STAMPING GOODS WITH YOUR PRIVATE STAMP

FROM THE RETAIL JEWELER'S POINT OF VIEW

there are many advantages in having his merchandise identified with his store by means of the private stamp. It enables the progressive jeweler to make his line exclusive and difficult to compare with similar lines offered by competitors. The jeweler's argument—"I have this article manufactured especially for me." "Its design, quality, workmanship and finish is of a higher standard than you can find elsewhere," has saved many a sale in the face of price cutting competition and made a good friend for the store.

FROM THE MANUFACTURER'S STANDPOINT

lines carrying a small margin of profit, such as the lines we manufacture, are unprofitable when jewelers insist on having their goods stamped with their own private stamp. Every private stamp order means that a small quantity of gold must be rolled down, blanked out, embossed, made up and polished separately. It makes a world of difference in labor costs whether you set up several sets of tools merely to turn out a few rings or a stock order for one hundred or one thousand rings as the case might be. The goods must be kept separate, weighed separate, checked separate and a separate entry made in each and every department throughout the plant, to say nothing of the cost of steel stamps.

MINIMUM ORDERS ON WHICH THERE IS NO EXTRA CHARGE FOR STAMPING YOUR INITIALS ON THE GOODS

WEDDING RINGS—50 dwts. of one karat and one shape.

AMERICA'S MOST UP-TO-DATE JEWELRY PLANT

OWNED AND OCCUPIED ENTIRELY BY J. R. WOOD AND SONS

The above plant, located 1323, 1325, 1327, 1329, 1331, 1333 Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, New York, represents an investment of over half a million dollars and is conceded to be the finest plant of its kind in America.

The construction is of steel and concrete. Practically all of the walls are of glass. The interior is white enameled throughout.

Thirty-five telephones connect the various departments together with electric elevators, signal horns and bells. Automatic electric clocks and time stamps are installed in all departments so that accurate costs of manufacture can be determined on all work.

The steel vault is twenty-feet wide by eighteen feet deep with a door weighing seven tons.

The factory contains approximately fifty thousand feet of floor space with ample accommodations for one thousand workmen.

Shower baths, reading and recreation rooms are provided as well as a grocery store and restaurant where all food is sold at cost to our employees.

A cordial invitation is extended you to visit the plant when in New York.

DIAMONDS

ROUGH DIAMONDS as mined, have little or no brilliancy and must be "cut" to reveal their hidden charms.

To "cut" the diamond means to shape it so that the rays of light reaching the stone will be reflected back through the top of the stone instead of passing through it. In other words to make the stone a mirror—not a window pane.

Science has computed the exact proportions in which the diamond must be cut to attain maximum brilliancy. These proportions are accurately shown in the illustration below.

To obtain the utmost reflection of light, that portion of the diamond above the girdle must be in exact relation to the portion located below the girdle. The angle of the facets between the girdle and the table must be in exact relation to the facets between the girdle and the culet. The actual angle, proven by science, to give maximum brilliancy, is from 35 to 37 degrees for the facets between the girdle and table and from 40 to 42 degrees for the facets from girdle to culet, with 30% to 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ % of the depth of the stone above the girdle (A), and 70% to 66 $\frac{2}{3}$ % of the depth of the stone below the girdle (B).

THE BRILLIANCY secured by closely adhering to the above proportions makes possible almost perfect refraction and reflection of all light reaching or passing into the stone. Any proportion other than the above gives considerably less brilliancy.

The brilliancy of a diamond can be greatly impaired by cutting the stone a bit too thick or too thin. Diamonds cut in this manner are termed "cut for weight" or cut so as to produce the heaviest possible stone regardless of brilliancy.

DIAMONDS

A ROUGH DIAMOND weighing $2\frac{1}{2}$ carats, costing \$100.00 per carat cut in scientific proportion will produce a 1 carat stone when finished, or \$250.00 worth of rough to secure a 1 carat diamond.

When science is ignored to gain more weight in the finished stone, brilliancy is always sacrificed. That is why poorly cut diamonds are worth considerably less money. When improperly cut, the $2\frac{1}{2}$ carats of rough will produce a finished stone weighing $1\frac{1}{4}$ carats at a cost of \$200.00 per carat ($1\frac{1}{4}$ carats at \$200.00 per carat = \$250.00). You can thus readily understand why improperly cut diamonds can be sold at a considerably lower price per carat than properly cut stones. Stones "cut for weight," as a rule, carry a larger profit for the cutter or jobber and still appear low in price.

ILLUSTRATIONS of diamonds "cut for weight" appear below. The solid outlines show the proportions in which these stones are cut. The dotted lines or shaded portions show the amount of material which should have been polished away. Diamonds being sold by weight, poorly cut stones can be marketed at a lower price per carat than properly cut stones but the brilliancy, the one feature which makes the diamond prized so much, is sacrificed.

