

The Modern Humans Comprehension Courses
by Alfred B. Glaser

International Copyright (c) 1976

Reproduction Authorized for Non-Profit Purposes

Written text with various diagrams and charts

Additional commentary and reference material added

by Al Fry, Janet Wheeler and Paul Bunker Adobe .pdf file format

Volume 1 – 67 pages

Volume 2 – 114 pages

Volume 3 – 102 pages

Volume 4 – 82 pages

This is THE rarest and most far out assemblage of information I personally know of.

It is unlike any other collection of writing I have thus far encountered in the duration of my current life span here on this planet.

These are the Original Modern Humans Comprehension Courses written by Alfred
B. Glaser
circa 1976.

The material contained in these courses has had an unusual history of remaining rather unknown, elusive and obscured from the attention of the general public.

My retired friend Al Fry tells me that most people who encounter these works tend to keep them secret. I suppose it's time to reveal them to the world in digital form, likely for the first time ever...

An accurate description of the topics addressed is difficult to summarize. The information is much more otherworldly and far reaching than I can accurately express. I suggest you consider reading these volumes for yourself.

I purchased them from Al in back 1990 to help support his work. They are provided here free of charge. My only request is that you help seed these works for as long as you are able, so that others may gain the opportunity to share this information.