

Searching The Minds Of The Young... For Those Who Can Think For Themselves

DAVID ICKE NEWSLETTER, JANUARY 28th, 2006

SEARCHING THE MINDS OF THE YOUNG

FOR THOSE WHO CAN THINK FOR THEMSELVES

Hello all,

I feel for young people today. They are bombarded from every angle with programming, indoctrination, and chemical suppression of brain activity through additives in their food and drink. The idea is to slam down the lid on their potential and perception so they slip off the production line as sausage machine adults.

Now we are seeing the gathering process of testing how much young people have absorbed this programming and how many can still see the truth despite the intellectual and spiritual blindfolds they are pressured to wear. This week I saw an account from a 15-year-old in the UK about her experience of this undercover mind-search.

"Tell us what we told you and you'll get grade A"

She posted her account on the Internet after she had taken a general studies exam. She thought she would be tested on the content of her school work, which she had been revising for some six months, but no. The questions bore no connection to what she had been learning. Instead, she was asked about her knowledge of "conspiracy theories" with the emphasis on 9/11. She wrote:

"I will lay down the outline of the main question on the paper, bearing in mind this is not word for word as I could not write down the question and take it away, and I failed to remember the question exactly.

"Using Source 1 and your own knowledge, discuss the possibility of governments misleading citizens into believing facts which are not entirely true, and what the purpose of this would be."

Source 1 happens to be a short exert from someone in America who's name I fail to remember, talking about the Trade Center attacks, quoting missiles. And obviously since I've been watching the videos you put out and others, I know that with the exception of this one quote, there has been no other mention of missiles being involved in the attacks, so this strikes me immediately."

There were three other questions relating to how far she would trust the government, the prime minister, Tony Blair, and how far she would trust other leaders, such as Bush.

She sat the exam on her own "in a more than normally secure room" with the head of the exam board "at my toes" the whole hour and a quarter. Afterwards she told a friend at the college who was supposed to take the same general studies exam that the girl thought she was going to take. The friend said he had taken the usual exam that was nothing like the one she had sat.

A few minutes later, the girl said, she was taken aside by the head of the exam board and told that she had been selected for a test that most people would not know existed. He asked if she had spoken to anyone about what happened. She said no and he told her to keep it to herself, to tell her friends she took the same exam as them, and the exam board would "look kindly on my cooperation". She assumed this meant that if she kept her mouth shut she would get a good grade.

But, in her words: "I'd much rather piss on his shoes and tell you this whole thing".

Good on you, girl, and what a coincidence that a student who clearly has a mind of her own should be one "selected" to take this test.

"My country right and right"

I have written much in these newsletters about the Orwellian thought police who seek to sift the thinkers from the sheep and it is clear that this is now started at a very early age. A few weeks ago came the story from Washington State that pupils were being given "patriotism tests", which, as with the UK example, had nothing to do with the curriculum they had been studying. A girl in the 10th grade was given this questionnaire out of the blue in her English class:

We have seen similar tests come to light in the military, including the question of would they serve a United Nations leadership and would they shoot American citizens. This is all part of the process of gathering information about the thoughts and attitudes of people to see (a) how far the indoctrination has taken hold and (b) how effective the conspiracy-exposure movement has been in getting people, especially the young, to see through the global scam.

In Orwell's book, 1984, it wasn't the masses that Big Brother state was targeting. The vast majority were not considered worth keeping under the closest surveillance because they were not a problem. They just lived sheep-like doing whatever they were told and thinking only acceptable thoughts. It was the dissidents that were really targeted and so it is today. Find out who is a thinker and then watch them like a hawk. Hence the "tests" for students who think out of the box and the Internet profiling of people based on the websites they choose to read.

The search engine, Google, is now in litigation with the United States government over demands that it release a million web addresses from its databases, plus records of all searches entered on Google during any one week period. The Bush cabal says it needs the information to prepare its effort to revive the 1998 Child Online Protection Act blocked the first time by the Supreme Court.

The idea of the Bush crowd wanting to protect children is utterly laughable. If you want to see a website featuring paedophiles, child killers, Satanists, and mass murderers, go no further than these: <http://www.firstgov.gov/> and <http://www.whitehouse.gov/>. Of course it is nothing to do with protecting children, it is about tracking and profiling potential dissidents.