THE SALABLE COLORS of diamonds are faint blue white, white, faint yellow, and faint brown, in the order named. Pronounced blue is very rare and very valuable. Pronounced yellow and pronounced brown are unsalable.

To examine a diamond for its color, tilt the stone on its side in a diamond paper and blow your breath on it, thus covering the stone with a mist to dim the reflections, then the real color is seen. In this way "false color" diamonds can readily be detected.

If the diamond is mounted, its color may be determined but by no means as accurately. Mounted light brown are very apt to be mistaken for blue white. It is also difficult to judge a light yellow stone especially if mounted in a platinum or white gold setting.

DIAMONDS

THE NAMES OF THE ROUGH DIAMOND, from which the different colors are cut, are the names given them by the Diamond Syndicate from whom we purchase the rough.

COLOR—

Our "FINE BLUE" is cut from "Fine Blue Jagersfontein" rough—is the color of clear spring water, with a slight bluish tint.

Our "BLUE WHITE" is cut from "Blue White Wesselton" rough—is the color of clear spring water, with the faintest bluish tint.

Our "FINEST WHITE" is cut from "Crystal" rough—is the color of clear spring water, without the bluish tint.

Our "GOOD WHITE" is cut from "Silver Cape" rough—is the color of clear spring water, with a very slight yellowish tint.

PERFECTION—

Flaws or Imperfections (do not confuse with cutting) consist of spots, fractures, or cracks, and bubbles. You have seen a cake of ice with an impurity frozen into it, or a break running partially through it, or containing small bubbles somewhere within its interior.

Some times many infinitely small, colorless bubbles form a "cloud" in a diamond. The spot may be so tiny it is difficult to find with a very powerful glass or large enough to occupy a good portion of the stone. A break may be one thousandth of an inch long with seemingly no thickness, (merely the shadow of a hair line) or it may run practically all the way through the diamond. It may reach the surface or be entirely within the diamond.

If you want to know whether a diamond contains flaws, do not use a single lens—a double lens is necessary.

ABSOLUTELY PERFECT—

Our "C GRADE"—Absolutely flawless, have no blemish, or imperfection of any description whatsoever.

COMMERCIALY PERFECT—

Our "V GRADE"—Have a tiny blemish or a minute fracture less than one one thousandth of an inch in size or approximately the size of the point of a very fine needle. The imperfection in this grade is extremely difficult to find even with a powerful glass.

FIRST IMPERFECT—

Our "W GRADE"—Very slightly imperfect, have a very small imperfection or blemish approximately two one thousandths of an inch in size, hidden beneath the facets of the stone. Requires close inspection with a strong glass to find.

SECOND IMPERFECT—

Our "Z GRADE"—Slightly imperfect. The spot or blemish is about three or four one thousandths of an inch in size, invisible to the naked eye, except on closest inspection and then only at certain angles.

DIAMONDS

THIRD IMPERFECT—

Our "X GRADE"—The imperfection can be seen if looked for carefully with the naked eye, but does not in the least effect the brilliancy of the stone.

This third imperfect grade is the lowest grade we sell, although many diamonds are marketed far more imperfect.

In the rough some diamonds are found literally full of spots, cracks, bubbles, or imperfections of all descriptions. They are useless, except for mechanical purposes and are sold uncut under the trade name of "Bort." Many uses are found for Bort, such as imbedding in the teeth of heavy circular saws, used in sawing marble or granite,—in core drills for sampling rocky mineral deposits, etc. Pulvarized, it is used for polishing the diamonds worn for personal adornment. Should we carry lower grades of imperfect diamonds and use the same steps of graduations in our grading, Bort would be fiftieth grade imperfect.

VALUES—The price of diamonds is determined upon the fineness of color, the degree of perfection, brilliancy or cutting, and size of the stone. The prices we quote give an accurate idea as to the range of these values. Note the rapidity of increase in the cost per carat of our finest grade from $\frac{1}{4}$ to 2 carat and the great decrease in value of the larger stone when there is the slightest flaw. In the Wesselton Grade and in the Crystal Grade, you will note the decrease in value for imperfection is roughly 10% for each step until the third grade is reached. Here the jump is more, for the reason they are too imperfect to be quick sellers, and are not so carefully sorted.

In 1893 we first decided to engage in the Diamond business, and began importing cut and polished stones from Europe. Adding the usual small profit, which had already made our house famous, sales grew very rapidly, so rapidly in fact, we experienced great difficulty in securing the high standard of cutting and perfection demanded. As a consequence arrangements were made to import rough diamonds only and cut them ourselves, thus controlling the make or brilliancy of our stones.

The firm of J. R. WOOD & SONS has played no small part in the building up of present day high standards of cutting in America.

