James (1566–1625), king of Scotland as James VI (r. 1567–1625) and king of England as James I (r. 1603–1625). ❖ Queen who lived in the turbulent period of the Counter-reformation and became caught up in scandals which ended her reign and resulted in her execution by Elizabeth I; proclaimed queen of

MARY STUART

Scotland 6 days after her birth, with the death of her father James V; at age 5, was betrothed to the dauphin of France, Francis, and sent to France to be brought up in the French court; was queen of France during the brief reign of husband Francis II (1559–60); following death of Francis, went back to Scotland to claim birthright; married Henry Stuart, Lord Darnley (1565); son James born (1566); under bizarre circumstances, husband Darnley strangled (Feb 1567); within months of murder, married the earl of Bothwell, who was widely believed to have been the perpetrator; because these actions provoked a widespread rebellion, had to abdicate the Scottish throne in favor of her son and flee to England (1567); remained in England for almost 20 years, becoming the focus of many Catholic plots against the life of Queen Elizabeth I; though her degree of participation in plots is still debated by historians, was ordered to stand trial and executed for treason, since Elizabeth eventually became convinced of Mary's duplicity (1587). ❖ See also Ian B. MARY THE JEWESS (fl. 1st, 2nd or 3rd c.). Hebrew alchemist. Name variations: Maria the Jewess; Miriam the Jewess; Maria Prophetissa; Maria of Alexandria; Miriam the Prophet; Miriam the Prophetess. Born in Alexandria, Egypt, in the 1st, 2nd, or 3rd century CE. ❖ A shadowy historical figure, is often erroneously identified as Miriam the Prophet, the sister of Moses; as an alchemist, left behind enough fragments of her writings to establish for herself a revered place in scientific antiquity; is considered one of the founders of alchemy, and in a 17th-century text is listed as one of the 12 sages of alchemy. ❖ See also Women in World History.

MARY THE VIRGIN (20 BCE–40 CE). Biblical woman. Name variations: Maria; Miriam; Mary of Nazareth; the Virgin Mary. Born approximately 20 BCE in Roman Palestine; died about 40 CE; dau. of Anne and Joachim; m. Joseph (a carpenter of Nazareth); children: Jesus of Nazareth (c. 6 BCE/4 CE–c. 27/37 CE). James of Jerusalem and Joseph (called the brothers of Jesus in Mark 6.3), might be the sons of Joseph from a previous marriage, while some contend they were actually sons of another Mary, possibly Mary of Cleophas, the sister of the Virgin. ❖ Mother of Jesus of Nazareth and the most important Christian saint who is thought by some to be the most perfect of women as well as held to be an intercessor between God and mortals and dispenser of all graces; though relatively inactive in the New Testament narrative, her centrality in Western religious and cultural history significantly outstrips her role in the Gospel stories. From the Gospels we learn that Mary, a young Jewish woman, lived in Nazareth, a town in Galilee; was betrothed to a carpenter named Joseph; before the wedding took place, was visited by an angel of the Lord who told her she had been chosen to bear the son of the Most High (the Annunciation); when the time of delivery was near, traveled with husband to Bethlehem in order to register for the census; unable to find a place in the inn, slept in the stable; there, in fulfillment of a prophecy in Isaiah 7.14, was delivered of a child; wrapped him in swaddling clothes and used a manger for his crib. ❖ See also Sally Cunneen, In Search of Mary (1996); Maria Warner, Alone of Her Sex: The Myth and the Cult of the Virgin Mary (Knopf, 1976); Hilda Graef, Mary: A History of Doctrine and Devotion (1963–65); Mary Clayton, The Cult of the Virgin Mary in Anglo-Saxon England (Cambridge U.
