "wifle" that never runs out of ammo!

Elder Maxson has ordered you back to the Prydwen for your final debriefing. You are awarded the title of Sentinel and granted a jetpack for your Power Armor. Lancer-Captain Kells informs you that Radiant Quests continue to be available at Cambridge Police Station. In addition, Miscellaneous Quest: Reactor Coolant (a request from Proctor Ingram) is now available.

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL: MISCELLANEOUS QUESTS

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

WHAT ARE MISCELLANEOUS BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUESTS? THAT'S ONE PERTINENT QUESTION, FRIEND! THE FIVE QUESTS DETAILED HERE ARE PURELY OPTIONAL REQUESTS FROM THIS FACTION. COMPLETE THEM DURING THE MAIN QUESTS. BEWARE OF SOME ELONGATED BATTLES, BUT PREPARE ALSO FOR SOME EXCELLENT REWARDS FOR MANAGING THESE EXTRA ORDERS. HOWEVER, IF YOU'RE ON SHAKY GROUND WITH THIS FACTION (IF YOU FIGHT OR ALLY AGAINST THEM), EXPECT YOUR PIP-BOY TO INDICATE A "BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL SHUTDOWN" HAS BEEN ACTIVATED, AND MOST OF THESE QUESTS WON'T BE ACCESSIBLE.

KNIGHT VARHAM'S RESTING SPOT

Three years ago, the last Brotherhood recon team sent to the Commonwealth went missing. This quest begins in one of three ways:

- YOU STUMBLE UPON ONE OF THE RECON TEAM WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE OF THIS QUEST. REPORT YOUR DISCOVERY TO PALADIN DANSE OR CAPTAIN KELLS AND BEGIN THIS QUEST.
- YOU COMPLETE EITHER BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL RADIANT QUEST: QUARTERMASTERY OR CLEANSING THE COMMONWEALTH, AND SPEAK TO PALADIN DANSE OR CAPTAIN KELLS.
- YOU COMPLETE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUEST: SHOW NO MERCY AND SPEAK TO CAPTAIN KELLS.

If you haven't met the Brotherhood yet (or sided against them), you can still complete this quest. If you later decide to join up, you can tell Danse or Kells about your discovery and receive your reward.

The following investigations can occur in any order.

Head to the West Everett Estates close to Malden Middle School, near Med-Tek Research, in North Central Commonwealth. Explore until you find a distress signal, and tune your radio to it. There are Super Mutants active in this area, so be careful.

Listen for the ping. Follow it to the Brotherhood of Steel Battle Site, a burned-out structure southeast of Med-Tek Research. Examine Knight Varham and listen to the Holotape you find on him. Report this or continue your searching.

NUKA COLA QUANTUM

The nearby vicinity of West Everett Estates may not hold a gargantuan pile of ammunition, but there's a hidden cellar area and various ruined homes to sift through. Top of the scavenging list are two bottles of Nuka-Cola Quantum.

THE RESTING PLACE OF KNIGHT ASTLIN

Head to the National Guard Training Yard in the North Central Commonwealth. Beware of Feral Ghouls and turrets. Tune your radio to the distress signal and listen for the ping. Follow it to the National Guard Recruitment Office. Fend off any ferals before searching Knight Astlin and listening to her Holotape.

SITTING A SPELL WITH SCRIBE FARIS

Head to the nearby Revere Satellite Array. Beware of a heavy Super Mutant presence. Follow the distress signal to a shack perched on one of the satellite arrays. Examine Scribe Faris and listen to his Holotape. You receive Recon Bunker Access Code 429A.

Input access code

429A into the terminal to enter. Inside is Paladin Brandis. You can:

- MENTION HIS NAME, AND SOLVE THE STANDOFF PEACEFULLY.

(Hard) Tell him you're here to talk or are with the Brotherhood. Fail and you may have to kill him. Succeed and the standoff ends peacefully.

(Hard) Tell him to back off. Fail and you must kill him. Succeed and the standoff ends peacefully.

If the standoff ends in violence, gather the Paladin's unique weapon after the fight:

FUSION CORE

Paladin Brandis keeps a relatively tidy hovel, but aside from some foodstuffs and the usual scattering of chems and ammo, the only real item of value (especially as you're likely to be a Power Armor aficionado) is a Fusion Core.

If Paladin Danse is accompanying you on this quest, speak to him about Paladin Brandis afterward. If Main Quest: Act I is active, return to Cambridge Police Station for your reward from Paladin Danse:

If Main Quest: Act II is active, return to the Prydwen for your reward from Captain Kells:

SUSPICIONS AT THE SUPPLY DEPOT

This quest becomes available once you complete both Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Show No Mercy and Brotherhood of Steel Miscellaneous

Quest: The Lost Patrol. Captain Kells ordered you to investigate some missing supplies at the airport. Report to Knight-Sergeant Gavil in the Boston Airport supply depot for more information. Ask about Lucia and Clarke.

Your first suspect might be Knight Lucia, so talk to her about the recent activities.

(Medium) You can ask her about Clarke if you wish. If you succeed, she shares her suspicions, and much of the investigation can be skipped (Objective: Confront Initiate Clarke is now available).

Your second possible suspect is Initiate Clarke.

(Easy) You can ask him about Lucia if you wish.

Knight-Sergeant Gavil directs you to find evidence. Board the Prydwen, and find Clarke's and Lucia's sleeping quarters on the lower main deck.

Their footlockers are locked (Novice). You can:

- PICKPOCKET EITHER KEY FROM THEM IN THE SUPPLY DEPOT.
- (NOVICE, EXPERT) PICK THE LOCK OF CLARKE'S AND LUCIA'S FOOTLOCKERS.
- OR FIND CLARKE'S KEY ON HIS BED, OPEN HIS FOOTLOCKER, FIND LUCIA'S KEY INSIDE CLARKE'S FOOTLOCKER, THEN OPEN HER FOOTLOCKER. AMASS THE FOLLOWING, READ THE NOTE, AND READ HER LOG.

SHADOWING THE SUSPECT

Now that one of your suspects has been acting suspiciously, return to the supply depot at Boston Airport. Lucia grants you more information.

Locate and follow your main suspect at a safe distance. Back away after speaking to them if you're seen. Your suspect disappears into Boston Airport Ruins.

There's a little-known underground area of ruins under the airport, including an old subway station and baggage claim area. The place is filled with Ghouls and some of the least pleasant water you've ever waded through. Along the way, dart into a dead-end corridor and discover Knight Rylan. Gather his Holotag. This enables more conversation choices when confronting your suspect.

KNIGHT RYLAN'S HOLOTAGS

Continue to explore the ruins, culling Feral Ghouls. Destroy them all if you wish (or they are destroyed once the quest is complete).

When you finally catch up to your suspect, you can:

- KILL THEM WITHOUT A CONVERSATION.
- PROVOKE THEM IN ANY WAY, TURNING THE SUSPECT HOSTILE.

(Varies) Persuade your suspect to allow you to kill the Ghouls, if you wish.

(Medium) Convince your suspect to turn themselves in.

Or convince the suspect to go into exile. They leave the airport, though you may meet again during a random encounter later in your adventure.

Or promise to lie about your discovery.

If your suspect is killed or pickpocketed, you can gather the following:

THE FATE OF DOCTOR BRIAN VIRGIL

This quest becomes available during Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Liberty Reprimed. You must also have completed Brotherhood of Steel Miscellaneous Quest: Duty or Dishonor. Aboard the Prydwen, speak to Lancer-Captain Kells for your orders. He believes Virgil to be a threat to the Brotherhood, who must be eliminated.

You have a number of different choices, some of which are related to Miscellaneous Quest: Curing Virgil.* If you want additional decisions, complete that optional quest (see page 363). Then visit the Rocky Cave within the Glowing Sea.

Meet Virgil. You can:

- ALREADY HAVE KILLED HIM. REPORT IMMEDIATELY TO KELLS WITHOUT TRAVELING TO THE GLOWING SEA.
- ATTACK AND KILL HIM. BEWARE OF HIS PROTECTRON AND TURRETS.
- SPEAK TO HIM, AND AGREE TO KEEP HIM ALIVE AND TO LIE TO KELLS.

After dealing with the culprit, report to Lancer-Captain Kells on the Prydwen. Your options here will vary depending on how things went in the airport ruins, but basically, you can:

- LIE ABOUT THE THEFTS. IF YOUR SUSPECT IS STILL ALIVE, THEY REMAIN WORKING AT THE AIRPORT.
- OR TELL THE TRUTH. IF YOUR SUSPECT IS STILL ALIVE, THEY ARE IMPRISONED AT CAMBRIDGE POLICE STATION. DURING RAILROAD QUEST: PRECIPICE OF WAR, YOU CAN OPTIONALLY FREE YOUR SUSPECT IF YOU SUBSEQUENTLY SIDE WITH THE RAILROAD.

(Hard) Or make up a lie about Ghouls stealing supplies.

You receive a reward from Kells. This is usually Bottlecaps. However, if you managed to persuade Clarke to turn himself in, you receive a special Power Armor part.

WHAT EXACTLY DOES VIRGIL NEED TO BE CURED? YOU MUST JOURNEY TO THE INSTITUTE, ACCESS THE FEV LABORATORY, FIND THE EXPERIMENTAL SERUM THERE, AND RETURN IT TO VIRGIL. THIS IS A STRAIGHTFORWARD, IF LENGTHY, PROCESS.

(Hard) If you haven't completed Miscellaneous Quest: Curing Virgil*, you can persuade Virgil that the serum has been destroyed, and that he would be better off dead. He agrees to let you kill him. This persuasion is easier if you've read notes after searching Primary Location: Swan's Pond (in the Boston Common Neighborhood; see page 472).

Miscellaneous Quest: Curing Virgil*: Kill him after curing him with the serum. He is much easier to kill.

Miscellaneous Quest: Curing Virgil*: Cure him, and leave him alive (he cannot escape, as the radiation from the Glowing Sea would kill him). Now that Virgil has been dealt with, report back to Captain Kells. You can:

BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL RADIANT QUESTS

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

WHAT ARE RADIANT BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL QUESTS? AN INTERESTING ASIDE TO YOUR MAIN WORK FOR THIS ORGANIZATION, THE FIVE QUESTS REFERENCED HERE ARE OPTIONAL TASKS TO UNDERTAKE FROM DIFFERENT MEMBERS OF THE BROTHERHOOD. THEY ARE "RADIANT," AS THE LOCATIONS YOU'RE SENT TO ARE RANDOM. SOME QUESTS ARE ALSO REPEATABLE, MAKING THEM A GREAT WAY TO ACCUMULATE REWARDS.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

RANDOM FACTS

Due to the random nature of the locations you are sent to, it is imperative you read up on the hostiles (as well as the valuables) you'll uncover at each one. Vault-Tec is proud to provide comprehensive cartography for just such a reconnoiter.

Knight Rhys has given you an assignment to clear a location of "abominations." You need to find the location and eliminate any synths, ferals, Super Mutants, and Atom-worshipping cultists that you can find. The location given to you by Rhys is random. Only the tagged foes must be slain. Others are optional. Then return and claim your caps from Knight Rhys.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX 100)

ARTIFACT APPROPRIATION

Scribe Haylen has given you a mission to recover a piece of technology for her at a given location. You need to go there, find the artifact, and bring it back to her in one piece. Only the item—usually hidden inside a steamer trunk—needs to be found. A thorough exploration of the location is usually necessary. Consult the "Map" chapter for environmental hazards. Killing enemies is optional. Then return and claim your Caps reward from Scribe Haylen.

Talk with Proctor Quinlan and agree to escort a Brotherhood Scribe on a research patrol. This conversation occurs once you complete Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Tour of Duty. Express interest in aiding a research patrol. Then locate the Scribe at Boston Airport.

Head to the Scribe's (random) location. Remove all threats while ensuring the Scribe isn't killed. Locate the terminal and guard the Scribe as he hacks it.

When the Scribe finishes collecting data, continue to protect him until you both depart the location. If he dies, the data will be lost and the mission fails. Exit the location. Fast-Travel to Proctor Quinlan to claim a Caps reward.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX 100)

After you complete Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Tour of Duty, express interest in "extra work" for Proctor Teagan. He asks you to visit a Commonwealth farm and secure their crops for the Brotherhood. You've been told to "persuade" them by any means necessary.

Locate the (random) settlement Teagan indicates and speak to the tagged settler. You can:

PURCHASE THE CROPS FROM THE SETTLER FOR 1,000 CAPS.

(Medium) Or bargain the settler down to 500 Caps.

(Medium) Ask the settler to donate a portion of their crops to the Brotherhood.

(Medium) Threaten the settler into handing over a portion of their crops to the Brotherhood.

Or kill all the Settlers, take over and manage the settlement, and grow crops yourself. After you make a choice, return to Proctor Teagan and let him know of your in-roads. Caps are claimed once again.

THE RAILROAD QUESTS

You can work with this clandestine faction after you find the clues leading to the Railroad's hidden hideout and complete Road to Freedom. You can continue Railroad missions for as long as you want. However, be aware that your relationships with the other main factions—the Brotherhood of Steel, the Institute, (though not the Minutemen)—may be negatively affected the more Railroad quests you complete. It seems war never changes.

TRAIL OF TERROR

If you want to fight the Institute, you've been told you should find the Railroad. The only clue you have is "Follow the Freedom Trail." The tourist trail starts at Boston Common due east of Diamond City.

This quest can start in a variety of ways:

- YOU INVESTIGATE THE AREA AROUND PARK STREET STATION, EITHER DURING YOUR EXPLORATION OR DURING MAIN QUEST: UNLIKELY VALENTINE.
- IF YOU SPEAK WITH DOCTOR AMARI AT THE START OF MAIN QUEST: THE MOLECULAR LEVEL, SHE INDICATES THE RAILROAD FACTION WOULD BE HELPFUL TO YOUR CAUSE.
- YOU OVERHEAR FOLKS IN DIAMOND CITY MARKET (AT THE MARKET OR IN THE DUGOUT INN), OR GUARDS IN GOODNEIGHBOR

Head to Boston Common, adjacent to Park Street Station. Locate this fountain with the scrawled board that reads "At Journey's End Follow Freedom's Lantern." On the ground in front of that is a Freedom Trail marker reading "A7."

Follow the red brick line along the sidewalk around the perimeter of Boston Common. Locate Massachusetts State House and the marker "L4."

QUESTS

Follow the trail to the Old Granary Burying Ground and the marker "A2." Watch for the ferocious ferals.

Follow the trail to the Old State House and the marker "O6." The disgusting displays of entrails indicate Super Mutants are active here.

Follow the trail to the Old Corner Bookstore and the marker "3I." Expect confrontations with Wild Mongrels, Feral Ghouls, Super Mutants, and Raiders.

Follow the trail to Faneuil Hall and the marker "5R." There's not a friendly face to be found; deal with Feral Ghouls, Super Mutants, and Mutant Hounds. Be particularly careful of the Super Mutant Suicider here; shoot the bomb out of his hand, or backpedal to avoid a disgustingly messy and violent attack.

The trail continues to what's left of Paul Revere's House and the marker "8D." Beware of Mutant Hounds and Super Mutants.

NEW FRIENDS IN NORTH END

The old ruined church has Feral Ghouls lurking throughout the hall and lower catacombs. Follow the lantern markers downstairs to the Freedom Trail Ring, and spin it either clockwise or counterclockwise to spell out "RAILROAD." Moments later, you make contact with the Railroad. Answer their leader Desdemona how you wish:

- (Easy) If you want more information, ask her, "Who are you?"
- (Hard) If you're being secretive, make something up when she asks about you.

After more talking and agreeing to help her cause, you're tentatively welcomed in.

UP THE STEEPLE, DOWN IN THE CRYPT

FUSION CORE ASTOUNDINGLY AWESOME TALES

A thorough inspection of the Old North Church yields some surprises. The steeple (accessed via the hall above the crypt) offers views of North End and a sniper rifle. The Railroad Headquarters has two traders (Tinker Tom and Doctor Carrington) who can help bolster your items and health. There's some light reading on one of the tables. And don't forget to pry the Fusion Core from its generator when you use the Escape Tunnels to exit the place.

Leave the Railroad HQ via the escape tunnel so you can unchain the door and return from this direction. Then set off on a long trek northwest toward Lexington. Use the elevated freeway and head west from the Corvega factory to rendezvous with Deacon.

Before you visit the Railroad's old base, Deacon wants to glean some information from a "tourist" (a friend of this faction). Climb the ruined freeway and repel any corpses dashing in your direction. Meet up with Ricky Dalton. Give the Railroad password (you were told this earlier) or Deacon steps in.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Talk with Ricky Dalton again for a variety of conversations; you can obtain more supplies, convince him to snipe the synths at the entrance, or convince him to make a suicide rush at the synths in front of the Slocum's Joe's.

PRESSING THE RIGHT BUTTONS AT THE SWITCHBOARD

The news isn't good; the Railroad's old base (known as the Switchboard) is crawling with older model synths. You can:

- FOLLOW DEACON'S ADVICE AND ENTER VIA THE BACK "SEWER" ENTRANCE (PICTURE 1). THIS IS AN EMERGENCY ESCAPE ROUTE AND IS THE PREFERRED PATH.
- TRY TO ENTER VIA THE BASEMENT OF SLOCUM JOE'S ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF LEXINGTON. THIS IS HEAVILY TRAPPED AND DEFENDED WITH SYNTHS AND TURRETS. UNFORTUNATELY, WHEN YOU TRY TO ACCESS THE ELEVATOR VIA A HIDDEN BOOKCASE, IT IS INACCESSIBLE. LOOKS LIKE IT'S TIME TO WADE INTO THAT SEWER.

Work your way through the Switchboard, letting Deacon remove any security doors or terminals you can't access. Your target chamber is the Department X R&D room. Deacon accesses the terminal to open the safe security door.

TALES OF A JUNKTOWN JERKY VENDOR

Don't leave the Switchboard without a copy of the U.S. Covert Operations Manual. And while you're visiting Lexington, why not take in a few sights? There's the Super Duper Mart, which has a special offer on Nuka Cherries and Quantums (they're yours if you can survive the Feral Ghoul attacks). There's also some additional light reading to find at the Mystic Pines convalescent home, northeast of here. Otherwise, Lexington is a tough place to survive; Raiders are battling a large Feral threat, and neither party is particularly thrilled to see you!

After parting ways with Deacon, return to the Railroad HQ at your leisure. Desdemona is being debriefed by Deacon.

(Easy) Deacon tries to sell a lie to Desdesmona. Go with it.

Afterward, you are beckoned into the main headquarters and are formally given a codename. The choice is yours, unless you let Desdemona make the decision, in which case you're known as "The Wanderer." Welcome to the Railroad. A TRUE PATRIOT

Once you complete Main Quest: The Molecular Level—and you worked with the Railroad during that quest—you receive an encoded

Holotape from Desdemona that you can use at any Institute terminal to contact the Railroad's guardian angel, Patriot. Tinker Tom also has some advice before handing you the Network Scanner Holotape.

NETWORK SCANNER

Relay into the Institute, and locate any terminal (one example is pictured). Access it, insert the Network Scanner Holotape, then read the reply when it appears.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

WHY CAN'T EVERYBODY JUST GET ALONG? UNFORTUNATELY, IN THE POST-APOCALYPTIC WASTELAND, LIMITED RESOURCES AND SURVIVAL INSTINCTS USUALLY LEAD TO DISTRUST. SO PICK A FACTION YOU WANT TO WORK WITH, AND REMEMBER, YOU CAN GIVE THE HOLOTAPE TO A DIFFERENT FACTION IF YOU CHANGE YOUR ALLEGIANCES.

Patriot sends you an encrypted message requesting your presence at the Advanced Systems maintenance room. Say hello to Liam

Binet, who subsequently introduces you to another friend on the inside, the synth Z1-14.

(Medium) Tell Z1-14 you're fighting for them.

After another chat with Liam, relay back to Desdemona and inform her of your progress.

LABORATORY LOCKDOWN

Patriot has a daring rescue plan, but this requires the login credentials for C.I.T.'s original security system, named

"Code Defender." Return to the Railroad HQ, and speak with Desdemona. She points you in the direction of PAM, who offers some advice after you enter the report on her terminal.

It seems a man named Wilfred Bergman worked on the project and has the login credentials you need. Relay down to Cambridge Neighborhood, and enter Cambridge Polymer Labs. After a brief orientation with a robot named Molly, you're sealed inside this facility in the clean room. That isn't helpful, but it does begin the Miscellaneous quest at this location (see page 407 for advice). You're only here to access Bergman's terminal, though:

In the main mezzanine area (with the upper balcony), fight off the Feral Ghouls and look for the sign for laboratory C3. You enter this laboratory via lab C4. Access lab C5 through the hole in the wall. Get to lab C3 by climbing the "ramp" of ceiling debris, crawling across the ceiling crawlspace, and dropping down the third hole you spot in the floor. Drop in from the collapsed ceiling above.

– (EXPERT) OR HACK THE WALL TERMINAL TO OPEN THE LAB C3 DOOR.

Access Bergman's terminal and collect the password. Then return and speak with Desdemona.

FREEDOM IS NEVER GIVEN—IT IS WON

Back at Railroad HQ, Desdemona informs you of an even more daring rescue operation, but your plans remain unchanged: Relay back to the Institute, hand the login credentials to Patriot (Liam Benet), and then rendezvous with Z1-14.

Is he willing to fight for his freedom? He needs to process this information. Twenty-four hours later, he has an answer. Sit and wait if you wish.

(Medium) Some persuasion is also available.

When you return, Z1-14 tells you many volunteers have joined the cause for freedom, but they require weapons. Optionally deposit any weapons and ammunition into the maintenance locker if you wish to arm the synths in the next fight. Then access a storage area and the elevator down to the tunnels. Repel all Institute-loyal synth guards at the tunnel entrance. Then return to Z1-14 and inform him of your victory. So you don't raise suspicion, continue to work with Father. Complete the Institute Quests: Mankind Redefined and Mass Fusion.

After continuing your other quests, you receive a cryptic message from Z1-14. Relay into the Institute, meet Z1-14's representative, and journey to your Institute quarters (given to you during Institute Quest: Synth Retention). He tells you of a worrying development regarding the Brotherhood of Steel. Immediately head back to the Railroad HQ. Desdemona is mobilizing the Railroad's defenses and hands you a weapon that might come in handy for the battle to come. This leads to Railroad Quest: Precipice of War.

This conclusion to the Main Quest is only available if you sided with the Railroad. It commences once you complete Railroad Quest: Rockets' Red Glare.

It seems you've come around to Desdemona's way of thinking. At the Railroad HQ, you listen to her plan and agree with it.

After relaying into the Institute, you find Z1-14 removing threats in the relay control room to allow Desdemona and her crew to teleport in. Speak with your leader, who hands you a device critical to finishing these activities.

Your infiltration takes you through the Old Robotics area, where you should expect heavy synth resistance and active laser turrets.

Locate and drop through the hatch to enter the Institute BioScience laboratory. Weave your way through to the reactor entrance. It isn't surprising that the blast door has sealed the reactor down.

Press the button at the central elevator. Access Father's quarters and receive the override password after speaking with him. Utilize it, or hack the terminal (Novice). Now activate the master security lockdown override.

(Medium) There are three options if you answer Father regarding why he should help you.

THE RAILROAD TERMINUS

Work your way to the Institute Advanced Systems and into the reactor chamber. A heavy synth presence is expected. Access the reactor door and activate the reactor housing.

Tinker Tom relays you back to the Institute relay control room. Speak with Desdemona before Tom interrupts, announcing an unexpected arrival in the vicinity.

Speak to the tiny tyke:

- AGREE TO TAKE HIM UNDER YOUR WING AND SAVE HIS LIFE. TINKER TOM ENSURES HIS SAFETY. FIND HIM AT THE RAILROAD HQ.
- TELL THE DIMINUTIVE FELLOW THAT HE MUST REMAIN HERE.

Once you step into the relay and are teleported to the roof of the Mass Fusion building, you're able to definitively conclude the Institute's operations in Boston for the foreseeable future. Your Main Questing ends after you speak to Desdemona about the future of the Commonwealth.

DEAD DROP FOR BUNKER HILL

Speak to Doctor Carrington after you complete Railroad Quest: Tradecraft, as he has your first official assignment.

STOCKTON'S HOLOTAPE

The dead drop mentions a contact at Bunker Hill. You're here to meet Old Man Stockton. Be sure to use the countersign so your talking continues to be covert in nature.

Stockton was supposed to deliver H2-22 to another Railroad agent, but Raiders prevented this. Head to the ruined church on the outskirts of Cambridge Neighborhood (marked on your Pip-Boy map), engaging or avoiding the Super Mutants along the way. As you arrive, dispatch the Raider threats.

(Medium) Get on Carrington's good side, if you can.

HIGH RISE, HIGH RISK, AND HIGH REWARD

Wait on a pew until 11:00 p.m., when Stockton and the synth arrive. An agent named High Rise is summoned; he hopes you can help with some escorting duties. THE MINUTEMEN QUESTS

You can begin working with this faction almost immediately after you emerge from Vault 111. Simply wander down the road from Sanctuary, heading southeast until you reach the township of Concord.

Visit the Museum of Freedom. You can continue Institute operations for as long as you wish. Please be aware that unlike your relationships with the other main factions—the Brotherhood of Steel, the Railroad, and the Institute—the other plans you're hatching tend not to affect the Minutemen negatively (unless specified). The Minutemen want to create a Commonwealth of hard-working patriots who trade and build strong bonds together.

GOT A MINUTE?

On your travels through Concord, you spot a man protecting a group of people from Raider attacks on a balcony of a museum.

Below the balcony is a short laser musket and some fusion cell ammunition in front of the doors. Pick it up if you're interested in disintegrating your enemies, and clear any foes from the streets. Then enter the Museum of Freedom.

SHORT LASER MUSKET

Armed Raiders are prowling the splintered interior of this museum. Weave your way through the remains of the displays. Your targets aren't red-coated; they have more of an "animal hide and leather studs" appearance. In between takedowns, feel free to read the freedom wall en route to a top-floor office where the defenders are.

Meet Preston Garvey and the remnants of his Minutemen forces. They seem like friendly sorts and are in a bind. Agree to help him and Sturges provide fire support to crush any remaining Raider opposition in town. Drop to the ground floor and into the basement. You can:

- (NOVICE) USE BOBBY PINS TO OPEN THE SECURITY GATE. THERE ARE SOME ON TOP OF THE COMPUTER TERMINAL MONITOR.

A NEW HOPE IN THE HILLS

When Preston Garvey and his friends reach Sanctuary, they're hoping for more than just a few ruined houses and a slightly eccentric

Mr. Handy robot to befriend. It is time to rebuild Sanctuary as a shining beacon of hope! Or, at the bare minimum, a place where the Minutemen can call home.

Access the workshop (via the Furniture > Beds menu), and construct any of these beds (including mattresses or sleeping bags) in an acceptable location (indicated in green). This can be in a new or preexisting structure, or even outside, but must have a roof or shelter above. The number of beds you make should be equal to or greater than the number of people.

Continue to speak to Sturges about the needs of this motley crew. Build them any purifier you wish (from the Resources > Water menu). The number should bring a water value equal to the population of your settlement.

These folks are hungry too! Access the Resources > Food menu. Plant any of the food varieties you wish.

The number should bring a food value higher than the population (so a Food value of 4 is acceptable). Remember to assign a settler to tend these plants if no one is working this land.

Finally, Sturges is hoping for some kind of defense. Choose guard posts, turrets, or traps, as you wish. The Defense value should be 2 or greater, so a guard post or tower is acceptable. Remember to assign the task of patrolling a guard location to a settler. Build and link generators to certain turrets or traps if they require power.

OLD COOT OR SOOTHSAYER?

One of the Minutemen's members is Mama Murphy, a friendly old woman who insists she receives visions of the future. Of course, these come only after you find the necessary chems for her, and she needs at least eight hours of rest between each intake of chems.

If you speak to her, she hopes you'll find some Jet and bring it back to her. Oblige, and she reveals a revelation. Talk to her again, and she asks if you can build her a special chair.

This workshop item is in the Special menu, not the Furniture one. Now that she has a place to sit, those visions can keep coming.

At any point you can refuse her chem requests and tell her to go clean.

(Medium) Some persuasion or light threatening might hammer the point home.

Or you can keep giving her chems and listening to her visions. This goes against the wishes of Preston Garvey and Sturges. You might not want to overdo it, though; that Psycho chem is a killer!

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

CHEMS ARE PART OF A WELL-ROUNDED MEDICAL REGIME IF ADMINISTERED IN CORRECT DOSES. SCAVENGE THEM THROUGHOUT THE COMMONWEALTH. OR YOU CAN BUY WHAT YOU NEED AT CHEM-I-CARE IN DIAMOND CITY MARKET. KINGS OF THE CASTLE

Once the Minutemen are established at Sanctuary, and you've completed a few Radiant quests for Preston Garvey, he thinks it's time for the Minutemen to retake "the Castle," an old fort that used to be their main base of operations. Travel to the remains of the snack shop outside the perimeter of the Castle, located in South Boston (feel free to navigate around Boston city). Preston has gathered some Minutemen and wants to know your opinion on a plan of attack. Choose from the following:

- Pincer Attack: Like to Sneak? Try this more subtle approach.
- Draw them out: Enjoy sniping? Attack from afar.
- Guns blazing: Think tactics are for brainiacs? Charge!

Navigate toward the Castle, and clear the main courtyard of any irradiated aquatic life.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

GUNS AND BULLETS?

GUNS AND BULLETS

The Castle doesn't give up all of its secrets immediately, but there's a magazine to purloin by the central radio mast. You're also encouraged to read about guns and bullets and to bring a weighty supply of them too—the irradiated wildlife in these parts is tough! How tough? Consult the "Bestiary" chapter for best potshot practices. Need more ammo? Look to the Castle's interior corridors. That missile launcher might do the job!

Now to remove any hatchlings. Look to your Pip-Boy compass and destroy all the marked egg clutches. Oh dear. It seems that while you were clearing the eggs from the Castle, the beast that hatched them rose from the depths and is none too pleased. Remove this huge threat, finish destroying any remaining egg clutches, and claim this Castle!

Power up the old radio transmitter by building some generators. Attach wires from the transmitter to each generator so it is powered.

Medium Generator*

- BUILD WITH: SCREW (3), GEAR (3), STEEL (7), RUBBER (3), COPPER (3), CERAMIC (1)
- (*THE TRANSMITTER REQUIRES 10 POWER, SO YOU NEED TWO MEDIUM GENERATORS OR FOUR SMALL GENERATORS.)

The transmitter allows the Minutemen to broadcast Radio Freedom across the Commonwealth! Tune in for the latest reports and for Radiant Quests that require your attention.

RONNIE SHAW'S REVELATION

While speaking to Preston Garvey after another successful recruitment mission, he mentions someone named Ronnie

Shaw has arrived at the Castle looking for you. Head over to the Castle (using the workshop here to build defenses is wise if you didn't think of this already).

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

ARE YOU HELPING THE MINUTEMEN ACROSS THE COMMONWEALTH? YOU NEED TO BE, AS SETTING UP KEY SETTLEMENTS AND TRADING ROUTES BETWEEN THEM, AND KEEPING YOUR POPULATION HAPPY AND SAFE AFFECTS FUTURE MINUTEMEN QUESTS. YOU'RE HERE FOR THE LONG HAUL TOO; THIS QUEST DOESN'T BEGIN UNTIL THREE COMMONWEALTH DAYS AFTER THE CONCLUSION OF TAKING INDEPENDENCE.

Ronnie tells you about an old Minutemen armory located in the west bastion of the Castle. Unfortunately, the old entrance is covered in rubble. Fortunately, your Workshop skills allow you to scrap the rubble.

Venture into the Castle tunnels with Ronnie. Eliminate the defenses, including a vicious Sentry Bot named Sarge. After Ronnie opens the security door, you spot the previous leader of the Minutemen. Feel free to dress in his attire if you wish to look the part. Then find the button to open the piston door to the exterior courtyard.

- REQUIRES: PERSON (1)

Locate any settler within the Castle. Highlight them and press "Command." Move over to the Artillery Piece. Press "Assign."

Ronnie Shaw wishes to conduct a test fire of the artillery. Head down to the ruined snack shop, and lob a smoke grenade (access it just like any other projectile). Back up, and witness the artillery test fire. You can now return to Preston Garvey to finish this quest and secure additional Radiant activities.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

ARTILLERY PIECES AND PATRIOTISM

FAT MAN

Tune in to Radio Freedom for the patriotism and random radiant tasks. Check the armory for some heavy-weight armaments, like the Fat Man. Ronnie Shaw is now the Castle quartermaster for trading items. And don't forget that Artillery Piece; you can build it at any of your owned settlements before using smoke grenades to call in strikes if enemies are idiotic enough to challenge you; as the range of this artillery can hit anywhere in the Commonwealth, if you place them across settlements you own. This can be very useful for clearing out surface strongholds of foes. As for the rusting old artillery dotted around The Castle? Scrap them to build new ones!

This quest is available if you've been kicked out of the Institute for any reason (declining Father's initial offer, during a chat with Father when The Battle of Bunker Hill occurs, or by exercising violence against a scientist. Speak to Preston Garvey about this predicament. He has two answers:

- HE BELIEVES THE MINUTEMEN AREN'T STRONG ENOUGH TO TACKLE THE INSTITUTE YET. YOU MUST RECRUIT AND BUILD UP MORE SETTLEMENTS, SUCH AS THIS ONE AT KINGSPORT LIGHTHOUSE.
- OR, IF YOU HAVE EIGHT OR MORE SETTLEMENTS, HE IMMEDIATELY WARNS YOU ABOUT AN INSTITUTE ATTACK ON THE CASTLE, AND MINUTEMEN QUEST: DEFEND THE CASTLE BECOMES AVAILABLE.

- LISTENING TO RADIO FREEDOM.
- VISITING THE CASTLE.
- SPEAKING TO PRESTON GARVEY.

Tune in to Radio Freedom for information on the direction of the attackers. Use the height of the walls. Beware of failing defenses as the enemy targets your generators (repair them). Beware of synths teleporting through any walled defenses. Repel all attackers in this protracted battle. Assuming you survive, chat to Ronnie and Preston after you've driven back this mechanical menace.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED

Prior to the beginning of this quest, constructing a number of well-defended areas of the Castle to help repel foes is critical. Think about proper placement of important machinery, as the synths aren't Super Mutants; they are cunning enough to, for example, take out generators that are powering your turrets. So why not store generators behind defenses that aren't immediately accessible? Those synths like to teleport into the fray, too, so defensive choke points aren't as helpful.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

FOR THE COMMONWEALTH!

This version of Main Quest: The Nuclear Option is only available if you declined to work with Father and declined to work with the Railroad or Brotherhood of Steel (though you don't need to be hostile to either faction). It commences once you complete Minutemen Quests: Inside Job and Defend the Castle and when Preston deems the Minutemen to be strong enough to take on the Institute.

A FEW GOOD MEN

Load the Institute Relay Targeting Sequence into the relay terminal, and Preston (plus a few Minutemen) teleport in. Chat to Preston again; he hands you a device vital to completing these activities.

FUSION PULSE CHARGE

Your route takes you through the Old Robotics area. Expect numerous synth adversaries and laser turrets. Locate and drop through the hatch and enter the Institute BioScience laboratory.

Head to the reactor entrance. As you might have expected, the blast door has been activated.

At the central elevator, press the button. Enter Father's quarters and obtain the override password from him. Use it, or hack the terminal (Novice). Activate the Master Security Lockdown Override.

(Medium) There are three options if you answer Father regarding why he should help you.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

YOU LIKE FOLLOWING ORDERS, DON'T YOU? WELL PRESTON GARVEY WANTS MINIMAL CASUALTIES AND HOPES YOU'LL TRIGGER THE EVACUATION OPTIONS AT FATHER'S TERMINAL SO YOU AREN'T FORCED TO KILL MORE SYNTHS AND SCIENTISTS. FOLLOW THIS IF YOU'RE SICKENED BY FURTHER VIOLENCE. IGNORE THIS IF YOU AREN'T.

KING OF THE COMMONWEALTH

Weave your way to the Institute Advanced Systems and enter the reactor chamber. If no evacuation has been called, expect a cluster of synths and scientists. Access the reactor door and activate the reactor housing.

Sturges teleports you to the Institute Relay Control Room. Speak with Preston Garvey before Sturges mentions an unplanned visitor in close proximity. Speak to the little guy. You can:

- AGREE TO TAKE HIM UNDER YOUR WING AND SAVE HIS LIFE. STURGES ENSURES HIS SAFETY. FIND HIM AT SANCTUARY (OR WHEREVER YOU SENT STURGES TO LIVE).
- INFORM STURGES THAT THE CHILD MUST REMAIN HERE.

After speaking into the relay and teleporting to the roof of the Mass Fusion building, you can press a button and put on a spectacular light show. Your Main Questing ends after a conversation with Preston Garvey about the future of the Commonwealth.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

WOW! A WAZER WIFLE!

Once your questing is over, this diminutive fellow has three super-secret quests you can undertake for him. Think of it as some bonding you missed while you were in the deep freeze. Finish all three quest, and you're awarded with a special "wifle" that never runs out of ammo!

Quest WITH OUR POWERS COMBINED

1. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY
2. BUILD ARTILLERY IN FIVE SETTLEMENT LOCATIONS

PUTTING THE "ART" IN ARTILLERY

It's time for the Minutemen to remove the Brotherhood of Steel as a threat to the Commonwealth. This quest is available only after you turn the Brotherhood of Steel hostile. Talk to Preston, and agree to build artillery defenses. You must build an Artillery Piece and then assign a settler to man it, in five different settlements you own.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

BURNING THE BROTHERHOOD

It may have occurred to you that the Brotherhood of Steel isn't a particularly passive bunch of zealots. So a well-defended fortification, with numerous turrets and well-protected generators, is key to repelling any foes sent after you've watched the fireworks.

Afterward, return to the Castle, speak to the Minutemen radio operator. Request that he gives the order to fire. Watch the fireworks. Then brace for a final assault from the Brotherhood of Steel. Repel these forces, and speak to Preston again to conclude this quest.

THE MINUTEMEN RADIANT QUESTS: RECRUITMENT

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

WHAT ARE MINUTEMEN RADIANT RECRUITMENT QUESTS? SO GLAD YOU ASKED! THE TEN QUESTS REFERENCED HERE ARE RANDOMLY AVAILABLE (UNLESS OTHERWISE STATED) AND ARE GIVEN EITHER BY PRESTON GARVEY OR RADIO FREEDOM (AT THE CASTLE). THEY ARE CALLS TO ASSIST SETTLEMENTS THAT HAVE NOT ALLIED WITH YOU YET. THEY ARE OCCASIONALLY FROM FRIENDLY SETTLEMENTS, TOO. YOU MAY ALSO SOMETIMES TRIGGER THESE QUESTS BY STUMBLING INTO A SETTLEMENT NEEDING A PARTICULAR TYPE OF HELP. THESE QUESTS ARE "RADIANT," AS THE LOCATIONS YOU'RE SENT TO ARE RANDOM. THESE QUESTS ARE USUALLY REPEATABLE, MAKING THEM A GREAT WAY TO ACCUMULATE REWARDS. TIME TO BUILD A SHANTY SETTLEMENT EMPIRE! ASIDE FROM SPEAKING TO PRESTON GARVEY, START THESE QUESTS BY LISTENING TO RADIO FREEDOM, OR JUST SHOWING UP AT A SETTLEMENT LOCATION. PRESTON NEED NOT BE SPOKEN TO, IF THIS IS THE CASE.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

RANDOM FACTS

Due to the random nature of the locations you are sent to, it is imperative you read up on the hostiles (and the valuables) you'll find at each one. Vault-Tec is proud to provide comprehensive cartography for just such a reconnoiter. In fact, any location in the Commonwealth with a workshop can be turned into a settlement. So simply look up which locations have workshops (see page 252) to find out more about potential settlements.

Quest THE FIRST STEP AND RAIDER TROUBLES

RADIANT RAIDER TROUBLES

Recruitment Quest: The First Step is given immediately after you complete Minutemen Quest: When Freedom Calls. It is not repeatable.

Recruitment Quest: Raider Troubles is given randomly and is repeatable. This quest is also available from owned settlements.

Head to the indicated settlement and speak to one of the settlers. They are having problems with Raiders. Agree to help them.

Wipe out the tagged foes and (optionally) any other enemies. Return to the settlement with the good news before reporting back to Preston Garvey. You receive some caps, and the settlement is now ripe for expansion!

Workshop available at this settlement.

Quest KIDNAPPING

1. TALK TO THE SETTLERS AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. (OPTIONAL) PAY THE RANSOM
3. RESCUE THE KIDNAPPED SETTLER FROM [A LOCATION]
4. REPORT BACK TO THE SETTLERS AT [THE SETTLEMENT]
5. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

A STOLEN SETTLER

This quest is also available from owned settlements. Head to the settlement requesting assistance and speak to one of the settlers. One of their ilk has been kidnapped. You can:

- (OPTIONAL) PAY OFF THE RANSOM AND COMPLETE THE QUEST.
- AGREE TO RESCUE THE KIDNAPPED SETTLER.

Visit the indicated enemy stronghold. Wipe out as many foes as you wish, ideally any close to the intended kidnapped settler. Locate them, and bring them out of the stronghold.

Workshop available at this settlement.

This quest fails if the kidnap victim dies. Return to the settlement with the good news before reporting back to Preston Garvey.

2. RETRIEVE MARY'S LOCKET IN USAF SATELLITE STATION OLIVIA
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO BLAKE ABERNATHY
4. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

IN MARY'S MEMORY

This quest is available when you visit Abernathy Farm for the first time. It is not repeatable. Speak to Blake Abernathy and agree to help him.

Visit the Raider stronghold of USAF Satellite Station Olivia. Remove all the threats you wish, and locate the locket in the toolbox. Return to Blake Abernathy with the good news before reporting back to Preston Garvey.

Workshop available at Abernathy Farm.

Quest GREENSKINS

1. TALK TO THE SETTLERS AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. KILL THE SUPER MUTANTS IN [A LOCATION]
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO SETTLERS AT [THE SETTLEMENT]
4. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

SUPER MUTANT SLAUGHTER

This quest is also available from owned settlements. Visit the indicated settlement and speak to one of the settlers. They are having troubles with Super Mutants. Agree to help them.