"Where did you say I could find some children?"

The surveillance of those even mildly questioning the government continues apace around the world. This week Richard Hersh, of Boca Raton, Florida, director of Truth Project Inc. of Palm Beach County, told an ad hoc panel of House Democrats that his group and others in South Florida have been infiltrated and spied upon despite having no connections to terrorists.

"Agents rummaged through the trash, snooped into e-mails, packed Web sites and listened in on phone conversations", Hersh said. "We know that address books and activist meeting lists have disappeared".

The organisation came to national attention last month when it was described in an NBC News report as a "credible threat" in a database of suspicious activity compiled by the Pentagon's Talon domestic-surveillance program. This "threat" was the group's meeting a year before to discuss ways to counter military recruitment at high schools.

"The Defense Department's Talon program collects data from a wide variety of sources, including military personnel and private citizens", Pentagon spokesman Greg Hicks said. "They are unfiltered dots of information about perceived threats", Hicks said. "An analyst will look at that information. And what we are trying to do is connect the dots before the next major attack". The next major attack on the Illuminati agenda, he means.

As Hersh says, the warrant-less surveillance and Talon are all a part of domestic-spying operations that threaten civil liberties of Americans and put dissenters under a cloud of suspicion. Florida Democratic Representative Robert Wexler said: "There should not be a single American who today remains confident that it couldn't happen to them". Or anyone in Britain and elsewhere.

This week came the news that the UK government now holds on a data base the DNA profiles of 24,000 children and young people who have never been cautioned, charged or convicted of a crime. You only have to be arrested on suspicion (whatever the police decide is "suspicion") and they can take your DNA, even if you are released without action.

Idiot government minister, David Burnham, who says that no-one should be concerned that 24,000 children and young people are on a DNA database for doing absolutely nothing.

Blair's Satanic government has increased vastly the number of offences deemed "arrestable" so that more DNA can be recorded. They want it because from this information they can ascertain (a) who has the reptilian hybrid bloodline and (b) the frequency on which the DNA is broadcasting and receiving information (see Infinite Love Is The Only Truth, Everything Else Is Illusion). Once they have this they can specifically target an individual's DNA, causing mental, emotion and physical effects.

Once again they are using the excuse of needing the DNA database to "fight crime" and the "war on terror" when it is all about imposing ultimate control.

This is not just about children and young people because the Illuminati timescale for the Orwellian global state means almost everyone alive today is being, or will be, affected, but, of course, it is the young who will face the worst of it as the control goes on increasing. People should look their children in the eye and ask themselves if doing nothing is any longer an option.

But all this is, at least, a testament to the increasing effectiveness of conspiracy writers because there is clearly concern about how many people are seeing the validity of what is being communicated across the Web and in the books and tapes now widely available.

For the sake of the most basic freedoms we must not only keep going, but increase our efforts still further

IT DOESN'T MATTER WHO YOU VOTE FOR THE GOVERNMENT STILL GETS IN

"You say goodbye and I say hello"

This week Canada apparently "changed its government". Er, ... and?? "Tonight, friends, our great country has voted for change", said the winner, Stephen Harper. Well, maybe they did, but they're not going to get it.

The election didn't change the government at all, it changed the people supposedly running the government, nothing more. Government's don't change, only the personnel do and they go on with business as usual while hiding behind different rhetoric. The entity of "government" dictates the policy, not those who only serve government while appearing to control it. Replacing Paul Martin with Stephen Harper or a "Liberal" with "Conservative" will not affect life to any significant extent in one of the most corrupt governments on the planet.

It will go on being just as corrupt, just as Canadian governments have been so since the mega corruption of the Brian Mulroney administration, Satanist Pierre Trudeau, and before. And it will go on slavishly following the Illuminati blueprint because that is what it is there to do.

The belief in political "choice" is one of the great myths. It is a key part of the ludicrous idea that we live in a free country. "See, you can put a cross on a piece of paper every few years (or increasingly have a machine we control to do it for you) and so you are freeeeeeeeeeeeeeee."

The two-party state is a one-party state, but the myth of choice stops most people seeing that although the tide is turning for sure.

