Overview — Destroyer (Brown Dwarf) Prophecy

This category provides a collection of prophetic quotes from visionaries relating to the return of the Sol's companion. Over the years this celestial star-like object has been dubbed: The Destroyer, the Ball of Redemption, the Sun of Righteousness, the Bearded Star, and the Fiery Messenger, just to name a few.

The following verse is an example of the prophecies collected for this category:

“Surely the day is coming; it will burn like a furnace. All the arrogant and every evildoer will be stubble, and that day that is coming will set them on fire, says the Lord Almighty. Not a root or a branch will be left to them. But for you who revere my name, the Sun of righteousness [our second sun] will rise with healing in its wings.”—Malachi 4:1-2

Zoroastrian scripture from The Bundahishn; Chapter 30: circa 1000-1200BCE

18. As Gochihr [the Destroyer] falls in the celestial sphere from a moon-beam on to the Earth, the distress of the Earth becomes such-like as that of a sheep when a wolf falls upon it.

19. Afterwards, the fire and halo [from the Destroyer] melt the metal of Shahrewar, in the hills and mountains, and it remains on this Earth like a river.

20. Then all men will pass into that melted metal and will become pure; when one is righteous, then it seems to him just as though he walks continually in warm milk; but when wicked, then it seems to him in such manner as though, in the world, he walks continually in melted metal.

21. Afterwards, with the greatest affection, all men come together, father and son and brother and friend ask one another thus: 'Where has it [the Destroyer] been these many years, and what was the judgment upon thy soul?'

“...A STAR with three tails will be born in the east, due to which many villages will be reduced to ashes...There will be rain of blood [red ash] in towns, villages, and forests. Poor quality coins will be used as currencies. In some places, there will be a rain of fire. Kings of all kinds will be destroyed, and His strength will reign supreme. Terrible wars will be fought, and no one will be able to mourn for the dead...People will be unable to rely on each other. Many incurable diseases will be present. A man will have 10 women after him, which will result in extreme behavior in human beings. ”

St. Hildegard: 12th century

"...Before the comet[-like planet] comes many nations, the good excepted, will be scoured by want and famine. The great nation in the ocean that is inhabited by people of different tribes and descent will be devastated by an earthquake, storm, and tidal wave. It will be divided and, in great part, submerged. That nation will also have many misfortunes at sea and lose its colonies. By its tremendous pressure the comet[-like planet] will force much out of the ocean and flood many countries causing much want and many plagues. All coastal cities will live in fear, and many of them will be destroyed by tidal waves, and most living creatures will be killed, and even those who escape will die from horrible diseases. For in none of those cities does a person live according to the laws of God."

Mother Shipton: 1488-1561

“When pictures seem alive with movements free
When boats like fishes swim
beneath the sea, When men like birds shall scour the sky
Then half the world, deep drenched in blood shall die.

For those who live the century through
In fear and trembling this shall do.
Flee to the mountains and the dens
To bog and forest and wild fens.

For storms will rage and oceans roar
When Gabriel stands on sea and shore
And as he blows his wondrous horn
Old worlds die and new be born.

A FIERY DRAGON [called the Destroyer] will cross the sky
Six times before this earth shall die
Mankind will tremble and frightened be for the sixth heralds in this prophecy.

For seven days and seven nights
Man will watch this awesome sight.
The tides will rise beyond their ken
To bite away the shores and then
The mountains will begin to roar
And earthquakes split the plain to shore.

And flooding waters, rushing in
Will flood the lands with such a din
That mankind cowers in muddy fen
And snarls about his fellow men.

He bares his teeth and fights and kills
And secrets food in secret hills
And ugly in his fear, he lies
To kill marauders, thieves and spies.

Man flees in terror from the floods
And kills, and rapes and lies in blood
And spilling blood by mankinds hands
Will stain and bitter many lands

And when the DRAGON'S TAIL is gone,
Man forgets, and smiles, and carries on
To apply himself - too late, too late
For mankind has earned deserved fate.

"The Kolbrin Bible is the Rosetta Stone of Planet X!"—Greg Jenner

His masked smile - his false grandeur,
Will serve the Gods their anger stir.
And they will send the DRAGON back
To light the sky - his tail will crack
Upon the earth and rend the earth
And man shall flee, King, Lord, and serf.