Visit the indicated Super Mutant stronghold. Wipe out the tagged foes and (optionally) any other of his brethren. Return to the settlement with the good news before reporting back to Preston Garvey.

Workshop available at this settlement.

QUESTS

Quest CLEARING THE WAY

1. TALK TO THE SETTLERS AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. SECURE THE WORKSHOP AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO THE SETTLERS AT [THE FIRST SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
4. REPORT TO PRESTON GARVEY

UNWANTED INTERLOPERS

This quest is also available from owned settlements. Speak to the settler and agree to their request. In this case, it is to clear a potential settlement of foes.

Enter the indicated settlement and remove all threats. Expect one or more troublesome foes—Feral Ghouls, Radroaches, Raiders, Super Mutants, or even Deathclaws. Once complete, you may use the settlement workshop immediately. Speak to the settler, as this enables them to inform their friends, who leave for the new settlement you cleared. Now return to Preston.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Workshop available at this settlement.

Quest TAKING POINT

1. CLEAR [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. BUILD AND ACTIVATE RECRUITMENT RADIO BEACON
3. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

RANSACKING BEFORE RECRUITMENT

A settlement has been discovered that looks great for expansion. Of course, the current occupants need to be removed first. Visit the settlement and clear all threats. Once cleared, you must do the following:

Access the workshop and build the following:

Recruitment Radio Beacon

- BUILD WITH: CIRCUITRY (2), CRYSTAL (2), COPPER (6), STEEL (10), CERAMIC (3), RUBBER (1)
- REQUIRES: POWER (1)

Now attach a wire from the beacon to the generator so it is powered. Then return to Preston Garvey.

Generator—Small*

- BUILD WITH: GEAR (2), STEEL (4), RUBBER (2), COPPER (2), CERAMIC (1)
- (*ANY GENERATOR IS ACCEPTABLE.)

Workshop available at this settlement.

Quest GHOUL PROBLEM

1. TALK TO THE SETTLERS AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. KILL THE GHOULS IN [A LOCATION]
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO SETTLERS AT [THE SETTLEMENT]
4. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

FERAL DWELLERS MUST DIE!

This quest is also available from owned settlements. Visit the settlement and ask more about the problem. You're pointed in the direction of [a random location] where the Ghouls lurk.

Visit the indicated Feral Ghoul haven. Wipe out the tagged foes and (optionally) any other of their brethren. Return to the settlement with victory assured before reporting back to Preston Garvey.

Workshop available at this settlement.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Quest ROGUE COURSER

1. KILL THE COURSER
2. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

THE SYNTHETIC RAIDER

This only occurs when speaking to Preston and after you destroy the Institute during the Main Quest. You're pointed in the direction of [a random location], where a Courser has joined a Raider gang. Wipe out the tagged foe and (optionally) any other of his Raider friends. Then report back to Preston Garvey for more caps to add to your collection.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Quest RESETTLE REFUGEES

1. TALK TO THE SETTLERS AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
2. SECURE THE WORKSHOP AT [A RANDOM SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO THE SETTLERS AT [THE FIRST SETTLEMENT LOCATION]
4. REPORT TO PRESTON GARVEY

IRRADIATION, THEN REPOPULATION

This only occurs when speaking to Preston and after you destroy the Institute during the Main Quest. You must also have evacuated the Institute, or you cannot begin this quest. Speak to the settler and agree to their request.

Enter the settlement tagged on your map and remove all threats. Expect one or more of the following: Feral Ghouls, Radroaches, Raiders, Super Mutants or even Deathclaws. Once complete, you may use the settlement workshop immediately. Speak to the settler, as this enables them to send refugees for the new settlement you cleared. Now return to Preston.

QUESTS

THE MINUTEMEN RADIANT QUESTS: OWNERSHIP

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

WHAT ARE MINUTEMEN RADIANT OWNERSHIP QUESTS? A PERTINENT QUESTION! THE SIX QUESTS LISTED HERE ARE RANDOMLY AVAILABLE (UNLESS OTHERWISE STATED) AND ARE GIVEN EITHER BY PRESTON GARVEY OR RADIO FREEDOM (AT THE CASTLE). THEY ARE CALLS TO ASSIST SETTLEMENTS THAT HAVE ALREADY ALLIED WITH YOU. YOU MAY ALSO SOMETIMES TRIGGER THESE QUESTS BY STUMBLING INTO A SETTLEMENT NEEDING A PARTICULAR TYPE OF HELP. THESE QUESTS ARE "RADIANT," AS THE LOCATIONS YOU'RE SENT TO ARE RANDOM. THESE QUESTS ARE USUALLY REPEATABLE, MAKING THEM A GREAT WAY TO ACCUMULATE REWARDS. TIME TO REMAIN IN CONTROL OF YOUR SHANTY SETTLEMENT EMPIRE! ASIDE FROM SPEAKING TO PRESTON GARVEY, START THESE QUESTS BY LISTENING TO RADIO FREEDOM, OR JUST SHOWING UP AT A SETTLEMENT LOCATION. PRESTON NEED NOT BE SPOKEN TO, IF THIS IS THE CASE.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

RANDOM FACTS

Due to the random nature of the locations you are sent to, it is imperative you read up on the hostiles (as well as the valuables) you'll uncover at each one. Vault-Tec is proud to provide comprehensive cartography for just such adventuring.

Quest DEFEND A SETTLEMENT OR DEFEND ARTILLERY AT A SETTLEMENT

1. TRAVEL TO [AN OWNED SETTLEMENT]
2. BUILD DEFENSES
3. HELP DEFEND [THE OWNED SETTLEMENT]
4. TALK TO PEOPLE OF [THE OWNED SETTLEMENT]
5. TALK TO PRESTON GARVEY

TURRETS SYNDROME

Visit the indicated settlement and immediately access their workshop. Build defenses until the objective is satisfied.

Wait (sit or sleep if no enemies arrive immediately) awhile after a job well done. Then help defeat one of the following types of foes: Raiders, Feral Ghouls, Super Mutants, Gunners, the Brotherhood of Steel (if this faction is hostile to you), synths (if the Institute is hostile to you or has been destroyed). After you wipe out the incursion, speak to the settlers; then report back to Preston Garvey for some Caps.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Quest STOP THE RAIDING

1. TRAVEL TO [AN OWNED SETTLEMENT]
2. KILL THE RAIDERS IN [A LOCATION]
3. REPORT YOUR SUCCESS TO SETTLERS AT [THE SETTLEMENT]

WE'LL DO THE RAIDING, THANK YOU

This is given randomly. Head to the indicated settlement and speak to one of the settlers. They are having problems with Raiders. Aren't they always? Agree to help them.

Visit the indicated Raider stronghold. Wipe out the tagged foes and (optionally) any other enemies. Return to the settlement with the good news.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Quest KIDNAPPED TRADER

1. TRAVEL TO [AN OWNED SETTLEMENT]
2. (OPTIONAL) PAY THE RANSOM
3. RESCUE THE KIDNAPPED TRADER FROM [A LOCATION]
4. REPORT BACK TO THE PEOPLE OF [THE SETTLEMENT]

A CAPS PAYMENT, OR BLOODY REVENGE

Head to the settlement requesting assistance and speak to one of the settlers. One of their traders has been kidnapped. You can:

- (OPTIONAL) PAY OFF THE RANSOM AND COMPLETE THE QUEST.
- AGREE TO RESCUE THE KIDNAPPED TRADER.

Visit the indicated enemy stronghold. Wipe out as many foes as you wish—ideally any close to the kidnapped trader. Locate them and bring them out of the stronghold. This quest fails if the trader dies. Assuming the trader survives, return to the settlement with the good news.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

Quest SUSPECTED SYNTH

1. DECIDE WHAT TO DO ABOUT SUSPECTED SYNTH

MERCY OR MURDER

This only occurs if the Institute has not been destroyed. An alert from one of your owned settlements indicates a synth has infiltrated the citizens there. Speak to the people and decide the synth's fate. You can either banish the synth or kill it.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 100)

AMENABLE WITH YOUR AMENITIES

Visit your rather impoverished settlement and immediately access their workshop. Add one of the following resources until the objective is satisfied: water, food, power.

Speak to the settlers after the resource is available. Then report back to the quest giver for the great Bottlecap giveaway.

MISCELLANEOUS: COMPANION CAIT

During your exploration of Boston, take in a show at the Combat Zone. This is a Raider stronghold, so you'll need to fight your way in. Once inside, there are more Raiders to attend to before entering the arena.

Once in the arena, speak with Tommy Lonegan. He's hoping you'll partner up with Cait while he gets his arena back in order.

(Medium) Ask why you should partner with Cait.

COMPANION: CAIT

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

ISN'T CAIT GREAT? SHE'S SURE HELPFUL IN A FIGHT AND SEEMS TO SHRUG OFF GUNFIRE LIKE SHE'S A CHEM-DEPENDENT JUNKIE! REMEMBER IF YOU WANT A DEEPER FRIENDSHIP WITH HER, YOU NEED TO MAKE DECISIONS SHE SEES AS POSITIVE. THE COMPANIONS SECTION OF THIS GUIDE (PAGE 29) HAS SOME STEPS TO TAKE.

A REFORMED PSYCHO KILLER

Speak to her periodically until she confides in you about her dependency on Psycho. It's taking its toll on her health. She mentions an old Vault where she might be able to cure this addiction. Head southeast to Vault 95, and set upon the Gunners and Assaultrons at the entrance. Watch for turrets, too.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

WHAT'S THERE TO LOOT?

NUKA CHERRY BOBBLEHEAD: BIG GUNS

There's little left that the Raiders haven't picked over at the Combat Zone (except a Nuka Cherry). However, the Gunners in Vault 95 are guarding a limited-edition official Vault-Tec Bobblehead! Bring home the 'Big Guns!'

(Easy) You can use your friendship to help convince her.

When she is seated, use the Clean Room terminal and begin the detox. Afterwards, you can affinity with Cait (until her perk becomes available), but her outlook to certain actions she likes and dislikes changes. Look to the Companions section of STAT Chapter for more information.

Quest THE BIG DIG

1. TALK TO BOBBI
2. MEET BOBBI INSIDE
3. JOIN THE DIG

GOING UNDERGROUND

Over in Goodneighbor, behind the two locked warehouses to the southeast, is a dingy alley with a metal door at the end of it. Bobbi No-Nose lives here, and she's looking for someone to help her with some tunneling work. Agree to start this quest.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) You can ask for more information and then press her (twice) for better payment options up front. This leads her to giving you some caps right away.

BOTTLECAPS (100-200)

Enter the basement, into the Dig area, and join in. You won't be using a shovel, though; there's a small infestation of Mirelurks to remove. Bobbi comes in afterward and promotes you.

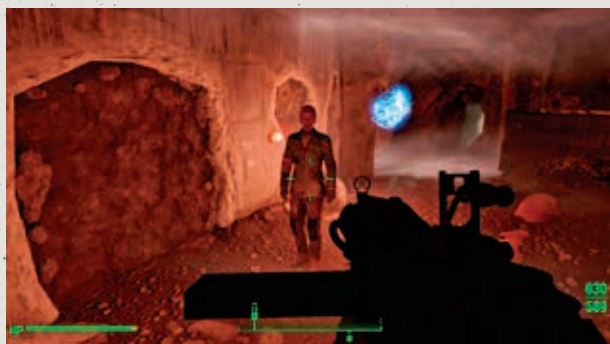

Head west across Boston to visit Diamond City, where Bobbi is hanging out at the market. She tells you the real nature of the job—or heist—and needs you to recruit someone named Mel who's locked up in Diamond City Security.

Enter the security office, and speak with Mel, who's behind bars. You can:

- (EXPERT) HACK THE TERMINAL AND START THE PROTECTRON UNIT, KEEPING THE SECURITY GUARDS BUSY WHILE YOU FREE MEL.
- SPEAK TO A SECURITY GUARD: (300 CAPS) BRIBE THE GUARD.
- OR PICKPOCKET A KEY FROM A THE GUARD, OR STEAL A KEY FROM THE DESK INSIDE THE SECURITY OFFICE, AND UNLOCK THE CELL.

(Medium, Hard) Or ask nicely or threaten the guard to let Mel out.

After recruiting Mel in Diamond City, return to the dig site under Goodneighbor, where you're introduced to Mel's digging friend, Sonya. What follows is a lengthy and dangerous series of tunneling stops interspersed with some underground exploration. In each chamber, inspect the rock wall for a "fragile" section, send Sonya to dig the wall out, and proceed deeper into the sewers. Mirelurks are active here.

Keep digging until you break into a section of old subway tracks and a station populated by Feral Ghouls commuters. The plan is still to find fragile walls, dig them out, and proceed to new areas. Continue until you reach the wall to the strong room. This last dig tires Sonya out considerably.

HELPFUL HINT

LOST? DISORIENTATED? IN NEED OF A MAP? WELL, VAULT-TEC IS PROUD TO PROVIDE COMPLETE BLUEPRINTS OF THIS TUNNEL AND SUBWAY COMPLEX, ON PAGE 487. IN ADDITION, BE SURE YOU FOLLOW THE GLOWING RED LIGHTS THAT LEAD THE WAY OUT OF THIS MODERATELY UNPLEASANT HELLHOLE.

FUSION CORE NUKA COLA QUANTUM (2)

Digging into the strong room isn't a time-sensitive issue, allowing you to explore a side passage to the east that contains a suit of Power Armor. There are also three Fusion Cores (one in the power armor) and a couple of Nuka Cola Quantums to pick up during your exploration.

THE FULL STORY IN THE STRONG ROOM

Look for the metal "exit" door into the strong room and climb out into NH&M Freight Depot. Be ready for a confrontation with Fahrenheit, Mayor Hancock's main squeeze. It seems the situation regarding whose valuables you were stealing wasn't fully explained to you. You can:

- SIDE WITH BOBBI AND REMOVE ANY THREATS IN THE CHAMBER (WATCH FOR FLAMERS AND EXPLODING BARRELS IN YOUR VICINITY), AND CLAIM YOUR SHARE OF THE LOOT.

BOTTLECAPS (APPROX. 200)

- SIDE WITH FAHRENHEIT, REMOVE ANYONE HAVING A PROBLEM WITH YOUR CHANGE OF ALLEGIANCE, AND SPEAK WITH FAHRENHEIT, WHO'S HAPPY YOU MADE THE CHOICE AND GRANTS YOU THE FOLLOWING:

UNIQUE WEAPON: ASHMAKER

(Medium) Feel free to convince Bobbi to leave and resolve the situation without bloodshed.

Once your decision is made, the quest is over. Of course, your choices directly affect your standing with Mayor Hancock of Goodneighbor, so expect repercussions. These post-quest activities are detailed in the Goodneighbor quest—Miscellaneous: Recruiting Hancock (on page 489).

10. SPEAK TO TRAVIS

THIS CHARMING MAN

Vadim, the jocular owner of the Dugout Inn, is hoping you'll help him improve the confidence of Diamond City Radio's DJ, Travis Miles. Agree to help, and return to the inn after 6:00 p.m. You witness Travis being harassed by a greaser named Bull. Speak to Travis and encourage him as you wish. A fistfight starts. Pummel Bull (and his sidekick, Gouger) if necessary. Chat to both Travis and Vadim afterward. That went reasonably well, they reckon.

Vadim's next plan involves Scarlett, the Dugout Inn's waitress, who needs to be talked into spending some quality time with Travis Miles. Find her in the Dugout Inn or around Diamond City. Answer her without your usual witty charm, or:

(Easy) Threaten or persuade her.
(Medium) Bribe her.

Return to the Dugout Inn and speak with Yefim. He tells you that Bull had an altercation with Vadim and the barkeeper has disappeared!

BEATDOWN AT BEANTOWN

Travis knows the score. Find him in Diamond City, and he reveals Vadim has been kidnapped. He agrees to meet you at old Beantown Brewery. Make sure he comes home in one piece. Well, both of them really.

Beware of Raiders. Battle your way to Vadim's location. A named Raider "Tower Tom," Bull, and Gouger need more than a swift talking to. After you spray their blood across the brewery walls, untie Vadim and he rewards you for your help. A chat with Travis indicates he's a lot more confident now. But hardened. As you'll hear if you tune into his future broadcasts on Diamond City Radio.

Or, if you're traveling in the southwest Commonwealth, visit WRVR Broadcast Station, where the folks there have Rex's broadcast on a loop. He's begging to be rescued from super mutants who have taken him captive in Trinity Tower.

Enter the plaza area at the base of the skyscraper, and rid yourself of any Super Mutants and Mutant Hounds. Ride the elevator to the middle interior. Make slow but steady progress up through the Super Mutants until you arrive at a second elevator. Ride that up to the exposed top of the structure. THREE TO TANGO

After entering the Colonial Taphouse in Diamond City (upstairs in the “fancy” part of town), you observe an argument between husband

(Paul Pembroke) and wife (Darcy Pembroke) and a fight between Paul and Henry Cooke, the barkeep. Paul storms out, leaving you to chat to either Darcy or Henry. But outside, Paul asks whether you could help intimidate Cooke for him. You can:

- AGREE TO HELP.

(Easy, Medium) Request a reward and tell him you'll go alone.

- (AFTER WHICH EITHER A CONFRONTATION WILL PLAY OUT BETWEEN THEM THE NEXT TIME YOU ENTER THE TAPHOUSE, OR -- IF YOU LEAVE DIAMOND CITY BEFORE VISITING THE TAPHOUSE AGAIN -- COOKE WILL KILL PAUL PRIOR TO YOUR RETURN).

Plan A (Alone): Head up to the taphouse alone, and speak with Cooke about his infraction with the Pembrokes. Cooke feels it's none of your business. You can:

(Easy, Medium) Win a speech challenge (with three options) and resolve the situation peacefully (though if you fail, you are attacked).

- OR YOU CAN SAY “YOUR MOVE”, AFTER WHICH HE ATTACKS.

Plan B (with Paul): Head up to the taphouse with a seething Paul in tow. With some “muscle” behind him, Paul is more enthusiastic with his hatred for Cooke. You can egg him on or calm him down.

If the conversation ends diplomatically, Cooke tells you of a chems deal he's involved in.

If the conversation ends in fisticuffs or worse, check his body for a note regarding a chem deal Cooke was involved in. The deal is with Nelson Latimer, a wannabe gangster. There's a reward if you ambush Latimer at the deal spot.

THE DEAL GOES SOUTH

Head north to the river just west of Back Street Apparel, where Nelson's chem deal is going down. Cooke, Paul, a companion, or no one might be with you. Nelson isn't happy about your intrusion and the conversation ends with bullets flying.

Speak to the only survivor, a ghoul (and Nelson's supplier) named Trish, who works for a local (and very real) gangster named Marowski. You can:

- AGREE TO LET HER LIVE, AFTER WHICH SHE REVEALS THE LOCATION OF A SECRET CHEMS LAB.
- REMOVE HER AS A THREAT, SEARCHING HER FOR A NOTE REVEALING THE LOCATION OF A SECRET CHEMS LAB.
- PROMISE TO LET HER GO, SO SHE GIVES YOU A PASSWORD FOR THE TERMINAL AT THE SECRET CHEMS LAB, ALLOWING YOU EASIER ACCESS.

FOUR LEAF SECURITY PASSWORD

Trish always tries to flee, and you can let her (though Cooke won't let that happen if he's with you), or gun her down (ideally after she mentions that password).

PAUL TAKES A CUT

If Cooke is alive at this point, he says he's going to leave town. He's not about to stick around and incur the wrath of the real gangster Marowski.

If Paul Pembroke is still in the picture and attended the chem deal, he'll want you to split the spoils of the chem deal with him. He's usually at the Dugout Inn at Diamond City. You can:

- SPLIT THE LOOT 50-50.

(Easy, Medium) Split the loot 70-30 in your favor. Or all in your favor.

- HE STILL WANTS MORE. REFUSE, OR GIVE HIM 500 CAPS AND HE'LL BE ON HIS WAY. YOU'LL NEED TO FIGHT HIM IF YOU WANT TO KEEP ALL THE LOOT.

If Paul Pembroke is still in the picture but you talked to Cooke alone and Paul didn't attend the chem deal, you can inform him of the fate of Cooke, and part ways.

A COOLER OF CHEMS AND A CAN OF WORMS

Travel southeast across town to South Boston, and find the Ghoul-infested Four Leaf Fishpacking Plant. There's some advanced trip-wire security for a place that's seemingly abandoned. The interior of the plant isn't your focus (unless you enjoy mowing down living corpses). Instead, climb the exterior walkway to the roof, secure the area from any outside ferals, and locate the wall terminal on the side of the roof. You can:

- SOLVE THE PUZZLE OF THE TRIPWIRES BY SHUTTING THEM DOWN IN THE CORRECT ORDER. READ THE NOTE FROM TRISH TO FIGURE OUT THE ORDER TO TRIP THE TRIPWIRES IN, SO THAT THE SECRET DOOR OPENS.
- (MASTER) HACK THIS IMPRESSIVELY DIFFICULT TERMINAL.
- OR USE THE SECURITY PASSWORD TRISH GAVE YOU, IF YOU DIDN'T IMMEDIATELY RESORT TO KILLING HER.

Once inside the lab, there are a few of Marowski's chem lab workers who aren't happy to see you. But the wealth of chems inside is reason enough to slay them. The quest ends. Or does it?

MAROWSKI'S CHEMS

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

CHEMS AND CORES AT THE FISHPACKING PLANT

FUSION CORE

You might as well fully explore this plant, as there are three Fusion Cores to pick up and more chems than you can safely ingest in a week. Are you sure no one's going to miss those chems, though?

AFTER THE QUEST: THE LATIMER SITUATION

1. KILL MAROWSKI OR KILL PAUL PEMBROKE
2. COLLECT REWARD FROM MALCOLM LATIMER

About 24 hours after you dealt with Nelson Latimer at the chem ambush, his father Malcolm becomes aware of his son's fate.

He's close to the taphouse area of Diamond City. Try to ignore Latimer, and a few of his thugs might rough you up when you next enter Diamond City. Assuming you don't want the entire city to turn hostile, speak with Malcolm Latimer. He lays down some options for you. You can:

- AGREE TO KILL MAROWSKI AFTER PINNING THE DEATH ON THE GANGSTER.
- AGREE TO KILL PAUL PEMBROKE BY BLAMING HIM (IF PAUL IS STILL ALIVE).
- END THE CONVERSATION AT AN IMPASSE, AND EXPECT LATIMER TO SEND THUGS TO THWART YOU.
- END THE CONVERSATION WITH MALCOLM FURIOUS AT YOU; PAYING HIM OFF OR KILLING HIM ARE YOUR ONLY TWO OPTIONS.

Assuming you ended the talk diplomatically, find your target, slay them (which solves the “Marowski situation” if this gangster is targeted but causes subsequent problems if Paul is slain) and claim your reward.

BOTTLECAPS (50+)

AFTER THE QUEST: THE MAROWSKI SITUATION

1. TALK TO MAROWSKI ABOUT HIS MISSING CHEMS
2. PAY MAROWSKI 2,000 (OR 1,000) CAPS

If you let anyone live (Nelson or Trish) during the chem ambush, around 24 hours later you receive word that Marowski wants to talk to you at Hotel Rexford in Goodneighbor. You can head there on your own volition, or receive a stern warning from some of Marowski's thugs that their boss wants to see you.

Ignore Marowski's wishes, and expect periodic encounters with his thugs in both Goodneighbor and across the Commonwealth.

Meet Marowski, and he isn't pleased with you snooping around in his chem lab and wants reparations—2,000 Caps' worth. You can:

(Medium) Convince him you only need pay 1,000 Caps.

- PAY UP, ENDING THE CONFLICT WITH MAROWSKI.
- ASK FOR A WEEK TO PAY, WHICH MAROWSKI GRANTS YOU. AFTER THAT, THE THUG ATTACKS START UP AGAIN UNTIL YOU PAY.
- OR SHOW MAROWSKI A HEIST PHOTO YOU OBTAINED DURING “THE DARCY SITUATION” (BELOW). THIS STARTS A SUBSEQUENT TASK: “MAROWSKI'S MERCENARY.”

AFTER THE QUEST: THE COLETTE SITUATION

Did Henry Cooke die during the quest (for any reason)? Then his daughter Colette appears in the Dugout Inn, around one week after the quest concludes, investigating what happened. Your responses are based on Cooke's fate. You can:

- CONFESS TO KILLING COOKE (IF YOU DID THE DEED), THEN DIPLOMATICALLY TALK WITH HER OR RESORT TO VIOLENCE (YOU NEED TO KILL HER).
- TELL HER COOKE IS DEAD OR VANISHED, WITH SUBSEQUENT DIPLOMATIC TALKING; SHE EITHER ACCEPTS YOUR STORY, IS SUSPICIOUS, OR STARTS A FIGHT WITH YOU.
- TELL HER YOU DON'T KNOW ANYTHING. SHE EITHER SUSPECTS YOU (BUT DOESN'T RESORT TO VIOLENCE) OR THINKS YOU'RE TELLING THE TRUTH. EITHER WAY, SHE STILL HANGS AROUND TO INVESTIGATE FURTHER.

Is Colette still sniffing around in town? Then if Paul Pembroke is alive, he tries to speak with you, worried he'll be found out.

You can:

- CALM HIM DOWN.
- AGREE TO LET PAUL GO OFF AND KILL COLETTE.
- AGREE TO KILL COLETTE YOURSELF.

Another week passes in Diamond City. If Colette is still investigating, you can run into her again (usually at the Dugout Inn).

If you split the chem ambush deal with Paul Pembroke at 70/30 percent, or if you took it all, he'll squeal on you and tell Colette you killed Cooke. She is very confrontational.

Or if she was suspicious when you first met her, she still thinks you had a hand in her father's murder.

End this conversation in several ways:

- COMBAT (USING VIOLENCE OR NOT ANSWERING HER QUESTIONS).
- YOUR CONFESSION (IF YOU KILLED HIM), WHICH LEADS TO COMBAT OR HER LEAVING TOWN.
- YOU TELL THE TRUTH (IF YOU DIDN'T KILL HIM) AND SHE LEAVES TOWN.
- YOU TELL HER PAUL IS THE MURDERER (IF HE ACCUSED YOU) AND SHE LEAVES TOWN, NOT SURE WHO TO BELIEVE.

Finally, if Colette leaves town still suspicious of you, be wary of her turning up at one of your settlements in the future, which leads to combat.

Or, if Colette leaves town still suspicious of Paul, you later hear of his death and can speak to Darcy about it.

AFTER THE QUEST: THE DARCY SITUATION

Darcy Pembroke isn't some wilting flower in all of this, either! Sometime in the 72 hours after the completion of this quest, and if you weren't rude to her both times you had a chance to talk to her (at the start of the quest), she tries to talk and wants to know what happened. You can:

- TELL THE TRUTH.
- ANSWER WITH EVASIVE OR UNPLEASANT RESPONSES. SHE ENDS HER TALKING WITH YOU.
- AGREE TO HELP HER FIND OUT WHAT HAPPENED TO COOKE AND PAUL.
- OR TELL HER YOU DON'T KNOW ANYTHING.

Do you actually know what happened to Paul (if he isn't in Diamond City)? You can:

- CONFRONT COOKE ABOUT PAUL'S DISAPPEARANCE AND OBTAIN A CONFESSION BEFORE INFORMING DARCY.
- STUMBLE UPON PAUL'S BODY IN TOWN AND TELL DARCY HE'S DEAD.

One week later, and if you've been helpful to Darcy, she finds a heist photo—some incriminating evidence of past malfeasance that Marowski, Cooke, and Malcolm Latimer were involved in.

HEIST PHOTO

The following Miscellaneous objectives are available:

- 1. TALK TO MAROWSKI, COOKE, OR LATIMER ABOUT THE PHOTO
- 2. KILL COOKE AND LATIMER
- 3. TALK TO MAROWSKI

You have a few options, which obviously depend on who's still alive in both Diamond City and Goodneighbor. You can:

- TALK TO MAROWSKI IN HOTEL REXFORD (GOODNEIGHBOR). YOU CAN SELL THE PHOTO TO MAROWSKI, OR USE IT TO PAY OFF YOUR REPARATIONS. MAROWSKI WANTS THE OTHER TWO FELLOWS DEAD. OBLIGE HIM FOR A CAPS REWARD.
- TALK TO COOKE OR LATIMER ABOUT THE PHOTO. THEY OFFER TO PAY YOU FOR THE PHOTO. AGREE IF YOU WANT THE CAPS.

Then return to Darcy and split the caps with her, if you're a kind soul.

- USE THE AFT ROWBOAT TO QUICKLY DESCEND AND ASCEND, AND CHARGE AT THE FOES. OR SIMPLY DROP DOWN IF YOU HAVE MORE ROBUST ARMOR ON.

After the battle, speak to either the Bosun, the Navigator, or both. The next few objectives can be completed in either order.

CHOSEN BY THE BOSUN

Head below deck and talk to the Bosun. You have three power cable wiring boxes to fix. You can:

- FIND A METAL BOX (BELOW DECK) WITH THREE POWER CABLES IN IT, AND USE THEM TO REPAIR THE CABLES.

POWER CABLES

(Jury Rig, Intelligence 3+) Salvage the replacement power cables without needing the power cables from the metal box. Then return to Bosun; he has another job for you (regarding the Power Relay Coil objective).

THE CHIPS ARE DOWN

Head up on deck and speak to Mr. Navigator. He requires you to obtain a guidance chip from some Scavengers and requests you don't use force. But that's up to you. Now go shopping.

DATA

QUESTS

Visit Mandy Stiles and her scavenger sidekick Davies at her store/hideout, close to the ship. Answer her how you wish. You can:

- AGREE TO WORK WITH HER TO BRING DOWN IRONSIDES AND HIS CREW. THIS IS RECOMMENDED, AS YOU CAN ALWAYS CHANGE YOUR MIND LATER, AND MANDY WON'T BE HOSTILE. TAKE THE GUIDANCE CHIP.
- AGREE TO WORK WITH IRONSIDES. THIS IS ONLY RECOMMENDED IF YOU JUST WANT TO HELP THE SHIP'S CREW. KILL EVERYONE AND TAKE THE GUIDANCE CHIP.
- IGNORE HER, SNEAK INTO THE RUINED BUILDING BEHIND HER, AND STEAL THE GUIDANCE CHIP FROM THE CABINET. IF YOU'RE SPOTTED, MANDY AND THE SCAVENGERS TURN HOSTILE.

While you're on shore leave, you should also visit Bunker Hill and purchase a power relay coil from Deb, if you don't want to repair it on the ship.

Return to the ship and head below deck. Access the power relay. You can:

- INSTALL THE POWER RELAY COIL YOU ACQUIRED.
- (REPAIR, INTELLIGENCE 5+) REPAIR THE DAMAGED COIL WITHOUT NEEDING TO FIND A NEW ONE.

Then talk with the Bosun and conclude his tasks:

Head to the deck and activate the Core Guidance System. Speak to Mr. Navigator, who rewards you and gives you another job.

GETTING GUIDANCE

Mr. Navigator requires a radar transmitter. You can repair the one on the ship or find a new one from a random location, such as the Poseidon Energy Turbine #18-F. Locate the steamer trunk at the location and obtain the following:

Return to the ship and head on deck to the guidance radar and begin fiddling with it. If you have the best Repair skill, you can fix this. Otherwise, install the new Poseidon Radar Transmitter.

Report in to Mr. Navigator for a reward; then you're directed to talk to the captain.

GETTING YOUR BEARINGS

Ironsides needs one last component to repair the USS Constitution: turbopump bearings. Find them at a nearby factory. After that, maybe he can tell you what the hell he's up to. He gives you a key to enter his cabin to install the device.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LOOTING THE USS CONSTITUTION

U.S. COVERT OPERATIONAL MANUAL

Now that you can enter the captain's cabin inside the hull, purloin whatever scattered items you wish, including some quality covert reading material.

Travel to the indicated (random) location; it is always one with a steamer trunk-sized crate to open. Rummage around inside after abating any immediate threats and grab the following:

OPTIONAL: LOSING YOUR BEARINGS

At this point, you have one of two plans to commit to:

- PLAN A: RETURN TO THE SHIP AND INSTALL THE TURBOPUMP BEARINGS AS IRONSIDES REQUESTED. THIS OCCURS WHETHER YOU AGREED TO SIDE WITH THE SCAVENGERS OR NOT.
- PLAN B: STOP OFF AT MANDY'S LOCATION, SABOTAGE THE TURBOPUMP FIRST, AND THEN INSTALL IT. THIS IS ONLY AVAILABLE IF YOU SIDED WITH THE SCAVENGERS EARLIER AND KEPT YOUR WORD TO MANDY.

Return to Ironsides and speak to him about his next harebrained scheme. At this point, there are two possible conclusions: Plan A and B. You receive the following reward for installing the Turbopump:

PLAN A: SETTING SAIL!

Before the arguably insane Ironsides can start his plan, you have to fend off a last-ditch attack from the Scavengers:

Fend them off, optionally using the cannons, previously laid traps, and more devastating weapons in your arsenal—if Ironsides dies, the quest fails.

After the Scavengers are dead, speak to Ironsides, who grants you the following and has one last request: To fire up the auxiliary power.

Leave the ship and ascend the ruins of the building the Scavengers attacked from, south of the street. Flip the circuit breaker and watch the voyage of the ship. Afterwards, if you've watched where the ship ended up, you can visit the new location and have another chat with Captain Ironsides, and receive a special Charisma-improving Lieutenant's Hat, and the use of the Captain's quarters.

PLAN B: ENGINE FAIL!

Did you sabotage the USS Constitution's rockets? Now Ironsides needs more power before everything goes to hell. You should check in with Mandy Stiles before setting things in motion, and agree to her request to slay Ironsides.

Ascend the ruins of the building the Scavengers attacked from, south of the street. Flip the circuit breaker and watch the engines explode. Board the ship and defeat Ironsides and any other crew members you wish. Then return to Mandy, who promptly betrays you. Kill her and all other Scavengers, and loot the salvage for yourself, as your disastrous decisions finally catch up with you.

MACCREADY AT THE READY

After visiting Goodneighbor, you hired MacCready despite a verbal altercation with Winlock and Barnes in the VIP room of the Third Rail.

(Easy) When hiring him, knock his price down from 250 to 200 caps.

After some exploration (and numerous talks that you initiate), MacCready asks you to bring him to the Mass Pike Interchange to hunt down and kill the two Gunners that were threatening him in Goodneighbor.

COMPANION: MACCREADY

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

MACCREADY SEEMS A BIT ROUGH AROUND THE EDGES, BUT HE'S SURE HELPFUL IN A FIGHT! HE'LL NEED TO BE WITH THE NUMBER OF GUNNERS HE HAS VEXED. REMEMBER IF YOU WANT A DEEPER FRIENDSHIP WITH HIM, YOU NEED TO MAKE DECISIONS HE SEES AS POSITIVE. THE COMPANIONS SECTION OF THIS GUIDE (PAGE 29) HAS ADVICE ON THIS.

MacCready finally feels ready to hunt down the Gunners. Travel to the Mass Pike Interchange (west and slightly north of Greater Boston), and locate the lift slightly north of the world map marker.

Then wade through the Gunners' camp, massacring anyone named Winlock or Barnes and anyone else in your way.

Afterward, you must continue to make decisions that MacCready deems positive. Continue this until he's ready to speak again. He tells you about his son.

While you're up here, quickly scout the Gunners' base, especially as they're tinkering with some Power Armor that you can take. Don't forget a Fusion Core and copy of GrognaK the Barbarian. To the victor goes the spoils!

PREVENTATIVE MEASURES

MacCready confided in you that his son is extremely ill and needs a cure that can only be found within a place called Med-

Tek Research. The place is close to Malden Township, in the northern part of the Commonwealth.

Enter the facility and fill any Feral Ghouls with lead. The structure is in partial ruins and under a containment alert, but accessing the executive terminal on the upper floor and using a scrap of paper that MacCready gives you shuts down the alarm.

Access the airlock terminal and open it, allowing you to reach an elevator down deeper into the facility. There are still gormless feral corpses to destroy.

Locate the Med-Tek Lab Terminal to open the lab doors. Pick up the vial of "Prevent" from the central lab work surface.

THAT EDWARD DEEGAN GETS AROUND TOWN. HE'S BEEN SPOTTED IN COLONIAL TAPHOUSE, DUGOUT INN (DIAMOND CITY MARKET), THE THIRD RAIL (GOODNEIGHBOR), AND THE MARKET IN BUNKER HILL. BUT HE DOESN'T APPEAR UNTIL:
- YOU REACH LEVEL 10, AND
- YOU ATTACK THE GUARDS AFTER VISITING PARSONS STATE INSANE ASYLUM.

Mosey on over to the Beacon Hill Neighborhood in northeast Boston and locate the impressively intact Cabot House.

With the antidote for MacCready's son in hand, travel to Goodneighbor and visit Daisy's Discounts, where MacCready hands over the serum to Daisy so she can send it on to his son. Your help does not go unnoticed; now continue to explore with MacCready until you gain enough affinity to obtain his perk. See the Companions section of the STAT Chapter for more information (page 29).

Activate the intercom. Mention Jack Cabot by name and you're let in and introductions are made. Feel free to ask any questions before agreeing to your first mission. You receive a key allowing free passage to and from this residence.

You're supposed to recover a missing "package." Edward suggested that the guard captain at Parsons State Insane Asylum may know where to start looking for it. Travel roughly north into the Commonwealth, to the ominous-looking structure.

Meet Maria the guard captain at the main entrance door. Mention Edward sent you and you're given the location of some Raiders at the adjacent creamery. Head there and remove the Raider marked on your Pip-Boy. They are carrying an item most interesting:

You have several chances to ask about Emogene, and some additional speech challenges; you can Bribe, Threaten, or Persuade Brother Thomas into revealing more about Emogene. Succeed, and he unlocks the door. Fail, and he refuses to let you see her (or attacks if you've threatened him).

Behind the locked door is Emogene Cabot. She knows why you're here. Speak with her, and she agrees to return.

PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE—ALL ARE ONE

There's been some kind of attack on Jack's facility at the Parsons State Insane Asylum. You and Jack need to deal with it. After meeting him outside the main entrance, you realize Raiders have overrun the facility. Battle through the administration rooms, following Jack and removing Raider threats. After a loop upstairs and down, unchain the door and enter Jack's office.

Edward has shut down the elevator to the lower levels, but the Raiders have still managed to infiltrate the basement. Jack certainly isn't happy about that. Push out into the courtyard, up the scaffolding, and into the main asylum.

The place is in shambles. Locate the section of fallen floor and descend. Work your way to a hole behind the wallpaper wall in the southeast corner, and rampage through the cell block. Drop down the hole in the cell to a sublevel that leads to an elevator to the basement.

Follow Jack into a strange laboratory and listen to his instructions. There's a Cabot named Lorenzo here, and Raiders are trying to free him. Apparently, that's not a great idea. Enter the series of doors Jack opens, and cut down the Raiders, including a tough old boot named Lefty. Access the four Abremalin Generators on each of the walls, and set two of them to manual override. Lorenzo's voice seems more forceful and persuasive now: He's hoping you'll free him. - LET THE CABOT FAMILY KNOW THEY HAVE A GUEST COMING AND HELP THEM WITH THEIR PREDICAMENT. AFTER THE DUST HAS SETTLED, JACK SAYS HE HAS SOMETHING FOR YOU, BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO COME BACK FOR IT IN A WEEK. RETURN THEN, AND HE HANDS YOU HIS "GAMMA GUN."

THE COMMONWEALTH: NOT AS DESOLATE AS FIRST POSTULATED

A CHANCE ENCOUNTER IN THE COMMONWEALTH. ONE OF MANY.

Vault-Tec simulations have gathered a vast number of probable encounters based on your location, quest choices, and even companion choices. These can occur almost anywhere, and are always at random. The image to the left is one example; a Brahmin trader you may meet on your travels. You may wish to check off an encounter once it occurs. The following types of encounters can occur:

STATIC ENCOUNTERS

These usually occur in a specific area, which could be anywhere in the Commonwealth,

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Deceased Fellow	You chance upon a dead guy. Check his pockets for a note mentioning treasure in a [random] location.
Raiders versus Farmers	A farmer runs to ask for help as you witness a fracas.
Wounded Dog	Why not patch this dog up and name her? Later on, she might appear to help you.
Mole Rat Ambush	Whack those pesky mutations when they pop out of their holes.
Dead Meat	A dead Brahmin, Yao Guai, or other carcass you can loot.
Wild Pack of Dogs	During an exploration, you chance upon a resting pack of dogs.
Gene the Reluctant Dog Vendor	If you own a settlement with a workshop, you may chance upon this trader. Use your Charisma and he'll sell you a dog.
Super Mutants and Prisoner	A victorious raiding party of greenskins returns with a victim. Free the victim if you wish.
Deathclaws Duel	Two of these powerful beasts are battling.
Vicious Dogs and Farmer	Three vicious dogs are attacking a farmer ill-equipped to defend himself.
Traveling Vault Merchant	You meet a guard and merchant on their way to a vault. Speak, and the vault's location is revealed.
Raiders and the Pink Paste	A dead Raider or two have some strange paste on them. Apparently this came from Suffolk County Charter School. Why not visit there?
You've Got Crabs	Mirelurks occasionally scuttle around and ambush you. Time to crack a few shells.
The Postman	Despicable foes have slain this postman, who has letters you can read. Some reveal locations to explore.
Stingwing versus Radsorpion	Two examples of mutated wildlife aren't getting along.
Pickman's Prey	A pile of dead Raiders, evocatively staged, each marked with a strange calling card, and the location of Pickman Gallery.
Vertibird versus Raiders	If the Prydwen has arrived, and the Brotherhood of Steel are active, expect death to Raiders from above before the craft heads back to Boston Airport.
Vertibird Patrol Drop	If the Prydwen has arrived, and the Brotherhood of Steel are active, expect two Brotherhood of Steel soldiers, or a soldier and scribe, to be dropped off.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Super Mutant Raiding Party	Up to four greenskins are returning to a Super Mutant stronghold. Check the leader's corpse for a note. After you kill them, of course.
Roving Eyebot	A still-functioning Eyebot plays a verbal advertisement for job openings at the Cambridge Polymer Labs. Why not head there?
Unfriendly Deathclaws	Occasionally you stumble into the frighteningly sharp fangs and claws of a roaming Deathclaw.
The Return of Manta Man!	An amateurish superhero is seen fighting Mole Rats, or a variety of enemies. Usually badly. He's no Silver Shroud, though he only appears after you finish Side Quest: The Silver Shroud.
Jack Is Back	If you sided with Jack Cabot during Side Quest: The Secret of Cabot House, you'll find him with Edward Deegan and can sell him items he requires.
Lorenzo Is Undying	If you sided with Lorenzo Cabot during Side Quest: The Secret of Cabot House, you'll find him investigating dead Ghouls. How pleasant.
Vault 81 Dead Dweller	One example of how living underground extends your life is when you encounter a dead vault dweller with a note for Vault 81 and a mention of Doctor Penske.
Mutant Hound versus Yao Guai	Two brawling and sinewy animal mutations take a distinct dislike for one another.
Bloated Animal Corpse	A dead Radstag Doe, Yao Guai, or Brahmin is feeding a few Bloatlflies, Bloodbugs, or Radroaches. Yuck.
Super Mutant versus Stingwings	Can a greenskin and his hound survive a nasty sting or two? You're about to find out.
Feral Ghoul Ambush	A dead farmer and Brahmin are decoys for a Feral Ghoul, who lies in wait to pounce on anyone investigating.
Resting Radstags	Two Radstags are snoozing in a wilderness location. Unless you arrive and make noise.
Eyebot Advertisement	An Eyebot still outputs prewar advertising.
Two Faces. One Synth	You stumble into two men with the same face. Each claims the other is a synth. Who do you believe?