It might be interesting to note that over ten thousand retail jewelers continuously buy their diamonds from us, and when it is considered we have no salesmen to boost the merits of our diamonds, one fact stands out boldly, our prices are lower than those of any other house.

DIAMOND SETTING

We employ a staff of highly skilled diamond setters for both gold and platinum. For many years, diamonds of rare value have been entrusted to us by the leading jewelers of the country for resetting. When you desire an exceptionally fine job or wish utmost care taken in the setting of your diamonds, let us do the setting for you.

RE CUTTING DIAMONDS

So many chipped diamonds, "old mine" and poorly cut diamonds are sent us, we established a separate department in our Diamond Cutting Works where stones are recut or remade according to our standards of brilliancy. The most skilled men of our factory are assigned to this department. If you desire the best possible workmanship, send us your chipped or badly made diamonds for recutting.

OUR PROCESS OF MAKING SEAMLESS WEDDING RINGS

THE alloyed gold, after being carefully melted to assure perfect mixing of the fine silver and copper, with which the fine or 24 karat gold is alloyed to desired karat, is poured into an ingot, $\frac{1}{2}$ inch thick. By means of power rolls the gold is rolled into a ribbon four or five feet long, to the required thickness—measurements being taken to the 1-1000 of an inch.

This gold ribbon is fed into a punch press and a blank of the desired diameter obtained, as shown in cuts A and B on next page

These blanks are now fed to another punch press, which with one blow transforms the flat blank to a cup, as shown in cut C.

Another punch press cuts out the bottom of the cup, and a flat ring is left—cut D.

The flat ring is placed in dies of the proper shape, and by a heavy press, capable of exerting a pressure of forty tons to the square inch, squeezed to the desired form—the result is a perfect shaped solderless ring, size 4, cut E.

The ring now goes to our patented spinner, where, being placed on a spindle, it is rolled to any finger size. An indicator shows the exact size of the ring at all times. When the required size is reached, turning of a handle releases the ring which slips from the spindle a finished ring, except for polishing and stamping, which is the last operation—cut F.

Gold is soft and porous unless worked. This rolling, punching, squeezing and hammering, gives toughness and hardness, destroys porousness, and permits the metal receiving and retaining a high polish. Our method of doing this is far in advance of usual practice. Our gold is scientifically alloyed and more thoroughly worked, giving an unusually tough or more perfectly wrought metal. Every jeweler selling our rings knows of their unusual wearing qualities.

As the wedding ring is purchased but once in a life time, it is important that you procure the ring which gives greatest satisfaction to the wearer.

A GOLD WEDDING RING THAT WILL NOT BLACKEN THE FINGER (PATENTED)

Considerable annoyance is caused by gold wedding rings periodically blackening the wearer's finger, particularly among women. We have placed the matter before metallurgists, chemists of renown and eminent medical authorities as well as the United States Government's Bureau of Research. Results of these exhaustive investigations, show there is no remedy for this discoloration, regardless of the treatment of the gold, as long as the gold itself is worn in contact with the skin. Pure or fine gold discolors the skin as readily as does alloyed gold. The causes of this discoloration appear to be an excess of sulphur in the air or in the body; the use of soaps or cold cream, and the secretion of natural oils, through the pores of the skin, all of which produce a chemical deposit known as oleate of gold.

To overcome this annoying feature we have experimented on linings for rings to prevent the gold from coming in direct contact with the skin. We have produced a wedding ring, lined with platinum, which entirely overcomes discoloration. This lining cannot be seen when the ring is worn and effectively keeps the gold away from the finger.

Every jeweler should carry a sample of this ring in stock to show and explain to prospective customers.

Enlarged Cross Section

The ring is carried in stock in Extra Thick Oval and Thick Oval Shapes, for which an extra charge of $15.00 is made. Wide Oval and Extra Wide Oval shapes can be made to order at a proportionately higher cost.

We will line wedding rings already in use at the above cost.

DEVELOPMENT

Covering a period of over half a century in the manufacture of products made from gold, step by step we have carefully developed a process for securing a more thoroughly wrought metal. Gold, as all jewelers well know, is a metal which is extremely difficult to toughen. It is an established and well-known fact that our method toughens gold to a degree where it actually resists wear.

Our many years of success in closely adhering to this process has been the direct cause of our entering the watch case field.

In the designing of our case the first step taken was to determine through accurate assays the exact amount of gold used in every watch case on the market. To the amount of gold found in the case containing the greatest value, we added an additional percentage of gold, subjected it to our toughening process and now offer you a gold filled watch case,

“BUILT TO EXCEED ITS GUARANTEE”

The actual gold and labor put into our case would make it the highest priced case on the market were it marketed in the usual way, through jobbers. Selling direct to you we eliminate all intermediate profit and place direct in your hands a better quality, higher grade case than has ever been marketed, at the cost of ordinary cases when purchased through your jobber.