"Required reading for those who get it and want to live through it."—Echan Deravy, Solar Code

But slowly they are routed out
To seek diminishing water spout
And men will die of thirst before
The oceans rise to mount the shore.

And lands will crack and rend anew
You think it strange. It will come true.

And in some far off distant land
Some men - oh such a tiny band
Will have to leave their solid mount
And span the earth, those few to count,
Who survives this (unreadable) and then
Begin the human race again.

"The Kolbrin Bible is the Rosetta Stone of Planet X!"—Greg Jenner

But not on land already there
But on ocean beds, stark, dry and bare
Not every soul on Earth will die
As the DRAGONS TAIL goes sweeping by.

"Required reading for those who get it and want to live through it."—Echan Deravy, Solar Code

Not every land on earth will sink
But these will wallow in stench and stink
Of rotting bodies of beast and man
Of vegetation crisped on land.

But the land that rises from the sea
Will be dry and clean and soft and free
Of mankinds dirt and therefore be
The source of man's new dynasty.

And before the race is built anew
A silver serpent comes to view
And spew out men of like unknown
To mingle with the earth now grown
Cold from its heat and these men can Enlighten the minds of future man.

To intermingle and show them how
To live and love and thus endow
The children with the second sight.
A natural thing so that they might
Grow graceful, humble and when they do
The Golden Age will start anew.

For mankinds fall and man's decline.
And before this prophecy is done
I shall be burned at the stake, at one
My body singed and my soul set free
You think I utter blasphemy
You're wrong. These things have come to me. This “...God’s kingdom will be preached all over the world, to every nation. Then the end will come. Daniel the prophet spoke about ‘the horrible thing that destroys.’ [THE DESTROYER] You will see this terrible thing...[appearing] ...in the holy place. If a person is on the roof of his house, he must not go down to get anything out of his house. If a person is in the field, he must not go back to get his coat...when these things happen you have to run away. This is because at that time there will be much trouble than has ever happened since the beginning of the world...God has decided to make that terrible time short. And everything in the sky will be changed.' At that time, there will be something in the sky that shows the Son of Man is coming. [A New 'Star of the Morning' or our binary companion—GJ] All the peoples of the world will cry. They will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds in the sky. He will come with great power and glory... No one knows when that day or time will be... Only the Father knows... it will be the same as what happened during Noah's time. In those days before the flood, people were eating and drinking... They were still doing those things until the day Noah entered the boat. They knew nothing about what was happening. “5. Then the angel took the censer, filled it with fire from the altar, and hurled it on the Earth; and there came peals of thunder, rumblings, flashes of lightning and an earthquake.

6. Then the seven angels who had the seven trumpets prepared to sound them.

7. The first angel sounded his trumpet, and there came hail and fire mixed with blood, and it was hurled down on the earth. A third of the Earth was burned up, a third of the trees were burned up, and all the green grass was burned up.

8. The second angel sounded his trumpet, and something like a huge mountain, all ablaze, was thrown into the sea. A third of the sea turned into blood,

"The Kolbrin Bible is the Rosetta Stone of Planet X!"—Greg Jenner

"Required reading for those who get it and want to live through it."—Echan Deravy, Solar Code

Book of Mormon: 3 Nephi: 1:18-25

“And there were many who had not believed the words of the prophets, [the people] fell to the earth, and became as if they were dead, for they knew that the great plan of destruction which they had laid for those who believed in the words of the prophets, had been frustrated, for the sign which had been given was already at hand; and they began to know that the Son of God must shortly appear; Yea, in fine, all the people upon the face of the whole Earth, from the west to the east, both in the land north and in the land south, were so exceedingly astonished, that they fell to the Earth; For they knew that the prophets had testified of these things for many years, and that the sign which had been given, was already at hand; and they began to fear because of their iniquity and their unbelief. And it came to pass that there was no darkness in all that night, but it was as light as though it was midday. And it came to pass that the sun did rise in the morning again, according to its proper order; and they knew that it was the day that the Lord should be born, because of the sign which had been given. And it had come to pass, yea, all things, every whit, according to the words of the prophets. And it came to pass also, that a NEW STAR [our binary sun], did appear according to the word.”