FLUID ENCOUNTERS

The entities you may encounter are moving, and the location cannot be pinpointed. Expect a higher chance of these occurring if you stay on roads.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Smiling Larry	Have you bought anything from this trader? His two guards look tough. But if you've built a Level 3 Weapons Store at one of your settlements, you can offer to have him come live at any of your workshop locations.
Mister Gutsy	A Mister Gutsy is on patrol, looking for Chinese infiltrators. Have you seen any?
Workshop Armor Vendor	Are your workshops impressive enough? If they aren't, hire this chap. If they are, just barter with him. But if you've built a Level 3 Armor Store at one of your settlements, you can offer to have him come live at any of your workshop locations.
Brotherhood of Steel versus Raiders	If the Prydwen has arrived, these two factions encounter each other. Diplomatic relations are strained to nonexistent.
Brotherhood of Steel versus Deathclaw	If the Prydwen has arrived, three Brotherhood of Steel scouts find themselves facing an apex predator.
The Gossiping Trader	Chance upon a trader who has some pertinent rumors regarding the some primary locations across the Commonwealth.
Super Mutants versus Raiders	These two factions are constantly battling for territory. Usually, though, the territory is a stronghold and not out in the open.
Deathclaw Hunting	My, that's a big-clawed, scaly beast you've inadvertently stumbled into.
The Brahmin Vendor	Do you need a Brahmin for your workshop settlement? Then you're in luck.
The Brahmin Farmer	A livestock farmer is making his way in the world.
Ness Encounter	You encounter a woman named Ness. For more information, consult Primary Location: Skylanes Flight 1981 (page 279).
Radstag Herd	Up to four of these majestic, mutated beasts can be witnessed.
"Preston Garvey"	If you finished Minutemen Quest: When Freedom Calls, some chancer appears asking for a donation to the Minutemen. Pay up, refuse, or confront him.
Feral Ghoul Pack	You see a pack of frothing ferals. You'd better get back because it'll be dark soon, and they mostly come at night. Mostly.
Sated Radsorpion	A mutated wildlife encounter with these vicious stingers.
Dogs versus Mole Rats	A pack of dogs chasing a Mole Rat.
Revenge of the Forged	Complete Location Quest: Out of the Fire and you may be attacked by the Forged.
Bobbi's Recruiter	You're stopped and asked to help out in Goodneighbor; there's a Ghoul named Bobbi who needs your help starting Side Quest: The Big Dig.
One Man and His Robot	Once Side Quest: The Big Dig is over, you may meet Mel again.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Swanson's Revenge	Did you complete Side Quest: Human Error? Then you may have angered Swanson, who turns up all hot under the collar.
Vault 81 Prisoner	A group of Raiders are holding a vault dweller hostage. Can you help, and find out the vault's location in the process?
Darla Goes Home	If you finished Main Quest: Unlikely Valentine and Darla isn't dead, you may see her heading home.
Heading to Trinity Tower	Super Mutants are taking a prisoner to their highest stronghold. Side Quest: Curtain Call now begins.
The Exile	If Brotherhood of Steel Quest: Duty or Dishonor is complete, you may see Clarke fleeing from a group of Feral Ghouls. They aren't so friendly now, are they?
Gruel's Recipes	Did you kill a strange Raider with a chef's hat on? Then check his corpse for some rare ingredients and recipes.
Escaped Synth	If the Institute is still active and Railroad Quest: Boston After Dark hasn't been completed, you spot a synth in Institute janitorial attire who requests the location of Bunker Hill. Provide this information if you've discovered this location, or ask for Caps.
Radstags versus Dogs	An interesting conundrum: Which animal will be victorious?
Super Mutants versus Mister Gutsy	Can the greenskins overpower the pride of RobCo Industries?
Kat and Gus	A child merchant named Kat and her impressively dangerous protector Sentry Bot Gus are wandering the landscape. Time to trade?
Predator's Lunch	Did you see that Yao Guai or Deathclaw chasing down that dog? Glad it wasn't you!
Radsorpion's Lunch	A Radsorpion deems a Raider to be the tastiest morsel around.
Stash, Lexa, and Simon	Did you meet the merchant Stash and her bodyguards? You might want to talk to Stash about Simon's chem addiction. A previous encounter with these folks must have been completed without you attacking or stealing.
Simon's Side	Simon gave in to his addiction; later you find he's sided with some Raiders.
Paranoid Scavengers	A group of Scavengers aren't that welcoming, though the note on the leader's corpse reveals a rethink in tactics. Too late now, though.
Wattz Electronics Protection Barker	Have you heard about the bargains at Wattz Electronics? You will if you meet this Protectron.
Gunner Patrol	Two gunners and an Assaultron (or two Gunners and a leader clad in Power Armor) are patrolling the Commonwealth.
Brotherhood of Steel Patrol	If the Prydwen has arrived and the Brotherhood of Steel are active, you may encounter two soldiers and a scribe on patrol. If attacked, they call for backup. A Vertibird arrives and drops off two soldiers in Power Armor. Gulp!

GENERAL ENCOUNTERS

You can find these encounters almost anywhere in the Commonwealth.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
The Locked Fridge	Someone is trying to open a locked fridge. Will they be successful?
The Hatch	A scavenger blows open the doors of a bomb shelter. Deal with him, then head inside and see what you find.
Feral Ghoul Ambush	A rusting car is as good a place as any for ferals to test their ambushing skills out on you.
Glowing Anomaly	A type of "glowing" creature is found near some radioactive barrels.
Thirsty Guy	A parched chap hopes you have water. Offer some if you're a kindhearted sort.
Poisoned Gal	An irradiated dame hopes you have some RadAway. Offer some if you're a kindhearted type.
Vertibird Pick-up	If this faction is active and the Prydwen has arrived, you watch a Brotherhood of Steel patrol get airlifted at the end of their patrol. A battle with Gunners may be occurring. Sometimes the Vertibird subsequently crashes.
The Minefield	A cluster of mines strewn about. Instead of crippling a leg, why not gather them up?
Atomcats Scavenger	A greaser from the Atomcats Garage is scavenging for parts and invites you to this location if you haven't been already.
Tire Fire	Someone's set some tires alight. That noxious cloud is only slightly more unpleasant than the regular air you're breathing. Get too close and fire burns.
Safe Landing	Did you find a locked safe lying in a small crater? Then unlock it!

CAMPSITE ENCOUNTERS

Expect these encounters at any campfires you might stumble upon. One example would be just east of Concord, in the small parking lot.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Deserted Campsite	A small camp with a few beds and containers to loot. There's a chance the Raiders who made this camp may return. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Dead Scavengers	A pair of Scavengers have succumbed to Bloodbug prodding. Loot the camp if you're able to finish off the insects. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Merchant of Dreth	An arms dealer named Dreth and her two guards occupy this camp. Buy any armaments you wish from her.
The Walking Wounded	A wandering doctor has finished treating a patient.
Time to Party	A bartender and friends ask you to join their camp party. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Chems Vendor	Need a little pick-me-up? A chem vendor can be found with just the wares you need.
Dirty Laundry	A Raider is boiling some attire to clean them. He's rather ill-prepared for combat. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Drug Overdose	Too many chems have killed these Scavengers. Now their corpses feed the Radroaches. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Daddy and Daughter	A father and daughter share a campsite.
That's Not a Sandwich	Two (vaguely idiotic) settlers argue over some food.
Synth Attack Aftermath	A camp of Scavengers is looking distinctly worse for wear after a recent synth massacre.
Synth Ambush I	Have you chanced upon an empty camp with a container? It may be a trap! This occurs once Main Quest: Hunter/Hunted is complete and the Institute are still active.
Synth Ambush II	Three settlers are in camp. Moments later, synths teleport in and a massacre begins. This occurs once Main Quest: Hunter/Hunted is complete and the Institute are still active.
Super Mutant Camp	A group of greenskins is camping out. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Radioactive Barrels	A group of leaky barrels add to the already-insurmountable radiation leakage in the Commonwealth.
Giddyup Buttercup	A popular toy is found, along with a note from Arlen Glass, who left The Slog after Miscellaneous: Arlen Glass quest was completed.
Radio and Refuse Pile	Along with a toolbox and safe, a radio is broadcasting from a pile of trash.
Vault-Tec Van	If anyone knows the whereabouts of Larry, last seen heading to a Commonwealth Vault, please inform the Documentation Department. He has a note regarding the Vault on his person.
Scavenger Guard	Sometimes, items needed to complete Main Quest: The Molecular Level are guarded by a stationary Scavenger.
Deathclaw Mother	One of these giant predators is guarding a cluster of (delicious) eggs.
Brahmin Corpse and Mines	A few items are hidden close to a Brahmin corpse, with mines to dissuade the curious.
Gunners and Tank	Some Gunners are removing scrap from a tank. They aren't happy to see you.
Commonwealth Funeral	A group of settlers are burying a friend.
Mac's Bar	Mac is setting up a bar. Is this a strange place for a bar? You decide.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Mirelurk Bake	A group of Raiders is eating some delicious Mirelurk bake. Why not help yourself?
Exiled Scientists	Scientists Lawrence Higgs and Max Loken may be spotted at a campfire if you exiled them during Institute Quest: A House Divided. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Skinny Malone, All Alone	Did you keep this guy alive during Main Quest: Unlikely Valentine? Then you might see him at a campsite. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Sick Scavenger. Mystery Meat	An ill Scavenger mentions some bad meat he consumed. He took it from Longneck Lukowski's Cannery. Why not see what's going on there?
Rylee the Trader	Once you visit Longneck Lukowski's Cannery and meet Rylee, you can barter with her again at a camp. Only occurs at night (20:00 to 06:00).
Deserted Feral Camp	This camp looks devoid of human contact. This is technically correct, as you're subsequently ambushed by ferals.
Occupied Feral Camp	Two dead Scavengers and four feasting ferals. You probably know what happened here.
Vicious Dog Camp	A dead Raider and masterless dog are encountered. Down, boy.
Deserted Camp with Mines	Watch your step and disarm the mines scattered around this camp, or face a crippling injury.
Yao Guai Camp	A ferocious clawing beast has wandered into a Scavenger camp. The scavengers came off second best.
Raider Camp and Dogs	Vicious dogs are gnawing at a couple of camping Raiders.
Stash and Lexa's Camp	You witness the final encounter with these two traders if you encountered them previously.
Runaway Synth Camp	A group of settlers has discovered one of their own isn't as "fleshy" as they once thought. Quest: The Nuclear Option must not be completed.

ANIMOSITY ENCOUNTERS

These encounters occur anywhere and typically involve two factions or enemy types that have particularly strained or nonexistent diplomatic relations with one another.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Super Mutants versus Ghouls	Sit back and watch infected bony fingernails scrape against overly large green hides.
Super Mutants versus Scavengers	A one-sided battle, with Super Mutants already victorious and moving back to a nearby stronghold.
Raiders versus Scavengers	Come for the fighting. Stay for the loot one of the Scavengers had collected.
Dogs versus Farmers	Only the dogs are hostile.
Scavengers versus Robots	Both groups are hostile if you barge in uninvited.
Minutemen versus [Other Faction]	Once you ally with the Minutemen, you may encounter a group of them defending a settlement from Brotherhood of Steel soldiers, Institute synths (who may use relaying to ambush), or one or more Institute Coursers. Help out your chosen faction. You must have been kicked out of the faction that is attacking.
Brotherhood of Steel versus [Other Faction]	Once you ally with the Brotherhood of Steel, you may encounter a group of them defending a settlement from Minutemen, Institute synths (who may use relaying to ambush), or one or more Institute Coursers. Help out your chosen faction. You must have been kicked out of the Institute if they are attacking.
Minutemen versus [enemy]	Once you ally with the Minutemen, expect to see them defending random locations in the Commonwealth. These small outposts may be attacked by Raiders or Gunners; lend them a hand if you can.
Brotherhood of Steel versus [Enemy]	Once you ally with the Brotherhood of Steel, expect to see them at a random location, attacked by Feral Ghouls or Super Mutants.
Institute Relay Ambush	If you've been kicked out of the Institute and the faction is still active, you may be attacked by teleporting synths as you near a location.
Vicious Dogs versus Bloodbugs	A human corpse serves as a rag doll being torn between dogs and bugs, both parties wishing to devour it.
Feral Ghouls versus Raiders	A group of wandering corpses do battle against the idiotic wastrels of the Commonwealth.
Active Sniper	Some lunatic with a sniper rifle enjoys shooting up the location you're entering.
Ricky Dalton and the Raiders	Once Railroad Quest: Tracraft is complete, you may see him fighting off Raiders.
Gunners versus Children of the Atom	Feel free to watch both these enemy factions make (lightly irradiated) mincemeat of each other.
Gunners versus Behemoth or Mirelurk Queen	A trio of Gunners are making impressive inroads against one of the Commonwealth's true giants.

TREASURE HUNT ENCOUNTERS

These follow a similar pattern; you encounter a dead person with a note on their corpse. If you read the note, you're pointed in the direction of a (random) location, and a map marker appears to reveal where a steamer trunk is located.

ENCOUNTER	REWARD
A dead Raider's note	Caps
A dead junkie's note	Chems
A dead Gunner's note	Gun and impressive mod
Three dead Scavengers	Scrap and junk.
A dead farmer's note	A synth with an impressively modded gun, scrap, and junk in a trunk.
Hadrian's note	This starts Miscellaneous Quest: Treasure of Jamaica Plain.

CHOKEPOINT ENCOUNTERS

Expect the following to occur in areas where you have limited maneuverability, such as a bridge crossing.

ENCOUNTER	NOTES
None Shall Pass!	Three Raiders (or Gunners) are manning a choke point, demanding Caps for you to pass. Use your speech to reduce the amount (Easy to Hard); this can allow free passage if you're a good fast-talker. You're attacked if you leave without paying or if you attack them. If you have a Luck of 8 or more and fewer Caps than the Raiders demand, choose the "fake it" option and the Raiders take whatever Caps you have.
Mister Gutsy's Curfew	This robot demands you return to your home. A speech challenge allows you to convince the robot you're on military business, and you're let through. Attempt to pass and you're attacked. If you have a Luck of 7 or more, select the same questions for the robot multiple times until it explodes.
Raiders Accosting Farmers	Three Raiders are trying to extract a toll from some farmers. Help the farmers out if you wish.
Synth Relay Choke Point	If you've been kicked out of the Institute and the faction is still active, you may be attacked by teleporting synths (and sometimes a Courser) as you near a choke point.
Minutemen Defenses	A small group of Minutemen are defending a choke point, once you ally with this faction.
Brotherhood of Steel Defenses	A small contingent of Brotherhood soldiers is defending a choke point once the Prydwen arrives. How they react to you depends on how your alliance is going.
Synth Defenses	A small contingent of synths is defending a choke point once Institute Quest: Airship Down is complete. How they react to you depends on how your alliance is going.
Nervous Farmers	A group of farmers asks you to holster any weapon you're carrying. Comply and you can pass. If not, expect hostility.
Super Mutant Blockage	A couple of lumbering green mutants are preventing your progress.
Stash, Lexa, and Simon	A merchant and two bodyguards are found here, and bartering can occur.
Choke Point Mines	Disarm a set of mines at this location, or face a crippling injury.
Unconstitutional	If you completed Side Quest: Last Voyage of the U.S.S. Constitution, some disgruntled Scavengers are furious that you jumped their claim on the ship.
Bullet's Ambush	If you finished Side Quest: Kid in a Fridge and Bullet is still alive, he may jump you with a couple of cohorts.

COMPANION ENCOUNTERS

Do you have a particular companion by your side? Then expect the following to occur during your time with them.

COMPANION	ENCOUNTER	NOTES
Strong	Hunting for Strong	You encounter Super Mutants who are looking for Strong once you complete Side Quest: Curtain Call.
MacCready	Gunners' Revenge	A few Gunners are looking for revenge once you slay the Gunner leaders during Side Quest: Long Road Ahead.
Nick Valentine	Profuse Thanks	After you're ambushed by Raiders, one realizes who Nick is and the situation turns remarkably less violent. Accept a small collection of items afterward.
Piper	One Tough Critic	You're stopped by a group of rough-looking types who are here on behalf of someone Piper wrote an unpleasant article about. They attack, thus proving Piper's journalistic integrity.
Preston Garvey	Preston's Friend	If Preston is your current companion, and you own four settlements, you may encounter an old friend of Preston's fighting some Raiders. If the chap survives, they reminisce.
Cait	Drug Runner Revenge	Apparently Cait owes some Raiders Caps for the Jet she bought. They are here to collect. Show them the error of this plan.
Hancock	Bar Room Buddy	Visit a bar at a settlement, and there's a chance Hancock recognizes an old friend. They converse.

QUESTS

WORKSHOPS

Workshops are powerful construction tools that allow you to build, scrap, and rearrange items within a specified area. Whether you create an idyllic utopia or a fortified stronghold, it all starts with a workshop.

WORKSHOP SETTLEMENTS

Once you control a workshop, you control the settlement that holds it. Build farming communities to feed settlers and produce cooking ingredients. Build industrial complexes packed with salvage stations. Build stores to turn a humble settlement into productive and profitable center of commerce. Or, if you prefer, don't build anything. The choice is yours.

Open the Workshop menu to reveal a settlement's buildable area. This border represents the workshop's maximum reach. You can build and move items anywhere within this area. Each settlement also has a size limit, meaning that it can only accommodate so much construction.

UNLOCKING WORKSHOPS

If a settlement is occupied by an enemy gang or dangerous creatures, you generally have to eliminate all threats before you can access a workshop. When a workshop is located in an established settlement, you usually have two options: earn the right to use the workshop, or eliminate the current population and claim the workshop as your own. There are, of course, exceptions. Some workshops can only be used once you've completed certain quests. In rare cases, unlocking a workshop is as simple as walking up and activating it.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

ACTIONS HAVE CONSEQUENCES

ALLIED SETTLEMENTS (THOSE THAT START WITH AN EXISTING POPULATION) WILL REVOKE YOUR WORKSHOP PRIVILEGES IF THEY FEEL IT'S NECESSARY TO DO SO.

Most workshops share a standard set of features and options, but some offer limited functionality. In all cases, you can use a workshop to build new items or store unneeded gear. Junk items stored in a workshop are automatically applied to any crafting and construction projects within the settlement.

NOTEWORTHY SETTLEMENTS

Every settlement offers something of value, but there are some particularly interesting locations. As you expand your influence in the Commonwealth, consider the benefits and challenges offered by these noteworthy settlements.

Abernathy Farm

Abernathy Farm is one of your better options for large-scale food production. This family-run settlement features an impressive collection of tato plants, a small patch of melons, and plenty of room to expand. Most importantly, it's located in the comparatively safe area surrounding Sanctuary Hills. It gets its share of unwanted visitors, of course, but Abernathy Farm is far away from the more powerful enemies you'll encounter on the other side of the Commonwealth.

Some fresh crops and a few new settlers can dramatically increase food production, and the buildable area has more than enough room to accommodate additional shelters, water pumps, and whatever amenities you deem appropriate—just remember to upgrade the settlement's defenses as food production increases. Flourishing farms are among the most popular targets of roving gangs.

DATA

WORKSHOPS

Boston Airport

The Boston Airport workshop isn't a true settlement. It can't accommodate crops, salvage stations, stores, artillery pieces, or recruitment beacons. However, it does contain a fair amount of scrap.

Water pumps can be placed in various piles of gravel, but the lack of food means that you'll need to establish supply lines if you hope to keep the population happy.

The Boston Airport workshop becomes available during the "Shadow of Steel" quest.

Bunker Hill

Bunker Hill serves as a base of operations for various caravan traders, and its many vendors offer a variety of goods. It's a small but well-established settlement with enough beds, food, and water to meet the needs of its current residents. The residents will do business with any peaceful visitors, but they'll only grant you access to their workshop after you complete the "The Battle of Bunker Hill" quest.

The Castle

The Castle once served as a stronghold for the Commonwealth Minutemen, and many of the items from that era are still intact. The settlement features a first-aid station and a couple of guard posts. Interior lights and an industrial water purifier are already tied to pylons in the courtyard—simply attach a suitable generator to complete the power grid. The existing structures can accommodate plenty of beds, and the courtyard has more than enough space for crops.

The Castle plays a key role in several Minutemen quests. These are all optional, but completing them will unlock many of this location's best features. The "Taking Independence" quest provides allies in the battle to reclaim the Castle—completing this quest activates Radio Freedom, which then broadcasts news and alerts about allied settlements. Complete "Old Guns" to unlock the armory and gain access to workstations, weapons, and powerful artillery pieces. This hidden structure even contains laser turrets and Tesla arcs that you can use to bolster the settlement's defenses.

Covenant

Covenant is another small but well-established settlement—whether it stays that way is largely up to you. The "Human Error" quest begins and ends at this location, and how (or if) you choose to resolve that quest will determine if the current residents are willing to ally with you. Gaining their trust results in a relatively self-sufficient settlement with a few vendors. Otherwise, you're free to clear out the current residents, take control of the workshop, and draw new settlers into the area.

Graygarden

Graygarden is another excellent farming settlement, but what sets it apart is that its starting population is made up entirely of robots. Once you earn their trust, you'll have a small group of workers that don't need sleep, food, or water.

By default, Graygarden produces enough food to support several smaller settlements. If you place a few powerful turrets in the area, this high-tech farm can easily serve as one of your most self-sufficient settlements. New settlers will allow you to increase production, but this supplemental workforce will expect amenities the robots can do without.

Hangman's Alley

Hangman's Alley has the distinction of being the only big-city workshop settlement in the Commonwealth. This Raider-controlled camp may not have the pleasant views offered by other locations, but the urban setting does have its advantages. Due to the surrounding buildings, attackers can only approach from two directions. Once you've dealt with the original occupants, Hangman's Alley is sure to rank among the most easily defended areas you control.

Hangman's Alley doesn't start with any water or food, but it does offer several ramshackle structures, most of which include pieces that can be moved, stored, or scrapped. The terrain isn't ideal for farming, but patches of cracked asphalt can support crops or water pumps. The buildable area extends far beyond the fence on the enclosure's eastern edge, so Hangman's Alley has a fair amount of room to expand.

Home Plate

This Diamond City house isn't actually a settlement, and it won't appear in your Pip-Boy's list of workshops. It does, however, contain some handy items, an established power grid, and a workshop with limited functionality. The rights to Home Plate can be purchased once you've gained entry to Diamond City. Simply visit Geneva in the mayor's office to discuss the transaction.

Home Plate can't accommodate structures or resource-production, but its workshop can be used to build a selection of furniture, decorations, and power-related items. Home Plate offers ample space, and it includes a fuse box wired directly into the Diamond City power grid. With the right materials, you can turn this simple space into your dream home.

Red Rocket Truck Stop

Located just outside Sanctuary Hills, the Red Rocket Truck Stop is an unestablished but very well-equipped settlement. It features numerous workstations, a good amount of scrap, and one of the Commonwealth's few friendly canines.

In its initial state, the Red Rocket Truck Stop serves as a great place to store surplus Power Armor. With a bit of time and effort, you can transform this abandoned service station into a thriving settlement.

Sanctuary Hills

Located just outside of Vault 111, Sanctuary Hills is likely to be the first workshop settlement you discover. This sprawling suburban neighborhood offers multiple structures, a variety of workstations, access to open water, and a considerable amount of scrap. It also plays an important role in several quests. All of these factors combine to make Sanctuary Hills an excellent choice as a base of operations. At the very least, it's a great place to learn the basics of settlement management.

You can take control of Sanctuary Hills at any time after you leave Vault 111, and some of the early Minutemen quests will task you with improving Sanctuary Hills to accommodate new residents. Even if you opt to ignore Preston Garvey and the people he's protecting, Sanctuary Hills can easily serve as a productive and easily defended settlement.

The Slog

The Slog is a humble but productive farming settlement populated entirely by Ghouls. This isn't a matter of policy, however. Once you gain access to its workshop, the Slog welcomes any and all new settlers you draw to the area.

The Slog features one large structure and a considerable number of crops. The settlement can accommodate several upgrades, but items like turrets and junk fences can quickly push the buildable area to capacity. Scrapping the existing workstations can free up a bit of space, but careful planning is the best way to ensure that your settlers' needs can always be met.

Spectacle Island

Spectacle Island features a massive buildable area with plenty of open water. It also contains some formidable enemies, so it's likely to be one of the last settlements to fall under your control.

Spectacle Island contains several structures and a variety of useful objects. The ship near the island's southern edge holds an onboard generator that produces a small amount of power, and there are a few workstations scattered around the area. Even with all of these elements in place, Spectacle Island is largely undeveloped. If you're looking for a chance to flex your creative muscle, you'd be hard-pressed to find a better option.

Sunshine Tidings Co-op

The Sunshine Tidings Co-op features a large buildable area with several structures—many of which already contain beds. With ample shelter and plenty of scrap items, Sunshine Tidings Co-op makes it fairly easy to properly support new settlers.

Convenience aside, this settlement's most interesting feature is Professor Goodfeels—a malfunctioning Mr. Handy unit linked to the Sunshine Tidings terminal. Unlock the terminal to learn more about Professor Goodfeels or alter its protocols. If you haven't yet discovered Hesters Consumer Robotics, you can even use Professor Goodfeels's maintenance protocols to mark the location on your Pip-Boy's map.

THE WORKSHOP ITEMS

A well-stocked workshop makes even the most ambitious construction project a simple affair. Just select an item from the Workshop menu, choose a location, and construction is done in an instant. Many workshop items snap together for perfect placement, but all items can be moved and rotated to meet your exacting standards. All workshop items require construction materials, and many items can only be built after you've completed certain quests or invested in specific perks. Plan ahead to ensure that your settlement lives up to your expectations.

SPECIAL ITEMS

This category contains buildable quest-related items. Many of these special items can only be built at certain times or in certain locations, and the category only appears in the workshop menu when you can build at least one of these items at the settlement in question.

STRUCTURES

This category contains items geared toward basic construction. Here, you'll find basic items like floors, walls, and roofs, but this category also contains doors, fences, completed structures, and more. Whether you're looking to build a simple shelter or a stately manor, this is likely to be your first stop in the workshop menu.

Structures > Wood

The Workshop menu contains a wide variety of woods structures. In addition to the basic floors, walls, and roofs, this subcategory contains items like stairs, bridges, and railings. On the whole, wood structures are efficient, versatile, and made from relatively common materials.

STRUCTURES > WOOD > PREFABS

This subcategory features convenient, readymade structures. These items vary in size, shape, and complexity. Some prefabs are easily combined to build larger structures, while others are a bit more difficult to modify. Every prefab features some sort of roof, however, so they can serve as a basic shelter without any additional construction.

Another noteworthy item is the "Shack Upper Floor" piece. This floor tile is thick enough to meet any walls placed on the level beneath it.

tiles, this category contains some particularly handy items. The foundation pieces can sink into the ground, serving as a level base for structures on uneven terrain. The stairwell features a one-story flight of stairs anchored between two floor tiles. Once a stairwell is in place, constructing a second story is as simple as snapping a few floor tiles to the top of the steps.

You're free to use thinner tiles on upper floors, but doing so will leave gaps along the exterior of multistory structures.

STRUCTURES > WOOD > WALLS

Wood walls come in a wide variety of shapes and sizes. Here you'll find everything from simple panels to elaborate wall/roof combinations. Most walls can snap neatly to floors and other wall panels, but there are a few exceptions. End pieces don't snap to any items, and they're a bit taller than standard walls. Covered corner pieces only snap to covered wall panels. Every wood wall has its uses, however, making this a very important section of the Workshop menu.

STRUCTURES > WOOD > ROOFS

Every settler expects a roof over his or her head, and this area of the Workshop menu has plenty of options. Roofs snap to each other and to the tops of most wall panels. Wood roofs come in a variety of shapes, but they all serve the same purpose in shelter construction.

STRUCTURES > WOOD > STAIRS

Stairs are obviously an important part of any multistory building, but they also make it much easier to move in and out of structures built on raised foundations. Stairs can be placed anywhere, but they snap to floors and sometimes to each other. Most stairs can also sink into the ground.

STRUCTURES > WOOD > MISCELLANEOUS

This subcategory includes a bridge and an assortment of railing pieces. Bridges snap to each other, but they can also sink into the ground. They make excellent walkways, of course, but they're also handy when you want to build a few turret platforms or place some support beams under an existing structure. Railings are also quite versatile, but they're an excellent way to mark hazardous areas and prevent accidental falls.

Structures > Metal

The Workshop menu contains far fewer options for metal structures than you'll find for wood structures—there are no metal-based floors, stairs, or miscellaneous items, and there are only two options for roofs. Of course, your stock of materials will likely determine which structures are the best fit for a settlement, but metal boasts an industrial aesthetic that wood simply can't match.

Subcategories

- STRUCTURES > METAL > PREFABS
- STRUCTURES > METAL > WALLS
- STRUCTURES > METAL > ROOFS

STRUCTURES > METAL > PREFABS

Like wood prefabs, metal prefabs are ready-made structures. Many of these items are easily incorporated into larger structures, but some metal prefabs feature rounded shapes that prohibit some walls and roofs from snapping into place.

STRUCTURES > METAL > WALLS

For the most part, a metal wall can be used anywhere a similarly shaped wood wall can be placed. The rounded walls found in this area of the Workshop menu don't have a wooden counterpart. Rather than snapping to floors, round metal walls snap to the framework found in most prefabs and wall/roof combos.

Structures > Fences

Fences are largely cosmetic, but they do have some practical uses. Well-placed fences can keep residents where you want them and limit enemy access to a settlement.

STRUCTURES > FENCES > JUNK FENCE

Junk fences are large and relatively costly, but they're great for fortifying vulnerable settlements. Fences don't contribute to a settlement's Defense rating, but well-positioned junk fences can funnel invaders into heavily defended areas. Forcing attackers toward a settlement's turrets and guard posts is one of the best ways to guarantee a raid ends quickly.

STRUCTURES > FENCES > PICKET FENCE

Picket fences not only offer a classic aesthetic, but they also snap together for easy installation. Just place a post between each fence panel to maintain a perfect line. Picket fences must be unlocked before they can be built. This subcategory only appears in the Workshop menu after you've collected the Picket Fences magazine located in the Beantown Brewery.

Decorations > Miscellaneous

This section of the Workshop menu contains some particularly interesting decorations, many of which offer additional functionality. Some vending machines and trash receptacles can be used as containers. The doghouse gives your canine companion a place to relax between outings. Radios and jukeboxes add a bit of life to any settlement. Initially, the workshop offers a good selection of miscellaneous decorations, but many more can be unlocked as you explore the Commonwealth.

POWER

This category contains all of the items you'll need to generate and deliver power, but it also offers some very useful high-tech devices. With this selection of generators, switches, lights, and special electronics, you can build a power grid that rivals anything found in the Commonwealth.

Subcategories

Power > Generators

Generators produce the power needed to run lights, turrets, and all of a settlement's electronic devices. Each generator features its own size, output, and building materials, and the most powerful generator requires an investment in the Science! perk.

Power > Connectors and Switches

This section of the Workshop menu offers an assortment of pylons, conduits, and switches. By connecting these devices to a power source, you can expand and control the flow of electricity within a settlement. Pylons and conduits serve as anchor points for wires, and you can link them to deliver power to buildings and devices located anywhere within a settlement. As long as they're attached to a suitable power source, these connectors also radiate energy needed to power televisions, jukeboxes, and most lights.

Use switches to determine when and if power is transmitted to specific areas or devices. You'll find everything from basic on/off switches to programmable power counters. Connect switches to terminals to access additional options; combine switches to create new effects. Like basic connectors, switches radiate the energy needed to power simple devices. Of course, this energy field is only active while a switch is turned on.

Power > Lights

Initially, the Workshop menu contains a good variety of lighting options, but you can unlock many more by collecting the Picket Fences magazine located in Hardware Town. Nearly all lights are powered by radiant energy—the one exception is the construction light. This freestanding light must be wired directly to a power grid in order to function.

Power > Miscellaneous

This section of the Workshop menu contains a small selection of interesting items. The recruitment radio beacon is particularly useful—this powered transmitter draws new residents to a specific settlement, allowing your population to grow fairly quickly.

Use terminals to access additional functionality on attached devices. Not every powered device offers extra features, but all terminals can be used with switches, lightboxes, powered speakers, and powered turrets.

MISCELLANEOUS POWER ITEMS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Recruitment Radio Beacon	Circuitry (2), Crystal (2), Copper (6), Steel (10), Ceramic (3), Rubber (1)	—	Attracts new settlers to your settlement when turned on. Requires 1 Power.

DEFENSE

Use the items in this category to boost your settlement's Defense rating. A high Defense rating makes your settlement a much less appealing target for would-be attackers. This, in turn, results in a more self-sufficient settlement with a happier, more productive population.

Subcategories

- DEFENSE > GUARD POSTS
- DEFENSE > TRAPS
- DEFENSE > TURRETS

Defense > Guard Posts

Guard posts are made from common materials—in most cases, a newly acquired settlement contains more than enough scrap to build at least a few of these defensive items. You must assign a worker to a guard post before it contributes to a settlement's Defense rating, but because each guard can generate a maximum of 6 Defense, a single guard can man up to three posts.

GUARD POSTS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Guard Post	Wood (10), Steel (4)	—	Provides 2 Defense. Requires an assigned worker.
Guard Tower	Wood (12), Steel (6)	—	Provides 2 Defense. Requires an assigned worker.

Defense > Turrets

The Workshop menu offers a variety of turrets. These automated weapons boost a settlement's Defense rating without compromising its workforce. It does, however, take a fair amount of uncommon and rare materials to build them, and most turrets require power to function. Still, if you have the required resources and skills, building a collection of powerful turrets will go a long way toward keeping your settlements safe.

TURRETS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Machine-Gun Turret	Steel (8), Circuitry (1), Gear (2), Oil (2)	—	Provides 5 Defense.

Missile Turret	Aluminum (6), Circuitry (6), Screw (5), Gear (5), Oil (6), Steel (6)	Rank 3: Gun Nut	Requires 2 Power. Produces 15 Defense.

Defense > Traps

Like turrets, traps function without the help of assigned workers. Unlike turrets, traps must be repaired after each use. A trap triggers the moment it receives power, and it will continue to attack until it breaks. Use switches like pressure plates and laser tripwires to better control when and how trap can be activated. To count toward a settlement's Defense rating, a trap must be undamaged and wired to a power grid.

TRAPS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Tesla Arc	Steel (2), Copper (3), Circuitry (1)	—	Requires power. Produces 2 Defense.
Radiation Emitter	Screw (2), Nuclear Material (3), Lead (2), Steel (2)	—	Requires power. Produces 2 Defense.
Flamethrower Trap	Screw (2), Rubber (4), Aluminum (4), Oil (6)	—	Requires power. Produces 3 Defense.

RESOURCES

Most of the items in this category are geared toward water collection and food production, but you'll also find an assortment of items that can make a settlement more productive and easier to manage.

Subcategories

- RESOURCES > WATER
- RESOURCES > FOOD
- RESOURCES > MISCELLANEOUS

Resources > Water

To keep your settlements happy, it's important to provide enough water for the current population. Water pumps are simple devices that generate a small amount of water. They can only be placed in dirt, but virtually every settlement has terrain that can accommodate at least a few water pumps. Water purifiers, on the other hand, can only be placed in water. These machines are more difficult to build, and they require power, but they're able to generate an impressive amount of drinkable water.

WATER ITEMS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Water Pump	Concrete (1), Steel (4), Gear (1)	—	Can only be placed in dirt. Produces 3 Water.
Water Purifier	Oil (2), Ceramic (2), Rubber (5), Copper (2), Steel (10), Cloth (2)	—	Must be placed in the water. Requires 2 Power. Produces 10 Water.
Water Purifier—Industrial	Oil (4), Ceramic (2), Rubber (10), Copper (4), Steel (20), Cloth (4), Screw (6)	Rank 1: Science!	Must be placed in the water. Requires 5 Power. Produces 40 Water.

Resources > Food

Like water, food is an important factor in a settlement's overall happiness. The crops found in the Workshop menu can only be placed in dirt, and they only count toward your settlement's Food rating if workers are assigned to care for them. A single worker can generate up to 6 Food, and he or she can tend any combination of crops that doesn't exceed this limit.

Assigned crops also produce food that you can harvest yourself. You can consume this food, sell it, or use it to plant new crops and create items at workstations. Harvesting food has no effect on your settlement's Food rating.

FOOD ITEMS

Tato Plant	Tato (1)	—	Can only be placed in dirt. Produces 0.5 Food. Requires an assigned worker.

Resources > Miscellaneous

This section of the Workshop menu contains some very useful items. Scavenging stations increase the amount of scrap salvaged by the workers assigned to them. Feed troughs keep Brahmin from wandering around your settlements. Bells and sirens make it easier to manage your settlers, and the Fast-Travel target adjusts your arrival point at a given settlement.

MISCELLANEOUS RESOURCE ITEMS

NAME	BUILD WITH	PREREQUISITES	NOTES
Scavenging Station	Wood (5), Steel (3)	—	Extra scavenging production. Requires an assigned worker.
Brahmin Feed Trough	Steel (2), Ceramic (8)	—	Brahmin will tend to stay near their feed trough.
Bell	Wood (4), Steel (4)	—	Ring to gather nearby settlers.
Siren	Copper (5), Steel (9), Ceramic (3), Rubber (1)	—	Alerts nearby settlers to danger when triggered. Requires 1 Power.
Fast-Travel Target	Cloth (2), Rubber (1)	—	Only 1 per location. Moves the Fast-Travel arrival point.

STORES

In addition to buying and selling goods, stores you build within a settlement generate income based on the current population. Many stores even increase a settlement's total Happiness rating. You must assign a worker to a store before it can be used—once you do, a worker stays at his or her store during its hours of operation. You must have both ranks of the Local Leader perk before you can build a store, and many stores have additional perk requirements.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

LEVEL 4 WORKSHOP MERCHANTS

Even the best stores can benefit from expert traders. Recruit these special merchants to join a settlement, assign them to the appropriate stores, and you'll have access to some rare and unique items. Some of these individuals are harder to convince than others, and some demand a minimum population before they'll offer their services. Luckily, any settlements connected (by supply lines) to the target location count toward minimum population requirements.

MANAGING SETTLEMENTS

You're free to run a settlement in whatever manner you see fit. You can address problems as they arise or ignore them completely—your settlers will survive with or without your help. For a settlement to thrive, however, you'll need to play a more active role. Developing a settlement takes effort; juggling the needs of multiple settlements takes careful planning and a watchful eye.

RECOMMENDED PERKS

Effective management takes time, effort, and ample resources, but rebuilding the Commonwealth also takes considerable know-how. If you're looking to make the most of your settlements, you'd do well to invest in these perks:

- LOCAL LEADER: AT RANK 1, THIS CHARISMA-BASED PERK GRANTS THE ABILITY TO ESTABLISH SUPPLY LINES BETWEEN YOUR SETTLEMENTS. RANK 2 IS REQUIRED TO BUILD THE STORES AND WORKSTATIONS FOUND IN THE WORKSHOP MENU. IF YOU'RE SERIOUS ABOUT SETTLEMENTS, MAKE THIS PERK A PRIORITY.
- HACKER: RANK 1 OF THIS INTELLIGENCE-BASED PERK IS REQUIRED TO BUILD TERMINALS, TERMINALS CAN INTERACT WITH A VARIETY OF DEVICES, BUT THEY'RE MOST USEFUL WHEN COMBINED WITH SWITCHES. WHETHER YOU'RE LOOKING TO STREAMLINE YOUR AUTOMATED DEFENSES OR DESIGN CUSTOM AUDIO/VISUAL ELEMENTS, YOU'LL NEED AT LEAST ONE TERMINAL TO ACCESS ALL OF THE AVAILABLE OPTIONS.
- SCIENCE! RANK 1 OF THIS INTELLIGENCE-BASED PERK IS REQUIRED TO BUILD LARGE GENERATORS, INDUSTRIAL WATER PURIFIERS, LASER TRIPWIRES, AND MANY OTHER PARTICULARLY HANDY ITEMS. RANK 3 IS REQUIRED TO BUILD HEAVY LASER TURRETS.
- GUN NUT: RANK 3 OF THIS INTELLIGENCE-BASED PERK IS REQUIRED TO BUILD MISSILE TURRETS. THESE POWERFUL WEAPON SYSTEMS GENERATE MORE DEFENSE THAN ANY OF THE OTHER ITEMS CONTAINED IN THE WORKSHOP MENU.

Of course, these perks are just the beginning. Medic is needed to build any clinic, and most of the largest stores require Rank 2 of the Cap Collector perk. Perks like Scrapper, Fortune Finder, and Strong Back make it easier to maintain a supply of building materials. Balance your needs against those of the settlers to determine which perks are right for you.

BASIC CONSTRUCTION

Workshops make building fun and easy—just open the Workshop menu and select the desired item. As long as you have the required materials, construction is done in a flash. But where should you build an item? When should you build it? Is it the best use of your materials? How will it affect your settlers?

