Judith Meisel, Holocaust survivor, lectured at Seton Hill University (SHU) on October 26, 2004.

[...]

In June 1944, her family, along with other Jews, was taken into trucks and sent to Stutthof concentration camp in Poland. Here she was separated from her brother.

"We went into Stutthof and all I saw was [this] huge pile of shoes," said Meisel, describing the camp. She lost her mother at Stutthof, where she was gassed to death.