Book of Mormon: Helaman: 5:55-59

“...Behold, I give unto you a sign: for five years more cometh, and behold, then cometh the Son of God to redeem all those who shall believe on his name...there shall be great lights in heaven, insomuch that in the night before he cometh, there shall be no darkness, insomuch that it shall appear unto man as if it was day; Therefore there shall be one day and a night, and a day, as if it were one day, and there were no night; and this shall be unto you for a sign; for ye shall know of the rising of the sun, and also of its setting...And behold there shall be a NEW STAR arise [our binary sun], such as one as ye never have beheld; and this also shall be a sign unto you.”

The Lost Continent of Mu James Churchward ©1926 - The complete edition reprint ©1994

From 'The Lhasa Record'

"When the STAR OF BAL [known as the Destroyer] fell on the place where now is only the sky and the sea, the seven cities with their golden gates and transparent temples, quivered and shook like the leaves in a storm; and, behold, a flood of fire and smoke arose from the palaces. Agonies and cries of the multitude filled the air. They sought refuge in their temples and citadels, and the wise Mu—the Hieratic Ra Mu—arose and said to them: did I not predict all this? And the women and the men in their precious stones and shining garments lamented 'Mu, save us!' and Mu replied: 'You shall all die together with your servants and your riches, and from your ashes new nations shall arise. If they forget they are superior not because of what they put on but what they put out the same will befall them.' Flames and smoke choked the words of Mu: the land and its inhabitants were torn to pieces and swallowed up by the depths. BAL is a Maya word meaning 'Lord of the Fields.'"

Shambhala Prophecy Shambhala – In search of the New Era Nicolas Roerich ©1930

Recorded at Talai-Pho-Brang: 1924

"...darting headlong toward the Earth is the STAR OF THE MORNING [the Dark Star], resplendent abode of the Mother of the World. By its dominating light, by its unprecedented approach, it foretells the new era of humanity. The dates, recorded eons since, are fulfilled in the starry runes. The predictions of the Egyptian Heirophants are being invested with reality before our eyes. Verily, this is a time of wonder for its witnesses. Likewise predestined and also descending over humanity is that satellite of the Mother of the World..."

Recorded at Talai-Pho-Brang: 1928

"A great epoch approaches. The Ruler [King] of the World is ready to fight. Many things are being manifested. The cosmic fire [from the STAR OF THE MORNING] is AGAIN approaching the Earth. The planets are manifesting the new era...if all good forces do not combine their power, the greatest cataclysms are inevitable."

Edgar Cayce: Reading No. 3976-15

“As to the changes physical again: The Earth will be broken up in the western portion of America. The greater portion of Japan must go into the sea. The upper portion of Europe will be changed in the twinkling of an eye. Land will appear off the east coast of America. There will be upheavals in the Arctic and in the Antarctic that will make for the eruption of volcanoes in the Torrid areas, and there will be a shifting of the poles—so that where there have been those of a frigid or semitropical will become the more tropical, and moss and fern will grow. And these will begin in '58 to '98 when these will be proclaimed as the periods when HIS LIGHT [THE CHRIST STAR] WILL BE SEEN AGAIN in the clouds.”

Joe Brandt: Fresno California, 1937

In 1937, this 17-year-old boy experienced a spontaneous vision while recovering from a brain concussion in a Fresno hospital in California. This boy put his entire vision down on paper by his own hand. He wrote the following while passing in and out of consciousness.

"I woke up in the hospital room with a terrific headache – as if the whole world was revolving inside my brain. I remember, vaguely, the fall from my horse – Blackie. As I lay there, pictures began to form in my mind – pictures that stood still. I seemed to be in another world. Whether it was the future, or it was some ancient land, I could not say. Then slowly, like the silver screen of the "talkies," but with colour, smell and sound, I seemed to find myself in Los Angeles – but I swear it was much bigger, and buses and odd-shaped cars crowded the city streets.