Of course, the answers to these questions are determined by your specific goals. Whether you favor form or function, there are a few steps you can take to minimize wasted time, effort, and resources.

Scrap for Success

Once you take control of a settlement, open the Workshop menu and search the area for items to scrap. Most settlements contain several items that serve no practical purpose. Scrap trees and crates for wood. Scrap cars and mailboxes for steel. Scrap cinder blocks for concrete and tires for rubber. If you feel an item adds to a settlement's aesthetic, by all means, keep it. Otherwise, scrap it for materials. Old appliances, broken furniture, damaged fences—scrap anything and everything that you don't need.

After you finish with scrap items, decide what to do with a settlement's usable items. Again, if you feel an item has some decorative value, leave it where it lies. Otherwise, scrap, sell, store, or rearrange usable items until you're satisfied.

Plan for the Future

Before you start building, consider your goals for a specific settlement. If you aim to develop a self-sufficient settlement, set aside areas for farming and water collection. If you plan on establishing a supply line, decide which resources a settlement will contribute or require. Look for ways to exploit the terrain or utilize existing structures. Imagine the completed settlement before you place so much as a floor panel.

Start Small

Efficiency is important when you're juggling multiple settlements—building a massive bunker for a few settlers probably isn't the best use of materials. But even if you can spare the materials for massive projects, it's usually best to improve a settlement a bit at a time. Each settlement can only accommodate

When in Doubt, Start from Scratch

When it comes to convenience, it's hard to beat a prefabricated structure. If you have the space and materials to construct a ready-to-use shack, you can have a settlement up and running in no time. It is, however, much easier to modify a structure built from scratch. Rearrange walls, floors, and roofs to change a building's layout, or build new pieces to turn a humble shack into an ornate tower.

Build from the Ground Up

Use shack foundations to level rocky terrain. If you want a structure with a clean, sleek look, you'll want to start your project with these versatile floor pieces.

Waste Not, Want Not

Most settlements contain established structures that can't be moved or altered. They can, however, be incorporated into larger structures. Try building on or around existing structures when you need to save space or reduce construction costs.

Think Vertically

In some smaller settlements, farmable dirt is hard to come by. When space is at a premium, consider building raised platforms or narrow, multistory structures to leave enough room for crops and water pumps.

RATINGS AND RESOURCES

How you run a settlement is entirely up to you, but your residents do expect a certain level of comfort and security. Happy settlers are productive settlers, and over time, effective management can yield significant rewards.

The state of a settlement is determined by a combination of factors:

- PEOPLE: THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE LIVING WITHIN THE SETTLEMENT.
- FOOD: THE AMOUNT OF FOOD PRODUCED BY A SETTLEMENT.
- WATER: THE AMOUNT OF WATER PRODUCED BY A SETTLEMENT.
- POWER: THE AMOUNT OF POWER PRODUCED BY A SETTLEMENT.
- DEFENSE: THE DEFENSIVE STRENGTH OF A SETTLEMENT.
- BEDS: THE NUMBER OF BEDS IN A SETTLEMENT.
- HAPPINESS: THE OVERALL HAPPINESS OF A SETTLEMENT'S RESIDENTS.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

MANAGEMENT MADE EASY

A SETTLEMENT'S RATINGS ARE PROVIDED WHENEVER THE WORKSHOP MENU IS ACTIVE. ANY RATING THAT FALLS BELOW YOUR SETTLERS' EXPECTATIONS IS DISPLAYED IN RED. YOUR PIP-BOY'S WORKSHOP TAB LISTS ALL OF THE SETTLEMENTS YOU CONTROL. ALERTS APPEAR NEAR ANY SETTLEMENT WITH AT LEAST ONE SUBSTANDARD RATING. SELECT THAT SETTLEMENT FROM THE LIST TO SEE WHICH RATINGS COULD STAND TO BE IMPROVED.

People

A settlement's population determines the amount of food and water needed, as well as how many beds you're expected to provide. Meeting their needs can take time, effort, and a considerable amount of building materials, but your people also serve as a valuable resource. Many workshop items only function when a worker is assigned. People without assigned tasks automatically generate salvage, so a large, happy population can provide a steady stream of building materials.

Settlers are naturally drawn to well-established settlements, but populations tend to grow very slowly. Build recruitment radio beacons at key locations to accelerate population growth. Some of the people you encounter during your travels can also be convinced to join one of your settlements.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

CHARISMA COUNTS

YOUR CHARISMA RANK DETERMINES A SETTLEMENT'S MAXIMUM POPULATION. A SINGLE WORKSHOP CAN ACCOMMODATE 10 RESIDENTS, PLUS ONE ADDITIONAL RESIDENT FOR EACH RANK OF YOUR CHARISMA. NEW SETTLERS STOP ARRIVING ONCE YOUR POPULATION REACHES THIS NUMBER.

Speak to settlers to receive available quests, hear about their concerns, or initiate trades. During a trade, you can have a settler equip any clothes, armor, or weapons you're willing to provide. Weapons and armor don't affect a settlement's Defense rating, but well-equipped settlers are much more effective in combat.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

UNAUTHORIZED ACQUISITIONS

SETTLERS SOMETIMES COLLECT WEAPONS THAT ARE LEFT OUT IN THE OPEN. IN SOME CASES, A SETTLER WILL EVEN COMMANDEER AN UNUSED SUIT OF POWER ARMOR. IT'S EASY ENOUGH TO RECLAIM THESE ITEMS ONCE YOU IDENTIFY THE CULPRIT, BUT YOU CAN ALSO TAKE MEASURES TO KEEP YOUR PRIZED POSSESSIONS SAFE—SIMPLY STORE VALUABLE WEAPONS IN CONTAINERS AND REMOVE FUSION CORES FROM IDLE POWER ARMOR.

Use the Workshop menu to issue commands to a specific settler. You can assign settlers to items like beds, guard posts, artillery pieces, salvage stations, and stores. You can also command a settler to walk to a specific spot or relocate to a different workshop settlement.

If you've invested in the Local Leader perk, you can also assign a settler to a supply line. Two settlements connected by a supply line can share food, water, and any of the building materials stored in their respective workshops. Settlers you assign to supply lines become provisioners, moving back and forth along their assigned routes. To cancel a supply line, simply assign its provisioner to a different task.

Not all of the people in your settlements can be relocated or assigned to specific tasks. The available commands depend on the individual in question, but key figures like settlement leaders and idle traveling companions tend to be less flexible than common settlers. It's important to note, however, that these people still count toward a settlement's total population.

Food

A settlement's Food rating reflects how much food a settlement produces. In most cases, it's best to maintain a Food rating that's at least as high as a settlement's current population. Establishing supply lines splits the burden between multiple settlements. Settlers will be satisfied with a very low Food rating as long as the connected settlements produce enough food to make up the difference. In either case, food shortages lower a settlement's overall happiness and productivity.

To raise a settlement's Food rating, simply plant and assign crops. A single worker can generate up to 6 Food, and he or she can tend any combination of crops that doesn't exceed this limit. Assigned crops also produce food that you can harvest yourself. These aid items can be eaten, sold, stored, replanted, or used to craft new items at workstations.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

ADHESIVE CAN BE HARD TO COME BY, SO WHY NOT CRAFT YOUR OWN? USE YOUR CROPS TO PROVIDE CORN, NUTFRUIT, AND TATOS. ALONG WITH A BIT OF PURIFIED WATER, YOU CAN USE THESE INGREDIENTS TO CRAFT VEGETABLE STARCH AT COOKING STATIONS.

Brahmin often appear in settlements with high Food ratings. These bovine beasts are docile enough, but they can get in the way from time to time. Build feed troughs to prevent Brahmin from aimlessly wandering around your settlements.

Crops are vulnerable to attack, and they're often damaged during enemy raids. Use the Workshop menu to repair damaged crops to resume food production.

Water

A settlement's Water rating reflects how much water a settlement produces. Your settlers expect a Water rating that's at least as high as the current population. Again, establishing supply lines splits the burden between connected settlements, but any water shortages will make affected settlers less productive.

Water-producing items don't require assigned workers. The moment you build a water pump, it raises a settlement's Water rating. Water purifiers only function when they're connected to an adequate power supply. Still, with the right materials and appropriate terrain, it's fairly easy to meet a settlement's water needs.

Like crops, water pumps and water purifiers are susceptible to damage. Use the Workshop menu to make repairs as needed.

DATA

WORKSHOPS

Power

A settlement's Power rating indicates how much power a settlement produces. You obviously need to provide enough power for connected devices to function, but your settlers will be satisfied with any Power rating.

Use the Workshop menu to attach wires to generators, connectors, switches, or powered devices. It takes 1 Copper to create a wire. The Workshop menu can also be used to remove and store unwanted wires. Any device that can accommodate a wire can transmit power. This means that you can link powered devices to each other—as long as enough power is available, all of the devices in the chain will function.

Generators are susceptible to attacks, and they're often targeted during raids. This can be a serious issue for settlements that rely on traps and powered turrets to keep hostiles at bay. Place key generators safely out of sight and use the Workshop menu to make repairs as needed.

Defense

A settlement's Defense rating represents the combined strength of its defensive items. A settlement's Defense rating should be at least as high as its current population. Anything less not only makes settlers less productive, but it also increases the odds of a settlement being attacked.

Requiring only wood and steel, guard posts are relatively easy to build. They're easily incorporated into fences and structures, and they provide decent cover from enemy fire. A single guard assigned to three posts produces 6 Defense. Even when you have the materials for more powerful defensive items, it's usually worth building a few guard posts.

With an assigned worker, an artillery piece generates 6 Defense. Of course, its real value is in the utility it provides while you're out in the field. If you can spare the space and materials, build an artillery piece to boost a settlement's Defense and improve the coverage of your artillery support.

Unlike guard posts and artillery pieces, turrets are fully automated. If you can spare the materials, building a turret is the simplest way to boost a settlement's Defense rating. Special perks and rare materials are required to build most turrets, but these powerful weapons are well worth the cost.

Traps break each time they're triggered, and they'll damage any friendly units within range. However, a trap only needs to be undamaged and wired to a power grid to count toward a settlement's Defense rating. Install a switch between a trap and its power source to control exactly when it's triggered.

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

TRAPS, TRIGGERS, AND YOU

YOU CAN MANUALLY CONTROL A TRAP WITH A SIMPLE ON/OFF SWITCH. AN ATTACHED PRESSURE SWITCH TURNS A TRAP INTO AN AUTOMATED DEFENSE SYSTEM THAT'S JUST AS LIKELY TO BE TRIGGERED BY SETTLERS AS IT IS BY ENEMIES. IF YOU WANT TO MAKE THE MOST OF A TRAP, USE A LASER TRIPWIRE AS THE TRIGGER. CONNECT A TERMINAL TO ACCESS THE TRIPWIRE'S OPTIONS. THEN SIMPLY SET IT TO IGNORE FRIENDLY TARGETS.

Guard posts and artillery pieces don't take damage, but turrets are vulnerable to attack and traps break after each use. Watch for any drops in a settlement's Defense rating and use the Workshop menu to make any necessary repairs.

Maintaining an appropriate Defense rating will cut down on enemy raids, but every settlement is likely to be attacked from time to time. Use structures and junk fences to funnel invaders toward turrets and traps. Build Fast-Travel targets to ensure that you arrive in the safest possible location whenever you visit a settlement, and equip your settlers with high-quality weapons for a little extra firepower.

Beds

A settlement's Beds rating simply indicates how many beds are located in the area. You're expected to have one bed for each resident. A shortage of beds lowers a settlement's productivity.

The Workshop menu contains a variety of beds, but they all serve the same function. It isn't necessary to assign settlers to specific beds, but doing so can prevent others from sleeping in a bed you've claimed as your own.

To keep your settlers happy, it's important to place each bed under some sort of roof. Placing beds outside doesn't affect your Beds rating, but it does reduce your settlement's happiness and productivity.

Happiness

A settlement's Happiness rating indicates the residents' overall satisfaction. A high Happiness rating improves food production, and the salvage generated by idle settlers and workers assigned to salvage stations. Your rewards are automatically deposited in related workshops.

The best way to keep your settlers happy is to meet their basic needs. Provide enough food, water, and beds for all of your residents, and make sure a settlement's Defense rating meets, or exceeds expectations.

Actively helping a settlement also improves its Happiness rating. Monitor Radio Freedom and check your Pip-Boy for updates and alerts about the settlements you control. Help fend off invading enemies and complete any quests your settlers offer.

Some of the items in the Workshop menu can increase a settlement's Happiness ratings. Clinics, clothing stores, trading stores, and stores that sell food and drink all improve your settlers' moods. If you manage to purchase a dog for one of your settlements, its arrival will have a similar effect.

MAP

LOCATION TYPES

To avoid confusion, Vault-Tec has divided the land of the Commonwealth into various areas, from large to small. Let us begin with zones:

ZONES

These are large-scale areas where approximately 20 primary locations can be found. Boundaries are drawn based on the topography of the area. These aren't shown on your Pip-Boy and are only so we can focus on chunks of areas at a time in this guide. There are six exterior (Wasteland) zones.

Zones: Neighborhoods

If you venture into the Greater Boston area, you'll enter one of the neighborhoods. These neighborhoods follow the old prewar boundaries and are built-up areas. When using an exterior door after visiting a primary location interior, you'll be informed which neighborhood you're in. Expect fewer primary locations here but a larger concentration of exploration opportunities.

Townships

Outside Greater Boston are older settlements with prewar names such as Quincy and Salem. These are clusters of primary locations in close proximity to each other, and they often share the same boundary.

MAP LEGENDS

Before continuing, familiarize yourself with what the different map icons mean.

WORLD MAP LEGEND

WORLD MAP LEGEND

	SECONDARY LOCATION		WORKSHOP

ZONE AND NEIGHBORHOOD BOUNDARY

This is the perimeter of the zone. Outside of Boston, this usually follows an easy-to-see landmark, such as a winding river, main thoroughfare, or elevated freeway.

PRIMARY LOCATIONS

These are usually sizable locations that, once discovered, appear and remain on your Pip-Boy's world map. You are fortunate that Vault-Tec's ground-penetrating radar and the latest in topographical advancements have allowed purveyors of this guide to see every single primary location prior to discovery. Primary locations may require an interior investigation; if they do, an interior map is provided where necessary. Each location has a Vault-Tec-approved number code. For example, Vault 111 has the number [1.01], indicating it is in Zone 1 and is Primary Location 01 within the zone.

Primary Location Boundary

If primary locations or townships have a perimeter, a reasonably accurate boundary will be shown on the zone map so you can see how big the location is in a general sense before visiting it. If primary locations merge together, such as with townships, the entire area will be in a single boundary.

SECONDARY LOCATIONS

These are smaller locations that rarely require an interior investigation. They are color-coded, do not feature a Pip-Boy icon, and do not ever appear on your Pip-Boy world map. Each location has a similar number code. For example, the Dry Creek Bed north of Vault 111 is [1.01], indicating it is in Zone 1 and is secondary location 01 within the zone.

Points of Interest

There are dozens of small, strange, and interesting areas you may wish to investigate that are too tiny to be a secondary location but may yield a random encounter, small stash of goods, or other item of use.

TIP

LOOKING FOR LOCATIONS IN ALL THE RIGHT PLACES #1

Want to pinpoint a secondary location on your Pip-Boy? Sure you do! Simply use the Map Marker functionality, place the marker at the secondary location you want to find, and travel there without the hassle of finding it by chance!

Underground Link

While adventuring across the Commonwealth, it is often worth knowing if one location has a hidden underground link to another. If you see this line, you'll know two (or more) locations are linked.

This legend is shown at the beginning of each zone (or neighborhood) and refers to the overview map.

WORKSHOPS

Certain primary locations have the additional benefit of having a workshop on the premises, which are used to build defenses and power and to attract settlers as part of the Minutemen faction's plan for the future. Find and connect all the locations with this icon and create a Commonwealth community of farmers and traders, all looking out for one another.

This legend is shown whenever a location is large enough to require an interior map. Most of the icons are self-explanatory, as they show doors, safes, terminals, ammo, and a variety of collectibles. The letter by some doors, terminals, or safes indicates how it is accessed.

Optimal Route

This is a series of waypoints that charts one method of completing a thorough investigation of the premises. It doesn't usually involve stealth but does result in the location receiving a "Cleared" rating on your Pip-Boy afterward. If you get lost, use this to find your way out. Here's how it works:

- THE USUAL START LOCATION IS FLAGGED, THOUGH SOMETIMES A LOCATION MAY HAVE MORE THAN ONE STARTING POINT.
- THE WAYPOINTS ARE NUMBERED: WHEN THE NUMBER AND ROUTE STOP AND THE SAME NUMBER IS SEEN ON ANOTHER LEVEL OF THE INTERIOR MAP, IT MEANS THE ROUTE HAS CHANGED FLOORS (YOU'VE GONE UPSTAIRS OR DOWN OR USED AN ELEVATOR).
- WHEN THE NUMBER IS SHOWN AND A SUBSEQUENT NUMBER ON THE SAME LEVEL MAP IS SHOWN AFTERWARD, THIS WAYPOINT USUALLY INDICATES AN IMPORTANT EVENT MUST OCCUR, LIKE USING A TERMINAL TO UNLOCK A PATH TO CONTINUE OR LOCATING A KEY.

AREA STATISTICS

Every location in the Commonwealth has a list of pertinent information to better inform you of what to expect when you visit it. The following list explains what all of this is. Remember that most items (such as mods, types of ammunition, and health) are randomly obtained and thus cannot be tracked. For information on the best way to scavenge these, consult the appropriate chapters (INV, MOD, WORKSHOP) in this guide.

ARMAMENTS AND AMMO

Armaments and Ammo (+++)*

The immediate area has weapons, ammunition, or both. The bullets, firepower, or bludgeoning weapon could be loose on the ground, sitting on a table, in a toilet, or inside an ammo box, duffel bag, locked suitcase, locked toolbox, or other interesting container. Low on ammo? Look for these icons!

Armaments and Ammo: Mini Nuke or Fat Man

You'll find either a large, rotund missile at this location, specifically designed to be fired from the infamous Fat Man, or an elongated launcher in the indicated area or location. A portable nuclear weapon, this has the added bonus of coming with a Mini Nuke already prepped!

Armaments and Ammo: Trunk

This location has a type of steamer trunk that holds a large amount of (random) loot. It is basically a "reward" for clearing the area of undesirables. Trunks come in a few varieties—red, green, military, and even with a Vault 81 insignia—and they are all shown by this icon. Want to make your life easier? Hunt down these repositories of rare items, recipes, and other treasures!

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

Did You Know?

(+++) WHAT DOES THIS THIS STRANGE SET OF "+" SYMBOLS MEAN? WELL, IT DENOTES HOW PLENTIFUL A SUPPLY OF A PARTICULAR ITEM IS AND REFERS TO AMMO, BOTTLECAPS, HEALTH, OR CHEMS. IF YOU SEE A "+", "++", OR "+++" NEXT TO THESE ITEM CALLOUTS, YOU KNOW THERE'S A LOT, AN IMPRESSIVE AMOUNT, OR A MASSIVE NUMBER OF THESE ITEMS AT A LOCATION. SO LOOK FOR THESE SIGNS IF YOU'RE AFTER SOME EXTRA-SWELL GOODIES!

Armor Part: Fusion Core

Fusion Cores are worth a good deal of bartering currency, but mostly they are useful for slotting into the back of your Power Armor suits; therefore, they are critical for the continuing operation of your protective exoskeleton. You usually find them powering generators, but they are also loose in a location or already plugged into existing Power Armor.

Armor Part: Power Armor (Type)

To keep your Power Armor in working order, you'll want to cannibalize parts from other suits you find. Locations with this flag have such a suit. This armor could be a frame (from which you can build another suit), it may be in parts, underwater, or still attached to a Raider you're beating to death with a power fist.

Bottlecaps (++) and Safes

This location has a good number of Bottlecaps to add to your currency collection. Receive them after bartering from a trader or as a quest reward, or find them in Caps stashes or on recently slain settlers. If an area has Caps, it is duly noted. Also flagged are any safes and the difficulty of the lock.

Collectibles

Collectible: Bobblehead

A limited-edition, one-of-a-kind Vault-Tec official Bobblehead is at this location! Why not collect all of them? Each one has a specific statistical improvement, and any you collect can be displayed at a settlement you own. But finding them can be tricky, unless you know where to look.

Collectible: Holotape

If you wish to learn more about a location you're visiting, find clues that lead to quests, or listen to stories about squirrels, seek out these Holotapes strewn about the location.

Collectible: Holotape Game

Your first incredible RobCo FUN! Holotape game is in Vault 111. But what about the other four? They are free with copies of the RobCo FUN! magazine. If there's a Holotape game to collect, it will be flagged.

Collectible: Nuka Cola Quantum

When your thirst won't quit, quench it with a Quantum! Make time for a Nuka break by finding these glowing blue bottles, and drink up like your life depends on it. Delicious? Yes! Nutritious? Of course!

HELPFUL HINT

from Vault Boy!

GREAT NEWS, NUKA COLA FANS! ALTHOUGH THIS CHAPTER HAS SPECIFIC LOCATIONS FOR NUKA CHERRY AND NUKA COLA QUANTUMS, THESE DELICIOUS BEVERAGES MAY ALSO APPEAR RANDOMLY IN NUKA COLA MACHINES OR IN CRATES OR COOLERS. THEY ARE ALSO CARRIED BY FOLKS YOU'VE MOWN DOWN IN A FRENZY. SO EXPECT TO GATHER MORE OF THESE DRINKS THAN THIS CHAPTER TRACKS.

Collectible: Nuka Cherry

Need to satisfy your craving for the intense and delicious flavor of cherries? Then look for the glowing red bottles found across the Commonwealth.

Required Reading: Skill Magazine

Scattered throughout the wasteland are over 100 books that offer a great deal of information and some excellent bonuses to your various statistics. Need to know the reward for finding each magazine? Check page 27-28.

CRAFTING

Armor workbenches, chemistry stations, cooking stations, Power Armor stations, and weapons workbenches are all flagged if a location has one to tinker on.

COMPANIONS

Occasionally, a location has a special friend you can pal around with, order about, and have lengthy chats with. Mostly, though, they're helpful with providing fire support and lugging scavenged equipment around.

DANGERS

A vast majority of locations feature one or more of the following dangers. Just another reason why leaving the safety of your Vault is a decision not to be taken lightly.

Can Chimes!

These hanging cans can be disarmed for scrap or jingled to attract attention.

Escaping Gas!

The area has a thick wavy malaise about the air; explosive projectiles can cause this to explode in a highly damaging blast.

Explosive Barrels!

The area has one or more red barrels or thin canisters that are designed to explode when shot at. Try not to be standing close by during a detonation.

Famethrowers!

At this location, you encounter a flamethrower turret designed to burn you alive.

Grenades!

Tension traps, or bathroom scale traps, usually release grenades when triggered. Instead, look for these grenade bouquets and pocket them for use against the enemies that prepped them.

Long Drop!

This location is high up. It features a lengthy drop to the ground, which is fine to take while wearing Power Armor but can lead to a horrific crushing death if you're less well armored.

Madness!

This place has a strange oddness about it. Did you hear the rumors? What was that sound? Who is that? It might be time to flee before events you cannot explain take a toll on your sanity.

Makeshift Bombs!

These are attached to doors or around corners and are sometimes triggered by tension traps; disarm them so they don't go off in your face.

Mines!

That beeping sound indicates you're about to be crippled by a mine if you don't disarm or flee the immediate area. Beware of these at the location.

Oil!

A rainbow hue of leaking fluid, usually from age-old machinery in various stages of disrepair, can go up in flames if you use flammable projectiles or explode barrels. Be sure foes—not you—are standing over oil.

Radiation (Mild)!

This location is mildly radioactive, usually in areas of water or with a few scattered barrels improperly disposed of. Take reasonable care and a Rad-X afterward.

Radiation (Severe)!

This location is very radioactive, especially the Glowing Sea, areas where radioactive barrels have been dumped, or at the remains of a massive crater created when the bombs dropped. Exercise extreme caution and wrap up properly before entering.

Tension Trigger!

A spring has been set against a door or other object, and when released, a grenade or makeshift bomb (or other wounding device) is set to go off. Disarm these with haste.

Tesla Arcs!

An electrical device that's as impressive to look at as it is foolish to take damage from. Quickly disarm these wall-mounted devices or face a nasty singe of energy damage.

Tripwires!

A length of wire or laser has been activated in this location, and tripping it usually releases another type of trap; sometimes it's a weapon firing at you, a tesla arc, a makeshift bomb, or grenades. Disarm these instead.

Turrets!

The location features unmanned turrets, usually controlled by a nearby terminal you can hack, if you don't wish to sneak by or manually destroy these machine guns.

FACTION

The type of enemy that lives at this location is listed. There could be multiple types, and these range from enemy types (such as Bloatflies and Raiders) to more robust factions (such as the Brotherhood of Steel or Institute) as appropriate.

CHARACTERS

This lists characters that appear, or have been known to appear, at a location, in case you wish to strike up a conversation or simply strike them.

THREAT LEVEL

This indicates the typical level range of the enemies at this location. The higher the range, the more dangerous the foes will tend to be. Obviously, a Super Mutant stronghold is going to be tougher to tackle than a single, gibbering Ghoul, but this indicates the toughness of any creature in the vicinity. Avoid these areas until you feel competent to tackle the foes inhabiting them.

HEALTH OR CHEMS (+++)

Whether you're scavenging for white first-aid boxes, yellow chem boxes, scattered health or chems in a loose cluster, or the contents of a chem cooler, if there's a sizable amount of chems, these are shown. Single chems or stimpaks aren't tracked, just the larger collections.

QUEST START

This indicates a quest begins at this location, so if you're looking for a new adventure, seek out these locations.

QUEST VISIT

This indicates a quest already in progress may have an objective that requires you to visit this location. If you haven't started the mentioned quest, it may be wise to wait until visiting this location, as some areas of it may not be accessible.

TIP

LOOKING FOR LOCATIONS IN ALL THE RIGHT PLACES #2

This atlas is functional, providing you can understand where in the Commonwealth wasteland you are standing and can learn the arbitrary zone borders (main roads, water, and the elevated freeway). But what if you want to quickly look up a location and don't know where it is? Then cross-reference the Commonwealth Collection appendix (page 528), which lists every primary location in alphabetical order, along with the zone number so you can quickly look it up. Simple!

SERVICES: TRADERS

A trader is known to operate from this area. This person may sell a variety of goods and can be bartered with. You may have better luck finding quality merchandise in larger settlements rather than lone shacks. But any trader who isn't wandering or randomly encountered is flagged for your attention.

SERVICES: WORKSHOPS

This indicates a location is a settlement with a workshop, allowing you to build a defensive, and hopefully idyllic, stronghold; set up trade routes; and create a post-apocalyptic utopia with the help of the Minutemen.

SERVICES: RADIO

A radio signal can be heard at this location. It may require you to search for the source of the signal nearby. Some radio stations simply play music or have chatter to listen to. Others may be distress signals.

UNIQUE OR EXCEPTIONAL ITEMS

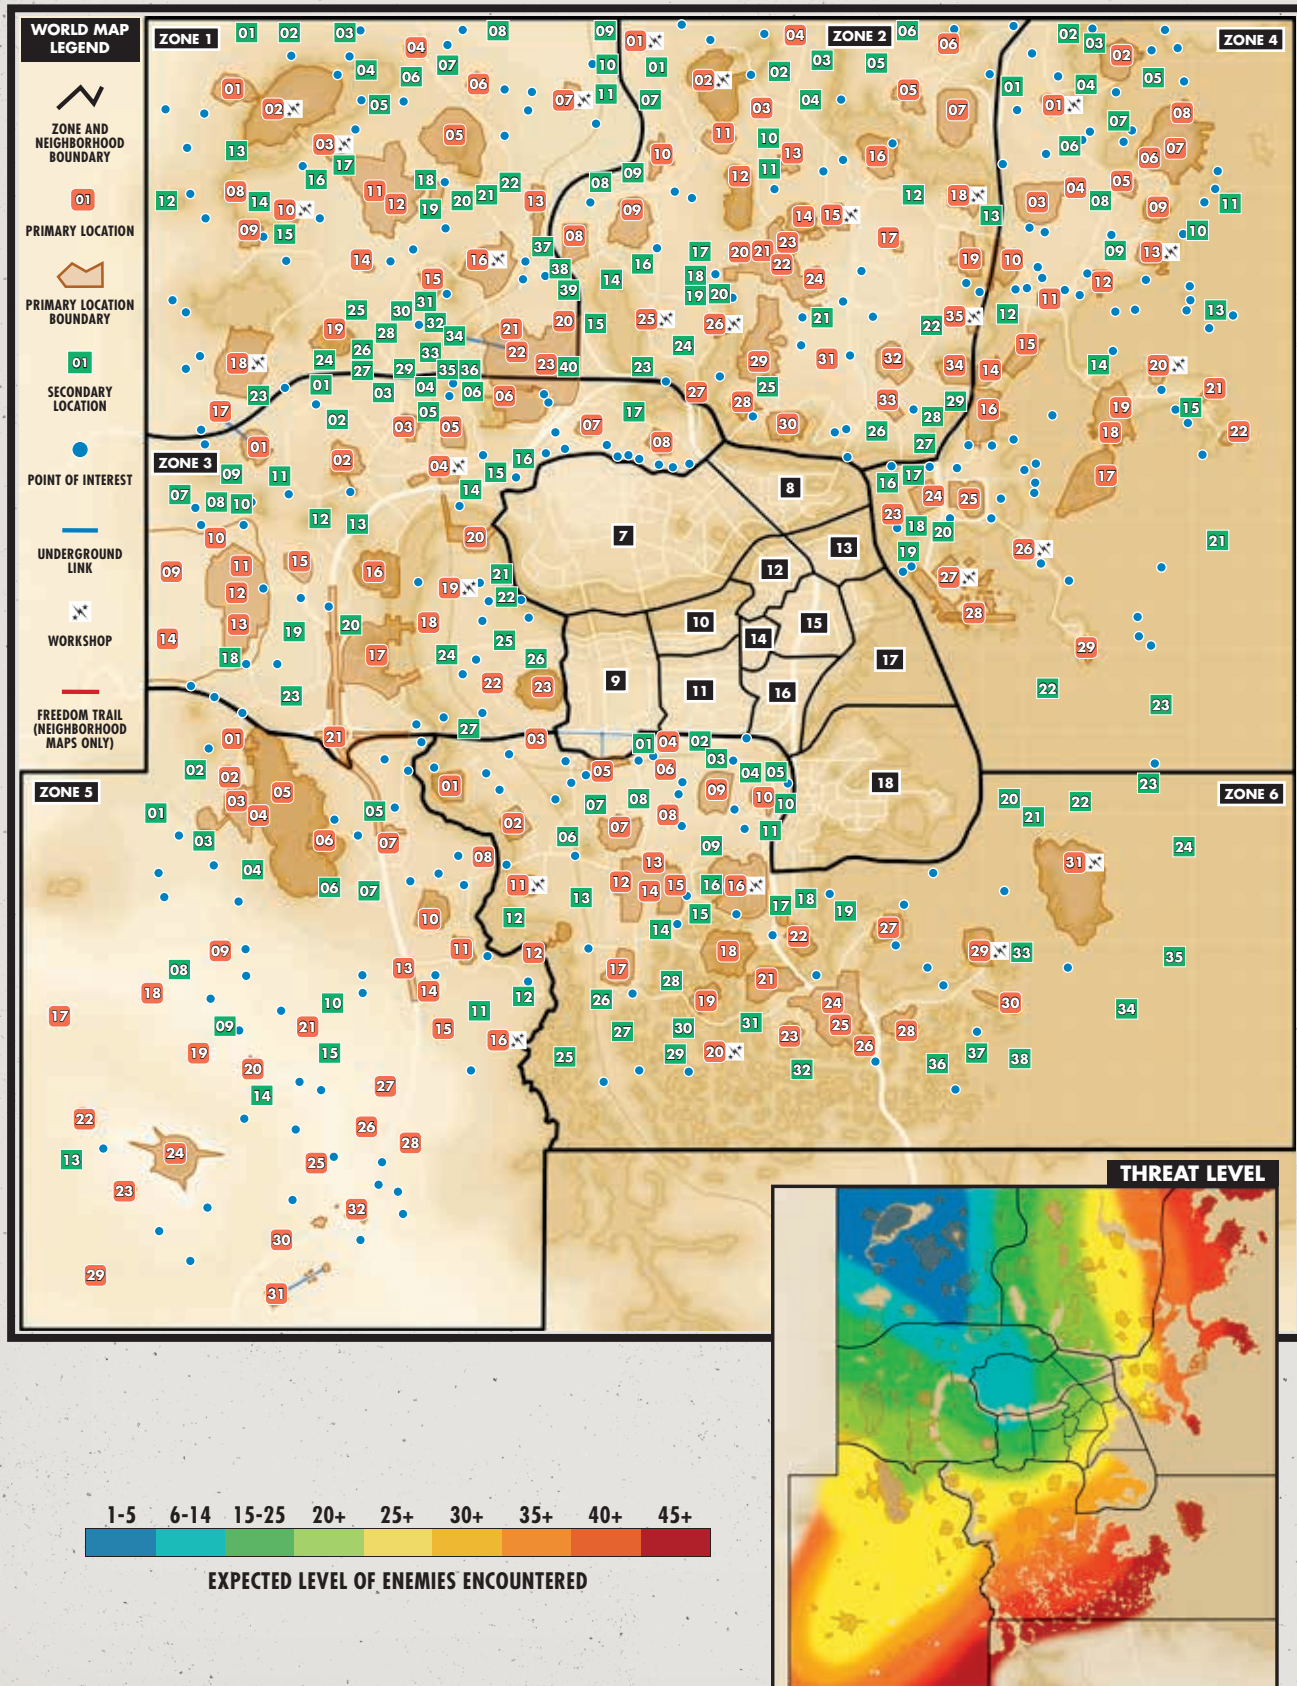

This location has an item of extreme interest to obtain: Perhaps it is carried by the leader of the location, sold by a trader, or found by particularly cunning means. Whatever the method of obtaining it, you usually can't get this item anywhere else. Whether this is a unique weapon, piece of armor, disgusting pink paste, or toy buttercup horse, be sure to check out these items and add them to your collection of interesting, rare, and entertaining equipment.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

Vault-Tec Calling! We are pleased to reveal your new home underground. Despite an initially chilly reception, you may find this location to be the safest around, especially as the population has thinned out quite considerably since you were frozen.

The Holotape in the cafeteria terminal is the popular game "Red Menace." Eject it so you can play it at your leisure!

The overseer's office has a firmly locked case (Master) with a prototype weapon, the Cryolator. Return here with bobby pins and an impressive lockpicking ability to obtain this rare item.

If you leave Vault 111, you may find some ammunition and a knife in a trailer to the north. Should you wish to return, simply press the Vault 111 Elevator Button in the outside pod to call the surface elevator. Have a great day!

HELPFUL HINT from Vault Boy!

RED MENACE IS A HÓLOTAPE GAME THAT USUALLY COMES FREE WITH ROBCO FUN! MAGAZINE. THERE ARE FOUR OTHER GAMES TO COLLECT, FREE IN EACH ISSUE! NEED TO FIND ALL OF THEM? CHECK THE REQUIRED READING APPENDIX AT THE BACK OF THIS BOOK.

This section of the Commonwealth is comprised of your old stomping grounds of Sanctuary Hills and has reasonable road access southeast into the townships of Concord and Lexington. There are several settlements to visit and inhabitants to befriend, if you're planning on building a new cooperative of farms and strongholds. For those without combat readiness, it is advisable to stay within the confines of this zone while you practice, as enemy threats are the lowest. The border of this zone is easy to see; the east and south edges follow the path of the elevated freeway. Or at least, what's left of it. Both freeways converge at Lexington, your gateway to Boston.

Growing from the ruins of Sanctuary Hills, the prewar neighborhood your family used to call home, is a new settlement, a beacon of hope for the downtrodden and the new base of operations for the Minutemen.

You can level the more decrepit dwellings for building materials. There are excellent crafting opportunities, as all stations and workbenches are already here. The area is relatively safe and becomes safer after you fortify the area with defenses you build from your workshop. Attract settlers! Beckon the Minutemen to live here! Build another paradise!

This is a service station between Sanctuary Hills and Concord. It seems ex-employees of the company had a habit of dumping hazardous materials in the cave beneath the station instead of disposing of them properly. Check the hill to the south for an entrance to the cave (now a Mole Rat Den), but watch for explosive barrels in this confined burrow. There's a safe (Novice) in here, as well as an ironic Trashbusters Award (Note), a pipe pistol, and some ammo. Also of interest is a Fusion Core (by the note), which helps give continuous juice to your Power Armor.

This marble quarry has gained a reputation as the source of the finest Mirelurk meat in the Commonwealth, thanks to the still water giving the meat a less brackish flavor.

Pull the Plug

1. REPAIR PIPES (3)
2. TALK TO SULLY MATHIS
3. START THE PUMP

Speak to Sully Mathis and agree to help repair some underwater pipes.

(Easy, Medium) Ask for Caps, or what he's really doing here.

Dive into the quarry pond, locating the three valves. Return to Sully, then activate the circuit breaker to switch on the pump and drain the quarry. Deal with any Mirelurks before accepting some Caps for your troubles.

After reaching level 12, return here after 24 hours to find the water drained and a bunch of Raiders rearing Mirelurks. Descend and search the Raider shacks for more items, including a steamer-trunk to pillage.

This township is comprised of a once-quiet main thoroughfare, now overrun by a Raider gang. To the south is the Museum of Freedom; adjacent to a ruined church (use the steeple to snipe from and as a landmark). Aside from dilapidated structures with a few scavengable items, most of Concord's buildings are sealed up tight, with the exception of the following secondary locations:

[01] Workhouse

This partly collapsed small factory has stairs to access, allowing you to reach the upper floors. Jump to the concrete floor ledges to access ammo and chems. Farther upstairs is a safe (Advanced) and roof access—an excellent sniping spot.

[02] Concord Speakeasy

This small public house has a safe behind the bar (Advanced), a small cellar, and an upstairs area with some oddly placed mannequins and a roof exit. Open the locked door (Advanced) to reach a steamer trunk and small ammo stash.

FIG 1.11: CONCORD (EXTERIOR)

Concord Civic Access

Access this from three different locations on the surface. We recommend using the metal hatch the Deathclaw burst from by the municipal plutonium well, as you can open the chained door from this direction. This is a small but slightly confusing sewer tunnel with small branching corridors. Loot the trunk, find the Fusion Core at the base of the plutonium well, and grab the magazine before you leave (they're all close together).

If you enter via one of the two other entrances (not near the Deathclaw's exit), and do so prior to the Deathclaw fight in the township, you can actually hear the beast sleeping, but you're not able to access this area of the sewers. The fence is destroyed, and access is available only once the Deathclaw is disturbed.

FIG 1.22B: THE SWITCHBOARD (INTERIOR)

You cannot access areas of this location until the specified quest is active. This unassuming coffee shop is usually devoid of enemies. During the quest, expect turrets and synth threats. Find a Caps stash under the counter. Attached to the building is a Laundromat with some health. Of considerably more interest is the basement (known as the switchboard and shown on the adjacent map).

The switchboard was the secret base of the Railroad until it was overrun by Institute synths. Move the bookcase and try to call the elevator. It lacks power, forcing you to enter the switchboard from the old sewer pipe. This is Zone 1 Secondary Location: Switchboard Entrance (Sewer). You're able to access all rooms (providing your Hack skill is high enough; otherwise bring Deacon with you and start the indicated quest). Don't forget the Fusion Cores, magazine, and Mini Nuke before you emerge.

[03] Red Rocket Gas Station

This dilapidated garage has been picked clean by countless previous scavengers.

[04] Old Bridge and Ruins

An old shop and bridge are overrun by Ghouls. Follow the stairwell and cross some precarious planks to reach a rusting building and access to the rooftops overlooking the town square.

[05] Lexington Bank

Hack the terminal (Novice) to open the safe room, which appears to have been compromised quite severely.

[06] Ruined Apartment (Rusting)

This multifloor structure is teeming with ferals. There's a ground-floor terminal (Advanced) that opens a security door to a cubbyhole with a safe (Advanced). There's health and ammo to scrounge here, too. Upstairs is an Armor Workbench.

[07] Bridge to Liquor Store

The apartment to the northwest has two stairwells, numerous Ghouls, and an outdoor roof with a chemistry station. The bridge across to the liquor store is Raider territory. Find ammo and chems on the bridge. There's been some creative parking by a big-rig driver above the liquor store and scaffold steps down to a nearby house porch with health in it. To the east is a ruined hardware store with chems and ammo.

[08] Basketball Court

The municipal basketball court. A settler doesn't appear to understand the rules of the game.

[09] Ruined Apartment (Pool)

There's fire escape access all the way up to the roof and a weapons workbench. Battle Raiders here. There's ammo, chems, and grotesque decorations in the bedroom, and a cunningly hidden steamer trunk on the upper roof area. With some nimble leaping onto the narrowest roof ledge, you can reach the eastern blown-out section and view the freeway.

Or if you want a quick dip in the slightly irradiated pool (where tarberry is growing), fight off the Raiders and Ghouls battling each other.

Don't forget to check the Pulowski Preservation Shelter for a Mini Nuke.

[10] Crushed Building

A section of freeway has fallen and crushed a construction company building. The wandering Ghouls fail to see the irony.

[11] Ruined Apartment (Under Freeway)

East of the Primary Location apartments is another ruined apartment structure with chems in a bathroom medicine cabinet and little else but the slight feeling of despair.

[12] Freeway Apartment

If you accessed the elevated freeway (from Zone 1 Secondary Locations 36 or 39), you can step across a plank to reach this apartment from the freeway before (carefully) dropping down.

[1.23] LEXINGTON APARTMENTS

THREAT LEVELS 6-14

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- BOTTLECAPS
- DANGER: MINE!
- DANGER: TRIPWIRE!
- FACTION: RAIDERS

A Raider duo now makes this small apartment complex under the freeway their home. There's an explosives box in the kitchen and an open-air bathroom.