It is no coincidence that when the Illuminati wanted Margaret Thatcher in power through the 1980s in Britain that all hell broke loose in the opposition Labour Party in that decade. The people put forward as alternatives to Thatcher - Michael Foot and Neil Kinnock - had no chance of winning and were perceived by the electorate to be unelectable as prime ministers however much they detested the incumbent. The difference between the Democrats and Republicans in America has long since been too small to measure.

In fact, there is no real choice, but, hey, you're still in a free country because you can vote for the one we want or not vote at all.

The moment the Illuminati chosen one, Tony Blair, became leader of the Labour Party in 1994 everything switched. Now the Illuminati media tycoon, Rupert Murdoch, gave the support of his British newspapers to Blair, even though they had never supported the Labour Party before. And what happened to the Conservative Party? All hell broke loose with internal strife and conflict and they have been perceived ever since as unelectable, thus giving Blair a free ride, even though his standing among the electorate is in the gutter.

Now the Conservative Party have someone who at last is considered electable, David Cameron. But what is he? Tony Blair, mark II. A Blair clone who, if he becomes prime minister, will continue where Blair leaves off.

This is the way the two party state is manipulated to be a single party state and it's why I haven't voted for nearly 20 years.

SECRETS OF THE MATRIX - THE LATEST DVD/VIDEO BY DAVID ICKE

Since 1990 David Icke has been on an amazing journey of self and collective discovery to establish the real power behind apparently 'random' world events like 9/11 and the 'war on terrorism'. Here he reveals that a network of interbreeding bloodlines manipulating through their web of interconnecting secret societies have been pursuing an agenda for thousands of years to impose a global centralised fascist state with total control and surveillance of the population.

Over six hours with hundreds of illustrations, David Icke reveals the illusion that is life in this 'physical' reality. How is this 'world' - a provable illusion - just a lucid dream? How do we create it and how can we change the dream to one that we would like to experience?

HAMAS VICTORY IN PALESTINE PERFECT FOR NETANYAHU

I was saying a few weeks ago that Benjamin Netanyahu was the Illuminati choice to be the leader of Israel after the elections in March to replace Ariel Sharon. That doesn't ensure he will necessarily succeed, but this week's win by the hardline Hamas party in Palestine means that his chances have been given a massive boost.

Netanyahu has the image and reputation for the military protection of Israel against terrorism and with Hamas's reputation for suicide bombings and other attacks in Israel this is bound to turn attention on Netanyahu as possibly the right leader to meet the perceived threat of a Hamas-controlled government in Palestine. Netanyahu lost no time in pressing the advantage:

"Before our very eyes, Hamastan has been established" Netanyahu said. "It is the step-child of Iran and the Taliban. This has to be a day of soul-searching because the writing was on the wall. The policy of giving land for free gave a prize to terror and a winning card to Hamas. This is a new and dangerous situation. Sharon said he wouldn't let Palestinians in Jerusalem vote. [Acting prime minister] Olmert let them."

The more violence that can be generated to frighten the Israeli people the more likely it is that they will turn to Netanyahu to protect them. The reason that Netanyahu is the Illuminati's boy is the plan to strike against Iran in line with the neo-con Project for the New American Century report of September 2000. Netanyahu has already said that he would be prepared to launch a first strike against Iran if he became leader.

This whole thing is going to be really whipped up in the next few weeks and months.

Israel rules out talks with Hamas

"Israel has said it will not deal with a Palestinian government including Hamas, following the Islamic militant group's sweeping victory in Palestinian polls. Israeli interim Prime Minister Ehud Olmert ruled out any talks with "an armed terror organisation that calls for Israel's destruction". International mediators have urged Hamas to renounce violence, as efforts begin to form a new government."

Russian General: 9/11 a Globalist Inside Job

'Ivashov hits the nail square on the head. "The organizers of [the nine eleven] attacks were the political and business circles interested in destabilizing the world order because they were not satisfied with the rhythm of the globalization process or its direction".

As others have explained, most notably Andreas von Bulow, Bundestag member of a parliamentary commission which oversaw the three branches of the German secret service "only secret services and their current chiefs (or retired staff with influence inside the state organizations) have the ability to plan, organize and conduct an operation of such magnitude. Generally, secret services create, finance and control extremist organizations. Without the support of secret services, these organizations cannot exist let alone carry out operations of such magnitude inside countries so well protected".