I thought about Hollywood Boulevard, and I found myself there. Whether this is true, I do not know, but there were a lot of guys about my age with beards and wearing, some of them, earrings. All the girls, some of them keen-o, wore real short skirts... and slouched along – moving like a dance. Yet they seemed familiar. I wondered if I could talk to them, and said "Hello," but they didn't see or hear me. I guess it is something you have to learn. I couldn't do it.

I noticed there was a quietness about the air, a kind of stillness. Something else was missing, something that should be there. At first, I couldn't figure it out; I didn't know what it was—then did. There were no birds. I listened. I walked two blocks north of the Boulevard – all houses – no birds. I wondered what had happened to them. Had they gone away? Where? Again, I could hear the stillness. Then I knew something was going to happen. I wondered what year it was. It certainly was not 1937. I saw a newspaper on the corner with a picture of the President. It surely wasn't Mr. Roosevelt. He was bigger, heavier, big ears. If it wasn't 1937, I wondered what year it was... My eyes weren't working right. Someone was coming – someone in 1937 – it was that darned, fat nurse ready to take my temperature. I woke up. Crazy dream.

[Then next day]. Gosh, my headache is worse. It is a wonder I didn't get killed on that horse. I've had another crazy dream, back in Hollywood. Those people. Why do they dress like that, I wonder? Funny glow about them. It is a shine around their heads – something shining. I remember it now. I found myself back on the Boulevard. I was waiting for something to happen, and as I was going to be there. I looked up at the clock down by that big theater. It was ten minutes to four. Something big was going to happen.

I wondered if I went into a movie (since nobody could see me) if I'd like it. Some cardboard blond was draped over the marquee with her legs six feet long. I started to go in, but it wasn't inside. I was waiting for something to happen outside. I walked down the street. In the concrete they have names of stars. I just recognized a few of them. The other names I had never heard. I was getting bored; I wanted to get back to the hospital in Fresno, and I wanted to stay there on the Boulevard, even if nobody could see me. Those crazy kids. Why are they dressed like that? Maybe it is some big Halloween doings, but it don't seem like Halloween doings. More like early spring. There was that sound again, the lack of sound. Stillness, stillness, stillness. Don't these people know that the birds have gone somewhere? The quiet is getting bigger and bigger. I know it is going to happen. It is happening now! It sure did. She woke me up grinning and smiling, that fat one again.

"It's time for your milk, kiddo," she says. Gosh, old woman of thirty acting like the cat's pajamas. Next time maybe she'll bring hot chocolate.

Where have I been? Where haven't I been? I've been to the ends of the earth and back. I've been to the end of the world – there isn't anything left. Not even Fresno, even though I'm lying here right this minute. If only my eyes would get a little clearer so I can write all this down. Nobody will believe me, anyway. I'm going back to that last moment on the Boulevard. Some sweet kid went past, dragging little boys (twins, I guess) by each hand. Her skirt was up – well, pretty high – and she had a tired look. I thought for a minute I could ask her about the birds, what had happened to them, and then I remembered she hadn't seen me. Her hair was all frowzy, way out all over the head. A lot of them looked like that, but she looked so tired and like she was sorry about something. I guess she was sorry before it happened – because it surely did happen. There was a funny smell. I don't know where it came from. I didn't like it. A smell like sulphur, sulfuric acid, a smell like death. For a minute I thought I was back in chem.

When I looked around for the girl, she was gone. I wanted to find her for some reason. It was as if I knew something was going to happen and I could stay with her, help her. She was gone, and I walked half a block, then I saw the clock again. My eyes seemed glued on that clock. I couldn't move. I just waited. It was five minutes to four on a sunny afternoon. I thought I would stand there looking at the clock forever waiting for something to come. Then, when it came, it was nothing. It wasn't nearly as hard as the earthquake we had two years ago. The ground shook, just an instant. People looked at each other, surprised. Then they laughed. I laughed too. So this is what I had been waiting for? This funny little shake? It meant nothing.

I was relieved and I was disappointed. What had I been waiting for? I started back up the Boulevard, moving my legs like those kids. How do they do it? I never found out. I felt as if the ground wasn't solid under me. I knew I was dreaming and yet I wasn't dreaming. There was that smell again, coming from the ocean. I was getting to the 5 and 10 store and I saw the look on the kids faces. Two of them were right in front of me, coming my way.