SECONDARY LOCATIONS

[1.01] DRY CREEK BED

COLLECTIBLE: NUKA COLA QUANTUM

Someone's lucky explorers find a thirst-quenching Nuka in the leaves at the base of this dry creek, below the rusting barrels.

[1.02] RAIDER SHACK

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- FACTION: RAIDER
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A Raider and attack dog have overrun a small settler shack.

[1.03] OLD FIRING RANGE

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- FACTION: SCAVENGER

A Scavenger has set up a small shooting range with bottles.

[1.04] SUNKEN ROWBOAT STASH

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- DANGER: RADIATION (MILD)!

A lost rowboat has sunk along the north lake shore. Dive down for a locked trunk treat (Novice).

[1.05] WATER FILTRATION CAPS STASH

- BOTTLECAPS+
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Flip the circuit breaker at the water's edge to open a filtration unit with a hidden Caps stash inside.

[1.06] RAIDER HILLTOP DEN

- FACTION: RAIDER
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A collection of branches and bedding atop a rocky hill.

[1.07] CRASHED VERTIBIRD (NEAR ROBOTICS DISPOSAL GROUND)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR
- FACTION: RADSTAG DOES

The remains of a Vertibird close to the road. Beware of Radstag Does. Don't forget to check the sloping ground behind the Vertibird tail for a half-buried trunk, near the wooden crates.

[1.08] SCAVENGER'S SHACK

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- FACTION: SCAVENGER
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A Scavenger with a penchant for drink and views of the woods.

[1.09] POND AND FREEWAY SHACK

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- DANGER: RADIATION (MILD)
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A dead settler has taken a permanent trip from his bathtub hut. South of here is a separate shack. Inside is a sink with a small collection of tatos in it, ready for tasting.

[1.10] ELEVATED FREEWAY ACCESS (NORTH WILDERNESS)

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO

Climb here. Check the bus at the north end of the freeway for an explosives stash (Novice). Follow the freeway south to Skylanes Flight 1981.

[1.11] MILITARY ARMOR TRANSPORT (NORTH WILDERNESS)

- ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE
- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR

Hack the terminal in the carriage (Advanced) to access the armor and core in the security cage.

[1.12] TRADER'S SHACK (WEST OF RANGER CABIN)

- SERVICES: TRADER

Trade here or steal a small garden of wild corn and tato fruit.

[1.13] MILITARY APC (SANCTUARY LAKE)

- DANGER: RADIATION (MILD)
- FACTION: IRRADIATED WILDLIFE
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Beware of Bloatflies. The corpse has an army helmet if you want it.

[1.14] ABANDONED CARAVAN

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

West of Abernathy Farm is a rusting caravan with stuff to scavenge.

[1.15] DRY CREEK SHACK

- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A small rickety shack overlooking the entrance to Wicked Shipping fleet lockup.

[1.16] HALF-BURIED STASH

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

Southeast of the water tower is a copse of trees and a half-buried trunk to pillage.

[1.17] CONCORD OUTSKIRTS RUINED HOUSE

- COLLECTIBLE: NUKA COLA QUANTUM

Thirsty on your way to Concord? Stop at the fridge inside this ruined house.

[1.18] CONCORD CAMPFIRE

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- FACTION: RAIDERS

An occasional caravan stop is usually overrun by a couple of Raiders and their emaciated hounds.

[1.19] SHOPPING CART OF GOODIES

- COLLECTIBLE: NUKA CHERRY

Someone's left a collection of edibles and a delicious Nuka Cherry. They won't mind if you have them. They're probably dead, anyway.

[1.20] RADROACH OUTHOUSE

- FACTION: IRRADIATED WILDLIFE
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Watch your step; there are Radroaches in these rustic restrooms.

[1.21] A COOKING SPOT

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO

A deserted cooking station with a place to sleep and a trunk to pillage.

[1.23] CONSTRUCTION LIFT TO GUNNERS' DEN

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO: TRUNK
- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- CRAFTING WEAPONS WORKBENCH
- FACTION: GUNNERS

Watch for machine-gun turrets and Gunners. Ride the lift up to the elevated freeway, where you can mow down a few more Gunners. Explore the elevated section of freeway as you wish.

[1.24] SETTLERS' TENT

- FACTION: SETTLER

CharlieTwo settlers lead a meager existence southwest of Walden Pond.

[1.25] RAIDER CHEM LAB SHACK

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- CRAFTING: CHEMISTRY STATION
- FACTION: RAIDER
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A shack with a lookout and a couple of easily dispatched idiots.

[1.26] SMALL TRADING SHACK

- SERVICE: TRADER

A shack with a friendly trader and a number of cats: some paintings, others purring.

[1.27] ELEVATED GUNNERS' DEN

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- FACTION: GUNNERS

Offering a good view of the vicinity. Beware of a machine-gun turret and a few Gunners. Access from the on-ramp to the northeast (Secondary Location 1.28).

[1.28] ON-RAMP GUNNERS' DEN

- FACTION: GUNNERS

Scale the freeway on-ramp to explore the elevated road. Watch for the Gunner and machine-gun turret.

[1.29] BUS RAMP

- FACTION: THE RAILROAD
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS
- QUEST VISIT: TRADCRAFT (THE RAILROAD)

Meet Deacon here during the quest. Watch for Railroad signs. This leads up onto the elevated freeway, past a Ghoul-infested bus and Secondary Location 1.35.

[1.30] MILITARY PILLBOX (WALDEN)

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO

Watch for an Eyebot in here. Unlock the terminal (Novice) to open the security door.

[1.31] VENDING MACHINE TRUCK TRANSPORT

- COLLECTIBLE: NUKA COLA QUANTUM

The transportation of some vending machines was stopped short by a big bomb. Fortunately, there's sometimes a Quantum still left in the Nuka Machine.

[1.32] WICKED SHIPPING CONTAINER TRUCK #2

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- QUEST VISIT: WICKED SHIPMENTS (LOCATION MISCELLANEOUS)

This is one of Wicked Shipping's trailers. Unlock it (Master) or use the key found at the fleet lockup to access the trunk inside.

[1.33] MILITARY ARMOR TRANSPORT (LEXINGTON)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE
- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR

Hack the terminal in the orange carriage. Access the armor and core in the security cage. Don't forget the trunk in the blue carriage, too.

[1.34] SWITCHBOARD ENTRANCE (SEWER)

- QUEST VISIT: TRADCRAFT (THE RAILROAD)

You can go into the sewer entrance to the Switchboard—the Railroad's old base of operations—from here, ideally during the quest. Your path soon ends at a terminal (Master). The main entrance—extremely well guarded during the quest—is underneath Slocum Joe's in Lexington (Primary Location 1.22) and connects to here. Consult that location for the interior map of the Switchboard.

[1.35] ELEVATED FREEWAY: DERELICT BUS

- COLLECTIBLE: NUKA-COLA QUANTUM
- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- FACTION: THE RAILROAD
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS
- QUEST VISIT: TRADCRAFT (THE RAILROAD)

Check the bus for a Quantum. Ricky Dalton is only here during the quest.

[1.36] ELEVATED FREEWAY ACCESS (LEXINGTON)

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION

Climb here and you can look down on Lexington, fire off sniper shots at the Raiders on the Corvega Assembly Plant, and explore the abandoned camp. This offers good (but precarious) access into Zones 2 and 3 and down onto the roofs of the Lexington buildings near the interchange overpass.

[1.37] FREEWAY SHACK AND CAGE

- BOTTLECAPS
- FACTION: IRRADIATED WILDLIFE
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Come for the big band sound on the radio. Leave when the Radscorpion ambushes you. Feel revulsion when you unlock the cage gate (Expert) and inspect the prisoner conditions inside.

[1.38] MILITARY CHECKPOINT (LEXINGTON)

- ARMAMENTS OR AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

This area is under the remains of the elevated freeway and devoid of life. There's a trunk to scavenge, so turn that frown upside down!

[1.39] ELEVATED FREEWAY ACCESS (LEXINGTON)

Climb here and you can look down on Mystic Pines, Lexington, fire off sniper shots at the Raiders on the Corvega Assembly Plant, and explore the rusting vehicles scattered across the interchange to the south. This offers good (but precarious) access into Zones 2 and 3 and down onto the roofs of the Lexington buildings near the interchange overpass.

[1.40] ELEVATED JUMPING-OFF POINT

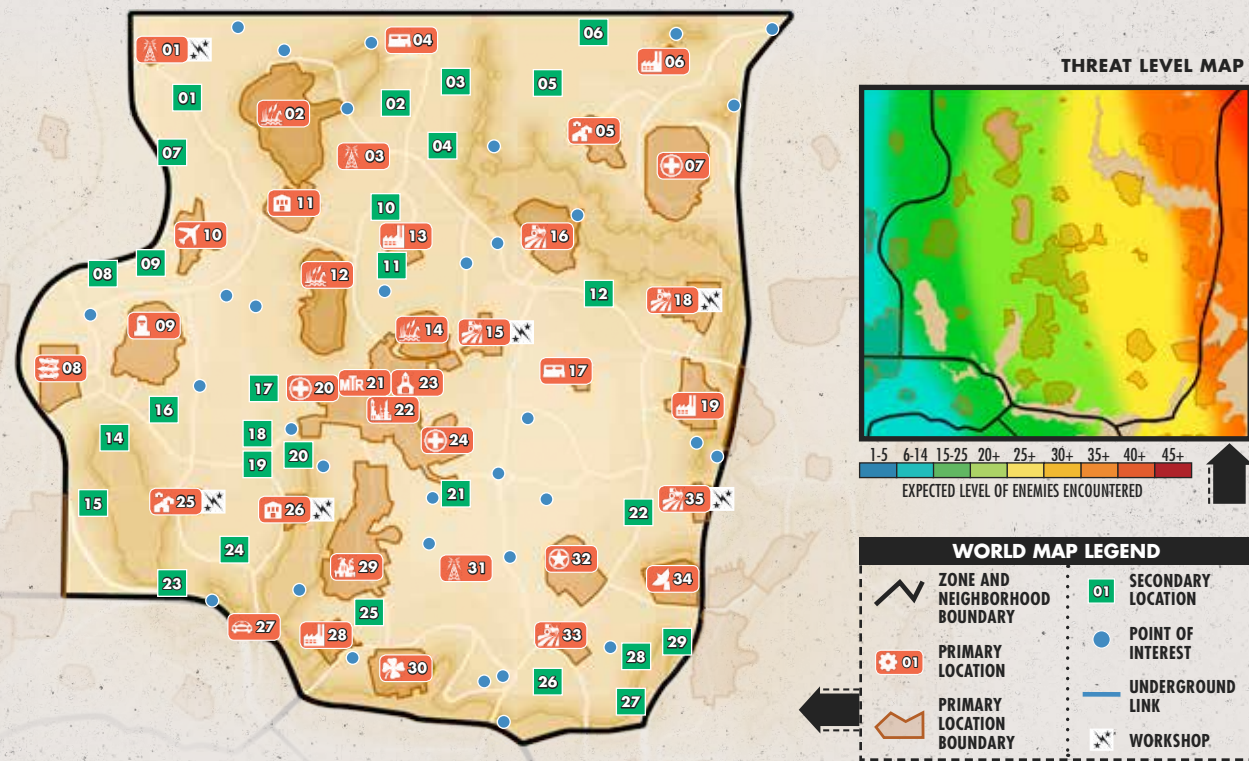

Jump from the upper roadway—accessed from Secondary Location 1.39—and explore the freeway above Lexington here.

ZONE 1

LEXINGTON AND NORTHWEST COMMONWEALTH

ZONE 2: NORTH CENTRAL COMMONWEALTH

Bordered by the elevated freeway to the east and west and the Mystic River to the south, this part of the Commonwealth consists of the main township of Malden in its center, with various interesting and dangerous smaller locations surrounding it. The farther south you go, the more industrial the landscape becomes. The farther east you go, the more dangerous the inhabitants become. However, you are encouraged to chance a meeting at the more esoteric establishments in this zone, allowing you to befriend both robots and ghouls alike. And even Deathclaws! But not Super Mutants.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: MINI NUKE
- REQUIRED READING: ASTOUNDINGLY AWESOME TALES

A settler camp built around an old relay station has recently been overridden by Raiders under the command of a heavily armed (and armored) ne'er-do-well named Boomer. Remember to pick that ripe Mini Nuke from the tato plant allotment afterward!

[2.02] LAKE QUANNAPOWITT THREAT LEVELS 20+

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: BLOATFLIES
- FACTION: BLOODBUGS
- FACTION: MIRELRUKS

Suffering from a pollution problem even before the current inhospitable living conditions, this remote lake provides habitat for Mirelurks and a few airborne bugs. If you must swim, dive into the northern part of the lake where a sunken rowboat yields a steamer trunk of goods.

[2.03] RADIO TOWER 3SM-U81 THREAT LEVELS 20+

- FACTION: BLOODBUGS
- RADIO: AUTOMATED RADIO ALARM
- RADIO: GREENBRIAR RADIO SIGNAL
- RADIO: NAUTICAL RADIO SIGNAL

This is part of the Commonwealth relay tower network. Authorized personnel only. Use the relay tower terminal to amplify three nearby radio signals.

- FACTION: DEATHCLAWS
- FACTION: RAIDERS
- HEALTH OR CHEMS
- QUEST VISIT: THE DEVIL'S DUE (SIDE QUEST)

Dominated for centuries by an old stone lookout tower, this settler encampment was recently pillaged by Raiders. Why not return the favor? Expect reinforcements if you scale the tower; even the odds by flipping the circuit breaker atop the tower. The siren summons two Deathclaws from a nearby nest. Unlock the steamer trunk (Master) using good old-fashioned chuzpah, or use the key on the settler corpse at the top of the tower.

- FACTION: RAIDERS
- QUEST VISIT: THE SECRET OF CABOT HOUSE (SIDE)

This company once provided milk for the Medford area and was part of the Little Cobb Creamery collective. Unless the specified quest is active, this place is deserted. Otherwise, expect a Raider presence. If you're adept at safecracking, expect a pleasant surprise here (Advanced). Explore the roof to locate a skeleton close to an assault rifle and locked wooden crate (Novice). If you're after a boatload of grenades, you've come to the right place.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

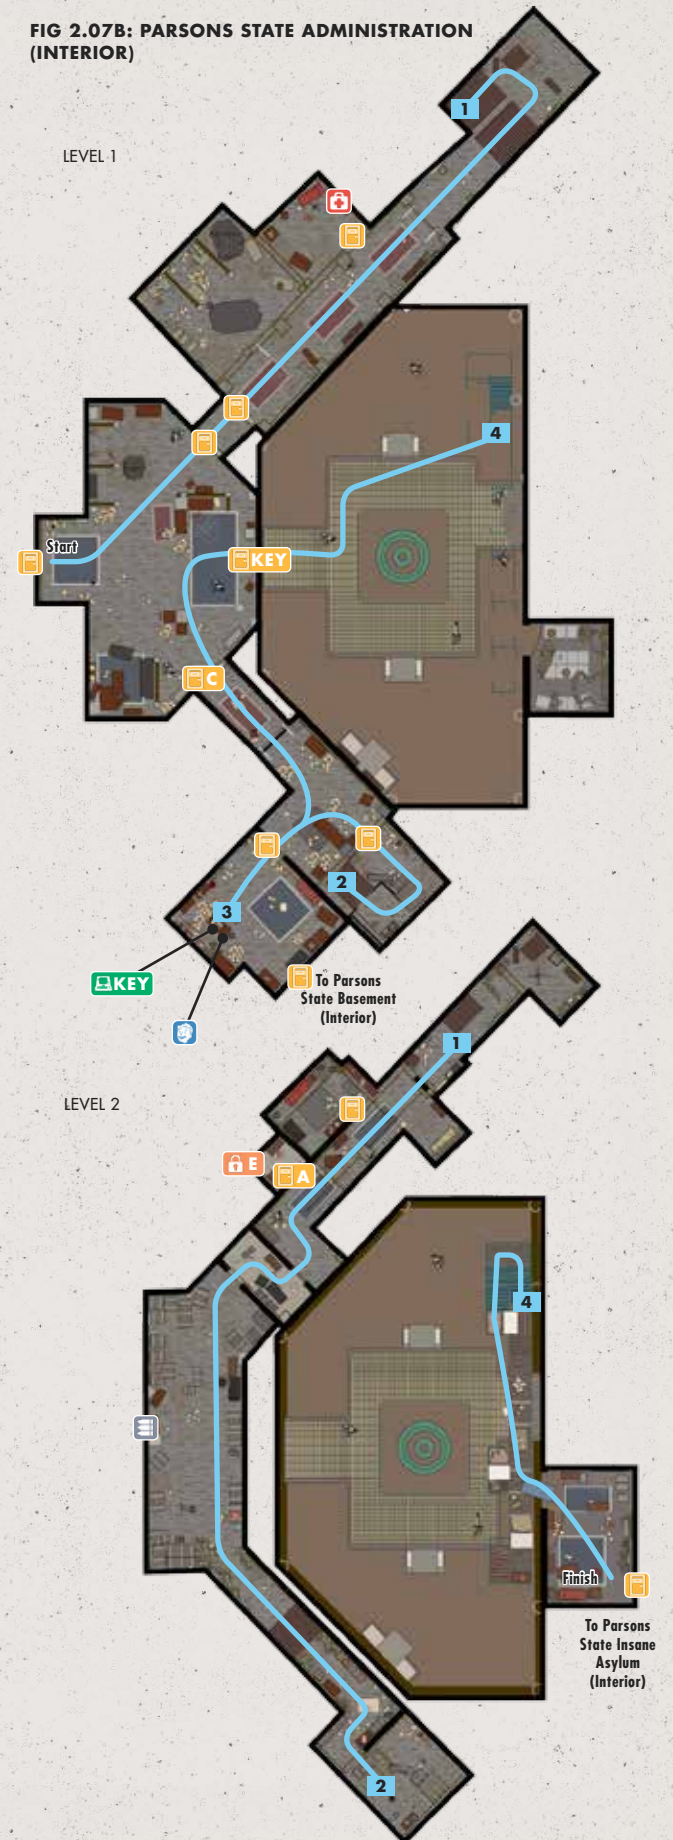

BOBBLEHEAD: CHARISMA
REQUIRED READING: MASSACHUSETTS SURGICAL JOURNAL

You cannot enter this location unless the specified quest is active.

Before the Great War, this asylum was built to house the addled, weak of brain, and terminally confused folk of the Commonwealth. Old records state that additional subterranean rooms were created to house particularly difficult guests. The location appears to have been built by the Cabot family of the Beacon Hill neighborhood of Boston. Armed mercenary guards currently patrol the facility.

There's bloodleaf in the pond to the east. The only entrance is the ominous but grand doorway to the south, which is only accessed with a key, given to you during the specified quest.

- QUEST VISIT: MISCELLANEOUS (RANDOM ENCOUNTER: NESS)

On October 23, 2077, SkyLANES Flight 1981 (with service to Boston) had just begun its final descent when the bombs began to fall. The shock wave crippled the plane. Since the crash, the wreckage has been picked over by generations of Raiders and scavengers.

Scavenge the wings, engine, and fuselage for chems, ammo, and caps, as well as a Jangles the Moon Monkey. The front section of fuselage has a magazine to gather from the restroom, a steamer trunk you need to drop down from outside to reach, and a Holotape at the cockpit of the final moments of the flight. Underneath is a hidden compartment (Master) with a smuggling manifest.

Miscellaneous Quest (Random Encounter: Ness)

1. INVESTIGATE THE CRASH SITE
2. MEET NESS NEAR THE CRASH SITE
3. SECURE THE CRASH SITE
4. COLLECT YOUR PAY

If you haven't picked the location clean, and if you've randomly stumbled upon Ness during your travels, she mentions some loot hidden at this location. Agree to find it.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Feel free to ask for more caps.

If you already found the compartment, the quest concludes.

Visit this location and remove any Raiders. Speak with Ness to receive your caps. If you kill Ness at any time, she has the compartment key on her. If you collect your pay from Ness and leave, she clears out the secret compartment herself.

Ness' key also unlocks a secret compartment at Primary Location [5.32] SkyLANES Flight 1665 in the Glowing Sea.

FIG 2.11: GENERAL ATOMICS GALLERIA (EXTERIOR)

A fully automated model shopping center designed by General Atomics to showcase the versatility of their line of robots. The centerpiece is a towering Mr. Handy statue. The location is currently closed due to a series of lethal programming glitches.

Miscellaneous Quest (Galleria)

1. REPORT TO THE DIRECTOR OF THE GENERAL ATOMICS GALLERIA
 Speak to the greeter and agree to report to the director. He resides within the head of the Mr. Handy statue.

(Medium, Hard) You can bluff your credentials.

Otherwise, the director deems you a threat and the situation dissolves into violence. You can override the director from his terminal. (Master)

01. Mister Handy Statue

This is where the director is stationed. Use the lift to enter and exit, and hack the terminal (Master) if you wish.

- If you thoroughly explored [18.02] General Atomics Factory in South Boston, you may actually have a General Atomics ID. Present it, and all will be well.

- If you kill the Director, you can use his terminal to choose from several options that will disable or destroy the robots, or trigger the Grand Reopening. Can't hack the (Master) terminal? There's a password on the supervisor's terminal in Back Alley Bowling.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

The Grand Reopening resolves most of the glitches with the Galleria's robots. If they survived, many of the robots will now act as traders, although their supplies are rather limited. And as the Galleria's new owner, you're free to loot all of the stores.

02. Madden's Boxing Gym

Expect a fight at Madden's Gym. Step into the ring and face The Champ, but be wary of fouls—using any weapon other than boxing gloves or stepping out of the ring will cause all three robots to attack.

After the Grand Reopening, you can trade with Danny. There are chems to gather, and a back room (Advanced) where you can hack a terminal (Novice) to start a manager's sale, which improves Danny's prices.

After the Grand Reopening, you can also buy supplies from Sproket.

03. General Atomics Outlet

Visit Sprocket at the outlet store for a product demonstration. Scavenge the robots and area for parts and ammo. Access the workroom using chutzpah (Expert) or the key in the cash register. There's a locked toolbox (Novice) inside.

04. Handy Eats Diner

Visit the diner and speak to the waitron about taking your order. Cook is waiting to chef something up and is a miserable sod.

05. Back Alley Bowling

At Back Alley Bowling, Tenpin is happy to let you pass for a small fee (or if you have a General Atomics ID card). Otherwise, expect a fight with him, Lane; and Split. Check the restrooms for chems and caps. Find a safe (Advanced) and a Jangles the Moon Monkey in the storeroom behind Tenpin. Check behind the lanes to visit Kingpin, who's near a steamer trunk and other ammo to scavenge. Visit Strike at the upstairs bar, which needs a little freshening up. The stairwell provides access to the roof, a supervisor's room with chems, and a terminal (Advanced) that explains the history of the Galleria. You can find a password to this terminal near the Director in the Mister Handy Statue.

06. Fallon's Department Store

Visit Reg at Fallon's, but be careful not to touch the merchandise. After the Grand Reopening, he's a little more willing to part with his wares.

07. Pirelli's Bakery

You can visit Crisp at the bakery, but be warned-- it may be a long wait. Expect better service after the Grand Reopening.

08. Slocum's Joe

Visit Bean at Slocum's Joe for a quick cuppa. Wait, can you smell gas?

This location has areas that cannot be accessed if the specified quest is not active.

This private research laboratory owned by the Med-Tek Corporation began experimenting with infectious diseases. One was a virus that affected only teenagers and children. The entire facility went into lockdown when the bombs fell to prevent any contagion from spreading, trapping all the inhabitants. The lockdown was never lifted.

Outside, beware of Feral Ghouls in the forecourt. Inside, there is a lockdown in effect. There is a single, main entrance to enter. - HEALTH OR CHEMS

On the road south of Outpost Zimonja is a parked trailer guarded by two Redcoat mannequins. The real threat is the Raider and his dog. Search the trailer for an explosives box (Novice) and other ammo.

[2.02] HILLTOP HUT

- CRAFTING: WEAPONS WORKBENCH
- FACTION: ROBOT

A small stilt shack with a commanding view of the area has a locked terminal (Expert) to hack, if you want a spot of Protectron remote-controlling.

[2.03] CAR TREE CAMP

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- BOTTLECAPS+
- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- FACTION: RADSCORPIONS

Three settlers used this landmark as a camp. The Radscorpions use this as a feeding ground. Grab some caps from the settlers, and inspect their duffel bag.

[2.04] DESERTED PICNIC AREA

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION

This was once a picturesque rest stop for day-tripping picnickers. Now there's a rusty cooler (Novice) to scavenge from as you view the desolate scrub.

[2.05] DEATHCLAW NEST (LYNN WOODS)

- QUEST VISIT: THE DEVIL'S DUE (SIDE)

A small collection of kills and a large nest indicates the presence of Deathclaws. Drop in an egg-shaped present so you're not mauled.

[2.06] RUSTY TRAILER

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

Long ago, vacationers didn't get far. Look inside the rusting trailer for a steamer trunk.

[2.07] BLOATFLY CAMP

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: BLOATFLIES

A shack under the elevated freeway houses a wooden crate, a settler, and a small swarm of Bloatflies.

[2.08] BILLBOARD SCAVENGER SHACK

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION

Beneath the large rusting billboard is a small shack with a cooking fire.

[2.09] ELEVATED GUNNER CAMP

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- CRAFTING: POWER ARMOR STATION
- DANGER: LONG DROP!
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

This Gunner camp has a construction lift to the south, but it is raised, meaning you need to approach from the fallen freeway section to the north. Gather chems, unlock the wooden crate, and ride the other construction lift to the upper part of the camp. There's usually a good weapon between the two large windmills.

This is one of Wicked Shipping's trailers; the hatch is unlocked. Access the trunk and explosives box inside.

[2.11] SCAVENGER CAMP

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: YAO GUAI

A wild Yao Guai has interrupted a group of scavengers. Pick through the remains after anything violent attempts to gnaw on you.

[2.12] MILITARY CONVOY (APCS AND TRAILER)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

A rusting convoy of APCs and two big-rigs. The APC holds some ammunition and explosives, but the larger reward is in the green container trailer—a trunk.

[2.13] ELEVATED FREEWAY: ELEVATED TRAILER

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

A green container trailer is attached to the big-rig, which is delicately balanced on a seemingly inaccessible "island" of elevated freeway. Jump here with a Brotherhood of Steel jetpack, and claim the trunk from inside the trailer.

[2.14] CRASHED VERTIBIRD (COVENANT LAKE)

- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)
- DANGER: RADIATION (MILD)

The remains of a Vertibird are sticking out of the north end of this lake. Swim by the vessel to scavenge the suit of Power Armor, fully submerged next to the craft.

[2.15] THE FISHING SPOT (COVENANT COMPOUND)

- DANGER: RADIATION (MILD)!
- DANGER: TURRETS!
- FACTION: COVENANT
- FACTION: CHARACTER: BLYTHE
- FACTION: CHARACTER: MANNY
- QUEST VISIT: HUMAN ERROR (SIDE)

A grumpy fisherman sits on this sewer outlet. Investigate the sewer pipe and you stumble upon a strange compound allied to the Covenant (on the east side of the lake). Do not disturb Manny and Blythe unless you wish to get on their bad side. Instead, why not investigate Covenant first? The map to the sewers is listed in Primary Location 2.25.

[2.16] RUSTY TRACTOR

- BOTTLECAPS
- FACTION: FERAL GHOUL

This is a pile of corpses and farm equipment. Though one of the corpses isn't quite dead. Find the caps on the tractor seat.

[2.17] OLD CARAVAN TRAILER

- BOTTLECAPS
- DANGER: TURRET!
- FACTION: ROBOTS

A rather antisocial dame (who isn't home at the moment) has left her caravan with a turret and Sentry Bot on guard. Make it through to claim the caps inside.

[2.18] THE LOCKED TRAILER

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO

Open the trailer (Advanced) and discover a surprise inside.

[2.19] CARAVAN CROSSROADS

- BOTTLECAPS
- CHARACTER: FRED O'CONNELL

The last known position of the O'Connell Caravan, which last stopped at Covenant.

[2.20] MALDEN DRAINAGE

- FACTION: BLOODBUGS

This sewer drain entrance is populated by Bloodbugs. Related to Taffington Boathouse, south of here. Investigate there first, looking for information on Malden Drainage.

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL
- FACTION: CHARACTER: KNIGHT VARHAM
- QUEST START: THE LOST PATROL (BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL)
- QUEST VISIT: THE LOST PATROL (BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL)

An explosion tore this building apart. Knight Varham's body may hold the clue to what happened here. There's a safe to unlock (Advanced) and a duffel bag to inspect.

[2.22] MILITARY CONVOY (TRAINING YARD)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE
- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)
- FACTION: ROBOTS
- FACTION: STINGWINGS

A convoy of two APCs and a trailer didn't make it too far from the training yard; find it on the road to the north. There's a trunk inside the APC and Power Armor in the trailer.

[2.23] ABANDONED RAIDER CAMP (ELEVATED FREEWAY)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- DANGER: LONG DROP!
- FACTION: RAIDERS

Access is available from the interchange above Lexington to the west or by using the construction lift from the ground. This two-level Raider camp has some ammo to scavenge, and not a soul about.

[2.24] DERELICT MANSION

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

The attractively hued mansion on this desolate stretch of road is uninhabited, but there's a suitcase and wooden box to scavenge.

[2.25] MILITARY APCS

- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)
- FACTION: ROBOTS
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Two parked APCs near a downed aircraft is where you'll find a patrolling utility Protectron. Check the back of the APC for health.

[2.26] COOLING VATS

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO - FACTION: BLOODBUGS

A wooden crate and a workman with a leisurely disregard for fire safety can be found between these two giant globelike cooling vats, now in complete disrepair.

[2.27] RIVER'S END SHACK

- CRAFTING: WEAPONS WORKBENCH
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS

A small locked shack (Novice) can be opened, if you want to interrupt a meal.

[2.28] PROTECTRON TRAILER

- FACTION: ROBOTS

A police Protectron is still serving its masters, who are inside this rusty old trailer.

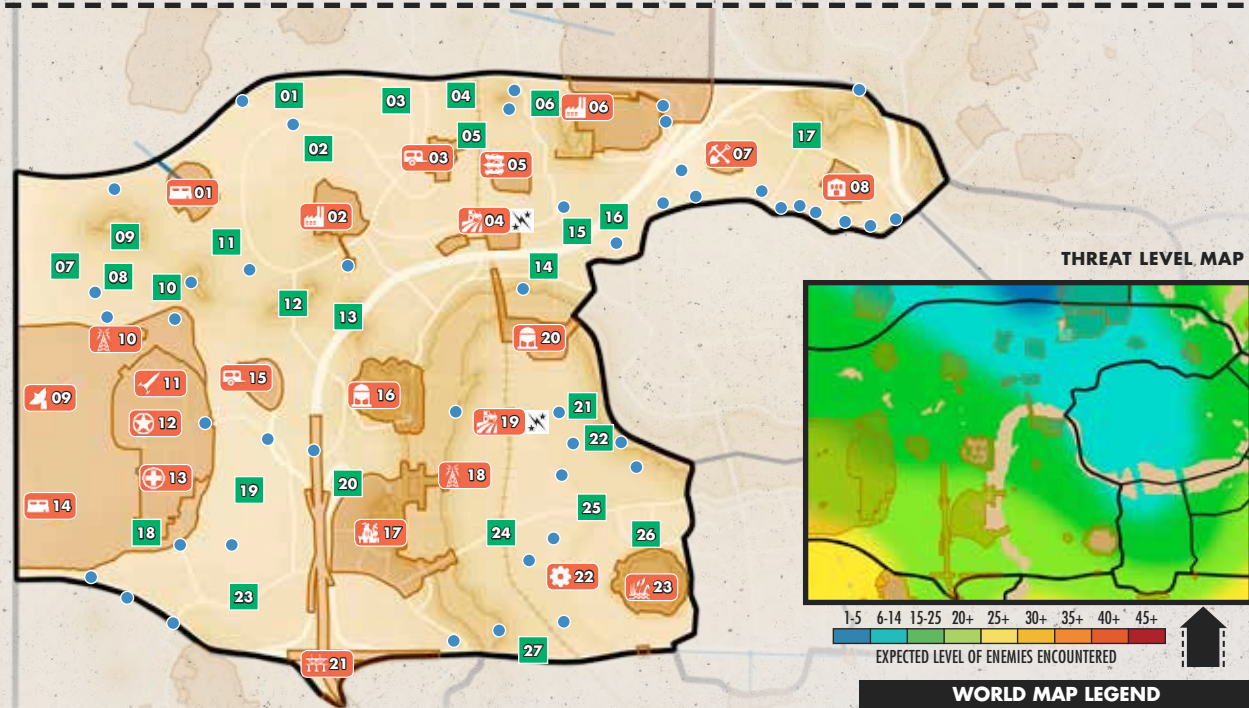

[2.29] RIVER'S END WAREHOUSE

- CRAFTING: POWER ARMOR STATION

A small rusting warehouse close to the elevated freeway, this also was used as a boat dock. Now it sits in quiet decay.

ZONE 3: WESTERN COMMONWEALTH

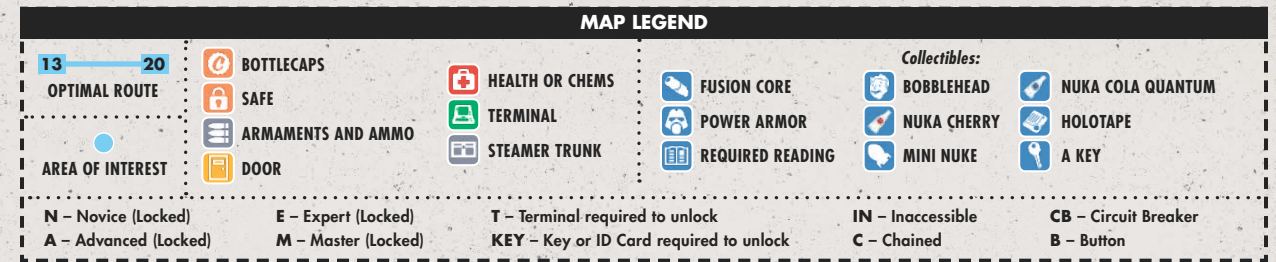

Dominated by Fort Hagen to the west and the Greater Boston Neighborhoods to the east, this zone is mostly wilderness, with its inhabitants getting increasingly tough and unpleasant the farther south you venture. As you reach Fort Hagen relatively early in your Main Quest adventuring, it is worth exploring the locations north and east of the fort, venturing to the more soggy southern Charles River and back into Boston when you're ready for a breather at Diamond City. Follow the roads and the rail tracks to avoid getting lost. For the settlement wrangler, there's only two possible alliances to make, and one of those is with some gardening robots.

ArcJet was a contractor specializing in the design and development of custom-built high-tech aviation equipment. This particular facility included offices and labs for their staff, as well as a secure test chamber for new products in development. It has largely been abandoned since the war. Its security system, including turrets and Protectrons, was more than enough to fend off any Raiders.

Most of this facility is closed off prior to the specified quest. In particular, the Engine Core can only be accessed during the quest.

Before you enter, the workshop bunker behind the main structure has some first aid and an elevator, but the power is out. It can only be powered during the specified quest. The other unique weapon (the Junk Jet) is found in the engine core area.

Inside, the main offices and laboratories are set out on two sprawling floors you weave between, along with elevator access down to the engine core. Check every room so you don't miss some quality items, including a Fat Man and two steamer trunks (one in the main building, the other in the engine core area, though only one is available each time you visit)! If you're completing the Brotherhood of Steel quest, expect some righteous authority as you exit.

BOBBLEHEAD: REPAIR
REQUIRED READING: GROGNAK THE BARBARIAN

This was the pride of Lexington until the tourists departed. Now the south of the township is comprised of a sprawling assembly plant where the main bulk of the Raiders lurk, ready to push back the ferals that have swarmed the streets to the north.

There are four ground-level entrances into the factory. Of the three doors, the one on the eastern side is chained and an exit only. Choose either door on the north side (one is above the other). Or, look for the crack in the large sewer pipe to the northeast; head in here to access the basement level first.

To reach the roof, use the gantry to the east. There's an upper entrance into the plant just west of the covered bridge and road ramp (northeast). You can climb all the walkways to the top of the huge, chimneys; the gantry around the massive cooling vat with the Corvega sign (to the southwest) has a place to put MILA (see quest); and there's a Bobblehead to snag. Finally, move to a hatch on the roof's northwestern corner—another way to enter this plant.

This location is not fully accessible unless Main Quest: Reunions is active.

An old army base with a small surrounding town and medical hospital, Fort Hagen is now firmly sealed away from scavengers. Inspect the exterior and locate the parking structure under the building, with the entrance to the south. The first level down has a chemistry station and some health.

It is the hideout of a man named Kellogg. The main entrance is blocked, so seek entry from a roof hatch or a door from the lower parking garage. Either entrance allows access to the ruined interior and elevator down to the command center. Before you head there, check the upper floor kitchen for a magazine.

Command center: If you want an easier time unlocking the terminal and security gate to the armory (Master) that contains the Mini Nuke and Fatman, locate the toolbox in the pipe duct (southwest); it has the Fort Hagen Armory password in it. Look for the Fusion Core in the machine room here, along with RobCo Fun! (and the latest Holotape game) in the command room. The Bobblehead is in the kitchens, and there's yet another magazine in one of the bedrooms. What a haul!

This plant was built in 2051 as part of a decade-long plan to modernize the city's aging sanitation systems. In the decades after the bombs fell, the rising sea levels eventually overwhelmed the plant's retaining wall and began to flood the facility. As the pumps lost power, shorted out, and began to fail, the water output fell and grew more contaminated.

The exterior features a number of Super Mutant shacks dotted throughout the containment pools and some devious traps to wound the unwary. The roof of the structure, which has a terminal (Novice) and a safe (Expert) to hack, can only be accessed from a hatch inside.

FIG 3.16B: WESTON WATER TREATMENT PLANT (INTERIOR)

The lower levels of the plant are flooded, prompting you to take the elevator down to a series of button-operated doors. Open these to advance to pump control switches, and activate each one. Advance onward and downward after each one, fending off Mirelurks. Then locate the lowest-level elevator that takes you back up to the surface.

Forest Grove Marsh is a series of residential and other small buildings that have sunken and been flooded by the river. Some radioactive leak below the area has irradiated the water, and though scavengers have tried to put up walkways across the rooftops of the buildings to explore the houses, the numerous Ghouls in the area have stopped all but the most inquisitive or reckless scavengers. Proceed at your own risk.

[01] South Bridge

Aside from the rusting remains of an accident, expect a few lurking ferals but little else. Enter town by heading north at the pub.

[02] Pub and Buffet

South of town, this mostly dilapidated structure has a storeroom door with a tension trigger to investigate. Inside are health and chems. Upstairs is a chem cooler and an occupied couch.

[03] Bakery Roof Tent

This structure has been flooded with irradiated water; enterprising scavengers have made a series of rickety bridges connecting many of the town's structures. Use them to navigate the area so you're not caught by advancing ferals. This blue tent has some chems and ammo to grab.

[04] Red Tanker Trailer

You can break into the remains of a big-rig trailer (Advanced) and can gather some health and the contents of a toolbox.

[05] Crab Shack and Pharmacy Roof

There's some strange mutated ferns growing here. Gather as many as you can; the specified quest depends on it. There are other buildings with this fern growing too.

[06] The Gun Shop

This is one of the few buildings whose interior you can access. The badly damaged structure still has a functioning floor safe (Advanced) and cash register (Novice). Open some cabinets and grab any remaining hardware; there's a few rounds of each type and a weapons workbench upstairs with more ammo nearby. Don't forget the roof—there's a steamer trunk, Caps stash, more ammo and chems, a partly hidden explosives box, and a Holotape from Sheila.

[07] Rusty Yellow Digging Machine

Search for this brightly colored machine holding up a plank bridge; this is a good place to return to the rooftops if you fall. The adjacent structure has more mutated ferns to harvest.

[08] Charles River Lock and Dam

With the river waters rising to the south, the nonfunctioning river lock is at the root of the problems Forest Grove Marsh is experiencing. There's little you can do about it, save scavenging some health from the moored boat within the lock. The metal shack has an armor workbench to tinker on.

[09] River Dam Camp

A small scavenger camp with a cooking station, this is occasionally used by scavengers and others passing through. The only permanent resident is a large stuffed space monkey.

There are additional entities here if the quest is active.

Renowned throughout the Commonwealth for its higher than normal alcohol content and lower than normal cost, Beantown Brown Beer was the favored drink among blue-collar workers after a long day on the job. Looked down upon by most discerning beer drinkers, the Beantown Brewery catered more to the "common man," which led to one of its more popular slogans, "Beantown Brown, because no one likes a snob." The beer was produced here. Currently, Raiders have taken over the location. They are here for the beer.

The main doors of this structure are locked up and require a little jimmying to open the main door (Advanced). Or, you can enter via the tasting room and store. Inside is more Gwinnett beer and lager than you'll ever need, as well as some Raiders to quiet down.

The camp is behind the billboard signs, under the upper north-south freeway. However, by heading south and doubling back, you can climb and sneak above the camp. With careful maneuvering (and use of the curved elevated ramps), you can trek along the east-west freeway all the way to Mass Pike Tunnel West. A must for snipers.

Somewhere in the Commonwealth is a vault that never fulfilled its secret purpose. The people just lived normal lives for generation after generation. They are aware of the outside world but choose to remain within the safety of the vault rather than brave the dangers of the Commonwealth. They do trade with the outside world since they aren't entirely self sufficient, so the people are used to seeing outsiders every couple of weeks or so. What secrets does Vault 81 contain?

Find the entrance to Vault 81 cut into the rocks inside a small shanty trading camp due west of the Fens Neighborhood.