An American Hitler and his Gestapo

The U.S. Department of Justice, led by Alberto "The Constitution is an outdated document" Gonzales, wants to know if you've been looking at any racy material on the Internet. Yahoo and MSN have already complied with subpoenas from Gonzales' storm troopers demanding records on who is using their search services to look at porno sites on the Internet. Google, to their credit, said no and is now caught in a tough legal fight against the George Bush's Gestapo.

Ohmigod! Did he say Gestapo?

Damn right I did. If you don't think the rights-robbing, privacy-invading, Constitution ignoring administration of George W. Bush is anything less than a Hitler-style Gestapo then you've got your head stuffed so far up your ass that all that brown stuff is blinding you.

Nano-technology takes weather warfare into a new dimension

'The weather warfare has taken new dimensions. Now the military scientists all over the world are secretly working on applying nano-technologies to weather manipulation to produce devastating effects on adversaries like never before.

Methods of artificial weather control are a potential weapon of war. Methods like Cloud-top seeding can confuse you and make you believe that such techniques are primitive. But such methods when integrated with nano-bacteria technologies can produce devastating effects.'

Israeli agents want low profile in court

Westminster 'misled' over CIA torture flights (which means the government lied)

'Pressure over the use of British airports for secret CIA torture flights increased dramatically yesterday after it emerged that a Foreign Office minister misled Parliament over a meeting between the UN and UK civil servants about the issue. The Independent on Sunday has learnt that Lord Triesman, the Foreign Office minister, misled peers when he told the House of Lords that no such meeting had ever occurred.

But Martin Scheinin, the UN Human Rights Commission's special rapporteur, travelled to London to hold meetings with Home Office and Foreign Office officials between 21 and 22 November last year. He raised concerns about the issue of "extraordinary rendition" - the policy of moving terror suspects to countries that use torture - and is so concerned following the lack of disclosure that he is writing to ministers.'

Depleted Uranium - Dirty Bombs, Dirty Missiles, Dirty Bullets

The effects of depleted uranium dropped by the British and American forces of 'freedom'. And there are far, far worse even than this

'Vietnam was a chemical war for oil, permanently contaminating large regions and countries downriver with Agent Orange, and environmentally the most devastating war in world history. But since 1991, the U.S. has staged four nuclear wars using depleted uranium weaponry, which, like Agent Orange, meets the U.S. government definition of Weapons of Mass Destruction. Vast regions in the Middle East and Central Asia have been permanently contaminated with radiation.'

Israel Attacks 'Axis of Terror'

'Israel has accused Iran and Syria of complicity in a suicide attack that injured at least 30 people in Tel Aviv. It "was financed by Tehran, planned in Syria and carried out by Palestinians," Defence Minister Shaul Mofaz was quoted by security officials as saying.

Mr Mofaz was also quoted as blaming the attack on "the axis of terror that operates between Iran and Syria".'

And finally this week, the confirmation that the earth is "alive". This is patently obvious because everything is alive, but when I started saying these things in the early 1990s it attracted enormous ridicule in Britain. The earth can think and communicate?? The man's crazy. Well, if I am, so are these scientists who have now concluded the same...

Life beyond biology and organic chemistry - Mechanical waves in the earth's crust shows "Earth is alive" and communicates like all other living beings

'Scientists are finding that the earth is alive and is communicating like other living beings. The concept that life has to be associated with biology and organic chemistry is becoming an obsolete idea. The earth shows, according to contemporary geophysicists, remarkable signs of life. Like all living beings it communicates through waves and responds to wave structure of communication.'

Okay, that's it. I've had a very interesting week with the Terry Wogan Show interview on UK television 15 years after the last one which led me to being dubbed a mad man. Funny how times change if you just keep going and live your truth without submitting to ridicule and condemnation. This time it was a very different outcome with Wogan seriously out of his depth with the subject matter. A chunk of the interview was edited out for the transmission version, some real good stuff lost, but enough came over to cause quite a stir and an explosion of interest in what I am trying to communicate.

Watch for the Discovery Channel documentary this weekend. I've not seen it, but those who have were complimentary.

best wishes,

David