"Let's get out of this place. Let's go back east." He seemed scared. It wasn't as if the sidewalks were trembling – but you couldn't seem to see them. Not with your eyes you couldn't. An old lady had a dog, a little white dog, and she stopped and looked scared, and grabbed him in her arms and said: "Let's go home, Frou-Frou. Mama is going to take you home." That poor lady, hanging onto her dog.

I got scared, real scared. I remembered the girl. She was way down the block, probably. I started to run. I ran and ran, and the ground kept trembling. I couldn't see it. But I knew it was trembling. Everybody looked scared. They looked terrible. One lady just sat down on the sidewalk all doubled up. She kept saying, "It's the earthquake, It's the earthquake," over and over. But I couldn't see that anything was different.

Then, when it came, how it came! Like nothing in God's world. Like nothing. It was like the scream of a siren, long and low. Or the scream of a woman I heard having a baby when I was a kid. It was awful. It was if something – some monster – was pushing up the sidewalks. You felt it long before you saw it, as if the sidewalks wouldn't hold you anymore.

I looked out at the cars. They were honking, but not scared. They just kept moving. They didn't seem to know yet that anything was happening. Then that white car, that baby-sized one came sprawling from the inside lane right against the curb. The girl who was driving just sat there. She sat there with her eyes staring, as if she couldn't move, but I could hear her. She made funny noises.

I watched her, thinking of the other girl. I said that it was a dream, and I would wake up. But I didn't wake up. The shaking had started again, but this time different. It was a nice shaking, like a cradle being rocked for a minute, and then I saw the middle of the Boulevard seemed to be breaking in two. The concrete looked as if it were being pushed straight up by some giant shovel. It was breaking in two. That is why the girl's car went out of control. And then a loud sound again, like I've never heard before – then hundreds of sounds – all kinds of sounds: children, and women, and those crazy guys with earrings. They were all moving, some of them above the sidewalk. I can't describe it. They were lifted up...

And the waters kept oozing – oozing. The cries. God, it was awful. I woke up. I never want to have that dream again.

It came again. Like the first time, which was a preview, and all I could remember was that it was the end of the world. I was back there – all that crying. Right in the middle of it. My eardrums felt as if they were going to burst. Noise everywhere. People falling down, some of them hurt badly. Pieces of buildings, chips, flying in the air. One hit me hard on the side of my face, but I didn't seem to feel it. I wanted to wake up, to get away from this place. It had been fun in the beginning, the first dream, when I kind of knew I was going to dream the end of the world or something. This was terrible. There were older people in cars. Most of the kids were on the street. But those old guys were yelling bloody murder, as if anybody could help them. Nobody could help anybody. It was then I felt myself lifted up. Maybe I had died. I don't know. But I was over the city. It was tilting toward the ocean – like tilting a picnic table. The buildings were holding, better than you could believe. They were holding. They were holding.

The people saw they were holding, and they tried to cling to them or get inside. It was fantastic. Like a building had a will of its own. Everything else breaking around them, and they were holding, holding.

I was up over them – looking down. I started to root for them. "Hold that line," I said. "Hold that line. Hold that line. Hold that line. I wanted to cheer, to shout, to scream. If the buildings held, those buildings on the Boulevard, maybe the girl – the girl with the two kids – maybe she could get inside. It looked that way for a long time, maybe three minutes, and the three minutes was like forever. You knew they were going to hold, even if the waters kept coming up. Only they didn't.

I've never imagined what it would be like for a building to die. A building dies just like a person. It gives way, some of the bigger ones did just that. They began to crumble, like an old man with palsy, who couldn't take it anymore. They crumbled right down to nothing. And the little ones screamed like mad – over and above the roar of the people. They were mad about dying. But buildings die.

I couldn't look anymore at the people. I kept wanting to get higher. Then I seemed to be out of it all, but I could see. I seemed to be up on Big Bear near San Bernardino, but the funny thing was that I could see everywhere. I knew what was happening.