FIG 3.22A: VAULT 81 ENTRY (INTERIOR)

FIG 3.22B: VAULT 81 (INTERIOR)

Not all areas are accessible unless the Side Quests are active. Once you've performed a small task for the overseer (bringing her a Fusion Core), you're free to move about the vault. Visit the different locations starting at the atrium:

- ALEXIS COMBES RUNS THE VAULT 81 DEPOT AND TRADES WITH YOU.
- HORATIO RUNS A BARBERSHOP WHERE YOU CAN GO FOR A QUICK HAIRCUT OR SOMETHING MORE INVOLVED.
- MARIA SUMMERSET RUNS THE SUNSHINE DINER AND TRADES WITH YOU.
- THE HYDROPONICS LABORATORY IS RUN BY DOCTOR PENSKE AND IS FOCUSED ON SOLVING LONG-TERM FOOD AND WATER SUPPLY PROBLEMS.
- KATY RUNS THE LEARNING CENTER, TEACHING THE VAULT'S CHILDREN.
- GWEN MCNAMARA IS THE OVERSEER OF THIS VAULT AND HAS BEEN FOR OVER A DECADE.
- FRATERNAL TWINS BOBBY AND TINA DE LUCA MAINTAIN THE REACTOR.
- DOCTOR FORSYTHE RUNS THE MEDICAL FACILITY WITH HIS ASSISTANT RACHEL.

In addition to the more involved quest in Vault 81, the following smaller tasks are available:

Freeform Quest: Vault 81 Tour

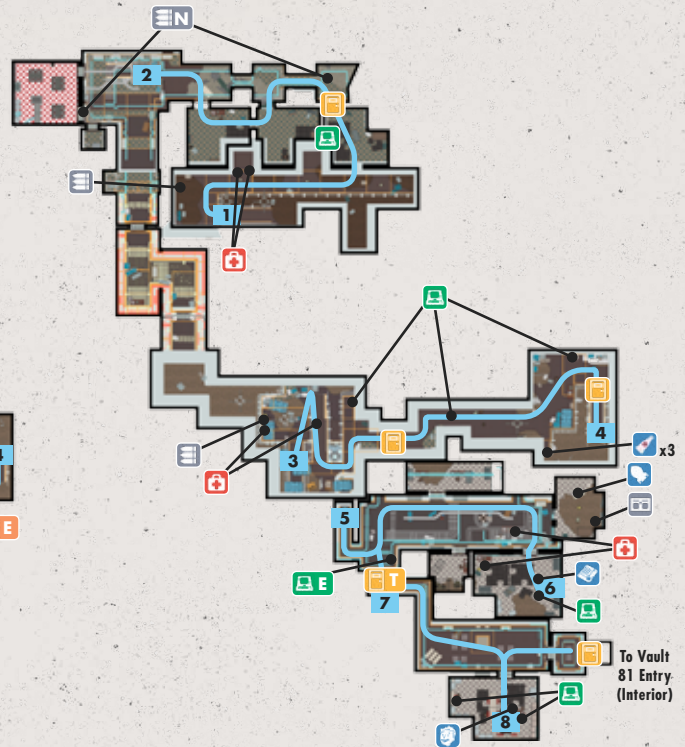

When you first enter the vault, Austin hopes you'll pay him for a tour. You can accept, ask for a free tour, or ignore him. Break off the tour at any point and the quest fails. Continue, and you receive a reasonably adept understanding of this facility.

Freeform Quest: Maintenance Man

Calvin the maintenance man needs any tools you scavenge and will pay you for any you bring back to him.

FIG 3.22C: SECRET VAULT 81 (INTERIOR)

Freeform Quest: Fertilizer Woman

Doctor Penske runs the hydroponics lab. She asks you to taste a Mutfruit for her. Answer how you wish. She needs fertilizer you scavenge and will pay you for any you bring back.

Freeform Quest: Here Kitty, Kitty

Speak to Erin Combes and agree to help her find her lost cat. Find the wayward kitty at the Chestnut Hillock Reservoir, and let Erin Combes know afterward for a small reward.

Freeform Quest: Dependency

Bobby and Tina DeLuca are in the reactor area. Bobby will buy chems off you. Tina wants Bobby off the Jet and Buffout. You can use your Charisma and challenge him to quit, or speak to Rachel in Doctor Forsythe's medical bay to help. Or encourage Bobby to continue using Jet, with quest (and heart) failure in mind.

Freeform Quest: Short Stories

Katy is the teacher in the classroom. Complete Miscellaneous Quest: Short Stories here for a copy of Grognaak the Barbarian.

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

This old military checkpoint has a trunk to scavenge within the locked green trailer (Advanced), as well as a security cage to extricate a suit of Power Armor from; use the terminal (Advanced).

[3.18] POWER ARMOR WAREHOUSE

- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- CRAFTING: POWER ARMOR STATION (4)

You'd think that the stockpile of ammunition and Power Armor stored at this location just south of Fort Hagen would have been mostly picked clean by now. And you'd be correct.

[3.19] ARCJET ENGINE TRANSPORT

A big-rig with a flat trailer is carrying one of ArcJet's impressive engines. What would happen if you could access a terminal here and switch the engine on?

[3.20] SCRAP MERCHANT

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- HEALTH OR CHEMS
- SERVICES: TRADER

Perched on a cylindrical shack attached to the remains of the freeway on-ramp overlooking Forest Grove Marsh is a trader specializing in scrap. Pick the lock on his outside safe (Advanced) if you wish.

[3.21] CAVE AND [3.22] CRASH SITE

- FACTION: UNKNOWN
- FACTION: MOLE RAT
- UNIQUE ITEM: ALIEN BLASTER PISTOL

Sometime during your adventure, you see something circular and metal whizzing past your head. It crashes here. Investigate the cave to see whether the pilot of this odd craft made it out alive.

[3.23] MILITARY CHECKPOINT (SOUTH ZONE 3)

- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)

A seafood processing facility with a processing level deep underground. You can open both the locked doors (Advanced) using the key found on the Raider draped over the window of the eastern exterior hut. Beware of synths active on the lower level and reinforcements once you ascend on your way out.

Don't forget to also check the interior of the eastern hut for a rare robot model kit, sitting on a metal shelf inside, near the dead Raider.

Those hoping to vacation on the eastern shores of the Commonwealth would do well to pack a copious supply of ammunition and have trained long and hard for this outing, as the threat level of the roaming miscreants in this zone is deemed "most dangerous." The township of Revere has been razed by Raiders. Nahant offers quiet walks interspersed with carnage, courtesy of ferals. Up north, Salem long continues its reputation for horror. Farther inland, toward East Boston and the airport, the ferociousness of your foes lessens just a little. The Brotherhood of Steel's imminent arrival at the airport should provide a brief respite should you agree to ally with them. Finally, those brave to dip their toes in the ocean may find one or two surprises under the waves.

MINI NUKE AND FAT MAN

Once a quaint coastal town and seaport, this tourist destination was infamous for its witch trials of 1692. Nowadays the population has dwindled considerably due to Gunner activity in the area, the crazies worshipping a radiation crater down the road, and the large number of mating Mirelurks in the waters all around the bay. Proceed at your own risk.

SALEM (EXTERIOR)

[01] Museum Cottages

The ruins of the cottages have a safe (Expert) still intact on the upper level.

[02] Fishing Boat

An impressive catch is on the deck. But you're here to scavenge the toolbox.

[03] Flotsam and Jetsam

A few minor items and some playground equipment fashioned into stepping stones across the bay.

[04] Drumlin Diner

Here for a quick meal? There's a few cans to gather, along with some health.

[05] Clothing Store

Come for the fashionable items. They're a steal! Then check the small connecting bridge for the ammo. The chain-link area between the clothing store and diner has a terminal and a turret. Consult the Rook Family House Miscellaneous quest for more information.

[06] Salem Church

There's very little to scavenge in this church, until you ascend to the upper floor (there's ammo). Climb the steeple for a terminal related to the Rook Family House Miscellaneous quest, as well as a Mini Nuke and caps stash.

[07] Market Stalls

Mirelurks have terminated the once-thriving bartering market, though there's still some minor items to scavenge.

[08] Rook Military Surplus

The upper floor of this gun shop belonging to Barney Rook houses a terminal and turret. Activate it during the specified quest. There's a Fat Man, caps stash, and safe (Master) for your troubles.

[09] Ruined Restaurant and Offices

The buildings in this block are in a terrible state of repair. Ascend through the office building or via the scaffold steps near Barney Rook's place, and you can access two of the machine-gun turret terminals. Do this during the specified quest.

[10] Submerged Barge

A small barge has run aground on the northern shore. Dive into the boat to secure some health.

[11] Ruined Beach House

This beach house is one of the many dilapidated structures of Salem. It has a few scattered chems upstairs.

[12] Wharf Warehouse

Both wharf warehouses have been picked clean of most supplies. Beware of Mirelurks.

[13] Eastern Wharf

A small hut by the rocks has a stash of Caps, while the boathouse gently creaks in the breeze. The rocks to the southeast look interesting...

Prior to the war, Revere Beach Boardwalk was supposed to be a place where families and vacationers could come and have fun during the summer months. However, gangs of teens in black leather, racing their muscle cars, drove out most of the polite folks. The boardwalk turned into a hangout for this unsavory element.

Nowadays, if you fancy a stroll along the boardwalk with the sea breeze in your hair, you may need to remove the band of Raiders occupying this area.

Some enterprising nutcases have gathered a variety of rusting ships, docks, and debris and fashioned a ship's graveyard into a stronghold. And a settler graveyard. The depravity on show here is frightful.

Approach from the north or south peninsula, and watch your footing. Assuming a north to south advance, check the first two shanty boats for a safe (Advanced) and a cage door (Expert) that leads to a storage area with ammo, chems, and another safe. There's another safe on the white boat in the middle of the cluster of hulks. One red and white boat has a locked door (Advanced) leading to a small stash of items. There's yet another safe (Advanced) on the top part of the tugboat and another safe (Advanced) in the green tower with the terminal (which unlocks this safe and controls the turrets and spotlight).

The captain's cabin (atop the stern of a sunken tanker) can be accessed via swimming or calling the shack platform from the trash boat. Locate a safe (Advanced) on the level just before accessing the captain's cabin. Inside the cabin is a Mini Nuke, a unique weapon, and Wire's terminal (Novice). FIG 4.27A: BOSTON AIRPORT (EXTERIOR)

Before the war, Boston International Airport was a major transportation hub on the East Coast. In addition to its distinctive control tower, it also had a large terminal, parking garage, runways, and numerous hangars and support buildings.

The airport suffered heavily from the war. Most of its major buildings, including large sections of the terminal, have long since collapsed, and the rising sea levels have swamped the low-lying runways and outbuildings. Only the control tower and a few hangars remain relatively intact. After mooring the Prydwen at the airport in Act II, the Brotherhood occupy the area and turn it into the base of operations for their war machine in Act III.

The following assumes the Brotherhood of Steel has arrived at this location. If you explore prior to this point, expect fewer terminals and items and many more frothing ferals.

[01] Arrivals Terminal

The workshop here allows you to build a settlement in relative safety, unless you decide not to ally yourself with the Brotherhood of Steel. Behind the two inaccessible security doors is an airport warehouse—a secret construction shop where a war machine is being built. This eventually is moved to Location 05. Attempt to access this airport warehouse from Location 06, and the wall terminal is inaccessible (only Proctor Ingram can access it). Don't forget to check the ruined "open air" upper floor above the workshop for a Mini Nuke.

[02] Departure Terminal Parking Lot

Only the ground and roof levels of this structure are accessible (from the outer concrete stairs). There's health here and impressive views (or sniping opportunities) of the airport. Before the Brotherhood arrives, or if you've sided against them, you may also be able to access the Boston Airport Ruins from the elevator.

[03] Maintenance Warehouse

A rusting exterior warehouse by the bay, with some health and an ammo box tucked away. Useful as a rest spot between battles.

[04] Aircraft Wreckage

Picked clean by scavengers of the past, the aircraft fuselage and other pieces of twisted metal provide good cover if fighting foes from this location.

[05] Main Concourse

Dominated by a giant scaffold gantry for one of the Brotherhood of Steel's war machines, this is where Proctor Ingram constructs the equipment needed to get this project online.

[06] Departures Terminal

The Brotherhood of Steel will turn the ground floor into a supply depot. There are two side corridors that wrap around to a large set of steps up to a Vertibird landing area. There's a good amount of ammo and chems here. To the southwest is a corridor to the control tower. Look for two steamer trunks here, one on the ground floor and the other atop the tower. To the northwest is a corridor that leads to metal battlements and the main concourse (war machine scaffold access). To the northeast is a departure tube out to the remains of the airfield.

[07] Control Tower (Prydwen Mooring)

Take the elevator from the arrivals terminal to reach the top of the control tower. This offers impressive views and whatever defenses (usually turrets) the Brotherhood of Steel have erected. There is a generator here, along with a mooring rope attached to Prydwen, when it docks here.

[08] Boston Airport Ruins (Entrance)

You can access this door leading to an abandoned airport tunnel system at any time. However, the Brotherhood of Steel: Duty or Dishonor quest must be active to complete navigation of this location.

FIG 4.27B: BOSTON AIRPORT RUINS (INTERIOR)

Most of the Airport Ruins can only be explored during Brotherhood of Steel: Duty or Dishonor. You'll need the Airport Ruins ID Card, found on or near Initiate Clarke during the quest, to unlock the Airport Facilities elevator and several doors. The ruins consist of a partly flooded parking lot, a subway station, a baggage claim, and maintenance chambers. Be sure to loot a third trunk from here and a second Fusion Core.

The Brotherhood of Steel know how to make an entrance! A giant dirigible appears once you complete Act I of your Main Quest. It is moored at Boston Airport. This becomes the base of operations for the Brotherhood of Steel for the remainder of your exploration. The ship is a marvel of engineering.

Your first access to this immense craft is during the Brotherhood of Steel quests. The craft can only be accessed by Vertibird (and Fast-Travel thereafter). Landing on the exterior flight deck, you see there are a number of Vertibird docks. The foredeck (accessed from the command deck) offers exceptional views of the Boston skyline.

The interior of this craft houses the various crew quarters, maintenance areas, medical facilities, and laboratories. Once allied with this faction, you are free to utilize the various workbenches, stations, and your own private quarters where items can be stored. Also visit the named personnel for a variety of tasks. Of particular note is Proctor Teagan, who has some excellent armor, ammunition, and weaponry for sale. However, as the quests for this faction progress, Mini Nukes can be appropriated from the weapons storage on the main deck.

THOSE BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL TYPES HAVE QUITE THE COLLECTION OF GEAR, DON'T THEY? MOST OF THE GOODIES LISTED HERE MUST BE GIVEN, AS QUEST REWARDS FOR A JOB WELL DONE OR ARE FOUND AT PROCTOR TEAGAN'S STORE. NATURALLY, IT'S BETTER TO GATHER ALL OF THESE ITEMS BEFORE PLANNING A POSSIBLE CHANGE OF ALLEGIANCE!

ZONE 4

COASTAL COMMONWEALTH

Fort Strong is an old military base. The island it sits on was used as a gun battery as far back as the Revolutionary War, and the fort itself dates to the Civil War. It had been abandoned for almost a century when the military quietly reoccupied it in the 2050s for use as a top-secret weapons research facility. The fort's exterior and outbuildings were left intact, but its interior was retrofitted and a basement level was dug to house the new laboratories and a sizable army.

Live weapons testing began on the island in the early 2070s, with the fort's long-abandoned outbuildings used as targets. Among other weapons, the Fat Man and its Mini Nukes were invented here and first tested on the artillery range. But in October 2077, the island was hastily sealed up and its scientists evacuated.

To the north (not shown on the map) is a security kiosk with parts of a Power Armor suit and some ammo. Check under the bridge for a wooden crate. Otherwise, the road into the main armory building is devoid of scavengable items. Super Mutants are an ever-present danger; more so if the quest is active. Expect exceptionally heavy resistance if the quest is occurring.

FIG 4.29B: FORT STRONG ARMORY (INTERIOR)

Parts of this location, including the elevator to the sublevel, are inaccessible unless the specified quest is active.

The Fort Strong Key is found in the general's desk, in the locked (Novice) room to the southwest (along with a trunk and Mini Nuke). Reach the main part of the upper floor via the fallen section under the meat bags in the reception room. Reach the southern part of the upper floor by leaping up the fallen ceiling in the conference room to the southeast.

FIG 4.29C: FORT STRONG SUBLEVEL (INTERIOR)

Additional Super Mutants are active in this lower level. Remove the threats as you wish. This is the place to stock up on Mini Nukes.

Once the specified quest has been completed, expect the Brotherhood of Steel to occupy this location. Return here if you're allied with them and wish to take advantage of their hospitality (though this does not extend to any additional quests).

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO

A collection of wood and metal roughly fashioned into a fishing platform attached to the rocks off the coast.

[4.11] SUNKEN FISHING BOAT

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK – HEALTH OR CHEMS

At the bottom of the ocean is an overturned fishing boat. Look for the boat on your local map before diving. The trunk randomly appears.

[4.12] VITALE PUMPHOUSE

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK – ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE – DANGER: ESCAPING GAS!

A well-locked pumphouse with a trunk to rummage around in requires you to figure out the four-digit-unlock code for the door. Fortunately, the wall under the stairs has the clue you need.

[4.13] OCEAN RAFT

– HEALTH OR CHEMS

It's difficult to tell whether this is a collection of flotsam and jetsam or if someone actually nailed this together. Take in the views—ideally not of the gutted and mutated sea creature.

[4.14] UNLOADING BARGE

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO – ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED) – FACTION: ROBOTS

[4.19] CONTAINER CRATES STASH

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO – CRAFTING: COOKING STATION

Climb the ramp of the rusting truck and hop across the containers to reach this loot.

[4.20] FREEWAY ROOFTOPS

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO – HEALTH OR CHEMS

The rusting fire escape on this structure allows you (with some deft jumping) to reach the upper freeway. Stroll north and gather some loot from a blue tent.

[4.21] UPSIDE DOWN ROWBOAT

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK

After getting into choppy waters off the coast, a small rowboat sank. It is said there's a (randomly appearing) trunk of items to loot from under the hull. Look for the boat outline on your Pip-Boy's local map before diving.

[4.22] DOOMED AIRLINES FLIGHT

– ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK – HEALTH OR CHEMS

The rusting fuselage of a doomed flight, which fell into the ocean southeast of Fort Strong. Swim through the cockpit window to find a trunk (appearing randomly).

[4.23] FLOATING BARGE

– HEALTH OR CHEMS

Moored by a cable to the ocean floor, this is the perfect spot to relax in relative safety.

ZONE 5: NATICK AND THE GLOWING SEA

Complete and utter desolation as far as your blistered, irradiated eyes can see. A perpetual cloud of radiation haze. Fierce and toxic storms. If the Deathclaws and Radscorpions don't get you, the radiation sickness might. This is the epicenter of a massive (and highly successful) nuclear strike centered on what is known colloquially as the Crater of Atom. While the northern and riverside fringes of this zone are relatively free of radiation, be sure to stock up on chems and wear proper protective attire once you're south of Natick. Welcome to the Glowing Sea.

NATICK AND THE GLOWING SEA

Poseidon Energy Reservoir not only distributed water to the surrounding farmlands and towns, but it was also a source of hydroelectric power. The power generated was used by Poseidon for its research facilities scattered about the Commonwealth. Currently, the reservoir is in a state of disrepair. The hydroelectric generators no longer operate and the water has become stagnant.

[5.02–5.04] NATICK TOWNSHIP

FIG 5.02: NATICK (TOWNSHIP)

The roof gantries are easy to access, and the ferals up here can be wiped out while you gaze south at Natick and Lake Cochituate. Inside, the terminal in the first metal office pod opens the security doors leading deeper into the facility. The Poseidon Reservoir Safe Key is on top of the metal pod, near a locked toolbox (Expert). Also check the broken pipe on the south wall of the main building; it leads to a Railroad dead drop with some loot and a robot model kit. Nice!

A small town on the banks of Lake Cochituate has suffered from major flooding and subsidence in recent times. Currently the Super Mutants that have mangled up and driven a group of Raiders north are experiencing their own demise, as a pack of Deathclaws has been active in this area.

For the scavenger about town, be certain to check the wall safe (Expert) in the ruined home west of the Red Rocket Filling Station. There's also a safe (Advanced) on the balcony upstairs in the warehouse overlooking the town. Enter the remains of the diner to secure a Nuka Cherry from the upstairs pool room. This was once a great fishing and recreation spot, until the contamination from the nearby disposal site shut down these activities. Now the lake stretches from the elevated freeway and Poseidon Reservoir area south by Natick to the devastated Mass Fusion Disposal Site to the south.

Check the abandoned homes on the northeastern shore for Raider and Mirelurk activity. Pay special attention to the northeast treehouse camp (there's a trunk here, and a robot model kit on an adjacent shelf). You can also find a second trunk at the bottom of the lake: Stand on the rickety jetty with the bathtub on it, facing west-southwest. Dive and swim straight ahead. The trunk is near a tree branch.

NUKA CHERRY

Gunners have overwhelmed the vault dwellers here and are utilizing this location for purposes other than those originally intended. You are encouraged to remove these threats. Beware of Assaultrons. Battle your way through the open vault door and reach the elevator to enter the vault's interior.

To access the facilities wing without impressive hacking skills (Master), head to the overseer's terminal on the upper floor. It is advisable to explore this location with Cait (companion). It is also advisable to check the classroom for a steamer trunk and the habitation quarters for a limited-edition Vault-Tec Bobblehead—one of a kind!

ZONE 5

NATICK AND THE GLOWING SEA

[5.16] SOMERVILLE PLACE

THREAT LEVELS 35+

- FACTION: SETTLER
- SERVICES: WORKSHOP
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

A simple farmstead with settlers growing corn and being terrorized by nearby marauders. Helping them out guarantees loyalty and a settlement to tend to.

[5.17] FORGOTTEN CHURCH

THREAT LEVELS 30+

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- DANGER: LONG DROP!
- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! Somewhere to the west of the Glowing Sea are the buried remains of a church. Make sure you descend to the trunk inside.

- DANGER: TRIPWIRE!
- FACTION: SYNTHS (INSTITUTE)
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Access the mainframe terminal if you wish to ride the elevator up to the surface bunker behind the shack and activate the Protectrons. The base of the main subterranean chamber is where you'll find a Mini Nuke, some essential reading, and a steamer trunk.

[5.19] ATLANTIC OFFICES

THREAT LEVELS 20+

- ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE
- DANGER: GAS LEAK!
- DANGER: LONG DROP!
- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- DANGER: TRIPWIRES!
- FACTION: FERAL GHOUL
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

- ARMOR PART: FUSION CORE

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! Atlantic Offices offers little more than a reminder of the follies of man within this hellscape. It is a tomb for ferals. The lower levels are infested with them. The "slightly above ground" floor has a terminal allowing you to open a security door. Reach the upper levels and ruined roof via the elevator. Up here, the women's bathroom is locked (Novice). Check the safe too (Advanced).

[5.20] CAPSIZED FACTORY

THREAT LEVELS 20+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: FERAL GHOUL
- HEALTH OR CHEMS+

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! Amid the mangled metal is a half-buried factory filled with lolling ferals. Enter via the hole or the remains of the doorway. The base of the structure has a safe (Advanced) and a variety of chems and health to claim.

[5.21] CAVE (RED ROCKET FILLING STATION)

THREAT LEVELS 20+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: RADSCORPION
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! A winding cave of twisted metal leads you to a small pool of filthy water and the sagging remains of a Red Rocket Filling Station. Inside is a button to open the garage (accessing a crate) and a safe (Master).

[5.22] DECAYED REACTOR SITE

THREAT LEVELS 25+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: DEATHCLAW

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! The shell of a nuclear reactor, now home to roaming Deathclaws. The small concrete bunker has a circuit breaker to switch the countdown on.

[5.23] DECREPIT FACTORY

THREAT LEVELS 20+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! Slowly sinking into the irradiated ooze are the remains of a factory.

ARMOR PART: POWER
ARMOR (RAIDER)

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! A cave mouth of bent metal leads to a weaving cave of debris, with Power Armor to claim. North is a half-buried Super Duper Mart. Take the exterior stairs entrance to the interior of the parking garage; the first of two steamer trunks is on this level. There is a security gate (Master) to unlock. Access the bus to drop down to the lower level where a Deathclaw is. Take the elevator atop the remains of the parking garage down to the lower flooded levels, where you can face the Deathclaw and open the steamer trunk.

[5.26] VERTIBIRD WRECKAGE

THREAT LEVELS 30+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! The tangled remains of a Vertibird lie in the eradicated zone, close to the remains of the freeway.

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! The steeple of this church still points skyward and offers a modicum of familiarity in this vastness of despair. Avoid a long fall by descending through the steeple. Unlock a safe (Master) atop the stairs. Remaining on the balcony allows you to manage the congregation of ferals in this area. The exploration ends at the buried bus (check it for a trunk).

[5.28] RELAY TOWER ODB-521

THREAT LEVELS 30+

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- RADIO: SKYLANES 1665 MAYDAY
- RADIO: DISTRESS SIGNAL

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! This is part of the Commonwealth Relay Tower Network. Authorized personnel only. Use the relay tower terminal to amplify both nearby radio signals.

- QUEST VISIT: A LOOSE END (BROTHERHOOD OF STEEL)
- UNIQUE ITEM: VIRGIL'S RIFLE

A former scientist named Virgil still experiments out here in the loneliest corner of the Glowing Sea, with only a Protectron for company. He appears only if Quest: The Glowing Sea is active. Search his laboratory for a magazine and steamer trunk and a Mini Nuke under some metal shelving.

Miscellaneous (Virgil's Cure)

1. FIND VIRGIL'S SERUM
2. BRING THE SERUM TO VIRGIL
3. CHECK ON VIRGIL

Speak to Virgil and he mentions an experimental serum in his old laboratory that could reverse the effects of his Forced Evolutionary Virus. Continue your Main Quest until you're able to access the Institute. Once inside, explore the FEV Laboratory. Work your way through to the lab, and take the experimental serum. Give it to Virgil and leave his laboratory for 72 hours while he waits for the change. Upon your return, speak to Virgil again, and he rewards you by allowing you to loot his laboratory (though not his rifle, which must be pried from his cold, dead, green hands).

Warning! Extreme radiation danger! Not all of this location is accessible until the specified quest is active!

This secret military installation has a stockpile of potent Mark 28 nuclear warheads, many of them still intact. An ominous pyramid surrounded by irradiated sludge, this location was in the middle of launching a missile strike when the bombs dropped. It is now a tomb for ferals.

Inside, you must shut down the launch at the terminal located at the base of the pyramid. Work your way to the stockpile. If you wish to use the cargo elevator to exit this facility, exit atop one of the towers to the southwest of the pyramid.

SECONDARY LOCATIONS

[5.01] NATICK POWER STATION

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: DEATHCLAWS
- FACTION: SUPER MUTANTS

The animosity between the two gigantic mutations vying for territory in Natick reaches its zenith in this abandoned power station. The Super Mutants, it seems, have brought out one of their heavy hitters.

[5.02] NATICK HILLSIDE HOME

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: ATTACK DOGS
- FACTION: DEATHCLAWS
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

While the home owner has retired to the garage, this house overlooking Natick has a few scavengable items and some intruders to watch for.

[5.03] SETTLER CAMPSITE (NATICK OUTSKIRTS)

- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- FACTION: DEATHCLAW

A settler has found out, to his cost, that even the outskirts of Natick are no place for anything without giant claws or green skin.

[5.04] MILITARY CHECKPOINT (LAKE COCHITUATE)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- ARMOR PART: POWER ARMOR (LEVELED)

The remains of a military checkpoint still has a ghostly suit of Power Armor standing to attention. Check under one of the platforms for a (randomly appearing) trunk.

[5.05] THE MAUSOLEUM

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- FACTION: MIRELURKS

Under the freeway sits an old crypt, with a Mirelurk egg on the central dais. Perhaps no one (or nothing) will notice if you take it? Also check the open cargo container just south, by the freeway footing.

[5.06] FISHING CABIN

- HEALTH OR CHEMS

This rotting hut overlooks the fetid lake, with scraps of loot to gather.

[5.07] TWO CABINS AND AN outhouse

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- CRAFTING: COOKING STATION
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS

This is a small campsite just west of the remains of the freeway. The holidaymakers aren't the friendliest. Come for the trunk, as the views are slightly depressing.

[5.08] COLLAPSED BILLBOARD (GLOWING SEA)

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: MOLE RATS

A half-buried billboard and the skeletal remains of buildings serve as a landmark in this inhospitable area.

[5.09] BURIED MANSION

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: RADSCORPIONS
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

This is close to a half-sunk playground. Look for the roof sticking out of the rubble; it has a good number of chems to gather.

[5.10] RADIATION LAKE

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: BLOODBUGS
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS

Even by the inhospitable standards of this region, this Bloodbug-infested pool of irradiated slime isn't a place to venture to willingly.

[5.11] MILITARY PILLBOX (SOMERVILLE)

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- FACTION: ROBOTS

A docile sentry bot turns hostile if you attempt to raid the pillbox of its wooden box and trunk. The door inside is locked (Advanced).

Everything is in place for the repainting of a long-forgotten statue—that is, until you arrive. Check the cabin to the northeast for a trunk.

[5.13] DERELICT BUS

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: TRUNK
- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: FERAL GHOULS

A bus of commuters is stuck in the mire here, with its passengers milling about nearby. Check inside for a steamer trunk.

[5.14] BURIED HOUSE

- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

If you're in danger of succumbing to the elements, head here and search out this ruined house for chems.

[5.15] BUCKLED FREEWAY

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- BOTTLECAPS
- DANGER: RADIATION (SEVERE)!
- FACTION: DEATHCLAWS

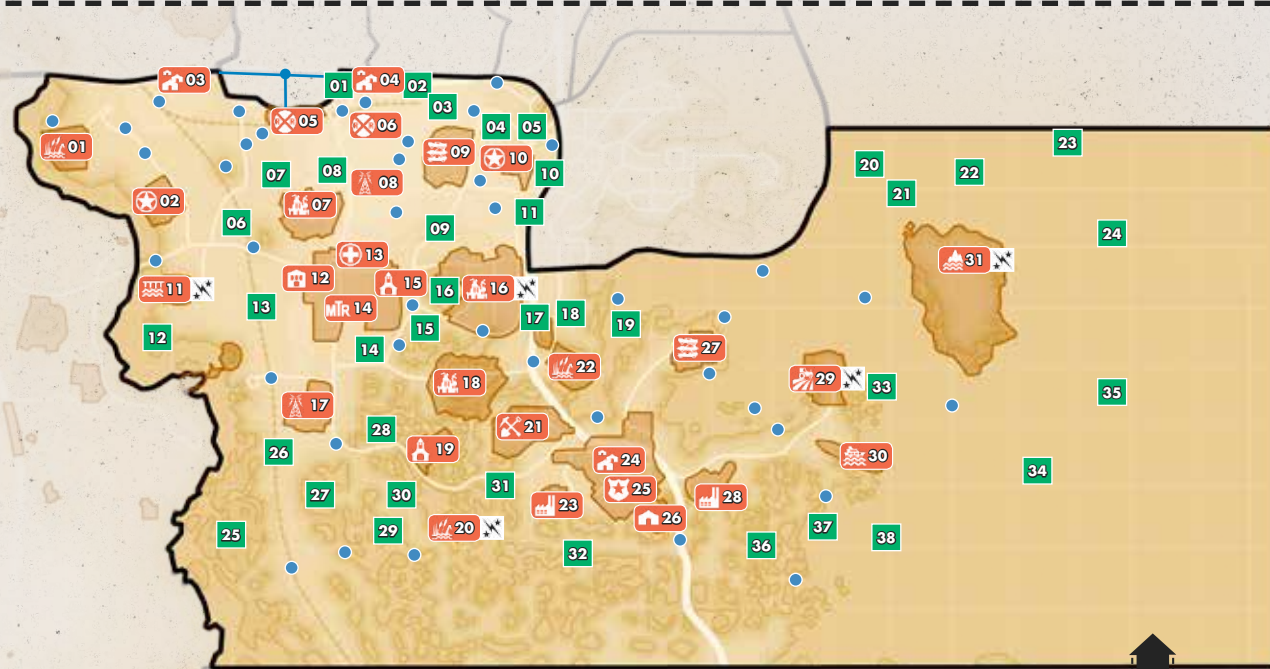

Close to the prowling Deathclaws is a section of buckled freeway where a container truck has spilled out its contents—a number of safes, both empty and full.

EXPECTED LEVEL OF ENEMIES ENCOUNTERED

Anywhere south of the Greater Boston Neighborhoods that isn't glowing with radiation can be considered the Southern Commonwealth. Head southwest to follow the river to the treacherous marshlands and across to the Glowing Sea. It's a straight shot south to both West Roxbury and Jamaica Plain—two townships with their fair share of secrets. Journey southeast into Quincy, which, like much of this zone, is under Gunner control. Only those impressively grizzled enough to have eked out an existence for months should venture to the most dangerous places of all—the coastal area past Quincy and the strange ruins of Spectacle Island, perhaps the most idyllic place for a settlement . . . if the locals can be convinced.

QUINCY AND SOUTHERN COMMONWEALTH

The Coast Guard station along the Charles River had intercepted a shipment of smuggled chems. Now it is overrun by Super Mutants. The outside trailer (Advanced) allows access to an armor workbench and first aid. Another of Eddie Winter's Holotapes is on top of the main floor safe (Advanced). The upstairs restroom (Novice) contains first aid. The downstairs cell (Expert) holds a magazine and can be more easily opened at the adjacent lockup terminal. The evidence room terminal (Expert) is a trickier hack, but the room itself houses a good amount of ammo and chems, as well as two more safes (Novice, Expert).

Exterior East: This is a small Raider camp primed with mines. There's ammo within the huts.

Interior: At the machinery chambers (south) by the skeleton are two Holotapes, one offering information and the other a password. Otherwise, prepare to be lightly irradiated and slathered upon by ferals. The interior links the west and east exits, as well as the Boston Police Rationing Site to the south.

Just south of the Fens neighborhood is a pair of community basketball courts and a railway unloading depot. Boston PD set up a rationing site here, and the trailer, numerous crates, and an old warehouse are still standing. The police terminal has a Holotape regarding lost goods inside the warehouse with the barred door.

Access the warehouse via the blue train carriage, and leap to the roof. Then jump across the crates to the north side roof awning and enter. Inside is a steamer trunk (Expert) and an army terminal you can use to activate a nearby Protectron. Unbar the door and press the button to open the main sliding door before entering the utility tunnel (aka Mass Pike Tunnel). This tunnel links to Primary Locations: Mass Pike Tunnel West and Mass Pike Tunnel East. Consult those locations for the interior map.

When the quest isn't active, the exterior door leads to a strongroom and is only accessible using Hancock's strongroom key (which isn't available). This is the alternate name of this location. As there's a security door directly inside, the only way you're getting in here is via an underground tunnel from Goodneighbor, during the quest. It's worth spending time ransacking the train cars full of loot, though! The unique weapon is awarded at the end of the quest, depending on who you side with.

The Miller family home by the road is in ruins, with corpses of Raiders strewn about. Upstairs is John Miller's terminal and his safe (Master). The hardware store offers a back room (Novice) and counter safe (Advanced). Stairs leading up to a makeshift lookout shack with a button moving two rusty vehicles allow access from the road.

The salvage yard has numerous rickety walkways and rusting vehicles to inspect, including a bus with a safe (Advanced). There's also some makeshift ramps up to a trailer with a trunk and magazine to pilfer. Climb up a fridge and drop into a long blue container to reach a shelter trapdoor. It is sealed; follow the black electrical wire to a circuit breaker on a generator by the lookout hut and activate it. The shelter has a key to open the safes, revealing evidence of what happened to the Millers.

[6.10] SOUTH BOSTON MILITARY CHECKPOINT

THREAT LEVELS 30+

Just west of South Boston Neighborhood, this was once a gathering place for military but is now an ambush spot for Gunners. There's a Fat Man inside the truck trailer, loot (including a magazine) inside the small bunker, and a wall safe (Master). Unlock the outside terminal (Expert) around the back to access a small secured area with Power Armor and a Mini Nuke.

An inlet off the Charles River houses a boat landing and a brick building making up a marina. The place is home to (and has been booby-trapped by) an old woman named Phyllis. It could prove to be a valuable settlement. Phyllis's terminal upstairs unlocks her safe. The warehouse is locked (Novice) at both doors but is accessible via the water.

1. CONFRONT PHYLLIS ABOUT SAMUEL'S DEATH

A strange and angry old woman pulls a gun on you. Either slay her or speak to her.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Ask about her situation.

Learn more about her sorrows from the terminal upstairs. Speak to her again: You can kill her, tell her to leave, go to Covenant, or stay (you can console or entice her, turn her into the Covenant (if you're friendly with them), the Institute, or the Railroad). You're then able to use her workshop.

Historically, this hospital survived on donations from local churches and city funds until the invention of automated surgery. There are two entrances to this confusing set of interior ruins (pause at the morgue for a refreshing Quantum). As long as you use each elevator once and don't fall through holes in the floor, you'll eventually reach the basement where the steamer trunk, or Shinjin if the quest is active, is located.

Some maniac with a penchant for carnage has set up a frightening series of death chambers in the abandoned parking structure between the hospital and department store. Try to enter via the hospital bridge (you need to access the hospital first or from the bridge to Fallon's), and you'll find your exit is barred. The only entrance is on the ground.

- LEVEL 1: HERE YOU'LL FIND RADROACHES AND SOME MAKESHIFT ROOMS WITH CAPS AND CRATES TO RANSACK. BURNING GAS BECKONS YOU TO SOLVE THE SIMPLE CELL DOOR PUZZLE (HIT BUTTON 1, THEN 3). CHECK THE RED DOOR FOR A TURRET AND FESTIVE DECORATIONS. CHECK THE ROOM OF MONKEYS FOR SOME HEALTH. EXIT VIA THE 18 BATHROOM SCALES; DEACTIVATE THEM ALL TO PREVENT A GRENADE EXPLOSION.
- LEVEL 2: WATCH FOR THE MISSILE LAUNCHER TRAP. KEEP TURNING LEFT TO REACH THE RAMP TO LEVEL 3. INVESTIGATE THE REST OF THIS LEVEL TO REACH SOME HEALTH ABOVE THE LOWER RAMP YOU JUST CAME FROM. THERE'S ALSO A SMALL ALCOVE WHERE SOME SETTLERS CAN BE FOUND (THEY AREN'T IN THE BEST HEALTH).
- LEVEL 3: A LARGE-SCALE FERAL GHOUL AMBUSH CAN BE THWARTED SLIGHTLY BY PLACING TRAPS OR REMAINING AT THE RAMP INSTEAD OF RUNNING BLINDLY AROUND THIS LEVEL. ONCE THE FERALS ARE FINISHED, PROCEED TO THE NEXT RAMP.
- LEVEL 4: BEWARE OF BATHROOM SCALES AND TRIPWIRES CONNECTED TO TESLA ARCS THROUGHOUT THIS AREA. THE BARRED DOOR LEADS TO FALLON'S DEPARTMENT STORE. BUT YOU'RE HERE TO PICK FROM DOORS #1, #2, AND #3:

- DOORS #1 AND #3: YOU MIGHT WANT TO SIDESTEP THESE AS SOON AS YOU OPEN THEM.
- DOOR #2: LEADS TO MORE ROOMS AND TRIPWIRES WITH MAKESHIFT BOMBS. CHECK THE SLEEPING QUARTERS FOR A MAGAZINE AND A WEAPONS WORKBENCH. THERE ARE TWO CELLS WITH A VARIETY OF EXCELLENT PRIZES! BUT YOU CAN ONLY PICK ONE, AS A FLAMETHROWER TRAP INCINERATES THE OTHER BEFORE THE CELL DOOR OPENS!

- THE LEFT CELL: A STEAMER TRUNK, MINI NUKE, A COMBAT ARMOR HELMET, AND FOUR FUSION CORES.
- THE RIGHT CELL: A STEAMER TRUNK AND A LARGE AMOUNT OF CHEMS.

Simply head to the ramp up to the roof from here to access Fallon's, the hospital, or a jump down to the ground and freedom.

Ask any Scavenger and they'll tell you, Jamaica Plain is known for both its inhospitable locals and the fabled treasures that lie somewhere inside this Feral Ghoul-infested town. Rumor has it that just before the bombs fell, the neighborhood's inhabitants sealed a vast wealth in a secure chamber somewhere near here. The aforementioned Ghouls have kept any treasure hunters at bay. Until now!

[03] Jamaica Plain Duplex

A cluster of Feral Ghouls can be tricky to overcome in the confines of this ruined duplex. Upstairs you'll see Ken and Tanya Standish. They are carrying a Jamaica Plain Flyer. Tanya has a torn journal page. Ken has the Jamaica Plain Archives Key along with an invitation. There's also ammo loot to pocket here, too.

Carl Everett is taking a rest at the traffic lights here. He's happy to part with the Jamaica Plain Town Hall Key and has a Holotape (Carl's Log) to read through.

[05] Hardware Store

Two police Protectrons are housed in the remains of this hardware store. There's a terminal here to hack (Novice).

[06] Jamaica Plain Church

Access this location via the rectory roof. Climb to the steeple, which holds some ammo. This is a good spot to snipe. Then descend into the church. The upper floor has some ammo and chems. Resting on a pew is a man named Luke Silverhand. There's a flyer and note pertinent to the location quest on his person. There's also the mayor's ID, which is critical to the task. Unchain the door to leave, but not before you pocket the Caps stash by Luke's pew.

[07] Church Rectory

Open either door and watch for the gas leak in the kitchen. There's a light smattering of items and access to the open roof. This is the only way to reach the adjacent church.

[08] Ruined House (South)

Check the mirror in the upstairs, open-air bathroom of this ruined home.

[10] Jamaica Plain Town Hall

Although there's no roof, the town hall still holds many secrets. Open the doors and secure the area. Inspect a wall safe (Expert) and terminal (Expert). Then access the blue metal door (or simply move around the hole in the wall), and descend to the basement door, unlocking it using the Town Hall Key you found when you met Carl or by lockpicking (Advanced).

Head through the holes in the bathroom walls and climb to the upper floor (without a roof). Here you'll find Sal, who has the Jamaica Plain Mayor's Password and a Holotape. Take that and any contents from the steamer trunk.

FIG 6.16B: JAMAICA PLAIN TOWN HALL BASEMENT (INTERIOR)

[09] Jamaica Plain Workshop

A modest and intact home next to a ruined garage hides a Power Armor station and workshop, allowing you to use this as a Minutemen settlement once all threats are removed.

The method for clearing this area is detailed in the Miscellaneous quest:

Miscellaneous (Treasures of Jamaica Plain)

1. FIND THE TREASURES OF JAMAICA PLAIN

During your exploration, you may stumble upon a flyer, spot a billboard poster, or interact with some ne'er-do-wells that reveal the location of Jamaica Plain and the supposed treasures hidden there.

Explore Jamaica Plain and find Carl Everett, Luke Silverhand, and both Ken and Tanya Standish. Gather the various keys and passwords they possess. Then visit the town hall and find Sal upstairs. Sal won't mind if you borrow the mayor's password.

Enter the town hall basement. In the meeting hall, you can:

- PLAN A: UNLOCK THE ARCHIVES ROOM USING A KEY OR BOBBY PINS (MASTER). WANDER THROUGH THE HOLE IN THE WALL AND ENTER THE INNER SECURITY ROOM.
- PLAN B: MOVE INTO THE SECURITY ROOM, AND IGNORE THE JANITOR'S ID PASSWORD ON THE CONSOLE. INSTEAD, SWIPE THE MAYOR'S ID TO DEACTIVATE THE TRIPWIRE FIELD AND TURRETS. THE SECURITY DOOR UNLOCKS, ALLOWING YOU TO ENTER THE INNER SECURITY ROOM.

Then activate the Treasures Access Terminal (Novice) using the Mayor's Password to open the fabled treasure room. Of course, you can force your way past most of these security systems, but be prepared for a fight.

This was once the headquarters of the Galaxy News Network, delivering pro-government televised newsreels. Since the bombs dropped, the station has changed hands and is now the main base of a gang of ruthless mercenaries known as the Gunners. Their insignia (the “targeted skull”) is daubed on their defenses. You can use a side fire escape or mount a charge from the north to reach the roof (and Fusion Core). The two main doors to the ground floor rotunda are on the sides of the structure.

Inside, the Gunner Cruz (roaming the top floor) has the GNN Recording Room Key and a Holotape. Or, you can obtain the same key from Ryder in the basement, along with a key for the safe (Master) in the basement.

In the basement (accessed via the elevator), expect further Gunner confrontations. After making a sweep, use the elevator to return to the main floor (Optimal Path waypoint #5), head into the recording room (waypoint #6) where Captain Wes is stationed. He has a safe key on his person, which opens a safe (Master) with his holotape in it. Don't forget the Bobblehead on the recording room's main desk.

Due to some controversial zoning, the freeway was run right over the main street, near the buildings of this once-picturesque and historical settlement. John Adams, John Quincy Adams, and John Hancock were all born here. Currently, Gunners have taken over the Quincy ruins and a section of freeway that runs through the town. This was once a Minutemen stronghold until the arrival of the Gunners and a defection of one of the Minutemen's own.

[01] Beachside Warehouse

A small band of unpleasant Scavengers have made their home here.

[02] Big Rig Rooftop

Head upstairs to gather some chems.

[03] Quincy Station

The northwest entrance has a turret and barricades to worry about. Enter the train car, and disarm the tripwires to prevent a missile to the face.

[04] Quincy Cemetery

Settlers have planted gourds here, which the Gunners are ignoring in favor of using the walled area as defenses. There's ammo at the rickety watchtower to the west.

[05] Sturges' Church

The church where Sturges did some tinkering is here. Read about him at his terminal once the Gunner threats are met. There's a cooking station, weapons workbench, and Power Armor station inside here. Check a small wooden crate for the Fusion Core. There's health at the stairs and a safe (Expert) on the upper level. Climb the steeple to reach a good sniping spot for the Gunner camp at the freeway, or cross the rooftops for a closer inspection.

Active in this area is the Gunner named Baker. He usually carries a Fat Man, as well as Tessa's Holo tape. There's direct access to the freeway from here, or a jump to location #07.

[06] Diner and Gun Shop

Mama Murphy's Diner is seemingly picked clean, but climb the stairs and access the door onto the narrow balcony to claim her stash of chems (below the "Apartments" sign).

The gun shop has a few bits of ammo and weaponry, a weapons workbench, and a Caps stash under the counter. The wall terminal (Advanced) unlocks the floor safe. Open the barred door by dropping down the roof hole into the bathroom with the health and dead settler in it. Access location #07 from the ground or roof.

[07] Fenton's Food Stuffs and Abandoned Apartment

A small shack store selling questionable meat is in the main market area in front of a ruined apartment structure. The apartments have four floors, including the roof. Watch the turret.

[08] Gunners Freeway Stronghold

The main Gunner base overlooks Quincy and is therefore difficult to storm. Access is via one of the rickety bridges from the apartment building or church. Scavenge the area for a Nuka Cola Quantum and health, and use the collapsed freeway section to reach the top tier of the freeway.

When threats are abated, scrounge the camp for a Mini Nuke, ammo, a steam trunk, information from a Gunner terminal, and an issue of Guns and Bullets magazine. This is also where Clint is. He's wearing some impressive Power Armor and carries a unique laser rifle.

[09] Old Headquarters (Abandoned)

There's a terminal revealing the goings-on that led to the Minutemen fleeing Quincy. There's also ammo here. Access this once-stately building from the roof bridges or ground.

[10] Corpse Pile and Defenses

The main thoroughfare through Quincy has numerous obstacles, the most grotesque of which is a still-smoldering pile of bodies. At least the Gunners don't discriminate; there are dead Raiders and settlers here. To the southeast is a wall with a chained door to unlock.

[11] Marcie & Jun Long's Store

In the middle of the Gunner encampment at ground level, the pharmacy can be entered from the corpse pile. Inside, the establishment has been mostly picked clean. But the terminal has interesting information on Jun Long, one of Preston Garvey's Minutemen. There's an unlocked safe under the stairs, a chemistry station, a cooking stove and ammo upstairs, and roof access to more gangplanks.

[12] Quincy Liquor

The liquor store has a chemistry station and terminal, but little else. There's no roof access, and the alley door as part of the Gunner stronghold is locked (Advanced). Access this roof via locations #09 or #11.

[13] Rooftops and Courtyard

Accessed from the police station, the rooftops to the northeast, or the fire escape in the courtyard, the rickety bridges allow you to crisscross above the streets. There's some health and chems up here.

[14] Parking Lot

Watch for tripwires between here and the police station. Aside from a Radscorpion and a rusty Vault-Tec truck with a trunk in the back, the place has been picked clean. You can leap to the lot roof and across to the corner roof of the Super Duper Mart if you're fighting foes below.

This Poseidon Energy corporation power plant uses natural gas and solar energy. Currently, a gang of raiders have set up defenses against the robot security active at this location, as well as encroaching mirelurks.

Currently, Raiders have set up here and fortified a safe zone in the upper floors of the power plant. Turrets and traps defend against the robots on the ground floor.

Both the ground-level entrance and the rooftop door access via the gantry are difficult to open (Master), and the adjacent terminal doesn't access it. Instead, try swimming up through an outflow pipe to the southeast.

Fancy being drenched by radioactive water as you swim and climb through a Mirelurk lair? Then you've come to the right place. Remember you must submerge and wade through underwater rooms to gain progress.

Cutty is carrying a most impressive minigun and is wearing Power Armor. His Poseidon Energy Key opens the ground and roof exits. Don't leave his metal hut chamber in the middle of the catwalks without claiming a limited-edition Vault-Tec Bobblehead and some light reading.

Once home to an eccentric millionaire who dreamed of creating his own private island paradise. His old mansion on the northwest shore has been abandoned for decades. Check the ground floor for an unexploded Mini Nuke. The rusting green boat to the south has a Fat Man inside, a Bobblehead, and a circuit breaker to power the signal cabin (though powering up the generator causes some interest from the local wildlife). The signal cabin circuit breaker sends out a frequency that scares off Mirelurks and allows the workshop to be accessed. The ruined shack to the northeast has a safe (Advanced). By far the largest of the Neighborhoods, and usually the first one travellers to Boston visit when heading in from Concord and Lexington, Cambridge is a sprawl of college structures and old homes (and even older feral inhabitants) from before the dawn of the 21st century. The closer to the Charles River you venture, the larger the structures, and the more dominated by raider gangs this zone becomes. The strangely silent C.I.T. Ruins still stand as a monument to past scientific discoveries, but the Institute scientists themselves are deep underground. For the sightseer, there's the impressively radioactive Cambridge Crater and its local feral population (don't forget to pack protective gear!), and taller structures like the landmark Greenetech Genetics tower. Venture eastwards to the freeway segmenting Cambridge and Charlestown, and you'll discover a sizable Super Mutant camp in a half-finished high-rise, as well as a secret Railroad safehouse.

[7.03] COLLEGIATE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

THREAT LEVELS 6-14

This ancient structure was used for admitting students to a nearby place of learning. Now it is deserted and crumbling. Inside is a compact, three-floor structure. Locate the locked tool case atop the mezzanine (Novice), with a hole nearby allowing you to drop into the reception area. You can also visit the men's restroom, which now features an open-air feel. The third floor allows access to the ruins of the roof. Use this as a base of operations when scavenging the surrounding buildings.

This location once served wounded veterans, helping with their recovery. Now it is a place of bloody despair: Choose either the front or rear entrance, depending on your predisposition to stealth combat. This two-floor mansion has a central pit where a new congregation gathers, led by the blind Dead Eye and his Super Mutant brethren. You can cut him off from flipping on an alarm, use the microphone and deliver part of a pre-war speech, and collect a magazine and copious ammunition in the process.

Those expecting a plentiful supply of stimpaks from this hospital location are in for disappointment. Despite this being used as a hiding point for the Railroad faction, Raiders discovered them, butchered everybody, and are either burning the corpses or throwing them down into a central pit to be consumed by a ravenous beast below. After discovering the bonfire camp, you'll move up and down this mainly vertical location.

This laboratory was a research facility looking into the development of Smart Materials to convert radiation. It appears to have suffered a catastrophic failure after the bombs fell.

Perhaps you heard the radio advertising new and exciting opportunities in this field of research?

As you enter, a robot asks whether you're interested in becoming a researcher. Accept the position after a talk, if you wish. Take the orientation or ignore it. Enter the clean room, after which you're sealed inside. You're forced to complete either of the following objectives. Beware of Feral Ghouls.

Cambridge Polymer Labs (Miscellaneous)

1. COMPLETE THE RESEARCH PROJECT
2. (OPTIONAL) FIND ANOTHER WAY TO ESCAPE THE LABORATORY

Read messages on every terminal you come across. Progress through the labs, and locate the six unidentified samples. Return and place them (two at a time) on the Polymer Coating Applicator (terminal) to identify them:

- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 11317: HYDROCHLORIC ACID
- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 3111: LITHIUM HYDRIDE
- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 413: GALLIUM
- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 65: TUNGSTEN
- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 49: COBALT
- UNIDENTIFIED SAMPLE 611: GOLD

To reach lab C5, access the hole in the wall at the end of lab C4. To reach lab C3, hack the wall terminal (Expert), or climb up the ramp, go across the ceiling crawlspace, and drop down the third hole you find in the floor. There's also a Holotape with the password for the radioactive containment area in lab C3.

Return to lab C5, and access the Isotope Containment Terminal (Novice). Open the door to the Isotope Containment Chamber. Enter the chamber and gather Isotope U-238.

Return to the Polymer Coating Applicator in lab C2. Place the isotope into the sample container. Then place Lithium Hydride and Gold into the chemical reagent slots. You receive a unique piece of Power Armor from the fabrication window.

The optional objective is completed at Bergman's terminal (upper floor, lab C3).

Inform Molly of your success, or free yourself at Bergman's terminal, and you can leave. To access the director's room door (Master), find the key on Molly, or use extreme lockpicking competence.

If the Railroad quest is active, seek the information you require on Bergman's terminal, inside lab C3.

[7.09] C.I.T. RUINS

THREAT LEVELS 6-14

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

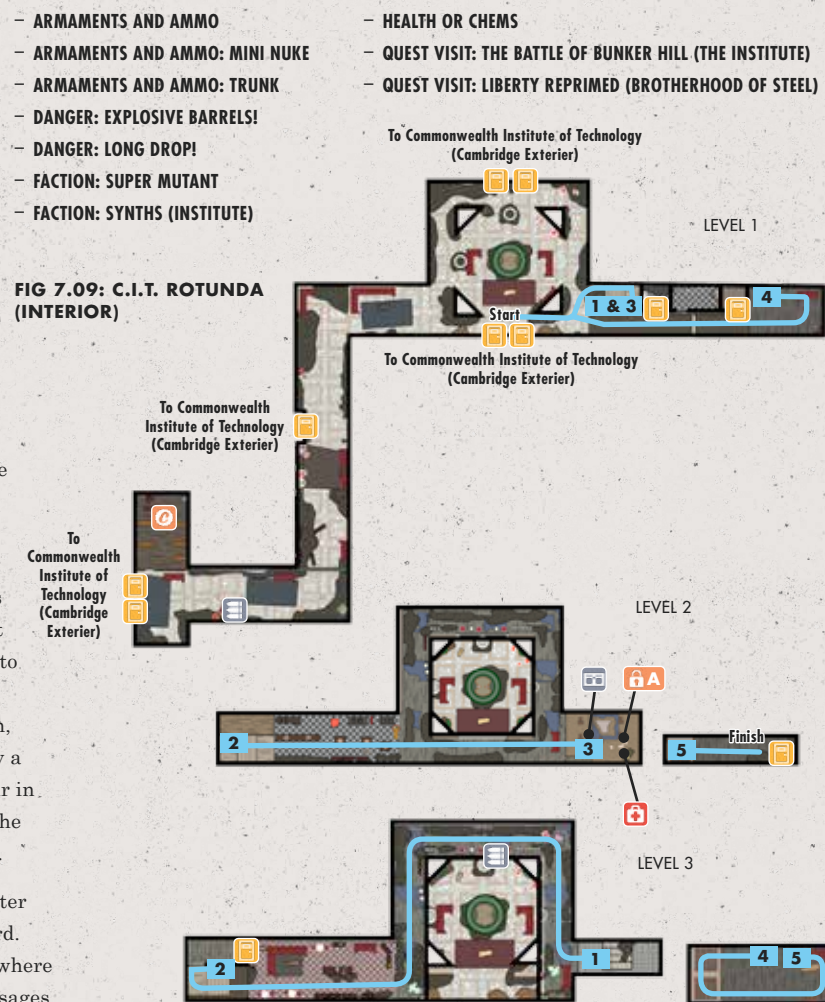

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: MINI NUKE

Perhaps the greatest fallacy about the Institute is where it's actually located. Some assume the organization is headquartered in the old Commonwealth Institute of Technology's central domed building—in Cambridge, on the north side of the Charles River. And why not? After all, at some point it had been fortified and was clearly meant to keep out intruders. And that's exactly what the Institute wants people to think. In truth, the above-ground Institute facility is merely a façade. A structure meant to both instill fear in the people of the Commonwealth and hide the true scope and depth of the actual Institute.

The perimeter has several doors you can enter and a small trailer in the southern courtyard. The southern courtyard has a central area where a large enough explosion could unearth passages into the Institute (if you're with the Brotherhood of Steel during the specified quests).

Inside, the structure has a central rotunda and two wings, along with Super Mutants battling synths. There are an abundance of exits on the ground floor, but the only stairwell that reaches the roof is on the eastern wing (close to the steamer trunk in the classroom). The roof views of Boston are impressive.

This location is not fully accessible unless the specified quest is active.

This vertical maze features the remains of the C.I.T.'s Greentech building, where genetic manipulation and other secret experiments were undertaken. Once inside, prepare for a battle between Gunners as synth. Your target is located at the top of this structure's interior. The Courser Chip is your quest item to locate.

If you access the door to Cambridge at the top of the structure (up the stairs with the trunk and Fat Man on it), you reach a precarious roof deck with no railings and some of the best views of Boston around. Just watch your footing!

Miscellaneous Quest (K1-98)

Once the quest at this location is over, speak with a trapped synth named K1-98. You can free her by hacking the terminal (Master) or by locating the passcode from the adjacent toolbox under the ruined staircase. She thanks you profusely. Perhaps you'll see her again at Ticonderoga Station? You can also execute or leave the three Gunner hostages.

West of Cambridge and north of the Charles River, Charlestown is the oldest of the Boston Neighborhoods, and the old wooden row houses reflect this past. Separated from Cambridge by the elevated freeway, this offers excellent exploration possibilities without feeling overwhelmed. It is primarily a Raider territory, with (sometimes hostile) Scavengers to the south and along the river. The neighborhood is dominated by two ancient monuments—Bunker Hill, which could be an exceptional settlement if your alliance with the locals is strong, and the U.S.S. Constitution, a prewar battleship that has been illegally moored for quite some time.

WASTELANDER'S FRIEND

This large granite monument was erected to commemorate the Battle of Bunker Hill, which was the first main confrontation with the British back in 1775 during the American Revolutionary War. Today it serves as a reasonably well-defended settlement. The Railroad currently uses it as a pickup point for escaped synths, who are met and hidden by a local sympathizer until a Railroad agent can take them to safety.

This location has a workshop and can be converted into a settlement, but only after the Faction Quest: The Battle of Bunker Hill has been completed.

[01] Entrance and Obelisk

This imposing landmark was erected between 1827 and 1843 using granite from quarries in Quincy.

[02] Kay the Doctor

The workshop for this settlement is here, along with Deb's sleeping area and Kay the veterinarian.

[03] Kessler's Shack

The leader of Bunker Hill sleeps here. Her terminal makes interesting reading.

[04] Brahmin Pen and Crops

A couple of Brahmin and a crop of corn.

[05] Savoldi's Rest Stop

Order drinks, catch up on gossip, and rent a room for the night. Old Man Stockton is here.

[06] Bunker Hill Market

Deb runs the market from her stall in the remains of an old lodge (she has several unique items to sell), and caravans are sometimes found here. A trapdoor leads to the utility basement, which is inaccessible unless the Institute Quest is active.

[07] The Latrines

The stench can sometimes be overpowering.

[08-10] Caravan Shacks

Mattresses for caravan guards and tinkers traveling here from parts both far and wide.

FIG 8.02B: UTILITY BASEMENT (INTERIOR)

This interior location is only accessible during the specified Institute Quest. Don't forget to grab the Mini Nuke as you work your way through the fracas!

Freeform Activities: Bunker Hill

Fallen Hero*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: FIND ANY TRACE OF BRENT SAVOLDI
2. MISCELLANEOUS: RETURN HAT TO JOE SAVOLDI

Get chatting with Joe Savoldi at his bar and ask for a job. Agree to help.

(Easy) Talk him into paying you more for your help.

Locate and drop into the Old Gullet Sinkhole. Locate the hat. Return it to Joe Savoldi for your reward.

- GRANDPA SAVOLDI'S HAT
- BOTTLECAPS (150-200)

Traffic Jam*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: CLEAR THE TRAINING YARD
2. MISCELLANEOUS: REPORT BACK TO DEB

Find Deb and ask her for a job. Agree to help remove the Feral Ghouls from the National Guard training yard to increase the flow of trade.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Ask for more Caps. Those Ghouls are filthy.

Head to the National Guard training yard. Beware of machine-gun turrets and Feral Ghouls. Kill all marked Ghouls until the quest updates. Return to Deb for your reward.

- BOTTLECAPS (175-225)

Prep School*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: RESCUE ANY CARAVAN SURVIVORS
2. MISCELLANEOUS: KILL ZELLER
3. MISCELLANEOUS: REPORT BACK TO KESSLER

This is only available once Freeform Activity: Traffic Jam* has been completed. Speak with Kessler and agree to wipe out the Raider Gang nearby.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) This might be tricky. Ask for more Caps.

Visit the East Boston Preparatory School. Beware of Raiders. Kill all foes and the named Raider "Zeller."

(Novice)* Unlock the three cells and free the prisoners. Speak to them so they follow you.

Return to Kessler for your reward.

- BOTTLECAPS (200-400)

Meg's Tour*

Meg is an urchin hanging around the obelisk and offers to take you on a tour of Bunker Hill for a price. Is that price worth paying?

This ancient maritime vessel was docked in the Boston Navy Yard and was primarily a tourist attraction. Before the war, it was populated by robots to give visitors a feel of what life was like back in the olden days. Due to an error in navigation, the ship is currently embedded in the remains of a harbor building, under constant threat of Scavenger and Raider attack. Access the interior of this vessel via a trapdoor in the hull that leads to the bow, through the building wreckage.

Once you navigate the interior, you can speak to Captain Ironsides and access the rowboat elevator on the vessel's stern, which is also stocked with health and ammo.

★ ZONE 09: NEIGHBORHOOD: THE FENS

This is perhaps the friendliest neighborhood in all of Boston. The giant green walled-off enclosure welcomes all travelers without ghoulish tendencies, and the threats to your life are manageable if you keep near the huge green walls. Venture farther afield and you may stray into danger: You'll run into Zone 3 if you keep heading west. Go up to Cambridge if you cross the Charles River, and journey east to Esplanade and Back Bay. South is Zone 6. Most of the outskirts of this neighborhood feature closed-off Raider camps, which have been decimated recently by the even-more carnage-hungry Super Mutants. But you're here for the trading, the questing, and the camaraderie offered here, in the great green jewel of the Commonwealth.

The entrance to the apartment building can be found close to Hardware City, under the "Apartments" sign.

The interior of Parkview Lounge is grotesque, with a gang of dead Raiders now strung up and gutted as Super Mutant decoration. The bar area has two exits outside. The one in the east wall allows you to climb scaffolding stairs to the roof.

The interior stairs allow access to a skylight area with a small office and wall safe (Expert) and another exit out to the Fens.

The upper exit from the Parkview Lounge allows access to a rooftop battle between Super Mutants and Raiders. Join in if you're game. Check the ruined office (northwest) for a steamer trunk. Take the bridge (south) to a separate rooftop with ammo and a vantage point overlooking Diamond City where you can place MILA if you're working on the specified quest.

Continue your rooftop excursion south, down a rusting fire escape to a blown-out building corner with chems and an armor workbench. Follow the rickety ledge around to a pair of Raiders guarding some ammo. But you're here to access the door leading into the apartment building (interior).

- FACTION: CHARACTER: SOLOMON
- HEALTH OR CHEMS+++
- QUEST START: MISCELLANEOUS (FREEFORM: BOTANY CLASS)
- QUEST VISIT: THE DISAPPEARING ACT (SIDE)
- SERVICES: TRADER (SOLOMON)

This is a popular establishment, thanks to the genial owner, Solomon. Selling a complete variety of chems and healing supplies, Solomon may have convinced the populace that the benefits of his wares outweigh the risks. Pick the lock of his house (Novice) for a few more chems to steal inside.

[14] Mega Surgery

- SERVICES: TRADER (DOCTOR SUN)

Despite the corrugated roof, this is a state-of-the-art medical facility offering healing, cybernetic grafts, and even facial reconstruction. Fancy a change in appearance? Sit down under Doctor Sun's scalpel! There are some other goings on here too; check the listed side quest before descending into the surgery cellar (Advanced).

[15] Choice Chops

- FACTION: CHARACTER: POLLY
- HEALTH OR CHEMS
- SERVICES: TRADER (POLLY)

Fresh Brahmin meat is available from the sullen butcher, Polly (who's a frustrated poet), or Mole Rat meat if you're feeling adventurous. You can break into Polly's house (Novice) if you want to hack her terminal (Novice).

[16] Greenhouse

Along the seedy back passage is a narrow alley leading to the neon signs of this small detective agency. Nick is initially indisposed, so chat to his secretary Ellie. Head here if you're unsure of how to proceed in your exploring.

[18] The Wall

- FACTION: CHARACTER: ABBOT
- QUEST START: PAINTING THE TOWN (FREEFORM)

The great green wall has protected Diamond City for as long as anyone can remember. Only Abbot spends time here keeping the stage from falling into disrepair, the Brahmins fed, and the wall painted.

[19] Abbot's House

- COLLECTIBLE: HOLOTAPE: JOIN THE RAILROAD

Across the Mutfruit field by the small lake is Abbot's shack (Novice). There's little to find inside, save for a Holotape.

- SERVICES: WORKSHOP

Head through any of the three entrances (including a roof trapdoor) to reach your own house, right on home plate! This must be purchased from Geneva as part of the quest. There's a place outside to park your Power Armor and a workshop to fill your home with furniture, decorations, and power (but not the full complement for a normal settlement and you can't summon workers here). This is a great Fast-Travel point and a place to store items you want to keep but can't carry. It comes fully stocked with ammo and health, too!

Side Quests: Freeform Activities: Diamond City

Diamond City's Most Wanted*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: CLEAR THE [ENEMIES] FROM THE [RANDOM LOCATION]

If you want a challenge, look for the "Wanted" poster on the wall in Diamond City, inside the security office and inside the entrance hall of the Dugout Inn (shown). If there's a note, read it.

It requires you to remove a tagged foe or foes from a random location.

In this example, it is a Super Mutant from inside the Wilson Atomatoys

Corporate HQ. The quest completes when you neutralize the foe.

Home Run!

Try running the bases, beginning at home plate near the entrance of Diamond City.

Painting the Town

1. SEARCH THE HARDWARE STORE FOR PAINT
2. RETURN TO ABBOT
3. APPLY PAINT TO THE WALL

Abbot in Diamond City wants you to find paint for the city's wall. There's a place called Hardware Town where you can start looking.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Fast-talk him to up his Caps amount for your troubles.

Enter Hardware Town. Beware of Raiders, especially the one named "Demo." Find the blue and yellow paint. You can:

Use the paint mixer to make green paint. Or not.

Back with Abbot, paint the wall in any of the three colors you wish. Green is what Abbot requests, however. You can also complete this quest by finding the paint before speaking to Abbot.

NEIGHBORHOOD: THE FENS

Brother Against Brother*

This is only available prior to locating Nick Valentine during Main Quest: Unlikely Valentine. You may see two Diamond City inhabitants with one brother (Kyle) pointing a gun at the other (Riley), claiming he's a synth! You can:

- SHOOT RILEY.
- OR WAIT UNTIL DIAMOND CITY SECURITY SHOOTS RILEY.

Afterward, speak to the remaining brother or the security guard if you wish.

Home Plate*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: VISIT YOUR HOME IN DIAMOND CITY

Visit Geneva in the mayor's office, and offer to purchase a residence in this location. Hand over 2,000 Caps, and you receive the following:

Find your residence—called Home Plate—next to the Chem-I-Care store. There is a workshop here, and you can place furniture, decorations, and power items.

New Hair, New Face*

Head to Cathy and John's Super Salon for a haircut to change your style.

Visit Doctor Sun and the Mega Surgery Center to change your face.

Botany Class*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: BRING A MUTATED FERN FLOWER TO SOLOMON

Talk to Solomon, the proprietor of the Chem-I-Care store. Ask for work. He requests you find a rare mutated fern.

Travel to Forest Grove Marsh. Locate the mutated fern flower. Beware of Feral Ghouls. Return to Solomon for the chem and Caps reward.

Pool Cleaning*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: CLEAN THE WATER SUPPLY (5)
2. MISCELLANEOUS: RETURN TO SHENG

Head to the reservoir and speak to Sheng Kowalski. Agree to help.

Gather the detritus from the murky waters. Return to Sheng for your reward.

Fly Fishing*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: BRING A BLOATFLY GLAND TO DOCTOR DUFF

Head to the Science! Center, and listen to Doctor Duff's remarks. Offer to go on the field trip.

Defeat a Bloatfly anywhere. In this example, one was defeated at the Boston Police rationing site. Return to Duff and claim your reward.

Out in Left Field

1. FIND A SIGNED BASEBALL
2. FIND A SIGNED CATCHER'S MITT
3. FIND A SIGNED BASEBALL CARD
4. RETURN TO MOE CRONIN

Moe Cronin in Diamond City wants you to find three baseball relics said to have been left behind in the old Westing Estate. Offer to find them.

Enter the remains of the Westing Estate. Beware of Mirelurks. Find the three relics in a safe (Novice), toolbox, and chem cooler.

Return to Moe and accept your reward.

World Series Win*

Visit Jamaica Plain. Beware of Feral Ghouls. Enter the Jamaica Plain Town Hall Basement. Complete Location Quest: Treasures of Jamaica Plain (see page 380). Obtain the following from the treasure room:

Return to Diamond City. Speak to Moe Cronin at Swatters, and tell him you have a 2076 World Series Bat. Sell it to him.

Story of the Century

1. GO TO PIPER'S OFFICE
2. TALK TO PIPER
3. GET THE LATEST ISSUE OF PUBLIC OCCURRENCES

Locate Piper after you enter Diamond City for the first time. Go to Publick Occurrences and talk to Piper when she's there (check inside). Agree to the interview. Answer the three questions as you wish. When you next return to Diamond City, talk to Nat for the latest edition with your interview in it. The article differs depending on your answers.

Nuka-Cola Needs*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: GIVE SHEFFIELD A NUKA-COLA

Locate Sheffield the downtrodden. Hand him a Nuka-Cola. Then optionally tell him to join any of your settlements.

SETTLER: SHEFFIELD

Wedding Day*

Visit the Diamond City schoolhouse. Talk to Miss Edna. When she asks you about love, tell her "love conquers all."

Leave Diamond City and return. The next time you visit, Miss Edna and Mister Zwicky are being married in front of the chapel.

In Sheep's Clothing

1. CONFRONT MAYOR MCDONOUGH 2. (OPTIONAL) SAVE DANNY SULLIVAN

This quest is only accessible once the Institute reactor is online (during the Main Quest), and you must have sided with a faction other than the Institute (you should have been kicked out). Keep visiting Diamond City until you see Danny Sullivan, badly wounded by the sign for the mayor's office. You can:

- SPEAK TO DANNY AND OFFER HIM A STIMPAK.
- (CURIE) ASK CURIE TO ADMINISTER HELP.
- LOCATE DOC CROCKER OR DOCTOR SUN TO HELP.
- TELL DANNY HE'S BETTER OFF DEAD.
- OR IGNORE HIM. HE DIES IF YOU RESOLVE THE CRISIS WITH THE MAYOR

Take the elevator up to the reception office. Piper is there, but the door is locked. You can:

- (NOVICE) PICK THE LOCK
- OR USE THE BUTTON UNDER THE DESK TO OPEN THE DOOR.

Once inside, confront the mayor. You can:

(Medium) Demand he releases Geneva.

- ATTACK AND KILL HIM.
- ACCEPT HIS TERMS AND HE WALKS FREE.

The quest concludes. The next time you're in Diamond City, pick up a copy of Publick Occurrences for news of how this all went down.

Holidays*

For some festive spirit, be sure to visit Diamond City on Halloween (10/31) and Christmas (12/25). The dates are available on your Pip-Boy (easily seen when you are waiting).

Diamond City: End Game

Once you complete the Main Quest, you start to see a couple members from the faction you aligned with; they appear in Diamond City.

In this example, it is a Brotherhood of Steel Knight. Expect different greetings from residents, and a Publick Occurrence based on the victorious faction (Brotherhood of Steel, the Institute, the Minutemen, or the Railroad).

FIG 10.01B: HARDWARE TOWN (INTERIOR)

This was once the most popular hardware store in town, but Raiders are active to the rear of the premises. They lure those of a more inquisitive (or idiotic) disposition into investigating the location, before slaying them and dumping their corpses.

There are three entrances. The main front entrance has a settler pleading for help; she disappears inside before you can speak with her. A basement entrance to the side allows stealthier explorers to enter. The rear entrance is close to a Power Armor station. You can also leap onto the roof from the small chem hideout to the north (accessed via scaffold steps).

Technically part of the Back Bay Neighborhood, the Charles River Esplanade is comprised of the remains of a park, some waterfront mansions still exhibiting the faded grandeur of times gone by, and one of the main thoroughfares of Boston—Commonwealth Avenue. Currently, Raiders and Gunners are vying for control of this zone, though there are reports of strange smells (stranger than normal) emanating from the HalluciGen, Inc., building on the east side, close to Boston Common. If you fancy a stroll along the Charles River, you might want to pop in and say hello to the folks who've made the amphitheater their home; they're always looking for new recruits to join their secret society.

FIG 10.02B: HALLUCIGEN, INC. (INTERIOR)

The reception room is ankle-deep in strange green gas. Read the “Help Wanted” note by the terminal for some interesting information. Gunners encountered here are fighting themselves as well as you.

Inside the research lab (north, L2) near the Tesla Science magazine, you can activate a suppressor prototype that paralyzes enemies it hits.

Drugged water is also available and is unique to this location. Inside the locked office (Advanced) is a Gunner.

(Easy) Tell her to get out of here, that you’re a friend or (hard) threaten her.

After breaching the lower-level pens, head up to the observation room and optionally press the buttons to start some “product demonstrations.”

Continue through this maze until you reach the staircase down to the basement. Take the damage while running through, use Power Armor or a hazmat suit to breach the decontamination area, or use the terminal (Advanced) to dispel the gas, or pick the locked door (Expert) to reach the lab. The laboratory has a Gunner Commander with a key, mission brief, and note (the key unlocks the side entrance door). Gather HalluciGen Gas Canisters, which you can craft into unique HalluciGen Gas Grenades at any Chemistry Station-- but be warned, there’s a limited supply of canisters. Back Bay was once known for its numerous brownstones of architectural significance. It is now dominated by the Trinity Tower skyscraper, an immense building constructed close to the old church and public library. Now the streets and alleys are home to roving bands of Raiders, ferals, and packs of wild dogs. The tower still stands, which is more than can be said for another skyscraper, which has half toppled into the Dartmouth Professional Building. Keep going south to reach a Raider tenement block stronghold of Layton Towers. Super Mutants have a powerful grip on this part of the city, too, decorating the Wilson Atomatoys Corporate HQ and Trinity Tower with meat bags and bloody spikes.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

BOBBLEHEAD: INTELLIGENCE
REQUIRED READING:
MASSACHUSETTS SURGICAL JOURNAL

This was the largest repository of historical documentation in the Commonwealth and a well-visited location before the bombs dropped. Decades of neglect, water damage, looting, and vandalism ruined all the books stored here. The building still has a grandeur and is accessed either by a side entrance (Advanced) or by a subterranean entrance at Copley Station, under the main building. Super Mutants roam these halls now.

The interior of Copley Station is a Super Mutant lair, with two traders already mauled in the north end of the subway car. There's another entrance into Boston Public Library here (Advanced).

The main library interior has only one magazine of required reading, but a lot of required bleeding on behalf of the Super Mutants you should be culling. Watch for Protectrons too; they are hostile if you break in, but if you use the intercom near every door into the library, and pass a speech challenge, you can get permission and have them allied to you. Be sure to investigate the west hall; the library storage room key is on the desk in the west hall (north end). It opens the door (Master) off the server room to the northwest. Don't leave without the Bobblehead!

Certain municipal buildings (like this library and police station) have book return terminals where overdue books you can scavenge can be dropped off in return for tickets. The book return terminals offer tokens as well as some plastic prizes (and toothpaste or gum) you can decorate your abodes (or mouth) with.

The church has two entrances—the main doors and a hatch to the rear (east). Don't forget the magazine from the pulpit. The area is easy to spot from a distance; it is adjacent to the massive Trinity Tower.

Be sure to thoroughly inspect the store for collectibles! Look for the storeroom key in one of the cash registers and the office key in the desk upstairs. Don't forget GrognaK's Axe in the display case, his costume by the exit ladder to the roof, and the Silver Shroud photo and costume (the latter of which is necessary for the specified quest). There's a prop gun hidden behind the stage backdrop, and one locked room even has an unreleased script!

The tallest building in Boston, this towering office skyscraper with a fancy plaza at ground level now features the "offal and splattering" aesthetic the Super Mutants are so keen on showcasing. You may have been summoned here by Trinity Tower Radio as part of the specified quest. The only way up into the structure is taking the mezzanine elevator to the mid-level. After scaling the interior, you appear on the final five floors leading to the roof. It's a very long way down, so watch your step. It is recommended to take in the sights via a window-washer elevator that takes you from the roof down to the plaza.

The Trinity Tower Cell Key is in the steamer trunk on the roof. Don't forget the Bobblehead and the Macbeth script inside the cell.

Before the war, this was the headquarters of the Wilson Atomatoys Corporation, maker of the well-known Giddyup Buttercup horse. Only the senior officials at the company, including the lead designer Arlen Glass, were based here. The building lay abandoned for years until a gang of Super Mutants stormed it, using it as a base for raiding the surrounding area.

Up on the first floor, swipe the Wilson Atomatoys ID card from the secretary's desk in the northwest office, near the locked storage door (Novice). Don't miss the key by the security terminal in the small office northeast of the ruined entrance foyer.

On the upper floor, use lockpicking or the key to access the small, pristine development lab. Read the office terminal to receive a passcode that will allow access to the lab door without hacking the wall terminal (Master). The second lab terminal (Advanced, or use the password) has Marlene's Holotape and opens the safe (Master).

There's also a warning note by the president's terminal (which opens the wall safe [Advanced]), next to the steamer trunk. The desk has a key, too.

The roof offers more combat, some ammo, and a quick escape.

Miscellaneous Quest (Arlen Glass)

Arlen Glass, a Ghoul at Primary Location: The Slog, sends you to find some toy parts at the old Atomatoys Factory. If you persuade him to give you his old ID Card, or you complete this misc objective and get the ID Card from the Factory, you can use it to open a door in the basement here, allowing you to bypass many of the Super Mutants waiting to ambush you.

Miscellaneous Quest (Marlene's Holotape)

If you manage to find Marlene's Holotape here (inside the development lab terminal [Advanced]), return it to Arlen at the Slog. After an emotional moment, you're awarded with around 350 Caps, and a unique item—a Toy Buttercup horse.

South of the river from Charleston, this historic neighborhood of row houses, gas lights, and cobblestone alleys was once a pleasant place to live. Beacon Hill was the gateway to the Financial District but is now a far less desirable place, where bands of Raiders jostle for control and many structures have been decimated. You can scale the rooftops, pick through the rubble, and stop at Vault-Tec's Regional Headquarters (which may be closed, given the current circumstances). One area that still seems untouched by the ravages of war and time is the mysterious Cabot House, at the north end of this neighborhood.

This 1711 mansion is sealed up tighter than a T-60 Power Armor vacuum attachment: It is strangely preserved amid the general decay. Located on Louisburg Square, the park is still well maintained. The intercom at the front door allows you to ask to gain entry.

(Easy, Medium) Though this isn't easy.

The door usually requires a key, given to you by a Ghoul named Edward Deegan at the start of the specified quest.

Explore the house, being mindful that this isn't your property. However, the magazine, gamma gun, Fat Man, and a plentiful supply of purified water in the pantry might galvanize you into pilfering some. Emogene's terminal (Master) on the upper floor offers surprising insights into the family.

This residential neighborhood once boasted continuous residential inhabitants since 1630. A prolific serial killer stalks the alleys of North End and has recently been cornered in his lair by his prey of choice: Raiders. The rotting hulk of a row house Pickman calls home was chosen for its access to ancient subterranean smuggler tunnels beneath North End. He displays pictures of his victims on the walls.

Inside the dwelling, his blood-splattered daubing and corpse sculptures show the type of lunatic Pickman is. He has left a message to Jack in the front room and Pickman's Calling Card on many corpses. Fight your way to the end of the smuggler's sewer.

Quest: Pickman's Gift

1. RECEIVE PICKMAN'S GIFT

You can choose to save or kill Pickman in the chamber where Slab the Raider has caught up with him. Either way, there's a key to find, which opens a hidden safe back in the first room of his row house, behind the picture named "Picnic for Stanley."

- UNIQUE ITEM: RAILWAY RIFLE

Built in 1723, the Old North Church is the oldest standing church in Boston. Its 191-foot-tall steeple also makes it the tallest church in Boston. On the night of April 18, 1775, Lieutenant Colonel Smith marched with 700 British soldiers to Concord on a mission to disarm the rebels. Using a plan devised by Paul Revere, Robert Newman climbed to the top of this church and lit two lanterns to alert patriots that the Redcoats were coming up the Charles River. This inspired Longfellow's famous verse "One if by land, two if by sea." The battles of Lexington and Concord that followed would start the American Revolution.

Inside, fight off the Feral Ghouls. Access the Old North Church steeple from inside the structure. This allows you to collect some Caps and a sniper rifle and to look out across North End. Descend into the crypt. To solve the Railroad Trail Ring lock, spin it either clockwise or counterclockwise to spell out the word "RAILROAD." Head through the secret opening.

The Railroad Headquarters is the base of operations for this faction. It contains their senior members (two of whom offer excellent trading opportunities). There's a wall showing the "code" the Railroad uses for marking stashes and areas they've investigated. Be sure to utilize the escape tunnel, which allows quicker access to and from this location in the future. It brings you out by the river, northwest of the Old North Church.

- QUEST VISIT: THE GILDED GRASSHOPPER (SIDE)
- UNIQUE ITEM: SHEM DROWNE'S SWORD

Be sure to inspect the ancient gravestone in the northwest corner of this old, prewar graveyard, inhabited by North End's former residents.

[13.03] RAILROAD HQ ESCAPE TUNNEL EXIT

- FACTION: RAILROAD
- FACTION: RAIDERS

Once you visit the Old North Church and wish to visit the Railroad faction, exit via this location (to unlock the chained door), and then return to this dilapidated warehouse and head back via the escape tunnel.

[13.04] RAIDER COURTYARD (NORTH END)

- BOTTLECAPS
- FACTION: RAIDERS

With views of the U.S.S. Constitution to the north, this dockside courtyard is now part of the Raider territory extending into Pickman's Gallery to the south. Mooch around here to find a Caps stash between the large shipping containers. There's a ruined white brick building to the northeast with minimal loot and a rusting fire escape on the west side that allows roof access to this block.

[13.05] HOT PIZZA PIE SHOP

- FACTION: RAIDERS

This wharfside pizza diner has more Raiders milling about. The roof terrace is inaccessible (unless you're using a jetpack). There's little here to entice a looter.

- FACTION: ROBOTS
- QUEST VISIT: WEATHERVANE (RAILROAD)

Look up at the freeway towering above this district to see the remains of the skytram. The cockpit has a trunk to ransack. However, you must access the skytram from the Garden Terrace, over in the Financial District.

[13.10] MEAN PASTRIES

Once offering the best baked goods in town, this shop now offers a floor safe to pick (Expert) and an emaciated cat. Enter using either the north or south entrances.

[13.11] PICKMAN'S EXIT

- QUEST VISIT: PICKMAN'S GIFT (MISCELLANEOUS)

An exit hatch links this narrow and ruined apartment to Pickman's Gallery to the north. The hatch requires a key to open, which is only available during the quest.