The earth seemed to start to tremble again. I could feel it even though I was up high. This time it lasted maybe twelve seconds, and it was gentle. You couldn't believe any thing so gentle could cause so much damage. But then I saw the streets of Los Angeles – and everything between the San Bernardino mountains and Los Angeles. It was still tilting toward the ocean, houses, everything that was left. I could see the big lanes – dozens of big lanes still loaded with cars sliding the same way. Now the ocean was coming in, moving like a huge snake across the land. I wondered how long it was, and I could see the clock, even though I wasn't there on the Boulevard. It was 4:29. It had been half an hour. I was glad I couldn't hear the crying anymore. But I could see everything. I could see everything.

Then, like looking at a huge map of the world, I could see what was happening on the land and with the people. San Francisco was feeling it, but she was not in any way like Hollywood or Los Angeles. It was moving just like that earthquake movie with Jeanette McDonald and Gable.

I could see all those mountains coming together... I knew it was going to happen to San Francisco – it was going to turn over – it would turn upside down. It went quickly, because of the twisting, I guess. It seemed much faster than Hollywood, but then I wasn't exactly there. I was a long, long way off. I shut my eyes for a long time – I guess ten minutes – and when I opened them I saw Grand Canyon.

When I looked at Grand Canyon, that great big gap was closing in, and Boulder Dam was being pushed from underneath. And then, Nevada, and on up to Reno. Way down south, way down. Baja California. Mexico too. It looked like some volcano down there was erupting, along with everything else. I saw a map of South America, especially Columbia. Another volcano – eruption – shaking violently. I seemed to be seeing a movie three months before – before the Hollywood earthquake. Venezuela seemed to be having some kind of volcanic activity. Away off in the distance, I could see Japan, on a fault too. It was so far off – not easy to see because I was still on Big Bear mountain, but it started to go into the sea.

I couldn't hear screaming, but I could see the surprised look on their faces. They looked so surprised. Japanese girls are made well, supple, easy, muscles that move well. Pretty too. But they were all like dolls. It was so far away I could hardly see it. In a minute or two it seemed over. Everybody was gone. There was nobody left.

I didn't know time now. I couldn't see a clock. I tried to see the Island of Hawaii. I could see huge tidal waves beating up against it. The people in the streets were getting wet, and they were scared. But I didn't see anybody go into the sea.

I seemed way around the globe. More flooding. Is the world going to be drenched? Constantinople. Black sea rising. Suez Canal, for some reason seemed to be drying up. Sicily – she doesn't hold. I could see a map. Mt. Etna. Mt. Etna is shaking. A lot of area seemed to go, but it seemed to be earlier or later. I wasn't sure of time now.

England – huge floods – but no tidal waves. Water, water everywhere, but no one was going into the sea. People were frightened and crying. Some places they fell to the streets on their knees and started to pray for the world. I didn't know the English were emotional. Ireland, Scotland – all kinds of churches were crowded – it seemed night and day. People were carrying candles and everybody was crying for California, Nevada, parts of Colorado – maybe all of it, even Utah. Everybody was crying-most of them didn't even know anybody in California, Nevada, Utah, but they were crying as if they were blood kin. Like one family. Like it happened to them.

New York was coming into view – she was still there, nothing had happened, yet water level was way up. Here, things were different. People were running in the streets yelling – “end of the world.” Kids ran into restaurants and ate everything in sight. I saw a shoe store with all the shoes gone in a minutes; power might be shut off. They must control themselves. Five girls were running like mad toward the YMCA, that place on Lexington or somewhere. But nothing was happening in New York.

I saw an old lady with garbage cans filling them with water. Everybody seemed scared to death. Some people looked dazed. The streets seemed filled with loudspeakers. It wasn't daylight. It was night.

I saw a lot of places that seemed safe, and people were not so scared. Especially the rural areas. Here everything was almost as if nothing had happened. People seemed headed to these places, some on foot, some in cars that still had fuel. I heard – or somehow I knew – that somewhere in the Atlantic land had come up. A lot of land. I was getting awfully tired. I wanted to wake up. I wanted to go back to the girl – to know where she was – she and those two kids. I found myself back in Hollywood – and it was still 4:29. I wasn't up on Big Bear at all; I was perched over Hollywood. I was just there. It seemed perfectly natural in my dream.