[13.12] BOXING GYM

- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO
- HEALTH OR CHEMS

You're probably getting enough exercise, so use this place to scavenge for ammo and chems. There's a footlocker (Novice) and safe (Advanced) to unlock, and the smell of sweat still lingers.

[13.13] SCAFFOLD STAIRS (NORTH END)

Just northwest of Old North Church, this allows access to the rooftops west and north of here. Head there if you need to escape foes on the ground, too.

The subway station in this neighborhood has a small interior to search. Aside from the two cool customers facing a small (bloody) cage, there's chems and Caps behind the counter.

[13.17] PAUL REVERE'S HOUSE

- FACTION: SUPER MUTANTS
- QUEST VISIT: ROAD TO FREEDOM (RAILROAD)

Built in 1680, this wooden building is the oldest structure in all of Boston. In 1770 this home was bought by famed patriot Paul Revere. He dwelled here with his family (including his 16 children) until 1800. Paul Revere was living here when he made his famous midnight ride to Lexington and Concord to warn Samuel Adams and John Hancock that Redcoats were en route to arrest them and seize the militia weaponry.

This is part of the Freedom Trail. The number "8" is daubed on the circular ground plaque pointing at the letter "D." This structure is mostly a shell, with a small Super Mutant encampment outside.

The "new" state house was completed in 1798 to house the government of Massachusetts State. The land selected was originally John Hancock's cow pastures. The first dome was constructed of wooden shingles and covered in copper smelted by Paul Revere. The state government used this building continuously until the formation of the Thirteen Commonwealths in 1969.

This is part of the Freedom Trail. The number "4" is daubed on the circular ground plaque pointing at the letter "L." Outside, one corner of the structure has collapsed, allowing lock-fiddlers the chance to open a wall safe (Novice).

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

Established in 1634, Boston Common started as a communal grazing ground for cattle before it was made a public park (the oldest in the country). In the year before the Revolutionary War, a thousand Redcoats camped on the Common. The Redcoat brigades that marched on Lexington and Concord departed from this very ground.

Park Street Station is accessed to the northeast of this common. This is also the start of the Freedom Trail. On the east side, at the Protectron tour bot and fountain, the number "7" is daubed on the circular ground plaque pointing at the letter "A." Follow the red stripe along the ground from here to continue the specified quest.

There are numerous signs warning of the dangers of Swan's Pond. Aside from a Railroad warning and numerous verbal graffiti warnings, look for:

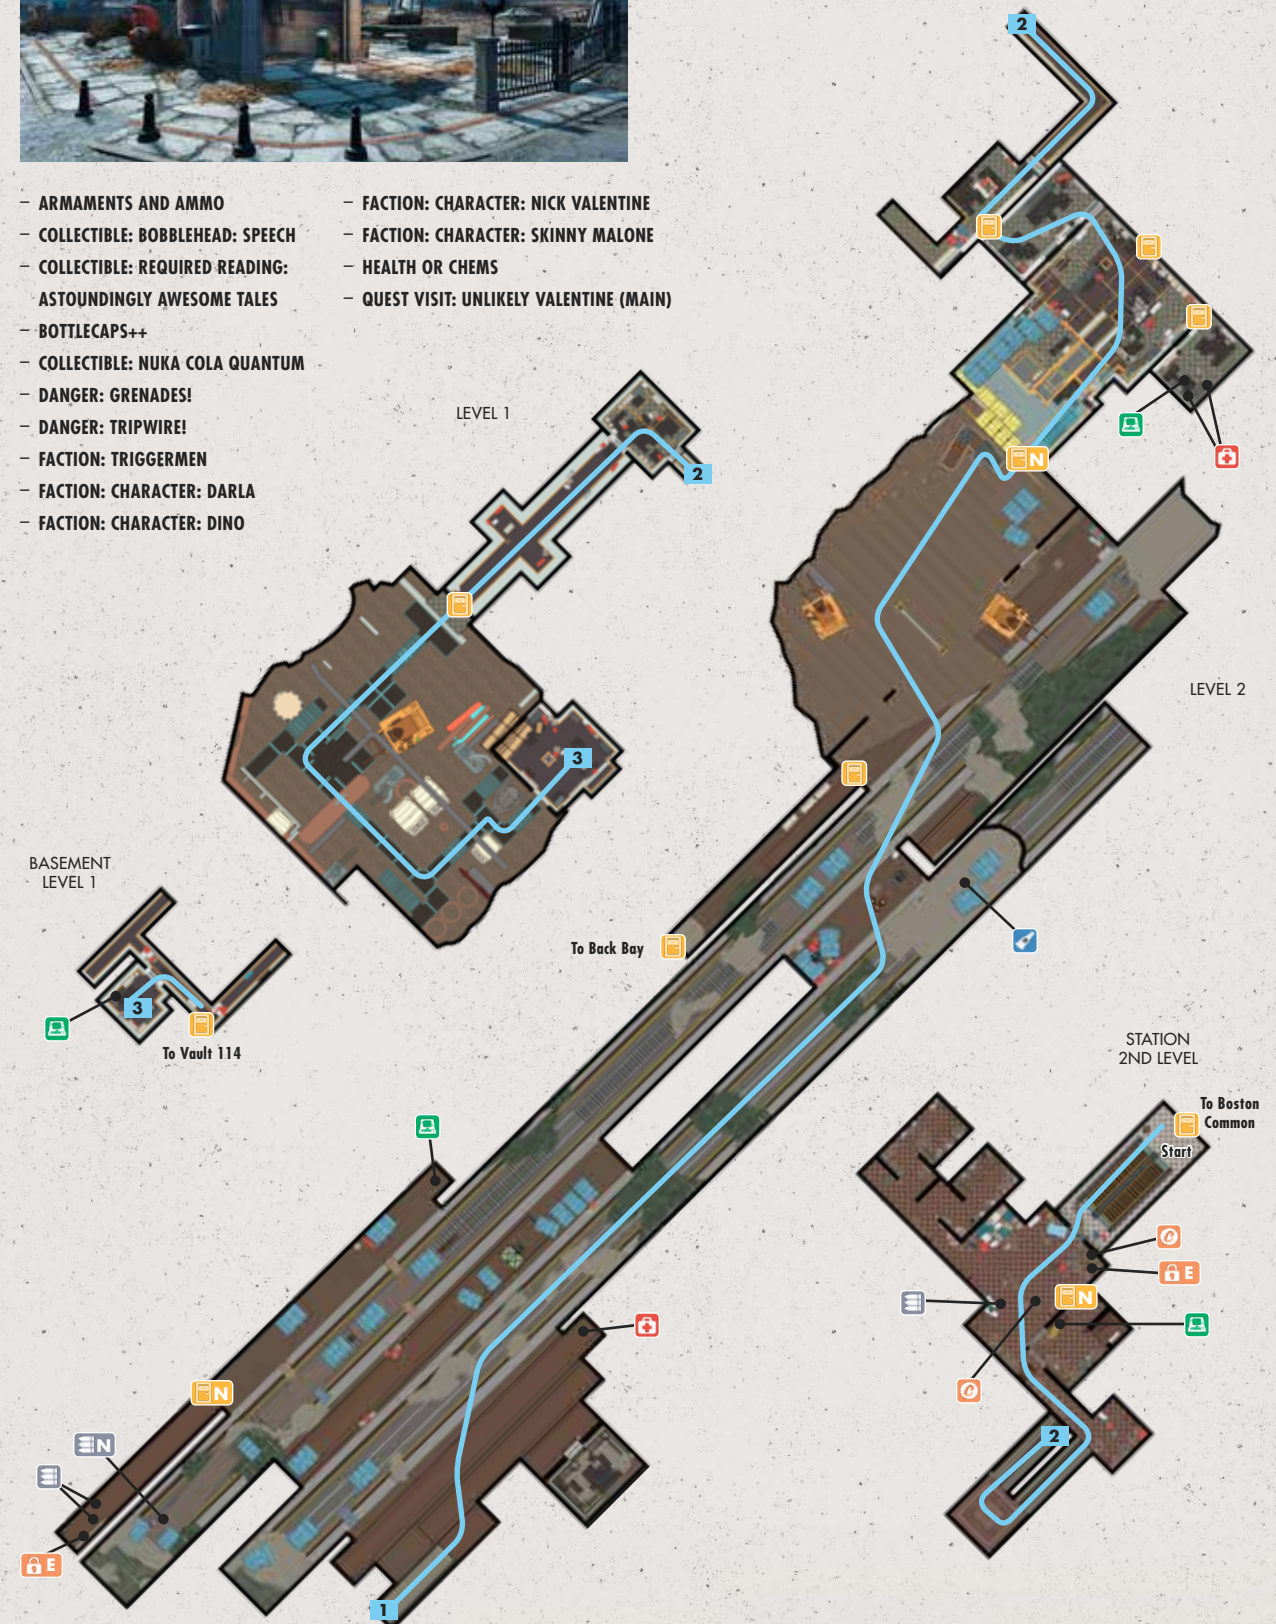

- A TORN NOTE ON KATH'S BODY, ON THE NORTHEAST SIDE OF THE POND.
- A TORN LETTER ON MIKAIL'S BODY, BY THE SOUTHEAST ENTRANCE TO THE COMMONS.
- A FUGITIVES' HOLOTAPE CLUTCHED IN THE SKELETAL HAND BY THE STATUE PLINTH, ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE POND.

This has been identified as a low-traffic subway stop, and Vault-Tec industries is pleased to announce the purchase of this location for a new Vault, designated #114. Lower excavation costs, usage of existing tunneling equipment, and the repurposing of train cars into vault rooms should expedite the completion of this location.

After years of this location sitting half finished when the bombs fell, a local gang of Triggermen under the leadership of Skinny Malone chanced upon here; the numerous digging machines could be put to use in their nefarious operations.

The Freedom Trail continues here! However, most of it is either covered in blood or the tons of rubble and mangled skyscraper metal from the numerous fallen structures. Simply put, this neighborhood is a disaster; structures have many holes, and the height of the skyscrapers dotted around the main thoroughfare of Congress Street means you're just as likely to fall to your death as succumb to Super Mutant or Gunner gunfire. As you're surrounded on all sides by other neighborhoods, it's sometimes difficult to know where you are, so study the maps presented here and understand that some of the locations of importance may be above or below you. [15.01] MASS FUSION BUILDING

THREAT LEVELS 20+

Before the war, Mass Fusion was the primary power supplier to Boston and most of the Commonwealth. It is the tallest building in Boston. With the proceeds from an enormously lucrative line of fusion wells, engines, and cores, this structure—their corporate headquarters—was built. Since the war, the structure has fallen into disrepair, though the reactor level hasn't yet been breached.

At ground level, Gunners fight through the rubble-strewn streets. Should you arrive on the roof (when the quest is active), prepare to fight your chosen rival faction, and hunt down a few choice items (including a Nuka Cherry). Beware the oil, gas leaks, and explosive barrels, or use them to your advantage.

The interior of the tower houses a huge number of office rooms within a central atrium and an impressive sky elevator.

Before the quest, you enter Mass Fusion from the ground floor and work your way up. On Level 5, look for the main trunk of items guarded by a Gunner commander, a Mini Nuke, and the Bobblehead, perched precariously atop the statue that looks out over the central atrium. You can't go any higher unless the quest is active (or you have a Jetpack), so take the double doors to the west to exit out onto the exterior balcony, where you can fast-travel away. Or take the elevator on this level back down to the ground floor.

If you are here on the quest and have access to the upper levels, be sure to clear them of the scavengable items as shown on the maps. Descend through the building, using the Executive ID Card you found on the roof to access the elevator to the Reactor Level. Come back with a jetpack, and you can reach some additional rewards on the highest levels of the building, which are otherwise inaccessible. These include a set of Freefall Armor for your legs inside the office of Jack Rockford on the 28th floor. Can you find it?

FIG 15.01C: MASS FUSION REACTOR LEVEL

This location cannot be reached unless one of the quests is active. Make sure to grab a Hazmat Suit from the locker room or one of the control rooms before entering the decontamination arches—the radiation level in the Reactor Chamber is extreme. If you can manage the (Master) lock, use the terminals in the Control Room and the side office to disable the security system, or prepare for a difficult fight with robots on your way out.

One steamer trunk can be found on the walkway above the decontamination hall. Another is submerged in the reactor room itself—even with a hazmat suit, the radiation here is bad.

The Old Corner Bookstore was originally built as an apothecary after the devastating Great Fire of 1711. Originally the land belonged to Anne Hutchinson, the controversial puritan who was excommunicated and banished from Massachusetts for her “heretical” beliefs and sermons. During the mid-nineteenth century, the Old Corner Bookstore was the home of the leading American publisher Ticknor and Fields. They published the works of such luminaries as Charles Dickens, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Nathaniel Hawthorne, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and Henry David Thoreau. Many of those were frequent visitors to this site.

The Old Corner Bookstore is a historic site on the Freedom Trail. The number “3” is daubed on the circular ground plaque pointing at the letter “I.” The interior is mostly deserted. The exterior of the bookstore is cluttered with rubble and marauding ferals, along with encroaching Raiders and Super Mutants fighting for territory and food. However, don’t miss the most difficult-to-find steamer trunk around; it’s in the ruins of the skyscraper that was built atop of the bookstore.

Head east, following the Freedom Trail, then down into the Congress Street Garage [S15.02], where you can take an elevator up to the middle of the ruined building. Climb out onto the overpass, then leap from the overpass to a curved brown metal wall plate. Look southwest, then leap across and up to the remains of a tiled floor. Congratulations: jump northwest, and you should land on the roof you’ve attempted to reach, and find the contents of the trunk, close to some upturned desks.

Keep descending the structure to discover a safe (Advanced). Use the elevator to ascend back up.

For an even more precarious adventure, descend the scaffolding and enter the crashed sky train hanging below. Open the suitcases and the steamer trunk at the northwest end, guarded by the Protectron. The “plank” and open window is an optional location to place MILA during the specified quest.

Donated to the city of Boston in 1742 by French merchant Peter Faneuil, Faneuil Hall was a commercial hub in colonial Massachusetts. It played a notable role in the American Revolution. Protests against the British Sugar and Stamp Acts that began here led to the doctrine of “no taxation without representation.” Later meetings were held here that culminated in the Boston Tea Party. Many of the Founding Fathers met here or gave speeches here (notably Samuel Adams), leading to the building’s nickname, “the Cradle of Liberty.”

This is part of the Freedom Trail. The number “5” is daubed on the circular ground plaque pointing at the letter “R.” The exterior offers two entrances—the two main front doors and the three rear doors to the east. There is side scaffolding that doesn’t reach all the way to the roof (look for a Fusion Core and ammo on the way up). Super Mutants are an ever-present threat.

The basement gift shop is overrun with bloody mutant types. If you have the time, peruse a magazine shelf for information on Easy City Downs, as well as the Treasures of Jamaica Plain (then visit that location for more information). Beware of traps and Super Mutants as you scale the interior. Take a ladder to the roof, where you’ll find a strange Gilded Grasshopper, which is part of the specified quest.

Built on an ancient area of Boston once known as Scollay Square, Goodneighbor was founded in the year 2240 by a group of criminals banished from Diamond City. But appearances can be deceiving; although plagued with problems, Goodneighbor has its finer qualities: There are no social classes, so everyone is truly equal. There is no bigotry, and even Ghouls are accepted. Goodneighbor has proven instrumental in the success of the Railroad's operations.

[01] Old State House

Mayor Hancock and his squeeze Fahrenheit are holed up here. The mayor is well liked, if a little cutthroat. He is guarded by the Neighborhood Watch; don't confuse them with the less friendly Triggermen! This four-floor mansion has a lot of chems to steal if you're so inclined and Holotapes extolling the virtues of the Railroad.

FIG 15.06B: OLD STATE HOUSE (INTERIOR)

[02] Kill or Be Killed

Everything here is guaranteed to kill or maim at your discretion except for the trader KL-E-0. This Assaultron has an excellent number of weapons and ammo to barter, including the unique weapon Partystarter and pieces of the infamous Devastator armor. There's a weapons workbench and Power Armor station here, as well as a Mini Nuke and Fat Man to steal. Upstairs there's little but a Railroad Holotape.

[03] Daisy's Discounts

Daisy is a friendly, fresh-faced trader who deals in armor (including part of the Devastator armor) and comestibles. Barter with her, cook on her stove, or hammer out an armor improvement on her workbench.

[04] The Third Rail

After Ham the doorman lets you in, take a restroom break for some light reading before visiting Whitechapel, Charlie's bar, constructed from the remains of Scollay Square subway station. Downstairs you can chinwag with the governor (Charlie has a task he'd like assistance with), flirt with Magnolia the lounge singer, or steal a Holotape with a Gwinnett Pils recipe on it. The VIP area has MacCreedy and some rough types hanging around.

FIG 15.06C: THE THIRD RAIL (INTERIOR)

[05] The Memory Den

If you're here to mooch around, Irma isn't happy to see you (unless you bribe or persuade her to take a trip down memory lane). Otherwise, this old theater holds few secrets. The mirrors behind the stage have chems, and Irma's upstairs room has a terminal to unlock (Novice), some ammo, and chems; otherwise, it's best to come here during the Main Quest with a detective friend in tow.

Kent Connolly, the Commonwealth's number one Silver Shroud fanatic, is in a side room. Speak to him to start the side quest.

Downstairs is the laboratory and two memory loungers, along with a good deal of chems, a copy of RobCoFUN! to read, and the Holotape GrognaK game to play. The door is locked until the Main Quest is active.

[06] Hotel Rexford

FIG 15.06E: HOTEL REXFORD (INTERIOR)

The place to sleep off your adventuring, this hotel lobby has a number of interesting folks to speak to. Rufus, the town's mechanic, has a job for you as well as items to trade. More abrupt is Clair Hutchins, who can offer you a room for the night, for a price. Don't forget the magazine behind the lobby bar and the password for the registry under the counter. A couple of known gangsters sometimes hang out here, too. And there's a special friend to say hello to (again) up on the top floor. He hasn't aged well.

If you need chems or a quick task to complete, seek out Fred Allen in the lobby or downstairs in his makeshift laboratory. He sells chems too. There's a Holotape under the stairs with his password.

[07] Triggerman Warehouse #1

There's a chem cooler under the fallen ceiling ramp on the second floor, and chems plus a duffel bag are on the third (and final) floor, which consists of two separate rooms.

[08] Triggerman Warehouse #2

This four-floor warehouse has Triggermen. There's also minimal chems, but a packed steamer trunk is on the top floor (southwest corner).

[09] Triggerman Warehouse #3

There's ammo on the second floor, a small amount of scattered chems throughout, and a steamer trunk and duffel bag on the third (and final) floor.

The Memory Den

1. SIT IN THE MEMORY LOUNGER
2. RELIVE YOUR MEMORIES
3. TALK TO IRMA

You must attempt this quest before the end of Main Quest: Reunions. Enter the Memory Den, and relive a past memory from Vault 81. Afterward, speak to Irma.

(Medium) Ask for a refund.

Tough Times*

After visiting Goodneighbor for the first time and talking to Hancock, watch Hancock's speech from the balcony above the Third Rail. Leave Goodneighbor, then return. In the street close to Hotel Rexford, the Neighborhood Watch have slain a synth pretending to be a citizen.

Enter this location when you agree to help Bobbi as part of Side Quest: The Big Dig. This massive tunnel exploration involves digging through numerous fragile walls; finding three Fusion Cores, a steamer trunk, and two Nuka Cola Quantums; and eventually emerging at the NH&M Freight Depot, just south of the Mass Pike Tunnel East. If ever there was a need for a map, it's during this excursion!

Public Knowledge

1. GO TO BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY
2. RETURN THE OVERDUE BOOK
3. CLEAR THE LIBRARY OF SUPER MUTANTS
4. RETURN TO DAISY

Speak with Daisy in Goodneighbor and agree to help her: She has asked you to clear out the Super Mutants that are threatening the old Boston Public Library. She also wants you to return her overdue book.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Request more Caps for your help.

OVERDUE BOOK

Access Boston Public Library from the side door (Advanced) or Copley Station (Advanced).

Beware of Super Mutants, Mutant Hounds, Protectrons, and machine-gun turrets. Access the book return terminal and deposit the book to receive tokens. Collect more to receive prizes from this machine.

BOOK RETURN TOKEN (5)

Make a sweep of the library and remove all Super Mutant threats. Then return to Daisy for your reward.

BOTTLECAPS (200-400)

Hazardous Material*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: BRING A HALLUCIGEN CANISTER TO FRED ALLEN
2. MISCELLANEOUS: RETURN TO FRED ALLEN

Visit Hotel Rexford and locate Fred Allen. Ask about work. He wants you to find a special canister for him.

(Easy, Medium, Hard) Fast-talk him to up his Caps amount for your time.

Head to the HalluciGen. Beware of Gunners. Battle your way to locate the HalluciGen Canister. Return to Fred for the reward.

Recruiting Hancock*

1. MISCELLANEOUS: TALK TO HANCOCK

This becomes available once you end Side Quest: The Big Dig.

During the final decision you make at the NHM Freight Depot, you also have a choice to make when speaking to Bobbi. You can:

- PLAN A: BETRAY BOBBI.

(Medium) Plan A: Convince Bobbi to leave.

- PLAN B: STAY WITH BOBBI.

Choose Plan A, then speak to Fahrenheit. Answer her as you wish. Complete Side Quest: The Big Dig. Now return to Hancock in Goodneighbor.

Choose Plan B, then kill Fahrenheit and all others except Bobbi. Complete Side Quest: The Big Dig. Now return to Hancock in Goodneighbor.

7. (OPTIONAL) SELL DRINKIN' BUDDY TO RUFUS
8. BRING DRINKIN' BUDDY INSIDE THE HOTEL REXFORD
9. COLLECT YOUR REWARD FROM RUFUS

Speak to Rufus Rubins over at Hotel Rexford in Goodneighbor. He wants you to find a brewing machine that was never delivered here. Head to the Shamrock Taphouse in Boston Harbor (Waterfront). In the cellar is the special "Drinkin' Buddy" Mister Brewer Protectron. Check him out near the terminal (Expert), or use the password from the Holotape on the shelves of the cellar.

At this point, you can chat to your new Buddy, feed him any brewing Holotapes you may have found, and point him in the direction of your nearest owned settlement so he becomes part of the ragtag collection of inhabitants there. Or you can return to Rufus after setting Drinkin' Buddy on his way back to Goodneighbor, and collect a reward from Rufus instead.

BOTTLECAPS

Drinking Buddy is your real reward; he brews ice cold beer every few days, you can chill Nuka Cola (or Nuka Cherries or Quantums) and make it ice cold by putting it in his inventory. Also, why not give him new recipes to try?

Find Primary Location: Postal Square. Head north, then make a sharp left at the rubble and traffic lights so you're facing south. Look for the red and blue ruined skyscrapers ahead. Climb the fire escape stairs between them to reach the entrance to Pinnacle High-Rise.

Gunners and Super Mutants are battling through a towering office building for the remains of a skybridge. Reaching this vantage point requires skill, good judgment, and topographical smarts. You're free to approach from Secondary Location 16: Hub 360 (Theater District), but an easier route is to find one of the following locations:

which takes you to the Skybridge (without having to ascend through the Pinnacle High-Rise interior).

The exterior Skybridge area was a Gunner camp, recently taken over by Super Mutants. It is the exit from "Ruined Skyscraper," the upper area of the Pinnacle High-Rise.

It offers exceptional views of your surroundings and the ability to partake in dangerous parkour over the edge of the freeway overpass to the west. You can also access locations along the freeway into the Theater District to the south. Head northeast to access the rooftops above Primary Location: Postal Square.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDED LOOT

Surrounded by ruined and impassable skyscrapers, this Gunner stronghold is well defended with turrets as the Gunners attempt to knock back Super Mutant incursions to the south, where most of the mines are.

While the Post Office Station is closed permanently, Joe's Spuckies is open and used as the Gunner's base of operations. It has a good supply of ammo and Caps.

Scaling the roof areas above this location is where it's at! There's a Safe (Advanced) directly above Joe's Spuckies on the ruined roof. There's a dead Raider with chems and ammo above the gantry bridge to the south, inside the white ruined skyscraper. To get up here, approach from one of the following directions:

[01] Mangled Freeway Overpass

The Fallen Skybridge, dropping down from the mangled freeway overpass.

[02] Rooftop Raider Camp (Postal Square Overlook)

Or, locate the lift near the bus and ruined green skyscraper, north of the Shamrock Taphouse. Ride the lift up to a small Raider camp. Clear them out, claim their chems and ammo, then head west (down the rusting roof).

[03] Fire Escape Stairs (Financial District)

Or, locate the fire escape stairs to the northwest, just east of Secondary Location: Water Street Apartments (between the red and blue ruined skyscrapers).

- DANGER: LONG DROP!

Below the market stall and Freedom Trail to the west of Faneuil Hall is an exit from Haymarket Mall that leads into a two-level parking garage. Head down the ramp to find a safe (Advanced) and two working elevators.

Take the left elevator to ascend around five floors up to the blown-out shell of a building, close to the end of the collapsed freeway. Use the skybridge (head east) to reach the Commonwealth Bank upper access. Climb the stairs and maneuver around the girders until the platforms disappear. Access the freeway to the Garden Terrace if you wish. But watch your step!

Take the right elevator to ascend around 10 floors up to a tiny section of flooring at the top of this devastated structure. Carefully hop down from here, heading northwest so you can claim the steamer trunk atop the roof of the Old Corner Bookstore.

Though theatrical plays haven't been put on for 200 years, the largest of the theaters has its own form of violently bloody entertainment. Farther south is the sprawling Mass Bay Medical Center, offering (as many building do) access to the ground level and the elevated freeway above. This is one of the largest hospitals in the city of Boston. Gunners have a stronghold here, with makeshift and rusting pathways up to the roof and all the way to the elevated freeway south of the fallen skybridge. Be wary of the turrets before entering this facility. The rusting green structure towers over the elevated freeway.

Access inside is from one of five entrances. There are three on the ground level: the main one to the north, the side doors to the west (under the elevated freeway), and the emergency room with reception area (check it for an ammo box) to the northwest of this building. There's a small concrete bridge near the rubble tower and fallen bus below the freeway. There's also a monorail track with a train still attached, which you can take to the Medical Center Station from the roof of Hester's Consumer Robotics.

FIG 16.03A: MASS BAY MEDICAL CENTER (INTERIOR)

The top floor of the medical center has an elevator to the radiology department and double doors out to the Medical Center Station—a mezzanine with the remains of a coffee shop and a safe (Advanced). From the station, you can "take the train" south to the roof of Hester's Consumer Robotics or north to the rubble-filled remains of a parking structure under the elevated freeway.

FIG 16.03B: MASS BAY MEDICAL RADIOLOGY (INTERIOR)

A Vertibird has crashed through the roof of the radiology department. Clear the area of Gunner scum if you wish before riding the elevator on the north to the roof where you can inspect the wreckage, grab a few chems, take in the vertigo-inducing views, and call a construction lift. Ride this to a lower roof, battle Gunners, and enter the Theater District Secondary Location: Ticker Tape Lounge from here. Or fall to your death. The latter isn't recommended.

The interior of the school is in a right state; the upper floor has mostly collapsed, and Raiders have set up turrets to dissuade visitors. Work your way between floors, using the stairwell to the southeast if you get lost. The area of most interest is the basement. There's also a door here to Medical Center Metro. Otherwise, clear the area, scavenge, and use the door to the roof to catch a great view of the Boston skyline and remove the final Raider threats.

The ground-floor interior consists of a reception and dining area and a mezzanine staircase to a working elevator. Ascend to the next interior area, where you'll find kitchens and a door to Café Patio. Outside is a balcony offering views and more killing opportunities but no way out (except a long drop).

Back inside, climb the rubble pile and access either the rooftop pool (another greenskin hangout spot and access north to the fallen skybridge, or south to the Mass Bay Medical Center) or the elevator that takes you to the top of this structure. Here you can claim the contents of a steamer trunk and finish off the last mutated giant. There's a plank here for positioning the device in the specified quest.

Just as the Charles River empties out into the Massachusetts Bay, so, too, did container vessels from across the Old World, about 400 years ago. Now the harbor is in serious need of dredging, with a variety of rusty hulks and rotting boats scattered about this waterway. Home to Mirelurks, pockets of Super Mutants and Raiders, and the odd roving Scavenger, Boston Harbor offers views out to the east, toward the airport. Head north to Charleston, west into the Theater District, and south toward Quincy and South Boston. Though there are few primary locations, this has the distinction of being among the most dangerous of neighborhoods, as the ground is sometimes soggy and the inhabitants never friendly. Also, did you hear tales of the sea monster lurking in the bay?

This historic bar and pool club on the edge of the Theater District is run by one of the smaller Raider gangs active in this area. The bar has had a long and illustrious history since its establishment in 1787 . . . 500 years ago. Paul Revere was said to drink here.

On the sliver of land between the Waterfront and Financial District neighborhoods, this fortified Raider camp has a single entrance (the hatch from the cellar is cordoned off behind wire fencing). Expect turrets and harsh language. Mop up the Raider scum and loot their ammo. Then enter the establishment.

The place is run by Gaff, a Raider with a few cohorts scattered throughout the premises. The key to open the problematic doors of this establishment is in the cellar.

The lack of giant towering skyscrapers also means you're less likely to wander around in a bewildered fashion, but don't let your guard down. Powerful pincer-clapping Mirelurks roam the coast, and numerous pockets of Raiders, ferals, and a few Super Mutants are also active in this zone. The neighborhood has many impressive and ancient structures—none more so than the Castle, a fortification once belonging to the Minutemen. This could perhaps be the crowning achievement to the explorer who seeks to build and unite settlements both far and wide.

"Give a Man . . . a Taste of Freedom!" the slogan said. Now the place is piled high with offal and half demolished by Super Mutants. There is a main entrance, as well as a rear entrance (Advanced) for those of a stealthy disposition. The Gwinnett Brewery (Primary Location) can be accessed via the security door and large Mirelurk-infested pipes. If you aren't competent at hacking, find the Gwinnett Brewery password, but approach from the brewery side, not via the restaurant.

If you can't hack into the brewery, feel free to head through the restaurant, into the kitchen, and use the hole in the wall to jump into the craft brewing area (attached to the bar), and enter the water-filled pipe that leads into the Brewery.

A high school close to the Dorchester Height monument is in a terrible state, with a northern wing (overlooking the Gwinnett Restaurant) exposed to the elements. The main entrance is blocked, meaning access is via the southern wing, now surrounded by wreckage of a small Raider camp. Inside, the few accessible rooms have mostly been picked clean, aside from the contents of a safe (Advanced).

Historians have noted the original name for this settlement was Fort Independence, but the people of the Commonwealth now refer to it simply as the Castle. This place has a long and storied history; it is one of the first forts in America and predates the Revolutionary War. In recent times, it served as the base of operations for the Minutemen as they attempted (and failed) to establish a Provisional government. In 2240, the Castle was partly destroyed by gigantic Mirelurk, and most of the Minutemen leadership died.

Still, it is generally agreed that the location could yet become an excellent base of operations for the Minutemen (and an exceptional settlement) if it can be reclaimed from the sea creatures. Note that the map information refers to interior corridors within the fortification walls.

FIG 18.08B THE CASTLE TUNNELS (INTERIOR)

This location cannot be accessed unless Minutemen Quest: Old Guns is active. It allows you to reach the armory and unlock the otherwise-sealed outer door in the southwest courtyard wall.

This once-thriving settlement was built into the ruins of the old university. Approximately one year before current events, synth from the Institute wiped this trading post off the map after a disagreement regarding classified research. An explosion in the service tunnels under Sedgwick Hall killed many, released a large amount of radioactive material, and caused the building to partly collapse.

[01] Traders' Welcome (Basketball Court)

The main entrance to this settlement was through a repurposed basketball court and hall. The place is deserted now. You can also enter via the Credit Union (south) or water (east).

[02] The Armor Store

Synths have removed any settlers from this location, though the trappings of an armor trader still remain. There are some clothing options and an upstairs access to an elevated shack.

[03] The Weapons Store

This location has almost been picked clean, but there's a weapons workbench and a couple of ammo boxes to pilfer from. Upstairs has access to the roof of the liquor store.

[04] The Liquor Store

The place is in a real state, but the abundance of alcohol makes up for it. Open the toolbox on the counter to find Sylvia's Holotape. Upstairs, you can access the interior of this location or escape to the north.

[05] Settlement Shacks

Warning! Hostile synths may have taken over the four ruined shacks at this location.

[06] University Credit Union

The customer entrance (northwest) only allows you to the counter. Instead, enter the Credit Union via the hackable terminal (Novice). Before entering, climb two floors to reach the mayor's office. His terminal and Holotape within illuminate your knowledge, and there's a shack built onto the side of this building you can shoot from.

The interior of the credit union features a vault to ransack and a strange laboratory accessible if you look hard enough. Did you find a strange prototype weapon in here?

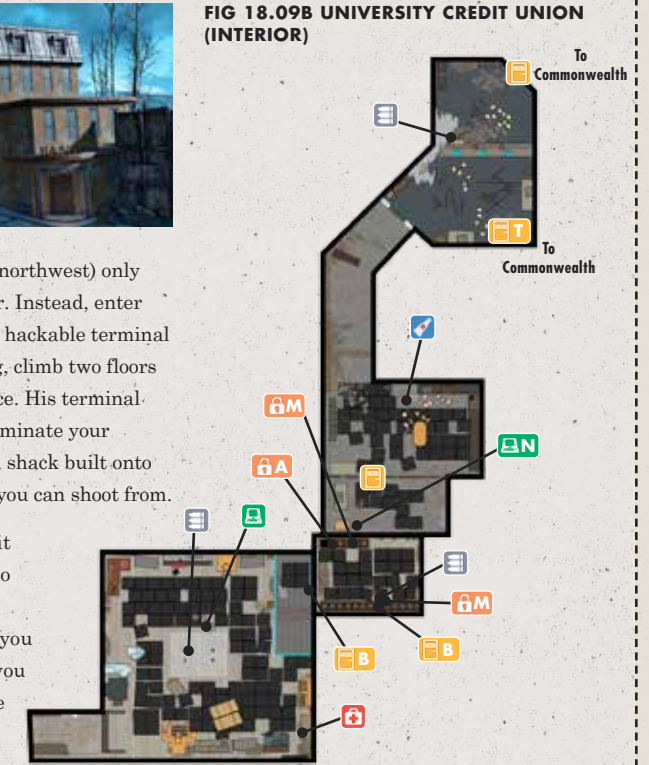

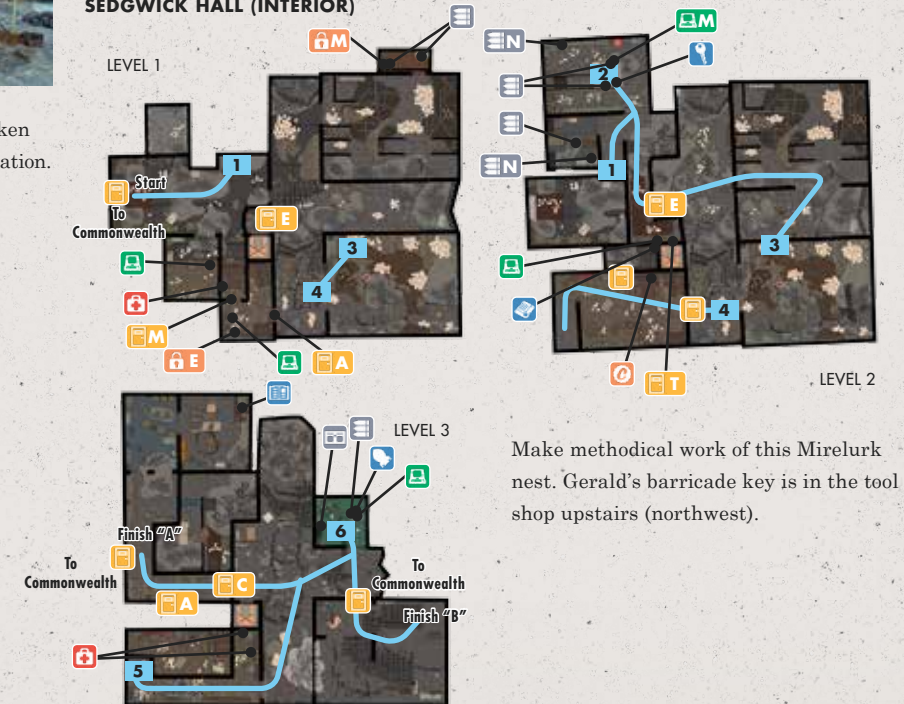

FIG 18.09B UNIVERSITY CREDIT UNION (INTERIOR)

[07] Sedgwick Hall

Slowly sagging and slipping into the waters, this once-grand hall is a mess of barricades and broken floors. The entire eastern side has already fallen away, allowing access up to the roof and an upper door. There's an undisturbed safe (Expert) on the hall's southeast exterior corner; reach it by carefully leaping the ruins of the upper floors overlooking the bay.

VAULT-TEC RECOMMENDS

You may be hoping to figure out the best places to find overdue library books so you can trade them in for tokens. Don't swap those tokens for any old junk, though; use the library book terminal in the southeast corner of Boston Public Library to spend 50 tokens and receive a copy of the Massachusetts Surgical Journal to complete your magazine collection. So where should you rummage around to find overdue books? There are almost 100 to find across the Commonwealth. But go here to get a few in one place:

- EAST BOSTON PREPARATORY SCHOOL (9 BOOKS)
- SHAW HIGH SCHOOL (8 BOOKS)
- BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY (6 BOOKS)
- SUFFOLK COUNTY CHARTER SCHOOL (5 BOOKS)
- COLLEGIATE ADMINISTRATION BUILDING (4 BOOKS)
- SANDY COVES CONVALESCENCE HOME (4 BOOKS)

APPENDIX IV: UNIQUE OR EXCEPTIONAL ITEMS

There are many thousands of items to classify across the Commonwealth. We know, as our Mr. Handy author malfunctioned during the cataloging of every item and had to be forcibly dismantled. Fortunately, some of the earlier read-outs weren't mangled, and the following table details every item, whether it's an extremely rare or unique weapon, apparel piece, or even a house you can call home.

UNIQUE OR EXCEPTIONAL ITEM	LOC #	LOCATION NAME	NOTES

APPENDIX V: THE COMMONWEALTH COLLECTION (LOCATION INDEX)

Although the Map chapter allows quick access to every location in the Commonwealth, sometimes you need to look up information on a location in alphabetical order. This is the chart to use. It comes with the following parcels of information:

- LOCATION NAME, PAGE #, AND LOCATION #: THE NAME OF THE LOCATION, PAGE IN THE MAP CHAPTER WHERE IT APPEARS, AND THE ZONE CODE FOR THE LOCATION, SO YOU CAN LOOK IT UP IN THE MAP CHAPTER. FOR EXAMPLE, [P1.15] ABANDONED SHACK IS THE FIFTEENTH PRIMARY LOCATION IN ZONE 05. PRIMARY LOCATIONS ARE LISTED IN RED. SECONDARY LOCATIONS ARE LISTED IN GREEN.
- ARMAMENTS AND AMMO: IF THE LOCATION HAS A GOOD SUPPLY OF AMMO AND WEAPONS, MINI NUKES AND/OR FAT MEN, AND STEAMER TRUNKS, IT IS NOTED.
- FUSION CORES AND POWER ARMOR: COMPLETE YOUR POWER ARMOR SCAVENGING BY QUICKLY ASCERTAINING IF A LOCATION HAS ANY PARTS YOU MIGHT NEED.
- BOTTLECAPS: DOES THE LOCATION HAVE A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY? CHECK HERE.
- COLLECTIBLES: NOTES FOR BOBBLEHEADS, NUKA CHERRY, AND NUKA COLA QUANTUMS AND ANY REQUIRED READING MAGAZINES ARE HERE.
- COMPANIONS: IF A PARTICULARLY FRIENDLY OR HELPFUL INDIVIDUAL RESIDES HERE, IT IS NOTED.
- FACTION: WHO LIVES HERE? IT'S IMPORTANT TO KNOW WHAT KIND OF FACTION HAS SET UP HOME AT EACH LOCATION SO YOU CAN PLAN YOUR VISIT ACCORDINGLY.
- HEALTH OR CHEMS: IF THIS LOCATION HAS A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF LIFE-SUSTAINING GOODIES, THESE ARE FLAGGED.
- TRADERS, WORKSHOPS, AND RADIOS: IF A LOCATION HAS SOMEONE TO BARTER WITH, IT IS NOTED. IF THE LOCATION CAN BE TURNED INTO A SETTLEMENT WITH A WORKSHOP, CHECK HERE. FINALLY, IF A RADIO SIGNAL EMANATES FROM A LOCATION, YOU'LL FIND OUT HERE.
- UNIQUE ITEM: DOES THIS LOCATION HAVE ONE OR MORE UNIQUE ITEMS, WEAPONS, OR EXCEPTIONAL EQUIPMENT? IF IT DOES, CROSS-REFERENCE IT TO THE EARLIER APPENDIX TO FIND OUT THE EXACT NATURE OF THE EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

David S. J. Hodgson

Trilby hats off, and a Gwinnett Stout raised to the Fallout 4 team at Bethesda for their steadfast support and aid during the creation of this guide. Thanks also to the Documentation Department at Vault-Tec, for use of the SimTek 5000. A firm handshake and spot of backslapping to the best co-author in the business; thank you Nick. Thanks to Chris, Shaida, Tracy, Dan, Tim, Mike, and all at Prima for their patience and help during my extended trip to Boston. Thank you to my loving wife Melanie; Mum, Dad, and Ian; Loki; The Moon Wiring Club, Laibach, Kraftwerk, The Benningtons; and O for the Old Ones, known also as Elder Things, just a terrible, terrible spawn, who contacts humans only through possession, and simply just cannot be drawn.

Nick von Esmarch

Thanks to everyone at Bethesda for their support and patience. Thanks to all at Prima, with special thanks to Chris, Shaida, Dan, Mike, Tim, and Tracy. Big thanks to David for being a patient and reliable source of advice. Seriously, David—you've been awesome.

Of course, I thank every member of my family (whether bound by blood or by choice). Too many names to list, but the folks, siblings, in-laws, little ones, and super-best friends mean everything. Extra-special thanks to Kurt and Damien for putting up with my nonsense and providing a bit of their own. Nonsense is important.