I could hear it now. I could hear, someplace, a radio station blasting out – telling people not to panic. They were dying in the streets. There were picture stations with movies – some right in Hollywood – these were carrying on with all the shaking.

One fellow in the picture station was a little short guy who should have been scared to death but he wasn't. He kept shouting and reading instructions. Something about helicopters or planes would go over – some kind of planes – but I knew they couldn't. Things were happening in the atmosphere. The waves were rushing up now. Waves. Such waves. Nightmare waves were rushing up now. Waves. Such waves. Nightmare waves.

Then, I saw again Boulder Dam going down – pushing together, pushing together breaking apart – no, Grand Canyon was pushing together, and Boulder Dam was breaking apart. It was still daylight. All these radio stations went off the air at the same time – Boulder Dam had broken.

I wondered how everybody would know about it – the people back East. That was when I saw the "ham radio operators." I saw them in the darndest places, as if I were right there with them. Like the little guy with glasses, they kept sounding the alarm. One kept saying: "This is California. We are going into the sea. This is California. We are going into the sea. Get to high places. Get to the mountains.

All states west – this is California. We are going into the... we are going into the... I thought he was going to say "sea" but I could see him. He was inland, but the waters had come in. His hand was still clinging to the table, he was trying to get up so that once again he could say; "This is California. We are going into the sea. This is California. We are going into the sea."

I seemed to hear this, over and over, for what seemed hours – just those words – they kept it up until the last minute – all of them calling out, "Get to the mountains – this is California. We are going into the sea."

I woke up. It didn't seem as if I had been dreaming. I have never been so tired. For a minute or two, I thought it had happened. I wondered about two things. I hadn't seen what happened to Fresno and I hadn't found out what happened to that girl.

I've been thinking about it all morning. I'm going home tomorrow. It was just a dream. It was nothing more. Nobody in the future on Hollywood Boulevard is going to be wearing earrings – and those beards.

Nothing like that is ever going to happen. That girl was so real to me – that girl with those kids. It won't ever happen – but if it did, how could I tell her (maybe she isn't even born yet) to move away from California when she has her twins – and she can't be on the Boulevard that day. She was so gosh-darned real. The other thing – those ham operators – hanging on like that – over and over – saying the same thing: "This is California. We are going into the sea. This is California. Book of the Hopi, Frank Waters (1963)

Author Note: The Hopi also believe that the end of this 'age' will occur with the bloom of an unusual blue flower in the desert of New Mexico. Hence the term BLUE STAR—GJ

"World War III will be started by those peoples who first received the light in the other old countries. The United States will be destroyed, land and people, by atomic bombs and radioactivity. Only the Hopi and their homeland will be preserved as an oasis to which the refugees will flee... Those who are at peace in their hearts already are in the great shelter of life. There is no shelter for evil. Those who take part in the making of the world division by ideology are ready to resume life in another world, be they of the black, White, Red, or Yellow race. They are all one, brothers. The war will be a spiritual conflict with material matters. Material matters will be destroyed by spiritual beings who will remain to create one world and one nation under one power, that of the Creator. That time is not far off. It will come when the Saquasohuh (BLUE STAR) Kachina dances in the plaza. He represents a BLUE STAR, far off and yet invisible, which will make its appearance soon..."

The sparks—they're large pieces of rock, and they're falling, falling down. Now the waters, the waters are rising very high. I can see the waters. Oh! Oh! Oh, the waters have come in. They're so high! And I see some cities. I see a large city, and the waters are now—oh, they're pounding against the ground. And now I see the buildings—they're falling! "Required reading for those who get it and want to live through it."—Echan Deravy, Solar Code

Veronica Lueken: June 18, 1991

"My child and My children, you will keep a constant vigilance of prayer going throughout your world, because, I repeat again, near the throne of the Eternal Father, He views a BALL so immense, so beyond all man's speculation, that it will destroy over three-quarters of the Earth. It is in your atmosphere [solar system]. It has been noticed by few, but the few seek not to bring fear to the hearts of mankind. They do not know that it is the Eternal Father who now will guide the BALL."
